Miss Delaney also stated in her report that many new fall books have come in within the last three weeks. Some of the new titles catalogued were: Kennedy, by Sorensen; Roy Thomson of Fleet Street; Mc-Call's Decorating Book; The Vertical Mosaic, by Porter; The Wild Life of India, by E. P. Gee; World Aflame, by Billy Graham; Those Who Love, a biographical novel by Nepal and John Adams; Roll Jordan Roll, by Robert St. John; Needlework Treasury; The Queen Rides. Books are being added in advertising, public speaking, letter-writing and numerous other subjects.

College Guild Hears Talk on Cancer Soc.

Last Thursday, the Albert College Guild met in the Manor and present, Mrs. Davidson, welcomed the members.

After a brief business meeting, Mrs. Taylor Franklin took the chair and conducted the worship service. The theme was based on the greatness of love and kindness.

Mrs. Franklin introduced Mr. Tim Rose, an Albert College student, who played a fine piano solo. Miss Helen Sulmar read an appropriate poem in commemoration of Remembrance Day.

The speakers, Mrs. Jack Marsh and Mrs. Ed Follwell, both valued workers in the Cancer Society were introduced by Mrs. Marsh spoke enthusiastically of the work of the Canadian Cancer Society, one of the finest in the world. Volunteer workers are invaluable in this Society. Cures of this dreaded disease offered a cheerful note in her talk.

Mrs. E. Follwell followed the talk with a film which dealt with cancer cures, by the American Cancer Society. The Canadian and other similar films.

The Society sends engraved invitations to a dinner in a luxury hotel to patients who have been cured of cancer and have had no returns of symptoms for five years. No one knows why he has been invited until he has been greeted at the hotel and has enjoyed the dinner.

After the dinner each guest tells of his cure. A concealed camera and tape machine records this. The guest's consent is given before this event is made public.

Miss Daisy Young thanked the guest speakers for an interesting and informative talk.

SEWING A FINE SEAM

"It is a token of healthy and gentle characteristics, when women . . . love to sew; especially as they are never more at home with their own hearts than while so occupied."—Nathaniel Hawthorne (1804-1863).

"That's a pretty suit you're wearing," said one girl to another at the hairdresser's this morning. "Did you buy it in town?"

"Thank you," was the answer, "No — you see I made it."

"You didn't! It's perfectly lovely, and I'm very glad to hear it, for I've just enrolled in sewing at a Night School this year. I'm really keen about it, and hope to learn to do most of my own dress designing . . ."

In this modern age when all one has to do is take a ready-to-wear dress from a store rack, put it on and wear it, it came as a surprising and somehow heartening thing to hear this conversation.

It's somehow heart-warming to learn too that many well-dressed women enjoy making their own clothes.

One such lady is none other than Lynn Fontanne, who is it is said, a marvelous seamstress. Though she has been greeted by the best dressmers in the world: Dior, Channel, etc, she can and does design and sew many of her own dresses and hats. Also she loves to sew clothes for her friends. Once she formed a hobby of making pretty night gowns and giving them as gifts.

"I feel," she declares, "that clothes are not merely objects to be put on and off, to be worn for a special occasion or to express the mood of the hour, they become a part of one's body."

She believes there are no ugly women — only women who are discouraged and unimaginative about colors and styles. Nor is there only women who are indifferent; she loves to do her own upholstery, shower curtains and drapes, especially for their multi - roomed summer home named Ten Chimneys, at Genese Depot in Wisconsin.

Some women have gone further and explored interesting realms of art by the medium of their needle. While in Las Vegas this summer, we leafed through the magazine "Nevada" and came upon this paragraph:

"On display in the upstairs lounge, the Ready Room, at the new Las Vegas air terminal (McCarran Field) is a unique tapestry depicting the history of gambling. It is the work of well-known West Coast artist Eleanor Neil. The tapestry consists of 20 panels prepared on a canvas base on which Miss Neil applied fabric pieces and embroidered yarn to achieve a three dimensional effect.

"Months in preparation, the huge tapestry is remarkable for its brilliant color and wittily told story."

UNUSUAL TAPESTRY

Later we drove over to the McCarran Air Field just to see this tapestry. We were not disappointed. It was unusual, interesting and most colorful; original work achieved by a needle.

Another tapestry which we had the pleasure seeing before World War II, was the Bayeaux tapestry of Queen Matilda, considered priceless, now embroidered on a long narrow strip of linen posterity obtains the sole complete story of the Norman conquest and events leading up to it.

During the war this was stolen by the Germans who were reported making use of the Bayeaux tapestry for propaganda purposes to prove to the German people that England actually could be invaded, but the Germans were unable to convince themselves that Hitler was another William and Churchill "another hapless Harold."

Why did William succeed where centuries later Hitler feared to invade England? Answer: He just didn't have the necessary equipment, men, imagination or courage. While in one respect William had a definite advantage; and he possessed it. It is pointed out the English are never shown on horseback in the battle scenes of the Bayeaux tapestry, while the Normans are mounted. An author-ity on the subject explains:

"An attempt had been made ten years earlier to introduce cavalry into this country but the army rejected it as un-English.

It surely may be said: "Never underestimate a woman — who sews!"

The bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece dress of green and gold brocade with brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

Working Girl Needs Organizational Tips

DEAR DORIS: HELP!

Would you know any book, plan, etc., which would enable a poor flustered working girl to:

(a) Work out a sensible budget.

(b)-Plan a menu for one person without resorting to sandwiches.

(c) Keep her dwelling place, self, clothing (and nerves) in reasonably clean, neat, and working order from week to week without descending to chaos and a nervous breakdown?

DORIS CLARE

Please understand, Doris, I earn enough to live on and I have ample time at my disposal, from--every night as I collapse into my studio couch I have this nagging feeling that I could have managed my entire day much easier (nerves), better (money), and accomplished much more (time).

I repeat: HELP!—IN A TIZZY.

DEAR TIZZY: You and many thousand others.

Trouble is, in growing up years today's girls learn very little about cooking, planning, purchasing, or anything else to do with housekeeping.

Mother does it. From babyhood she is right in there pitching, from dawn to dusk. Even when schoolgirl becomes career girl she more often than not gets waited on hand and foot.

Only when Tilly the Toiler ties on the apron strings in her own apartment does she discover that keeping a place clean and neat, even one person fed and clothed takes time and energy aplenty.

I'm sending you the names of cookbooks especially prepared for Live Alones. Also some cooking and shopping shortcuts. Record all expenditures for a month then sort out what you should have spent, as a start in setting up your individual budget.

Organization is the answer. In one or two spare hours you can prepare and set away, in freezer or fridge, main items for three or four meals. Also organize cleaning time, washing time, and so on.

Good luck! When you get this down pat you'll make a good wife for some man!

Discuss Reasons for Steady Increase in Illegitimate Births

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian girls may soon consider sex relations necessary to get a man if the loosening of controls on sex behavior continues, says Prof. Frederick Elkin of Toronto's York University.

He was discussing Friday the reasons for the steady increase in illegitimate births in Canada at a three-day conference being held by the Anglican and United churches.

The conference was called by their social service departments because of alarm felt at what they termed the slow but constant increase.

Welcoming the 35 church and social workers from across the country, Rev. J. R. Hord, secretary of the board of evangelism and social service of the United Church, said the social service departments might well be the first working unit around to a union of the churches.

Prof. Elkin said the illegitimacy rate in Canada has risen from 3.5 per cent of live births in 1931 to 4.5 per cent in 1961. At the same time there has been a rise in the percentage of teen - age unmarried mothers from about 28 per cent of the total in 1945 to 44 per cent in 1962.

FIGURES ON LOW SIDE

In worldwide comparison, he said, Canada's figures are on the low side, and the lowest are in societies where control over male-female contacts is strictest. But he said the pattern of sex relations or no relations already exists in some countries. In the provinces, he said the highest rate is in Canada, followed by British Columbia and Nova Scotia. Quebec, which for years had the lowest rate of illegitimate births has gone up ratios slightly and now has 3.6 per cent.

Both the Anglican and United churches opened their first homes for unwed mothers about 50 years ago.

Very Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, former moderator of the United Church, said the church must try to meet the problem as it exists. He said studies indicate more people with emotional problems still go for help to churches than to doctors or social workers.

SUGGESTS BIRTH RIGHTS

In an afternoon panel, Miss Margaret Goodman of Brandon, Man., said more help should be provided for unmarried mothers to give them a realistic alternative to giving up their children.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ross of Vancouver said the increase in births is contributing to a despite plight. In her area there are about 600 adoptable children with no immediately available possible parents.

Bernard Green, professor of law at the University of Toronto, said the legal concept of illegitimacy should be done away with so that an illegitimate child would have the same rights of inheritance and shared guardianship of its natural parents of children born in wedlock.

QUESTION:

(Would you have) a recipe for Coconut Macaroons cooked in the top of the double boiler? - - - Mrs. P. L.

ANSWER:

While I cannot guarantee that this is the exact recipe you are seeking, the mixture is made in a double boiler.

STICKPROOF MACAROONS (repeated from July 31, 1964):

2 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, 1¼ cups shredded coconut, 1½ teaspoons vanilla.

Stand top of double boiler on counter or table and into it put the egg whites. Beat until stiff. Mix the sugar and cornstarch together and sprinkle over egg whites and stir in. Stir over boiling water until meringue coats sides of pan — about 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Fold in the coconut and vanilla. Cover cookie sheets with ungreased cookery parchment or unglazed brown paper and drop meringue mixture in 1" mounds from teaspoon dipped in water, 1 to 1½" apart. (If desired top each with a tiny piece of red or green candied cherry.) Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 17 minutes, turning pan around after first 10 minutes. They should be tinged with gold all over. Remove from paper at once. Makes 32.

The Golden Years

Sleeping, Eating, Play Habits Can Be Changed on Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

You really don't have to go to bed at night after you retire. You don't have to do a lot of other things either. And you may have a gayer retirement if you don't.

The pattern of the daily life you have been living was set by you or by any divine formula, but by conditions imposed largely by the working world. Nearly everybody was up and about in the daylight hours, and that's when they wanted their goods and services. Which is why your company operated in the daytime. The fact that school children (which you do not have anymore) went to classes in the daytime contributed to setting the pattern. So did the lack of electric lighting, because until fairly recent times kerosene lamps gave people little to do at night except shuffle off to bed.

A growing number of men and women are making a gradual change in their sleep habits when they get their pensions, with some men who live in areas of extensive television coverage staying up until 1:30 a.m. or so to watch movies, arising about 7 a.m., and then taking a two-hour nap in the afternoon.

CHANGE EATING HABITS

Along with your sleep, you might also question your eating habits. They too were set largely by the work world, with breakfast to fortify you to start the day, a noon lunch to break the work day (since few people took wood for a living now to build up a noon supper), and an evening feast to break the day off from the night.

You don't need this particular pattern when you retire. Nor does your body usually require so much food. You might consider two meals a day instead of three, the first at 9:30 a.m. or so, the other between 5 and 6 p.m. . . . with trips to the icebox, of course, during the TV commercials at night.

The box you live in, called a house, can't be blamed on the working world, though it was a suitable and economical means of giving shelter to a family (yours, by retirement, has abandoned the nest). Surely there is something more suitable for a retired couple to live in than a compartmented box with stucco walls. Just what doesn't come readily to mind.

Your job has called for you to maintain a fairly conventional appearance — a couple of reasonably up-to-date suits, laced shoes, socks, sometimes a hat, collar and tie, a shave and a combed haircut. You can look like a sophomore all the way to a crew-cut and a beard, when you retire.

SEVEN-DAY WEEK

You don't have to mow the grass or fix the carpet sweeper on Saturdays, or play golf and fish on Sundays — you can go to church now. See a sale along with your job you have lost the five-day week, and are back on a seven-day week, and except for Sunday with its religious significance which remains about the same, retired people are making a completely new appraisal of what to do on what days. Some men now are washing their baths on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, instead of on Saturdays.

And both men and women are beginning to shift their exercise patterns, ignoring the weekends which gave them their only outings while on the job and adding short periods of physical exertion to each of seven days.

On your social entertaining, you don't have to wait for Saturday nights anymore. Monday night is fine, provided your guests aren't tied on the job. Or try to get a clerk's attention during the lunch hour when all the stenographers are buying.

SHOP ANY DAY

And you don't necessarily have to fight crowds to do your grocery shopping on weekends. You're no longer paid on Friday, remember? It is true that the supermarkets advertise many of their specials on Friday, but there aren't always the specials retired couples want. Also, some of the supermarkets, seeking to spread their traffic out over the full week, are offering bargains on Monday and Tuesday that compare with those of the weekend.

The things you don't have to do in retirement that you have had to do all your working years are many and varied. Why don't you turn off the TV for a while and add them up?

Woodstock Farm Implement Plant To Be Sold

BRANTFORD (CP)—Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd. reported Friday it has agreed to sell its farm implement plant in Woodstock, which employs 200.

Name of the purchaser of the 65-year-old property and terms of sale were not given.

Company officials said full production of a wide range of implements, particularly combheads, for the United States and Canadian markets, will be continued at the plant until Oct. 1966, when phase-out operations will start.

Current employment levels are expected to be maintained until then. Company officials said that layoffs as a result of the sale of the plant could be offset by "possible expansion of other areas of Massey-Ferguson activity in Brantford, which are still in the planning stage."

In addition, officials said provisions for preferential hiring supplemented with employment benefits and employee transfer under certain conditions will reduce significantly the temporary impact of the Woodstock plant closing.

CAR HITS BRIDGE

SIMCOE (CP) — Lloyd Gee, 42, of Simcoe was killed Friday night when the car in which he was riding hit a bridge abutment.

Barge, Loaded With Lethal Cargo, Raised

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— A silt-coated barge and its lethal cargo of chlorine were lifted gently from the muddy bottom of the Mississippi River Friday, ending a tense drama begun by Hurricane Betsy.

The million dollar salvage operation, two months in the planning, went off without a hitch.

Two hours were needed to raise the rusty red barge from 60 feet beneath the surface, and other hour was required to inspect it to make certain the four white tanks containing 600 tons of chlorine were not damaged.

Then the capital city area's 300,000 residents were told the threat that had been with them constantly since the barge capsized and sank during the hurricane was ended. The thousands who evacuated their area began streaming home.

CPR Requested To Provide Better Service

MONTREAL (CP) — The chairman of the non-operating railway unions said Friday consolidation of the CNR-CPR certain arrangements for runs between Ottawa and Toronto "has caused a deterioration in the passenger service" provided for the two cities.

The chairman, R. C. Smith, asked the federal government and the board of transport commissioners "to call upon the specific Railway Co. to inaugurate more adequate service between Ottawa and Toronto."

The pool arrangement ended Oct. 30 after being in effect for 22 years.

CPR instituted two services for Toronto-Ottawa travellers— one leaving for Ottawa at 9 a.m. and arriving at 12:45 p.m., and the other leaving for Toronto at 4 p.m. and arriving at 2:30 p.m., both going via Peterborough.

The CNR now has no service for Toronto-Ottawa travellers.

Napanee News

Addition To School Approved

NAPANEE — The Napanee and District School Board have received the approval of all the township councils, except Camden and Adolphustown, on building the proposed addition. Camden which did not endorse the proposal and Adolphustown has not yet been heard from. Nevertheless the majority has given approval and county council will now proceed by asking the Board of Municipal Affairs for permission to hire the architect.

Napanee night school has a large enrolment this year. The subjects being taught are, millinery, sewing, upholstering, women's physical fitness and badminton.

Mr. Froud presented a resume of last year's results and the directors claimed the results as tragic, Napanee's results were acceptable and comparable to previous years. In grade six, 84 were enroled, 54 were eligible for diplomas and 44 were successful.

Some trouble has been reported on one of the school buses, apparently the boys being put off the bus for a short period of time. The matter was left with the transportation committee and the bus driver are to meet and discuss the situation and get the issue straightened out.

The chairman of the transportation committee said that when Deseronto enters the School District on January 1, the bus driver, Lord Arnold be retained to supply buses for the pupils from Deseronto. He also made the point for two years and, will continue if a suitable agreement can be reached.

U.S. Gives Solid Backing In Campaign of Sanctions

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States, which regards its own unilateral declaration of independence 189 years ago, is giving Britain solid backing in a campaign of sanctions against Rhodesia.

But just how much effective pressure can be applied — by the U.S., Canada, Britain or the rest of the African continent — is questionable. It may well prove to be more symbolic than real, observers here suggest.

In the case of the U.S. and Britain, the application of economic punishment may hurt the applier more than the target.

The man on the street here, if interested at all in the Rhodesian dramas, concentrates on signs that the Rhodesian declaration of independence borrows freely from some of the thought and language used in 1776 when the 13 American colonies cut ties with England.

EQUALITY NOT MAINTAINED

But it is noted that the Rhodesia declaration says nothing about all men being created equal—taken as significant because the ruling class represents 220,000 whites and few of the 4,000,000 non-whites.

Hard areas of sympathy exist in the U.S. for the "rebels," as State Secretary Dean Rusk called them Thursday in expressing support for Britain.

These areas are in the south where the Negro still has a long way to go to have, or to dare to seek, full equality.

President Johnson can stop the political bonds easily enough, and probably will be in the long done. But he needs legal help to enforce any extensive economic punishment, and that would be if the United Nations Security Council approved sanctions. Otherwise, it is a question largely of persuasion rather than decree.

The Rhodesian trade is small in any case and the Rhodesian economy is regarded here as one of enough self-sufficiency to bear up pretty well.

SUGAR NO PROBLEM

The U.S. last year purchased 700,000 tons of sugar, and cut back 80,000 tons. Rhodesia could pick up the other lines elsewhere. Canada could supply some of them but not copper. This is Rhodesia's chief export and Canada's own production is worth 10 times Rhodesia's.

As for exports, the U.S. had a trade surplus, selling $21,000,000 worth of items between various types of machinery, wheat and paper.

The effectiveness of political and economic deterrence by sanctions is not proven by history. Italy's pre-war molesting of Ethiopia was not deterred by the League of Nations.

South Africa may operate under some moral stigma today because of her white-supremacy policies but the economy has never been more prosperous.

In Terms of Party Vote NDP Had Most Success

OTTAWA (CP)—In terms of the way the party vote went in each province, the New Democratic Party achieved most success in Monday's federal election.

The NDP increased its share of the vote in all provinces except Newfoundland. It didn't change in the Yukon or Northwest Territories. In British Columbia, it captured more of the vote than any other party—33 per cent.

On a country-wide basis, the NDP increased its share of the party vote to 18 per cent from 13 in 1963 and its Commons strength to 21 members from 18.

The winning Liberals, whose country-wide share of the vote dropped to 40 per cent from 42 in 1963, lost ground in six provinces—Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and B.C. They stayed even in the others and gained in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

GOT BIGGEST SHARE

Liberal candidates got the biggest share of the party vote in four provinces, topped by their 64 per cent in Newfoundland. It was 47 per cent in New Brunswick, 45 in Quebec and 43 in Ontario. Compared with 1963, they dropped one percentage point in Quebec, three in Ontario.

Liberals elected 129 members, the same number as in 1963.

The Conservatives, with a 32 share of the national vote at 33 per cent was the same as in 1963, second gains in P.E.I., Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Alberta. They stayed even in Newfoundland and lost ground in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and B.C. plus the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Conservatives got 54 per cent of the vote in P.E.I., 34 in Nova Scotia, 40 in Manitoba, 48 in Saskatchewan and 47 in Alberta to lead in those five provinces.

They won 99 seats against 95 in 1963.

GAIN IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Social Credit got a larger share of the vote than in 1963 in two provinces — Newfoundland, where its two per cent share was all gain, and in B.C., where it rose by five percentage points to 34. It lost ground in New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta plus the two far-northern areas.

It also fell back in Quebec. There, Social Credit candidates won 27 per cent of the vote in 1963. This time the party had no candidates in Quebec but Creditistes obtained 17 per cent of the vote.

On a country-wide basis, Social Credit obtained four per cent of the vote and Creditistes an equal share Monday. In 1963, Social Credit, including Quebec, won 12 per cent.

Social Credit elected five candidates and Creditistes nine. The Social Credit figure in 1963 was 24.

Other candidates picked up one per cent of the vote last Monday across the country compared with less than half of a percentage point in 1963. Two were elected—an Independent-Conservative and a straight Independent — both in Quebec where the "other" share of the party vote amounted to four per cent all an increase over 1963.

In B.C., NDP and Liberals ran close on the party vote, the NDP getting 33 per cent and the Liberals 30. This reversed the 1963 showing of Liberals 33 and NDP 30.

It was the second time—the NDP had gained the largest share of the B.C. vote. They did it in 1962, with 30.9 per cent. The Conservatives led in 1958 with 49.

TORIES STRONGER

In Quebec, the Liberals won 55 of the 75 seats on 45 per cent of the vote compared with 47 seats on 46 per cent in 1963. The Conservatives elected nine members on 22 per cent of the vote compared with eight members on 20 per cent two years ago.

Over the last four elections four provinces have consistently given the largest share of their vote to the Liberals — Newfoundland, P.E.I., Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Newfoundland has been just as consistent for the Liberals.

In Nova Scotia, the Conservatives have led in two elections and in 1963 they tied the Liberals with 47 per cent apiece.

New Brunswick has an even split, giving the larger share to the Conservatives in 1958 and 1962 and to the Liberals in 1963 and 1965.

Quebec and Ontario show identical patterns. Each gave most votes to the Conservatives in 1958 and to the Liberals in 1963.

Ottawa's Rideau Club Ready To Celebrate Its Centennial

By C. B. BLACKBURN

OTTAWA (CP) — A dusting polished and dignified old character of Ottawa's Wellington Street, closely associated with Confederation and everything political since then, is celebrating its centennial.

The Rideau Club, home of the politically and other prominent of the capital and familiar to thousands who have visited from far-away places, is a quiet, comfortable, unostentatious and publicity shy organization.

It actually had its 100th birth day last Sept. 18 On that date in 1865 the act incorporating the club received royal assent.

Petitioners for the act of incorporation, and therefore it charter members, some 60-odd were largely politicians in Quebec City, then site of Canada's capital which was soon to move to Ottawa.

They met in the library of Parliament in Quebec shortly Aug. 28, 1865, and agreed to seek a charter for a club where they could find a congenial place for socializing among the muddy streets and shacks of the brawling log town then known as Bytown.

The list of petitioners led off with John A. Macdonald, George Etienne Cartier and George Brown, in that order. They were all leaders in the coalition government that had brought order out of political chaos a year earlier and was heading straight for the Confederation of July 1, 1867.

MOVED QUICKLY

Macdonald was to become the first prime minister of Canada. Brown, founder of the Toronto Globe, was Liberal leader, and Cartier was the French-Canadian who led his people into the union.

The list was liberally sprinkled with men who were to become known as Fathers of Confederation.

It was a fast-working group. In a matter of weeks, quarters had been obtained near the corner of Wellington and Kent streets. John A. became the first president. He was not then prime minister but was sparkplug of the coalition government.

So the Rideau Club was already operating when the government moved to Ottawa, several blocks from the group of three Gothic buildings that were to house Parliament and government on Parliament Hill.

That inconvenience was soon remedied. In a short time premises were found at Wellington and Metcalfe streets and for most of this century the club has had its own building on the southwest corner of those streets, fronting on Wellington. Its front door and handsome portico almost exactly face the Peace Tower and main entrance to the Centre Block of the Parliament Buildings up the grass- and flower-lined mall of Parliament Hill.

WOMEN WERE BARRED

A long, dark panelled lounge on the second floor of the four-storey building is the centrepiece of the club. There is no bar. Drinks are ordered at the tables and, nowadays, served by waitresses.

The balcony overhanging Wellington, a feature of the club that has survived all its renovations for more than half a century, opens off the lounge. From it members have witnessed many spectacles in front of the Parliament Buildings.

During its adolescent years and far into manhood the Rideau Club remained strictly stag. It wasn't until 1934 that members voted themselves the privilege of entertaining their ladies, but only after 7 p.m.

This change as approved when evening attendance at the club had dwindled virtually to nothing. The modern ladies' lounge and dining room, available for lunches as well as dinner, were added only two years ago. There, members' wives and daughters may entertain and charge it to the head of the family.

Ordinary membership is restricted to 600 and the roster is usually close to the maximum. Virtually every member is prominent in his field and the list always contains the names of some of the best-known people in Canada.

There have been about 40 recorded rejections of applications for membership. Applicants must be well-sponsored before they are considered.

TABLE RESERVED

For many years a huge table at the north end of the dining room by a wide window opening on Parliament Hill was known as the Cabinet Table. No one would go to the table unless invited unless he were a Cabinet minister. It was usually filled at lunchtime and a number of prime ministers have sat at its head.

In recent years the custom has been abandoned. Now the table is open to anyone. Cabinet ministers often go to the club for lunch but rarely as a group.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was a regular luncher until he had a falling out with H. H. Stevens, his minister of trade. For some reason, perhaps to avoid embarrassing meetings with Stevens, he began lunching at his Chateau Laurier apartment.

Mackenzie King was not a frequent luncheon guest. He preferred going to Laurier House, now the official prime minister's home. Louis St. Laurent loved the club often for lunch and dinner.

As far as could be learned, John Diefenbaker never applied for membership. Lester Pearson is an old member and was often there for lunch before becoming prime minister.

A formal celebration of the centennial will take place at a dinner for members only Nov. 18 with Governor-General Vanier as chief speaker. By that time members will have a history of the club, illustrated with valuable pictures. just completed by Commander C. Herbert Little as a labor of love and for membership distribution only.

Bigger Advertising Budgets Prepared for Coming Year

TORONTO (CP)—Most Canadian companies are planning bigger 1965-66 advertising budgets because "they realize the television station will reap $605-million from consumer in a spending mood," says George Sinclair, agency commissions amount to president of MacLaren Advertising Ltd.

Mr. Sinclair said in an interview he estimates "there has been a six- to seven-per-cent increase" in the advertising budgets of Canadian companies this year.

Canada's gross national product outstripped advertising investment in recent years partly because many advertisers are too hesitant about increasing their budgets when times are good, Mr. Sinclair said.

"Among advertisers, there is a chronic lag in their response to a buoyant economy. They are far more prompt about cutting their budgets when times are alarming than they are about making an increase in prosperous periods."

George Meen, advertising manager for Christie Brown and Co. Ltd. and a past president of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, agreed with Mr. Sinclair.

INCREASE BUDGET

"In our own company, the advertising budget has been increased by 11 per cent this year," he said.

The Maclean - Hunter Research Bureau recently completed a report on advertising revenues in Canada.

The report says Canadian gross advertising revenues will jump to $733,600,000 this year from $609,663,000 in 1964. Newspaper, magazine, radio and television revenues will leap $605-million with 29.9 per cent of net advertising revenues. But TV, with a 13.3-per-cent share compared with 12.6 in 1964, is gaining particularly in the field of national advertising.

Writers and Photographers Live Dangerously in Viet Nam

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett has covered the Viet Nam war for more than three years. He tells what it is like.

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — For men whose daily job it is to capture and transmit the taste, the feel, the smell of battle, few wars have been as perilous as the nightmarish struggle in Viet Nam.

Not since the Spanish Civil War of three decades ago has a conflict been comparably so difficult and dangerous for those who cover it.

This is because it is a war without any front lines, without clearly marked friendly or enemy territory or clear lines between combatants. It is a war of treacherous ambushes and of swift hit and run attacks by a wily foe who materializes suddenly from the jungle, strikes viciously and vanishes.

Reporters and photographers regularly venture to places where the action is, to record his words and film the color, the flavor, the terror, the triumphs and the heartbreaks of a confused and confusing conflict.

But there is no safety either in the battlefield areas under fire or in Saigon, where sudden, bloody acts of Viet Cong terror are commonplace.

FIVE HAVE DIED

Five members of the press corps have died this year, three of them within the last 40 days. At least a dozen others have been wounded and still others have had hair-raising escapes.

About 300 newspaper, press agency, magazine, radio and television correspondents are accredited at this time to cover the Viet Nam war.

They go into the field with full knowledge of the dangers, because that is where the battles are, where Vietnamese, Americans, Australians, New Zealanders and Koreans fight in a common cause against a Communist-supported enemy. They figure the great stories and pictures are worth the risks. Sometimes they are losers.

One was Dicky Chapelle who died last week from a Viet Cong booby trap.

NO NEW THING

Newspaper men have been dying in Viet Nam since the Indochina War began. More than 40 French reporters and photographers were killed there in the early 1950s. Robert Capa, noted American photographer, died with them—on a Viet Minh land mine.

Journalists were lucky in the new phase of the war up to this year. Then the odds began to catch up.

In Saigon, newspaper men have had near misses in restaurants blown up minutes after they had left, and narrow escapes from flying glass from the many terrorist bomb attacks on buildings.

Rhodesia Action Challenges All Non-whites in Africa

(Lyan Heinzerling, chief of The Associated Press operations in Africa and winner of the Pulitzer prize for his reporting on that continent, appraises the white Rhodesian declaration of independence from Britain.)

By LYNN HEINZERLING

SALISBURY (AP) — With God Save the Queen on his lips, Prime Minister Ian Smith staked Rhodesia's future Thursday on the ability of 4,000,000 whites to hold South Africa against the rest of the African continent.

Rhodesia has joined South Africa and Portugal in challenging some 250,000,000 non-whites whose leaders demand total black rule in Africa.

The battle line for this racial confrontation has been forming ever since the British Gold Coast colony became independent Ghana in 1957 and President Kwame Nkrumah called for a continental government and a continental general staff of African armies.

His vision has not materialized. But the organization of African Unity, founded in 1962, is pledged to end white rule in Africa. White rule is what South Africa and Rhodesia intend to maintain in their part of Africa. So does Portugal, in her colonies of Angola and Mozambique.

The white-ruled segment of the continent happens to be the most powerful, the most highly developed and the most prosperous part of Africa at present.

SIEGE UNLIKELY

There seems little chance that black Africa could storm this southern fortress successfully in the near future. Portugal has more than 100,000 troops in Angola and Mozambique. South Africa could put 250,000 men in the field. Rhodesia has a small, well trained army of perhaps 10,000 men.

When Prime Minister Smith told the Rhodesian people they have been called on to play a role of worldwide significance he referred to the keen interest the Soviet Union and China have shown in Africa.

"The decision which we have taken today is refused by Rhodesians to sell their birthright and, even if we were to surrender, does anyone believe that Rhodesia would be the last target of the Communists and the African-Asian bloc?" Smith asked.

Rhodesia now is expected to lighten ideological bonds with neighboring South Africa and Mozambique, and with Angola. The enthusiastic response in the South African Parliament to the declaration of independence indicates the warmth south Africans feel for the northern neighbor and buffer.

The Rhodesian army is disposed along the northern border with Zambia, but there is no expectation of real trouble in this region immediately.

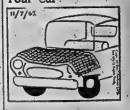
Wilfe Rhodesians now feel they can count on South Africa if it does develop.

STRENGTHENS SECURITY

The apathetic way in which the Negroes in Rhodesia received the word of independence strengthened the feeling of security there.

Chad Chipunza, one of the 13 non-government members of the Rhodesian Parliament whose role is more visual than effective, said:

"Only the highly sophisticated Africans (Negroes) really understand what has happened."



He said that when word moves along the bush telegraph, trouble might start in some very isolated spot and could spark trouble." But the Rhodesian police are efficient.

Chipunza was not clear as to what the 14 Negro members, elected on a so-called B-roll in the 65-member Parliament, would do about independence. Smith intends to bring the traditional tribal chiefs into the government.

One disturbing element of the declaration was the immediate installation of censorship on the Rhodesian press. Censors moved into the newspapers soon after the declaration and refused to permit publication of the proclamation issued by British Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs. It was not mentioned on the government - controlled radio.

Additionally, normal news channels have closed.

Engine Heat Aids Smooth Operation

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Engine heat is necessary for several reasons. One is to aid fuel vaporization and improve its distribution to the cylinders. But, when cold - started on a chilly morning, the engine must obtain heat from another source until it warms up enough to take over.

This is accomplished via the manifold heat control valve, also called a heat riser or exhaust damper. Thermostatically controlled, this device bypasses exhaust heat when the engine is cold, directing it around the intake manifold, and then allows these gases to pass directly out the exhaust when the engine warms up.

Sticking or freezing is a very common fault when the heat valve doesn't operate properly. It's caused by carbon, dirt or rust accumulation around the shaft, which may result from long service or because the shaft was mistakenly lubricated with oil. Powdered graphite, mixed thinly with alcohol or kerosene, is the correct lubricant.

H. G. writes: "When a front coil spring develops a slight sag, must it be replaced or can it be reinforced?"

A slight sag can usually be corrected by a shim which serves to adjust the spring to correct height.

From N.R.: "When my engine is running at low speed it's very rough — and if I ease off the gas pedal to idle, it very often stalls."

Carburetor or manifold air leaks should usually be the first suspects when these symptoms occur.

At the moment the conqueror of Chuvalo is culling and mangling his sinewy frame in his professional nightclub act up around Peterborough way.

Terrell and his combo, dubbed the "Heavyweights" are booked by a Toronto night bistro for a three-night stand for which the willowy six-foot-six Chicagoan will pick up a cheque for $2,500.

So much for the fingers that can coax a heart-touching ballad out of the "pitar" or belt out a floor-shaking rock'n roll ear splitter.

But when the digits are curled and neatly inserted into the leather mittens that are standard equipment for his ring work means a parrow of a different color. Green and very long at that.

For nestling alongside the pygmyish peanuts of the night-club take, is a piece of paper that guarantees Ernie $250,000, plus $50,000 expenses for a no longer than two-hours' appearance against either Cassius Clay or Floyd Patterson some time early next year.

And Ernie seriously thinks it will be the Clay pigeon he will shoot down when the two tangs for the "one and only" world championship.

He said in a Peterborough television interview the other night that Muhammed Ali would tuck Mr. Patterson away neatly and quite gaudily when the pair clashes in Las Vegas November 22.

Mr. Clay will smile Mr. Patterson mightily through the peek-a-boo defence and Mr. Patterson will again bear the familiar chirping of the birdies in a temporary steamlined, sanctuary.

For didn't Mr. Liston, rising on the reputation of a death-dealing right hand, dispose of Mr. Patterson in an overall two-fights elapsed time of some three minutes.

But Mr. Clay, in turn, disposed of Mr. Liston via questionable knockouts in the pair of tete-a-tetes they staged, he was told.

"My Clay has fought nobody of any account," was Mr. Terrell's opinion. "The only logical opponent he fought was Doug Jones. Liston was 42 years of age and ready for the rockin' chair when Clay defeated him."

"Me, I come up the hard way, meeting and defeating the best," quoth the poker-faced Terrell.

Since the tall negro is in Peterborough, 67 miles away, it doesn't take a hero to disagree with that statement.

The only fighter who could be called that, in Terrell's kind of reckoning, was Eddie Machen and he proved to be just a trial horse, Terrell was just a name in the book of words of boning no longer than five years ago.

Prior to his victory over Machen, Ernie's list of conquests include names that were as well-known in boxing circles as those on the 1899 Zwick's Island voters' lists.

But Mr. Terrell according to Mr. Terrell is a fighter who fights planned fights only. His colourago blue-prints the action weeks ahead of the night of battle. He fights strictly according to plan.

Was his fight with Chuvalo planned? he was asked.

Terrell spiced his reply with glowing tribute to the Canadian heavyweight champion. "Chuvalo is big and tough. He can fight and he'll be back into the championship picture as sure as anything."

"My fight with him was planned to the letter—and it was for 15.

Terrell said if he was ever matched with Chuvalo again he would use an entirely different plan of battle. No, he wouldn't divulge what it would be.

Whether Mr. Terrell's "plan" will be successful against Clay or Patterson remains to be seen. He figures it will be Clay, as if it mattered, and when that is over he will relax with a million or so and wait for whatever the gods of boxing toss into his championship lap.

Not bad for a guy who four years ago, was knocking on ringdom's door — unheard — and plucking a "glitter" in Chicago off-beat nightcries for grocery money.

CAST GETS TOO MANY

BROMLEY, England (CP) — The repertory theatre in this Kentish town bought six rats in a cage for use in a play. By the end of the run, the number had increased to 24. It took all the efforts of the stage manager to preserve them from Tilly, the New Theatre cat.

Habs Visit Hawks ★★★★★

Imlach May Talk Deal With Boston

★★★★★ Leafs Host Blues

Toronto is at Boston Sunday night and if there's anything to the rumors, Emms and manager-coach Punch Imlach of the Leafs are certain to get together for some haggling.

In other weekend action, New York Rangers play at Toronto tonight while Montres' Canadiens visit Chicago Black Hawks. Other games Sunday night have Montreal at Detroit and New York at Chicago.

Imlach was tight-lipped about any trades, but he said that rookie Brit Selby, a left winger with the Leafs, is in the NHL to stay this season.

Selby has played six games with the Leafs, which means he can't be shipped back to the minors unless Toronto first puts him on waivers.

"You can bet I have no intentions of risking waivers on Selby," said Imlach. "He may not take a regular turn in every game, but he's here to stay."

TEST OUT WALTON

Imlach also said that Walton will join the Leafs for a trial later in the season, which indicates he doesn't plan to trade him. He also had praise for Brian Conacher, son of the late Lionel Conacher who in 1950 was voted Canada's athlete of the half-century. Brian is with Rochester

"We're trying to buy more time for our young players in the minors," Imlach said. "That's where they'll get the necessary ice time and experience."

Emmes isn't working in quite the same way.

"I'll play kids if I have to," he said, adding that he will make changes if the Bruins don't win games. They've won just once so far.

The Red Wings, who announced Friday they are shipping defenceman Gary Bergman off to Memphis Wings of the CPHL and bringing up Warren Godfrey, 34, need help with their power play.

Detroit was expected to have the best power-play combination in the NHL this season in Gordie Howe, Norm Ullman, Alex Delvecchio, Andy Bathgate and Doug Barkley, but in nine games and 43 attempts, they've scored only three times.

Montreal, a single point behind leading Chicago, will be, without Henri Richard against Detroit. Richard, out with a shoulder injury, skated Thursday but coach Toe Blake is taking no chances.

Blake is still fuming over Montreal's showing in Toronto last Wednesday in which the Habs blew a 3-1 lead in the third period and came away with a 3-3 tie.

Blake had a cryptic comment about his best line, Dick Duff, Jean Beliveau and Bobby Rousseau.

"It's one thing to score a goal. It's something else to forget about back-checking. Beliveau can't seem to win a faceoff in our zone. I'm afraid to send out the line in the last few minutes if it happens to be close."

Ottawa U. Star Sets Record

OTTAWA (CP) — Fullback Vince Thompson of the undefeated University of Ottawa Gee Gees set a scoring record this season as he dominated the final statistics of the Ontario Intercolligiate Football Conference.

Thompson, who won the title for the second consecutive year, scored 71 points this year compared to his previous record of 69 last season. His closest threat came from Steve Ostopachuck of McMaster University and John Watson of Waterloo Lutheran who scored 42 points each.

Thompson, who led the league in punting, was third in rushing with 578 yards in 92 carries. Dave Dalton of Carleton University Ravens was the top ground gainer with 640 yards in 112 carries.

Quarterback Bob Amer of Carleton University also shared the limelight in the statistics as he completed 36 per cent of his passes for 1,744 yards.

He set five records and tied a sixth in helping the Ravens to a second-place tie with Waterloo Lutheran College.

Gord Pransehke of the Ravens also established a new mark for pass receivers with a total of 550 yards on 37 receptions. He was followed by Walt Pinder of the University of Waterloo with 444 yards on 20 receptions.

Stamps Eye Raimey

Bombers To Go-go On Coleman

CALGARY (CP)—Bud Grant says his Winnipeg Blue Bombers will have to stop Lovell Coleman, hard - charging Calgary Stampeder fullback, in the first game of the Western Football Conference final today.

"You know that anytime you play Calgary you have to stop Coleman." Grant told a press conference after the Bombers arrived here Friday.

Coleman, a 195-pound back named Canada's outstanding athlete in 1964, struck special attention because of his power and ability to "run anywhere on his field," Grant said.

Meanwhile, "the weatherman predicted sunny skies, light winds and a 3 p.m. MST game time temperature of about 35 degrees. The game will be televised nationally by the CTV network.

McMahon Stadium has been playing host to snow-slight fields fell earlier this week — and Grant, who looked at the field Friday, said it appeared in "excellent condition."

Second game of the best-of-three finals will be played in Winnipeg Nov. 17. The third game, if necessary, will be played in Calgary Nov. 21.

TO WATCH RAIMEY

Earlier, Stampeder coach Jerry Williams remarked that the man the Stamps will have to watch is Dave Raimey, the Bombers' fast, strong halfback.

Raimey, a three-on sweeper, demonstrated his running ability by turning off two long touchdown runs against Saskatchewan Roughriders in the WFC modern-death semi-final at Winnipeg last Saturday.

Grant said the Stampeders are free from defensive weaknesses. "They don't have a weak spot. There's no one person you can throw or run at."

A linchpin of the Stampeder defence is linebacker Wayne Harris, who, although he has a groin injury, should be ready to play.

Bomber quarterback Kenny Ploen was reported in fine condition, although somewhat slowed by an ankle injury. Winnipeg offensive guard Sherwyn Thorson will be replaced by Ted Rodosovich, ex-Edmonton guard from Cincinnati University.

Stampeders are looking for their first crack at the Grey Cup since 1948. Bombers won the WFC title in 1962 and went to down Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Grey Cup final.

Trenton Jrs. Rally To Whip Kingston

TRENTON — Firing five consecutive goals in the third period, Trenton Apple Kings clipped Kingston Frontenacs 8-6 to thrill about 600 OHA Eastern Junior "B" hockey fans here last night.

The Apple Kings' win, after trailing 6-3 early in the final heat, kept Kingston winless and boosted Trenton up among the league leaders. The losers outshot their opponents 27-21 overall and 12-5 in the third period. Kingston led 2-1 and 5-3 by periods.

Kingston scored at 1:46 of the third when Trenton took over, tripling Kingston's efforts at 4.31 and 5.25 to make it close. Al Ferguson notched the tying goal at 7.14 and it stayed that way until the final minute of the period.

Terry Glover bagged the winner at 19.00 even and Fergason clinched it as the seconds ticked away at 19.57.

Syl Apps paced Kingston's attack with two goals.

The game was a penalty-riddled affair with 18 called in all, including a game misconduct to Kingston's Dennis Hearns and four fighting majors.

The firm said "and no plans to improve the glass because flying ashtrays are rarely encountered by its vehicles.

The 'Rifle' Quits Als

MONTREAL (CP) — Sam Etcheverry, assistant coach of Montreal Alouettes, said Friday he is severing his connection with the Eastern Football Conference club Dec. 1, when his current contract expires.

"After that I won't be with the Als," he said in an interview. "I was only hired for five months."

Etcheverry, former Alouette quarterback, said he is leaving football for "strictly personal reasons" but indicated he might be interested in a different post with the club.

He said he and his family are in Montreal to stay, and added that he has received "no job offers."

But that mean that he would consider an offer from another football club? "Not out of town," he replied.

If the Alouettes offered him a post "in another capacity, I'd be willing to talk."

Etcheverry, who coached Quebec Rifles of the now-defunct United Football League before rejoining the Als, remains" in Montreal when the Rifles moved to Toronto and the Continental League.

He is employed by a Montreal stockbroking firm.

Alouette coach Jim Trimble declined to comment on Etcheverry's statement.

Mustangs Pin Faith On Back

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Passing and rushing dominate the scene today when University of Western Ontario Mustangs and the University of Toronto Blues clash at London for the Yates Cup and for the Intercollegiate football title.

Western last won the title in 1959 while Toronto's Blues go back to 1958 when they claimed the championship cup.

Bryce Taylor, whose passing sparked Blues into the title hunt, spearheads a versatile Toronto offence that, while inconsistent throughout most of the season, is capable of exploding as it did against the Mustangs for a 45-15 victory in their final meeting of the season.

Western relies mainly on ball control with halfback Carl Crosse and fullback Larry Burridge counted on for key yardage.

The game also marks a return to the mid-1950s when the same two clubs dominated senior college football circles. Which ever team wins will hold the championship Yates Cup for the first time in at least six years.

Riders Mount Ten Young Gridpokes

Bring On Cats

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats have wound up again where they left off last year—in a two-game, total-point playoff to determine the Eastern Football Conference finalist in the Grey Cup. The Tiats won the eastern series by a single point.

But ten of the 30 Ottawa players who will take the field at 2 p.m. EST Sunday are playing around last year—in fact nine of them were even playing professionally.

While Hamilton's offence hasn't been as consistent under quarterbacks Joe Zuger and Frank Cosentino, it still managed to score regularly due mainly to the staunch effort of its defensive platoon.

Rider coach Frank Clair sees the Tiats' main threat in their running and long pass.

Clair may get some help from the weather in stopping the running. Overcast skies with temperatures reaching about a high of 40 are predicted for Sunday. But rain is forecast for today, and unless it stops early enough it could leave a treacherous, wet field for the nationally-televised (CBC) game.

Bart Starr Hopes To Regain Twinkle

BY THE ASSOCIATE DPRESS

Bart Starr, Green Bay Packers' quarterback who literally has been rushed off his feet in recent games, faces another tough front four Sunday.

But the Packers still stand an excellent chance of coming out of their spin and making up ground in the National Football League's Western Conference.

Reason: The opposition is the last-place Los Angeles Rams, a vulnerable outfit despite their fine defensive line of Lamar Lundy, Dave Jones, Merlin Olsen and Roosevelt Grier.

Starr was held to a minus 10 yards passing three weeks ago as the Packers scrambled to a 13-3 decision over Dallas Cowboys for their sixth straight victory.

The following Sunday Starr was a harried young man, giving up three interceptions, in a 31-10 loss to Chicago Bears.

Last week, the Detroit defense chopped Starr 11 times for 109 yards in losses—and a safety—as the Lions clipped the Packers 17-7.

BEHIND COLTS

Green Bay, with a 6-2 winless record, is one game behind Baltimore Colts. But the injury-weakened Colts have a rugged test this Sunday against the Vikings in Minnesota.

In other highlight NFL games Sunday, Cleveland Browns, Eastern Conference leaders, play a rematch with New York Giants in Cleveland and St. Louis Cardinals meet the Bears in Chicago.

San Francisco 49ers take on the Lions at Detroit, Washington Redskins and the Eagles meet at Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh Steelers play the Cowboys at Dallas.

In the American Football League, San Diego Chargers, leading the Western Division, are at home to Kansas City Chiefs and Buffalo Bills, eastern leaders, are the Raiders at Oakland in key games.

Denver Broncos face George Blanda and the Oilers at Houston, and New York Jets meet the Patriots at Boston in a match between eastern also-rans.

LONDON (CP)—Britons consumed 585,000 tons of candy in 1964, a total of $18 worth each. "It's no wonder we have such rotten teeth and, as a nation, are the despair of our dentists" asked an editorial in GP, a physicians' newspaper.

Mexican Grabs Golf Lead

MEXICO (AP)—Veteran Antonio Cerda of Mexico, who has won major golf championships in almost every part of the globe, smashed the Bellavista course record Friday with a four-under-par 68 to take the halfway lead in the Mexican Open golf championship.

His 138 total gave him a one-stroke margin over Billy Maxwell of the United States.

Wiff Homenuk of Winnipeg, the Canadian professional champion, matched par 72 for the second straight day for 144 to hold a tie for ninth spot.

Champion Rated 8-5 Favorite

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) Lightweight champion Ismael Laguna of Panama was the 8-5 favorite Friday to retain his title in a 15-round rematch with Carlos Ortiz of New York tonight.

Although the odds favor Laguna, both men will enter the ring confident of victory.

Laguna—at 22 still on the threshold of boxing fame—counts on youth and speed. The 29-year-old Ortiz is relying on experience and greater strength, especially with a left jab, to win back the title.

Ortiz has not fought since Laguna dethroned him in Panama last April 10, winning a 15-round decision. The Puerto Rico-born New Yorker blamed the loss on illness and poor conditioning.

Will Offer To Buy Mosport

TORONTO (CP) — Jerry Polivka, Toronto publisher and racing driver, said Friday he will submit an offer to purchase the Mosport Park car racing course and its facilities.

Mosport has been in voluntary receivership since 1962 and is due to be sold by National Trust Co., its trustee, after Dec. 1.

Polivka's bid is the second to be reported in a week. Joe Peters of Toronto, president of Toronto Italia of the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League, offered 35 per cent ownership of Mosport's physical assets to the debenture - holding group.

Polivka, who also owns Mosport debentures, said his offer will include the payment of existing liabilities and fees to the trustees, plus up to $100,000 for operation capital to run the track located 45 miles northeast of here.

In the Bruin shutout, Timothy Whelan and Bruce Sutherland slammed home three goals apiece. Stephen Cowan added the other marker.

Guelph Whips Oakville

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Regals ran their undefeated string to six games Friday night by downing Oakville Oaks 5-3 in a Senior Ontario Hockey Association game.

Guelph now has five victories and one tie in six outings.

Rick McClocklin paced Guelph with two goals with playing - coach Butch Martin, Ray Ross and Bob Pole adding one each.

Shorthanded

Oshawa Defeats Rollins

OSHAWA — Belleville Rollins Construction fell 8-3 before the league leading Oshawa Crushmen in an OHA Eastern Junior "B" battle here last night.

The victory kept Oshawa's men, coached by former senior "A" hockey star Ted O'Connor, in front of the surging Trenton and Peterborough teams, and Belleville.

Rollins found themselves short several key players last night, with scoring ace Bob Boyle, regular goalie Wayne Brant and defenceman Bob Ekhier absent. Defenceman Harold Townsend played despite an elbow injury picked up in a football game.

"We had our chances and their Thalia played well but they are not exactly the powerhouse we have heard they were", said acting coach Gordie Bell this morning.

The Crushmen took a slim 1-0 lead in the opening stanza but moved out front 5-1 by the end of the second heat.

Peter Fleming notched the first Belleville tally, on a three-ply play with Grant Hagerman and Steve White.

Carl Boomhower added the final Rollins' tally with Hagerman again assisting. Gordie Stewart also drawing a helper.

Teddy Lemon saw his first action of the season in the loser's nets and turned in a creditable performance despite the score.

"With a full squad and a few more games under our belt we will give them a good run for their money", offered Bell.

A feature of the game was the clean play and the fact that Belleville did not pick up a single penalty. Only three or four minor sentences were assessed, all to Oshawa.

Oshawa's scoring was well distributed but Bell said that the club's big line was one the also playing Junior "A" with "Bey" Guidolin's Oshawa Generals.

Rollins play another away game, in Hastings, against Peterborough Don Byes tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. The club's next home game will be against the struggling Kingston Frontenacs here next Friday night.

Kingston lost 8-6 in Trenton last night.

Labor Minister, Participants To Meeting

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree Friday called the Union Gas Company and the striking Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' International Union (CLC), to a meeting here Tuesday on their dispute in southwestern Ontario.

About 200 union members have been on strike against the company for nine days in the Windsor and Sarnia areas of its big complex serving more than 300 municipalities in western Ontario. Wages are the main issue. There has been no major service disruption.

The labor minister acting on his own initiative, "Friday invited the disputants in telegrams the meeting Tuesday will explore the situation with a view to developing a formula leading to a settlement. They will meet with A. C. Dennis, director of conciliation in the labor department.

The union seeks an across-the-board pay increase of 20 per cent in a one-year contract. Rates now range from $2.18 to $2.76 an hour.

OBTAINS INJUNCTION

Meanwhile, on Friday the company obtained an injunction in Ontario Supreme Court restraining the striking union from picketing its compressor station in Dawn Township, sellback gas underground natural gas storage system.

Mr. Justice William Henderson found that pickets of the union had attempted "intimidation" against a handful of compressor employees and granted the company the injunction over objections of the union.

Earlier—and this time by consent of union and company—he continued an injunction limiting pickets at company facilities in Windsor and East Sandwich Township to two at each entrance.

In the case of the compressor station in Lambton County, which employs only 15 men split into three shifts—the workers are members of the United Union of Natural Gas Workers (CLC), which is not engaged in the strike.

Canadian Tobacco Growers Could Get Rhodesian Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — A British government source here says Canadian tobacco growers could make their pitch immediately to increase their sales in the United Kingdom as a result of sanctions against Rhodesia.

The source said there is no reason Canadian growers cannot sell their product in Britain, so long as the market is right, and they have the advantage over American growers of preferential tariff treatment for Commonwealth products.

British cigarettes are a blend of several types of tobaccos, including Turkish, Virginian and Rhodesian. The Rhodesian type was blended into the others during the postwar years, and became an acquired taste for British cigarette smokers.

But the source recalls that a broad supply and high proportion of Rhodesian tobacco in the blend was cried on the British market, and failed.

During the Second World War, Virginian tobaccos — the kind grown in Canada—moved into dominance.

As the source here put it: "If we were to be cut off from Virginian tobacco, there would be no help. But being cut off from Rhodesian tobaccos probably won't create a 'split.'"

Sources here could not estimate off-hand how large a market for Canadian or American tobacco may be created by the termination of imports from Rhodesia, but there would be little doubt of knowing how long the sanctions against Rhodesia will last.

But growing no tobacco himself, Britain is entirely dependent on imports, which two years ago amounted to 317,000,000 pounds shipped in from the United States, Rhodesia, India and other countries.

Britons paid £1,286,000,000 ($3,600,000,000) for their tobacco products, of which more than two-thirds was tax revenue to the government. In addition, expenditures to a £17,000,000 ($53,000,000), 'over 90 per cent of it in the form of cigarettes, were made to a large number of British overseas markets, including Aden, Kuwait and Singapore.

Carleton Called 'Godless Place' By Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—An Anglican minister said Friday that Carleton University "is a godless place" and that its attitude towards religion "is perhaps hostile."

Rev. James Winter, chaplain at Little Hospital here, also is quoted in the students' newspaper, The Carleton, as saying that the university's present policy does not support religion.

University President David Ben Dunton rejected the charge, saying Carleton is "not godless. It is non-sectarian." Several members of the faculty are ministers, he added.

The university chaplain said there is no organized hostility to his work at Carleton. "But there is no official encouragement "ther."

Mr. Winters first expressed his opinion during a funeral service for a 22-year-old Carleton student who was found shot last Saturday at his parents' rural farm. A rifle was found beside the body. The student had just returned to the campus from hospital.

Mr. Winters said the student was not given proper religious guidance or support when he returned to school. While the school did not exert "any pressure or undue influence . . . the fact is that it is made difficult for clergy to contact students to do the good they should be doing."

Acadia Summer Playhouse Operates Without Pros

By NICK FILLMORE

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP)—Director Jack Sherriff says the Acadia Summer Playhouse will probably operate in its 43rd season in 1966 without professional actors.

"Our company has developed to the stage where it is doubtful we'll need professionals next summer," Sherriff said in an interview. "some of our young performers have developed very rapidly in the past couple of years and they're ready to handle just about any of the prod tions we plan."

Sherriff, professor of English at Acadia University here, said the amateur group will put on productions in 1966. Five will be musicals.

The plays will be The Fantasticks, South Pacific, The Little Indians, Girl Crazy, Enter Laughing, 110 in the Shade, Barefoot in the Park and The King and I.

"The only part we might need help in is the Frenchman in South Pacific," said Sherriff a native of Toronto.

The Acadia Drama Workshop also played Lancelot in Camelot during the theatre's summer run.

"I was very pleased with Tommy's performances," Sherriff said. Camelot drew good, attendance for its week-long run and West Side Story was a sellout when it appeared here."

The only other professional to appear with the workshop last summer was Pam Hyatt 'n' Torquay native Sonja Thaw regular, who had the lead in Sound of Music.

Sherriff spoke rapidly in defence of the Summer Playhouse, which has been criticized by a few Antigonish people for producing shows of too low a standard.

"We're trying to provide entertainment. You have to expect criticism. Many of the persons in the show are teen-agers just learning there. We're not professionals."

Mr. Sherriff said people often compare the Summer Playhouse to something they saw on broadway or at Stratford.

"The comments I hear are usually favorable. Tourists have told me our productions compare favorably with professional theatre they have seen."

Dr. J. S. R. Beveridge, president of Acadia, which sponsors the Summer Playhouse, said the theatre workshop is serving a need at Acadia and in the valley.

"In my opinion he (Sherriff) is doing an excellent job in training students in drama and in providing excellent background

Students Fighting Cash Woes

HALIFAX (CP) — A newly-formed student housing co-operative here is combatting student apathy and financial problems in its fledgling proposals for a 150-unit apartment building to be constructed by September, 1967.

The co-operative, headed by third-year Dalhousie University law student Peter Green, has yet to be legally incorporated, but has already appointed committees to investigate and purchase, financing and student support.

Questionnaires requesting information about present housing and future needs were returned by only 75 of Dalhousie's 300 married students, but Mr. Green says he is not perturbed-by the apparent lack of enthusiasm.

Applicants will probably exceed accommodation if the apartment building is built, he says. "Our hopes hinge on financial housing right now."

Preliminary estimates show the building would cost at least $1,500,000 and as yet the organization has had no promise of financial backing. However, discussions have been held with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., which, under the National Housing Act, could provide up to 90 per cent of the mortgage required with the same interest terms available to universities.

And the Dalhousie student council has said it might be able to advance a loan or grant. Mr. Green says the university administration is aware of the need for such housing but has pledged no funds to date.

The 24-apartment building would be specially suited to the needs of married students, providing study facilities, a day nursery and better than average soundproofing.

URGES LOYALTY

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians must place loyalty to the country as a whole above provincial interests, Governor - General Vanier told 160 teen-agers Friday. The young people are attending the annual National 4-H Club conference. "We are all proud of our own particular part of Canada but as we come to know and understand our friends from other provinces, we will realize that our freshest and most worthwhile loyalty must be to Canada as a whole," Gen. Vanier said.

"The Man From UNCLE" Has Top Audience Rating

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It costs as no surprise to Robert Vaughn that The Man from U.N.C.L.E. hit the top of an audience rating recently.

"My only surprise," said the star of the spy show, "was that it didn't happen sooner."

Vaughn is an erudite, outspoken chap who has come up the hard way in television (second lead in The Lieutenant two seasons ago). He was certain that U.N.C.L.E. would be a success from the moment he read the pilot script. His confidence remained unshaken when the show scored 82nd in early audience ratings last season.

"I knew that the rating didn't really reflect the popularity of the show," he comments. "I started going out on personal appearances the week after the series went on the air, and I could see the impact on those areas. The crowds, the fan clubs, the standings in local newspaper polls—there was no convinced me we could make a go of it."

REMAINS CONFIDENT

NBC remained confident as well and refused to panic, an extraordinary reaction for a network with a show in trouble. As it turned out, the network showed the wisdom of the decision. Against the opposition of Lucy and Andy Griffith in the more vulnerable Tuesday night spot, U.N.C.L.E. began.

This season NBC again played checkers with U.N.C.L.E., moving it to Friday night at 10 P.M. It was feared that the move would desert the show for dates.

"Apparently that hasn't happened," reported Vaughn. "The kids seem to be having parties in homes, and an hour is spent in watching our show."

Vaughn seems to take everything as calmly as if he were disposing of another thrush agent. He won't be stampeded into anything, such as cashing in on the television popularity to make a quick movie.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A group of British Columbia's native Indians is up in arms about "totem totem poles" advertised as "hand-carved by B.C. Indians." He says true argillite poles are not cast but created by hand by Haida Indians.

Some of the almost 100 native Indian carvers on the B. C. coast can earn up to $12,000 a year at their art.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem ?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

The custom house building industry is fiercely competitive. A method being used in increasing frequency by unethical builders, in order to quote low prices, is to leave out of the contract many necessary and major items. The average person, being without technical training, is usually not aware of anything missing until the end — and then it is too late.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: What do you do with a half - finished house consisting of four walls and bare interior partitions? I can't live in it and I have already spent all the money I had.

I was shopping around for builders when a local lumber yard offered to construct the house for less than half the price asked by anybody else I eagerly signed their contract.

They erected the house in less than two weeks and then stopped. When I asked why I was waiting for them to finish, they informed me that they had completed their work. I was told that all they were required to give me was the shell of the house. The deal I made was for a complete house — not a shell. How do I get out of this mess? It will cost me over $7,000 to finish. — "Learning the Tough Way"

ANSWER: You thought you were buying a finished house but I'm sure the contract you signed was for a shell. I have seen too many of these sleight of hand deals.

A ridiculously low price can only result by cheating in workmanship, skimping in material, or leaving items out. Nobody is going to give you something for nothing.

The best way for you to get out of your mess is to go to your bank and arrange for a mortgage for the cost of completion. This time, to keep you out of trouble, the bank will probably pay only as work progresses.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We want to leave our house to our son, the only child we have. When he was young, he was rather wild but now in middle age he seems to have straightened out. He tells us that it would be less complicated if we make out a deed now, give it to him, and he will not record the deed until after our death. What do you think of the idea? — "Blind Still Thicker than Water"

ANSWER: When a man gets too old to set a bad example, often he starts giving bad advice.

If you were to give your son a deed to your house at this time, recorded or not, he is the owner of your house. All that recording does is to give notice to everybody that he is the owner together with official proof of such tract. Please accept the advice of an old - timer who knows of many similar cases, what your son wants to do will probably lead only to trouble and grief.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Some months ago I read your statement that in the ordinary deal the real estate broker represents the seller and not the buyer. I should have clipped the article and treasured it. I had to find out the hard way!

I bought a house and then discovered trouble. The basement floods after every rain, the joists are termite infested, the heater is cracked, to name only a few. I complained to the owner. His reply, "I could not be less interested." I complained to the broker. His reply, "my listing and commission came from the owner, I was looking out for his interest." It's too late now, but I thought my experience would be a warning to your readers. — "Stuck"

ANSWER: Don't feel too badly your actions were those of a typical buyer. Your getting into trouble was easy, getting out will be difficult and expensive. However, there is some hope.

The doctrine of "buyer beware" is not absolute. If the seller, or his agent, knowingly withheld information which would be beyond the knowledge of the ordinary prudent buyer, then you have a course of action. Some of your complaints appear to fall into that category. This phase of law is complex and only an attorney presented with the specific facts can tell you if there is any hope of either getting your money back or collecting for the defects.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My husband and I own 200 acres of land at a considerable distance from where we live, which apparently contains minerals. We have been approached by a representative with an offer to either sell them the land or lease it to them. It appears to me that it would be more profitable to lease for then we could get our money and still retain ownership. Do you agree? — "Struck it Rich"

ANSWER: Your question is simple, but the answer is not. If you lease you will get an agreed royalty for every ton taken out of the ground. If the vein is poor you will get little money. But more important, are such questions as to whether the ground will be replaced in its original condition — you could end up with a replica of a churned-over battle field — will proper surface support be provided, are you signing a lease for the underground minerals or will it be in the form of a conveyance giving the company permanent ownership with the right to come on your property at any time?

On the other hand, if you sell you want to be sure you are getting a fair price. This is not an easy matter to determine. Only an expert appraiser with experience in mineral valuation is qualified for this task.

How to solve this complicated problem? First, contact your bank. Ask them to refer you to a correspondent bank in the area in which your land is located. This bank can guide you and help you secure the expert appraisal and legal services you require.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into any correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

First Space Satellite May Be Lifted From Canadian Base In Honoring Centennial Year

By CARL BOW

MONTREAL (CP) — Celebrations marking the centennial of Confederation in 1967 may include the launching of the first space satellite from a Canadian base.

Under present plans, a 40-pound payload will be shot into orbit early in 1967 from Highwater, Que., 65 miles southeast of Montreal and a few miles north of the Vermont border.

Shot into orbit is accurate because the satellite will be fired from a modified 16-inch gun and will be assisted to its 500-mile zenith by a three-stage rocket once the 2,000-pound vehicle called Martlett IV—is in flight.

Canada's first spacecraft, Alouette I, was launched in September, 1962, from Point Arguello, Calif., to study disruptions in the ionosphere which interfere with radio communications.

When the gun-fired satellite moves into orbit carrying highly sensitive instruments, it will have a 38-year-old Canadian science professor and his United States Army to thank for giving the project its start.

Operation HARP—High Altitude Research Program—is the brainchild of Prof. G. V. Bull, PhD, University of Toronto, and now of McGill University, Montreal. HARP is primarily a science experiment and was accepted as a project of McGill's Space Research Institute.

CHEAPER THAN ROCKETS

HARP is currently costing $2,500,000 but its acquisitions in equipment, land and material run to much more than that, and more than 500 persons are at work on various aspects of the experiment.

The most significant thing about HARP scientists is not that it is able to investigate space better but that it can do it as well as rocket-powered projects at a substantial reduction in cost.

For example, the U.S. Scout rocket with a payload of less than 200 pounds costs at least $1,000,000 or $5,000 a pound to orbit.

"But the HARP goal is to stay within $25,000 per shot and $28,000 per-payload so that our orbiting payload cost will be about $700 a pound and the total shot about $53,000," says Dr. Bull.

"If our plans are not interrupted, several satellites will be fired into orbit in rapid succession by the Highwater gun to dramatize the effectiveness and low cost of gun-launched vehicles."

HARP has placed Canada among the top launchers in the world in terms of the number of vehicles put into the ionosphere in a year. Dr. Bull says that next year 300 to 500 shells will be fired into the ionosphere.

"I think that possibly only the U.S. will shoot more than this—of course the Soviet Union may be doing as much but they keep their figures to themselves."

COST NOW SHARED

Dr. Bull says HARP, originally financed entirely by the U.S. Army, received a shot in the arm when the Canadian government through the department of defence production agreed to enter the program on a 50-50 cost basis in the summer of 1964.

"The $2,500,000 a year we now get is quite a jump from our first grant of $2,000, but even so it is still spread rather thin," he says. "If we could be guaranteed the money—the defence department's agreement is only on a year - to - year basis—it would certainly solve a number of problems."

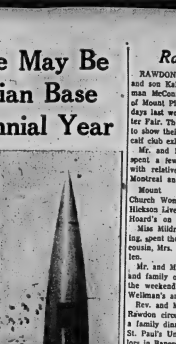
Dr. Bull first approached the U.S. Army in 1960 with his plan to investigate the upper atmosphere with instruments shot from a gun without, and with, the help of rockets.

Many officials were sceptical but the U.S. Army Ballistics Research Laboratories at Aberdeen, Md., finally came to terms with a contract for $2,000. The money was used primarily to allow the acquisition of projectiles.

Several years and millions of dollars later, HARP now operates a firing range in the Barbados which includes two radar stations, a tracking ship, scores of cameras with photographic stations on the islands of Barbados, St. Vincent, Grenada and Tobago. A new gun site is being installed at Yuma, Ariz., aside from the one at Highwater, and plans call for another one in the Arctic.

STUDY WIND PATTERNS

The first main achievement of the Martlet series was to obtain "a tremendous amount of wind shear data" at heights of up to 100 miles through use of chemicals released through a special valve. The chemicals produced a glow and created a "train" of wind movement for study.



"This is a particularly interesting scientific application," says Dr. Bull. "We fly these shells on regular periods on the dark side of the moon once every two months in a series of eight, giving us a total of 120 flights a year for this experiment.

"At the same time ionosodes are being used on the range to check out the sporadic E zone in the ionosphere (the lower layer of the ionosphere in which ionization varies sporadically). There is a theory that there is some connection between the sporadic E and the specific forms of the shear layers that we are seeing on our films of the rails."

So far, the success of the Martlet IV that will launch the satellites from Highwater remains a matter of theory, though practical work in preparation proceeds apace.

The theory was supported recently as a major conclusion of Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Right now is the time to take a few extra minutes to have your car prepared for winter driving. It is considerably less time-consuming to have it done now than during the snow flies and your car won't start.

The OML has already started to prepare for the inevitable rash of emergency road service calls that flood local offices during the winter months.

According to a recent report from the Canadian Automobile Association, 85,866 Canadian motorists had to appeal to their local clubs to get on their way last year. This emergency road service cost a record $1,725,154.

Since it would appear that all calls come at the same time and delays are unavoidable, the OML suggests the following list to help keep you mobile this winter:

1. Check your battery.
2. Check the ignition system, points, condensers and plugs.
3. Check radiator and heater hoses.
4. Check fan belt.
5. Check carburetor and adjust automatic choke.
6. Install proper anti-freeze and thermostat.
7. Have car lubricated for winter driving.
8. Change to winter weight oil.
9. Check windshield wipers.
10. Check snow tires.

Right now is a good time to check out the emergency equipment that will be in the trunk of your car. We suggest that this equipment should include ice scraper, shovel, bag of sand and paper towels for cleaning windshield and headlights.

The OML adds a few important words of advice. Winter driving necessitates an abrupt change in driving habits on the part of the motorists and, as a brief reminder, suggests the following:

16 Unions Will Get Flat 'No' From Railways

OTTAWA (CP) — The railways are expected to answer with a flat "no" later this month to massive wage demands served on them by 16 unions representing about 120,000 railway workers.

The demands, running between 75 cents and $1 an hour, would add an estimated $215,000,000 a year to the railway wage bill. With various fringe benefits included, the total could exceed $250,000,000.

Following the pattern of recent years, the major railways likely will inform the unions that they have no way of raising the additional money because of the federal government's freeze on freight rates, in effect since 1959.

After two or three months of fruitless negotiations and conciliation proceedings the unions will take a strike vote and the resulting crisis will dump the whole affair into the lap of the government.

It will probably be the government's biggest labor headache of 1966.

The $215,000,000 wage demand breaks down this way:

—Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) seeking a 50-cent hourly boost for 20,000 non - operating members working for the CNR. Annual estimate: $40,000,000.

—The $75,000 unions demanding a 30-per-cent increase for 28,000 railway shop workers to bring them to parity with rates in other industries. This means an average of about 81 hourly and a minimum annual outlay of $60,000,000.

—Seven other non-op unions, representing about 25,000 clerks, signalmen, track workers and other occupations, want a package that would mean about 75 cents an hour. Annual estimate: $78,000,000.

—The BRT's 90-cent demand for 20,000 members. Annual estimate: $37,000,000.

All the figures are minimum estimates by union spokesmen as they do not take into account overtime, increased fringe benefits and higher pension costs. An operating employee in a group now average about $2.30 an hour. Train conductors and trainmen are paid on a complicated miles - hours formula with average incomes on the CNR last year of $7,600 for conductors and $6,800 for trainmen.

In all cases, present working agreements expire Dec. 31.

Bond Sales Said Down 10 Per Cent

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Sales of Canada Savings bonds in the annual autumn drive are reported to have fallen this year below last year's performance by 10 per cent or more.

Sources in the investment business here say that with interest rates generally high the savings bonds have not appeared as attractive to investors as in past years.

A Bank of Canada official said figures on bond sales in the 1965 campaign will not be available for several days. Monday was the last day on which bonds could be bought without paying for interest accrued since Nov. 1. The bonds remain on sale at par plus interest, however, probably until next mid-Summer.

The savings bonds, in denominations of $50 to $5,000, are cashable at any time at face value plus interest. They differ from other Government of Canada bonds in that their price does not fluctuate with the bond market.

While they are available for purchase most of the year, the amount outstanding normally shows a dramatic upswing between mid-October and November, and then a gradual falling off through the next 11 months as holders cash them for emergencies or other investment.

The 1967 bonds are paying 5.11 per cent if held through their 16 - year life. The 1963 bonds are paying 5.08 per cent over 12 years, and last year's bonds are paying five per cent over 10 years. This year's offering was 5.03 per cent over 12 years.

But in their first two years the bonds pay only 4% per cent a year. The rate bounces up to 5½ per cent in the final years of the bonds term.

GARMENT INDUSTRY for Belleville was confirmed last evening by Gossard vice-president A. E. Turner (right) with industrial commissioner Ernst Kniesel.

City Gets Garment Industry, Will Employ Up to 100

A high-class foundation garment manufacturer last night confirmed location of a plant in Belleville which ultimately is expected to employ up to 100 workers — mainly women.

The company is Canadian H. W. Gossard Company Ltd., and its newest branch plant will be built on University Avenue in the Hillcrest Industrial Park.

Plans initially call for a plant covering 15,000 square feet.

"We will eventually expand to 35,000 feet employing a maximum of 100 people," said A. E. Turner, Gossard vice-president and general manager.

He said 20 people will be employed when the branch plant opens — expectedly next spring.

WILL INCREASE FORCE

The force will later be increased to 50, then 100 as the company trains its work force.

"It would be foolish to build on 35,000 feet when we couldn't staff it," said Mr. Turner.

When expansion becomes possible a wall of the building can be knocked out and the factory addition built, he added.

The Gossard announcement was a scoop for the city's industrial commission, revitalized two years ago with Ernst Kneisel as commissioner.

PRESTIGE NAME

It was the first fruit borne by the efforts of Mr. Kneisel and the commission—all leading businessmen—appointed by city council.

Gossard, a U.S. company, is the prestige name in the foundation-garment industry. Its international subsidiaries include South African and Australian operations.

In Canada, Gossard already has branch plants in Toronto and Port Perry. They were first introduced to Belleville as a possible location for a third

Medicare Meeting Next Month

OTTAWA (CP) — The provinces are expected to tell the federal government before the end of the year how many plan to take up Ottawa's offer to pay half the cost of a medical care insurance program.

Informants say the federal and provincial health ministers will meet about medicare sometime next month using meetings with the provinces on the "war on poverty" and the Canada assistance plan fill the December schedule.

Although the politicians' arguments during the federal election campaign left some question marks about Prime Minister Pearson's requirements for federal participation in medicare, health department informants insist nothing has really changed.

Two of Mr. Pearson's four requirements are clear — the plan must be portable from province to province, and must provide a comprehensive range of physicians' services.

But there has been argument

Reds Launch Space Probe Toward Venus

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today announced the launching of a new space probe toward Venus—the second in four days.

The new probe, Venus-2, was placed in an orbit similar to that of Venus-2, which was launched Friday. Tass news agency said.

Venus-2 had reached a distance of 718,125 miles from earth after three days flight, Monday.

The first Soviet Venus shot was launched Feb. 12, 1961, and it passed within 62,500 miles of the planet after covering 175,000,000 miles.

Premier to Rule By Decree on Rhodesian Issues

LONDON (CP) — The British Parliament today armed Prime Minister Wilson with sweeping emergency powers to put down the rebellious white - minority government in Rhodesia and re-establish British sov.reignty there.

A law passed without dissent in both houses of Parliament and given royal assent allowed Wilson to rule by decree on Rhodesian issues.

The first decrees were expected today, stripping Rhodesia of its Commonwealth trading privileges. All decrees take effect immediately when they are issued but expire unless approved by both houses of Parliament within 28 days.

Wilson said earlier he aimed to re-create a legal administration in Rhodesia under the authority of Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs.

Gibbs remained defiantly in his official Salisbury mansion despite two visits Monday from Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, who told him to quit, and said:

"We do not have a governor in Rhodesia any more."

ASKS LOYALTY

Smith went on national radio Monday to appeal for the loyalty of the Rhodesian police and armed forces.

He asked Rhodesians to ignore "insinuations" that there was some other authority—Gibbs — than his government which declared independence last week for the territory, population of 4,000,000 Negroes and 220,000 whites.

Today's early-morning legislation empowered Wilson's government to impose further sanctions against Rhodesia, and to declare invalid any laws made by Smith' government since Monday's independence declaration.

The law, re-emphasizing British jurisdiction over Rhodesia, gave the government power to amend and revoke but not revoke Rhodesia's 1961 constitution.

It provided authority to remove Rhodesia from the Commonwealth preference area and from the Commonwealth sugar agreement.

Other sanctions — expulsion from the sterling area, bans on British exports of arms and spare parts and on imports of Rhodesian tobacco and sugar—were earlier imposed under existing legislation.

SUPPORT LAW

The opposition Conservative party supported the legislation despite a threatened right wing revolt led by the Marquess of Salisbury, 72-year-old defender of the white Rhodesian settlers.

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The telephone to Government House here has been cut off, an aide of governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs of Rhodesia told reporters today.

Gibbs has refused a request by Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime to vacate Government House.

When reporters went to Government House after being unable to telephone there, the aide told them a complaint had been made to the post office. The post office said the complaint should be referred to Smith.

There were only two sentries and two policemen on duty at the gates and no appreciable movements were not being reported.

Newspaper reports during the weekend hinted at the possibility of other servers to Government House such as electricity and water being cut off. These reports have not been confirmed.

In the meantime, armed police escorted buses carrying Negro workers to the cities today to avert a repetition of Monday's bid to start a general strike in Bulawayo.

OUTBREAK REPORTED

In Negro townships where outbreaks of stone throwing and arson were reported Monday, police patrols were out in strength during the night. They reported all quiet.

The cabinet met this morning and was expected to discuss once more the impasse over the governor, who refused to recognize self-styled Rhodesia's seizure of independence from Britain.

Salisbury's Rhodesia Herald today published its first editorial since Thursday. Previous days' editorials all have been censored.

The editorial did not comment directly on the situation but expressed exception to quote the words of Bishop Alderson of Mashonaland who said Sunday: "I believe what has been done is wrong. I do not impose my beliefs on you."

The newspaper said: "We state our beliefs. Like the bishop we do not impose them on anybody. The only way a peaceful second attempt this impossible task would be by pitching its spice in a higher key. Every sensible journalist knows the attempt would be self-defeating."

Several blasts spaces indicating censored cuts again appeared throughout the newspapers. Most of the cuts appeared in stories from overseas, particularly those dealing with British intentions toward Rhodesia.

Socred May Get Post

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — The guessing game continued Monday on an expected cabinet shuffle with much of the speculation centred on the agriculture portfolio.

Agriculture Minister Harry Hays was defeated in Calgary South in the Nov. 8 election. There was talk the Liberal government might go after H. A. Olson, the Social Credit member for Medicine Hat, to fill the post.

However, Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, said no official approaches had been made to the Alberta MP.

The portfolio traditionally goes to a Prairie MP. The only Prairie Liberal left in the Commons after the election is Veterans Minister Roger Teillet. But his non-farm background and his urban riding of St. Boniface in Manitoba make him unsuitable for the post.

On the other hand, Mr. Olson is a farmer and merchant, and some informants say his views on agriculture and other matters present no insurmountable barrier to joining the Liberal caucus.

Whether Mr. Olson would come over is another matter. It is understood that basic Liberal thinking would require that Mr. Olson switch parties to become agriculture minister. A coalition with Social Credit to get him would not be acceptable.

If he did come over, some Liberal thought has been given

Prominent Changes in Cast When House Opens Jan. 18

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament, the capital's top perennial attraction, re-opens Tuesday, Jan. 18 with some prominent changes in the cast of 265.

Prime Minister Pearson, who announced the opening date after a Monday cabinet meeting, again shares top billing with Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

But among the supporting cast, there were a number of changes made at the end of a fairly two - month road show that closed Nov. 8.

The script this time includes some traditional works—redistribution of federal ridings, medical insurance, the collective bargaining for the civil service, railway legislation, immigration Act amendments and a Canada development corporation.

And it may contain some new lines written during the election campaign — improved crop insurance, unemployment insurance for farm workers, new aid to medical and dental research and training, $40,500,000 in university scholarship and higher grants to universities, a $50,000,000 roads program for the north and $25,000,000 for the Nova Scotia coal industry.

But personalities made the dramas and the curtain raiser of the 27th Parliament promises to be no exception.

There will be the continuing rivalry between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker. The Opposition leader may want to switch roles and the prime minister will be trying to work in the minority government to ensure this does not happen

The opposition cast should be strongly reinforced and stars returning to the boards. The government also has some new faces and at least one experienced performer in Robert Winters, former works minister in the old St. Laurent troupe.

Among the 97 Conservatives are George Hees and E. Davie Fulton, both reported understudies for the Conservatives' title role who have been out since 1963, and Richard Bell, who had been waiting in the wings in Ottawa's Carleton riding since losing his spot in the 1962 election.

David Lewis, one of the New Democratic Party's top men in the 25th Parliament in 1962, is back, after a two-year layoff, along with 20 others.

A French-Canadian trio—Jean Marchand, Gerard Pelletier and Pierre-Elliot Trudeau—has been added to bring the strength of the Liberal chorus to 131.

For advising the prime minister that an election would gather the government a majority of the Commons' east, Finance Minister Gordon resigned his portfolio when the voters gave the Liberals another minority.

There has been speculation that Mitchell Sharp, who continuing to understudy for the leadership, may succeed Mr. Gordon. He's reading Mr. Gordon's lines now as acting minister.

Princess Whirls Into Busy Schedule in Washington

WASHINGTON (CP) — Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon whirl into a busy schedule of gala and formality today after a hectic arrival here late Monday from an informal cow-country sojourn in Arizona.

The Princess said they wanted to see as much as they could of things that "up to now we've only been able to read about."

That included monuments, museums, the grave of president John F. Kennedy in Arlington National Cemetery, and Washington National Cathedral where the historic Glastonbury thorn—true to tradition—burst into bloom for the visit of British royalty.

The Glastonbury thorn grew from a cutting given the cathedral by British friends in 1962. The cutting supposedly was from the original thorn, which legend says sprouted from the staff of Joseph of Arimathea who is said to have founded the first Christian church in England at Glastonbury.

The thorn's white flowers have blossomed four times previously when British royalty visited Washington.

The royal couple arrived from Queenston Fuse Triggered Massive Blackout in U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — An electrical device a little larger than a grapefruit and serving somewhat the function of an outside fuse triggered last week's massive blackout in the United States northeast and Ontario.

Its failure, at a Queenston, Ont., substation 17 miles south of Niagara Falls caused fast Tuesday's power breakdown, setting an estimated 30,000,000 persons in dozens of cities, including New York, W. Ross Strike, Ontario's electrical chief, said Monday.

"It could have happened to anyone," Mr. Strike said. "It happened to us and we're prepared to admit it."

The failure and its consequences threw an enormous load of 1,600,000 kilowatts into the northeastern United States section of the North American power grid, Mr. Strike, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Power Commission of Ontario, told a press conference.

At the same time, it deprived Ontario of this much power, blacking out Toronto and other cities, which partly-owned Ontario Hydro supplies through its own generators and its interconnections with the United States network.

(In Washington, Chairman Joseph C. Swidler of the U.S. federal power commission said Monday that the beginning of the power breakdown "seemed to have occurred in the Ontario hydro generating plants on the Niagara River.")

(He said in a statement sent Monday to the White House that the enormous power load shifted to the New England and southern New York systems which exceeded the capability of their generating plants and the result was the complete collapse of their service.")

Mr. Strike said in a statement issued after the press conference that both Hydro and the U.S. federal power commission were studying why the power surge spread over so many electrical systems.

Questioned about the possibility of sabotage, Dennis Dack, Hydro public relations officer, said that "any sabotage seems highly unlikely because we have narrowed it down to a piece of

Lights Provide New Energy For Any Kind of Plant Life Ont. Gardener Tells Meet

By RETA LAWRENCE

Bob Keith, the Ontario and Quebec Gardener, was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Horticultural Society held at the Moira Secondary School last evening.

Mr. Keith is a 1932 graduate of Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. After graduation he spent four years on the staff of O.A.C. and one year as student gardener at Kew Gardens, London, England. On his return to Canada he entered the family seed business in Richmond Hill. This business was started by his grandfather in 1866. For almost twenty-two years he has had a radio show on gardening, which is currently heard on CJBQ on Sunday mornings.

A pleasant chat with a gentle, soothing voice, he seems to pick up tattered nerve ends and tenderly soothe them. His flower portraits and running commentary interpret almost as much character in the mind of a flower as in the face of a human being.

Mr. Keith's talk was mainly about the methods of germinating seeds and growing transplants with the aid of fluorescent tubes and incandescent lamps. These lights provide new energy for any kind of plants with the aid of fluorescent pursue gardening activities in all seasons through mental processes, books and indoor artificial lighting."

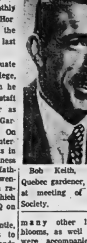
"The basic process of photosynthesis is the ability of plants to use light and transform it into food. All life is sustained by this process."



Pictures of many varieties of the crocus, narcissus, daffodil, hyacinth, tulip, begonia, many other lesser known blooms, as well as vegetables were accompanied by useful suggestions on the ideal growing conditions for each. The speaker also covered the subjects of plant diseases and insect pests.

At the conclusion of the showing of slides a question and answer period produced many interesting queries from local amteur gardeners.

Mr. Stan Smith, president of the Belleville society, acted as chairman for the meeting. Alderman Frank Murray introduced Mr. Keith to the audience and Alderman Enos Davis thanked him and presented him with two plaques depicting scenes of Belleville, past and present. Mr. Taylor Franklin headed the program committee.

Following the meeting coffee and cakes were served in the school cafeteria.

The door prize of a bird feeder was won by Mrs. Gordon Barclay.

Board Request Turned Down By Council

City council will take no action on the request of the Belleville Separate School Board that it and other such organizations be permitted to hire private bus operators for transportation of pupils within the city.

The request was placed before council two weeks ago after the Belleville Transit Commission objected to the Separate School having pupils transported within the city by private bus. A special committee of Aldermen Ben Corke and Jack Deacon was appointed to investigate the matter and report to council.

Yesterday Ald. Corke pointed out that their private bill gave the transit commission an exclusive franchise and said if the commission allowed outside firms to do business in the city it would no longer be in the charter business.

"Council is not a court of appeal," said the alderman. "The commission made the decision not to allow outside firms to do business in the city and we could see no room for argument."

Pupils of Two Schools Tour County Museum

To wind up their study of Canadian Indians and pioneers, 225 grade 7 and 8 pupils from Queen Alexandra and Queen Victoria Schools visited Hastings County Museum last week.

The practical demonstration of history was arranged by the museum staff with the co-operation of Mr. J. Coulter, public school inspector. Displays of butter making equipment, early lighting devices, tools, textiles and household utensils were selected to tie in with school text book illustrations.

Museum curator Mrs. Jack Sargent, assisted by Mrs. G. A. Bennett and Miss M. Diamond acted as guides for the tour and explained the use of pioneer artifacts.

This week, 40 pupils from Massassauga school will visit the museum for a practical Canadian history lesson. These special tours are part of the museum's continuing program of assistance to educators in the presentation of Canadian history.

After New Building

Pay Hydro Bills At Banks in 1966

Public Utilities Commission chairman Gerald Hyde told the Belleville Rotarians yesterday that ultimate transfer of the utilities office administration to the new building, now under construction at the corner of College and Sidney Streets, would mean provision being made for payment of accounts through the banks.

Bills could also be paid at the office, if convenient, or through the mail.

The building is scheduled for completion March 31, 1966.

The Commission now functions from five different locations which means that linemen have to go to as many as three buildings to pick up equipment.

The new building will combine a storeroom, garage and office under the one ultimately office administration.

RATE LOWER

Quoting from a recent Ontario Hydro booklet, Mr. Hyde said that the average home uses of 273 showed a rate lower than Belleville's average of 93 cents per kilowatt, on a monthly bill Belleville citizens pay about $4.95 per 500 kilowatts, or less than all but 39 of the 383 communities quoted.

"So I don't believe that anyone can really tell me that our hydro rates in Belleville are too high," said Mr. Hyde.

He said although the 1965 rate was not reflected in the hydro booklet, similar adjustments would have been made by the other communities.

Recent development included completion of a new $125,000 sub - station on Reid Street, replacing a building constructed in 1910. Since 1920 — one year before the establishment of the Commission — four other substations had been added to the city system.

HOME INSPECTION

Mr. Hyde said efforts were continually being made to try and correct the condition which caused taste and odor in the water.

The present filtration plant should provide sufficient water for the 35,000 population expected in two or three years' time, but a second plant will ultimately be constructed west of the existing one, he added.

Mr. Hyde said meters were being installed in the city at a rate of 1,000 per year and he knew people were for the installation of a meter at his own home he had paid 99 cents for the first 12-month period than under the old flat rate.

Rotary president Ernest Burnham presided.

Nearly $40,000 Spent In Consulting Fees

The city of Belleville so far this year has paid out close to $40,000 in engineering consulting fees, members of council were told yesterday.

The actual amount paid out $39,150.47, includes $10,540.76 paid to Totten and Sims Associates for the new sewage lagoon yard building; $8,970.67 to Craig, Zeilder and Strong for the sewer system; $7,250 to Gore and Storrie Ltd. for survey information regarding the official land use plan and $16,000 to Damas and Smith for survey and other information regarding preparation of the official land use plan, pre-engineering re the proposed Dundas Street Church Street Project; functional plan for Pinnacle Street, traffic analysis and the College Street bridge.

Alderman Ben Corke, chairman of finance, noted, however, that approximately one half of the money really took the place of architect's fees, while Mayor J. Ellis said approximately one - third were survey fees with respect to Pinnacle Street, Church and Dundas Street projects.

Alderman Jack Deacon added that the Pinnacle Street report was one they have got ahead without the survey information.

Public Works Manager J. R. Reynolds said a substantial portion of the Damas and Smith firm fees could be recovered through provincial subsidy.

Council was told that the pre-engineering report on the College Street bridge would be received by council early in December.

Council Receives Report On College Street Bridge

A report from a highways department engineer on the condition of Belleville's one lane College Street bridge has resulted in a picture about the same as reported last year by city engineer Wilbur Purcell.

Several weeks ago Alderman Jack Allin claimed the old College Street bridge was a death trap and asked for a report by the Ontario Highways Department.

The report stated that it would be the 2 by 6 decking was rotten, that some steel channels under the sidewalk and curb are deteriorating and in need of replacement, and also that there was sign of deterioration of the main truss joints at the abutments.

Recommendation for the repair of deteriorated sections, together with posting a 14-ton load limit, was made.

Ald. Allin noted that since the request for a report on the bridge, repairs had been made by the city works department and felt that with the present condition of the bridge further repairs would be but a waste of money.

Mr. Ellis said the bridge already was posted for a 12-ton load limit, two tons less than recommended by the highways engineer.

An engineering report on the proposed new bridge will be received by council early in December but council already has an inking of what the cost to local taxpayer will be.

Mayor Ellis said the cost of the bridge to the city — after provincial subsidy — had been estimated at $279,000.

New School Is Approved By Council

City council yesterday formally approved the construction of the new elementary school in Quinte District composite high school to be built in West Belleville.

Tenders for the construction of the new building have been received but formal award of the contract is being held up awaiting approvals from the various municipalities making up the high school district.

Included in the high school district are the city of Belleville, the village of Frankford, and the townships of Ameliasburg, Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga.

High school board secretary Roy Dulmage said today that approval had been given by Belleville and Ameliasburg, with approvals from the other municipalities expected in the very new future.

One of the holdups in the contract award was the fact that bids were higher than estimated and approvals for the higher expenditure must be had to be obtained from the federal and provincial governments.

Cost of the new school is estimated at $3,790,186 of which $1,710,309 would have to be paid by the local municipalities. Belleville's share of the cost would be $1,096,308. Thurlow would be called upon to pay $192,236, Sidney, $171,715; Ameliasburg $121,945; Tyendinaga $82,437, and Frankford $45,653.

Will Discontinue Tax Discount on January 1st

Commencing January 1st, 1966, the city of Belleville will discontinue offering a discount for the pre-payment of tax instalments.

Council yesterday approved of the recommendation to end the tax discount which was said to have been anticipated by the interim levy as a means of obtaining funds early in the year.

In a report to city council City Treasurer C. J. Bender said a survey of other Ontario centres showed that there was a trend toward discontinuing discount and since the interim tax levy is being made.

ADOPTED 2 YEARS AGO

The interim levy, adopted here three years ago, is where a portion of the annual tax is paid prior to the setting of the year's tax rate.)

Mr. Bender said that local statistics indicated that ratepayers are accepting the instalment plan although this did not apply to new houses with mortgages where the mortgage company pays the full amount to on the first instalment due date.

The city treasurer said the city would save approximately $12,500 per year if tax discounts were discontinued. He did not feel this would result in any substantial increase in temporary city financing.

Unknown Soldier Slugs Teen-age Samaritan and Steals Wallet, Car Keys

By HARRY MULHALL

Police today are still seeking the unknown soldier who slugged a teenage samaritan and stole his wallet near Belleville last night.

The meagre description of the fugitive could fit thousands of servicemen: May be 25 years old; probably weighing 150 pounds; possibly five feet, ten.

That was just about all 17-year-old Boyd Bruce could recollect of his impressions after picking the man up in a driving rainstorm on Highway 37 south of Tweed.

Boyd, a native of the Denbigh area, was returning to Preston from a hunting trip. He is a fac-tory worker in that town.

He drove the hitchhiking soldier about 18 miles south on the highway through heavy rain.

PULLED A PISTOL

It was near the CNR overpass just east of Corbyville that the quiet journey was violently interrupted — according to the story Boyd gave police.

The soldier suddenly pulled a pistol — the teenager thought it looked like a .22 — and said: "This is it."

He ordered Boyd to pull off the highway and park on the shoulder.

Then he demanded his wallet — containing $47 — and Boyd handed it over.

Suddenly, the soldier lashed out with the pistol, striking the youth on the head with the butt.

The next thing the teenager remembers is waking up some time later. He was still in the car , and it was parked in the same place.

KEYS THROWN AWAY

Missing were the ignition keys, taken by his assailant and thrown into the night's rain.

By fortunate coincidence, however, Boyd was carrying a second key set. He started the car, drove straight to the Belleville police headquarters and told his story.

While police corralled off roads into the city, OPP officers set up roadblocks on district highways. A public alert was broadcast to motorists, warning them to watch for the wanted man.

While the search went on, OPP superintendent A. McDougall personally drove the young victim to the house of coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott. He was treated for a bad head swelling and later released to continue his journey.

Police called off the search for his assailant during the night. Today they began the tedious business of checking out service personnel, seeking a clue to the fugitive's identity.

Committee to Discuss Area Problems

Members of Belleville city council feel there could be merit in the idea of regional planning and of solving area problems on a regional basis.

At any rate, council yesterday named Mayor J. Ellis and City Manager J. R. Reynolds to a special committee composed of the wardens of Hastings and Prince Edward County and the Mayor of Trenton, along with senior executive officials to meet from time to time to discuss regional problems and make recommendations relative to the Quinte area.

Mayor Ellis said that within the past year area municipal representatives had met unofficially on several occasions.

Such matters as roads, welfare, schools, water, and sewers were topics for discussion, he said.

Reeves of neighboring townships would also be included in the discussions, the mayor said.

Hospital Users Will Help Pay Capital Costs

City council yesterday approved a motion by Alderman Enos David requesting the Ontario Hospital Services Commission to accept the principle of increasing per diem rates sufficiently to retire debentures for hospital capital costs.

The motion was introduced before council several weeks ago in the form of a notice of motion.

Yesterday Alderman David said the move would shift the responsibility for hospital capital costs from the property owners to the hospital users. He estimated that a five or six per cent increase of hospital services costs premium would be sufficient.

He said the move would free municipal government funds for other uses and would do much to relieve the hospital bed shortage. Also the move would mean that patients from out-of-the-area would help to pay their share of hospital capital costs.

Sharp announced Monday the government is offering $300,000,000 worth of Government of Canada bonds in short, medium and long term issues, sold in multiples of $1,000. The subscription books close tonight.

Two of the new issues are additions to existing bond issues— 5½-per-cent bonds due April 1, 1969, and 5¼-per-cent bonds due Oct. 1, 1975. At the prices they now are being offered, they yield 5.41 per cent and 5½ per cent to maturity, respectively.

The new short-term bond, for one year and half a month, will pay interest at 4 per cent and is being offered at 98.82 per cent of face value. This means an effective yield on the investment of 5.15 per cent.

Except for the assurance that the Canada savings bonds can be surrendered for face value plus accrued interest at any time, the new Government of Canada bonds offered Monday appeared to be a better yielding investment.

A long-term Government of Canada bond available on the bond market bears interest at 4½ per cent and matures in 1983. At current bond market prices it sells to $99 for $1,000 of these bonds, the annual yield if held to maturity is about 5¼ per cent.

Local Unit of Cancer Society in New Home

On Saturday, the Trenton unit of the Canadian Cancer Society moved its office from a downtown Trenton location to the board room at the Community Gardens. For the past eight years, the unit has paid $300 a year rent, and since the new board room was offered to the unit free-of-charge, the move was in the interests of economy. Then, too, when operations were set up in the downtown location, members of the Trenton mail and volunteers were making dressings for Trenton and area, Belleville, Tweed and a wide area around these communities. Now, new treatment of the disease does away with the need for dressings in quantity. Also, other units have been formed in this area.

On Monday, Mrs. George Greer, president of the unit, expressed the thanks of the society to Fox the Mover, who waived the moving fee and to Mrs. Mandigo, Mrs. Bruce Poulos of Belleville, who forgave the last month's rent as his contribution to the cause.

In the fall of 1958, the Trenton unit was set up as a result of a local committee, called by the Little Red Door of Kingston. Lorne Foster (deceased) was the first president, and Sherman Graham, vice-president. Mrs. Greer took over from James Duncan as president.

A treasurer, who has worn well through the years is Harry Foster. Mrs. A. Ethier was first women's services chairman, and she was succeeded by Mrs. Sam Hughes and Mrs. W. A. L. McDonald.

Mrs. Clara Howe was first education chairman, and she was succeeded by Mrs. William Platt and Mrs. Anita (Fraser) Richardson.

Chairmen of successful cancer drives have been Archie Frost, Clinton Sayles, Elmer Bontor and James Campbell.

BOOKS BURNED

Mrs. J. Rose was the original secretary and her position was taken over in 1959 by Mrs. Margaret Barry who has continued to function as secretary. In November, 1959, Mrs. Barry's Lorne Ave. home burned to the ground, and with it, the original books of the cancer unit.

In addition to supplying comforts for cancer victims, arranging to have visits made to clinics and other services, the unit has provided more than 1,000 portable aids to the community. With a 16-mm projector, bought by the unit, films have been sent to service clubs and other organizations, upon request. Speakers are provided if desired.

On year, the unit secured the services of a mobile Red Cross unit, and blood donor clinics and kneips racks in the hospital and factories supplied with literature.

Last Saturday, seven unit members attended a cancer workshop at Queen's University in Kingston.

This Thursday, November 18, the unit will hold its first meeting in its new quarters. Former executive members have been asked to attend the meeting, at which the annual election of officers will be held. These new officers will be previewed, and members of the public may attend.

Ardent Golfers Concede Season Over

TRENTON — With a sprinkling of snow on the ground over the weekend, even the most ardent golfers at the Trenton Country Club conceded that the season was over and took home their prizes for the year. Club Champion, Carl Charlton, also won the Ringer award. Eric Aldersey and Jim Alexander won consolation prizes and James Duncan, the "Most Improved" award. The present trophy is by Dick Burnett.

In the ladies' division, prizes and trophies were picked up by Huda Chivas, Nora Weller, Fran Bannon, Lottie Niddery, Lorna Thurston and Pearl Carswell.

MONEY BY-LAW

Town solicitor Roderick Campbell told the members of Trenton council that the question to be put to the voters in the Dec. 6 municipal election, "should the town invest $75,000 to build a swimming pool in the Community Gardens' area," was a money by-law and that only property owners would be eligible to vote on this.

Before this year will also be asked to rule on Sunday movies and Sunday sports.

RCAF Foam Fire Truck Catches Fire

TRENTON — Nothing like bringing coals to Newcastle—or—drumming up business in reverse, back yard.

On Sunday, a brand new foam truck at the RCAF fire hall, suddenly burst into flames. Firemen spent a flurried few minutes putting out the fire, with foam from portable extinguishers, carried by the truck itself. The truck was on the ramp, preparing for a practice, so there was no danger to the other vehicles, and very little damage to the truck.

An RCAF spokesman said one of the power lines in the truck suddenly gave way and hydrulic fluid was sprayed onto the warm engine.

ERA ENDED

On Sunday, one of the four North Stars berthed at RCAF Trenton Trenton, ended an era in flight when it returned from the last trans-Atlantic flight the Stars will make. The aircraft was on its way back from El Arish.

The North Stars, which entered RCAF service in the 1950s, will be used in Canada for another few weeks, then officially "retired" from service in a ceremony at the local station, the end of this month or the beginning of December.

Old Post Office Offered To Corporation for $53,000

TRENTON — Trenton council met last night in what must be the shortest regular meeting on record . . . a mere hour and forty minutes.

Council learned from Councillor Paul Trépo, the chairman of the economic and industrial development committee, that officials from the federal department of public works would be in town next week to look over the waterfront park area, south of the community gardens and discuss with council the possibility of a government grant for the development of marsh facilities here. Robert Temple former MP for Hastings South, told council last month there were grant structures available which might be combined to help develop marina areas.

Crown Assets Disposal Corporation wanted to know in a letter, is the town interested in taking up first option on the old post office (for $53,000) which was supplied by the new federal building in September. An answer is requested by Nov. 24. Councillor Trepo hinted he might have an announcement to make regarding a possible use for the building before that date.

Frank Cowan, an insurance adjuster, told council by letter that under new government legislation, the municipality would be responsible (financially) for the actions of a policeman is such instances as proven instances of false arrest, libel, slander, wrongful conviction, wrongful entry, personal injury and wrongful detention. Annual premium for a policy to cover such eventualities would cost the town $111 and the police commission $344. The general government committee will discuss this matter.

Councillor Ross Burtt said he would like to see Trenton constables "protected".

"You read about police getting beat up by d—gangs," he said. "People in the street stand around and watch . . and seem to enjoy it."

WILL CONDUCT FEES

Clerk comptroller O. W. Larry said that the original correspondence on the subject had mentioned that councillors, too, might have need of like policies.

Council voted to charge the owner of trailer parks, $5 per month, per trailer (occupied) licence fee from December 1, on.

Councillor Burtt suggested that an attempt be made to collect $5 for the other months in 1965 from the trailer park owner. He said the man had paid $4 per trailer, per month, to Sidney township before the town annexed the park and that he didn't like to see the $4 go to Sidney instead of here.

A Kingston land appraiser, W. E. Webster, will be hired by the town to do the work. Zigman property on Front St. (against which the town has an expropriation proceedings); land on the Marmora Street Senior Public School playground, which the town means to buy from the school board for use in the realignment of Victoria Bridge) and the Lange and Fetter Company property on Dundas Street.

Council also voted to sell three houses (at 50 Dominion Ave., 109 Marmora St., and to Orval Cooney. Mr. Cooney will be obliged to either demolish or remove those houses and clean up the land, which will also be used for bridge approaches.

The town will prepare a roadbed for CPR tracks, which the CPR will be asked to re-locate east of the present location on Ontario Street. This too is in preparation for the work on the approaches to the bridge. The work will cost the town around $34,000, part of which is subsidizable through government grants.

FIRE REPORT GIVEN

Councillor Edward Todd read out a comprehensive report on the October operations of the fire department, prepared by Fire Chief Cecil Ellis. The department was called out 18 times in October. One "minor" fire (garage) was estimated at an $800 loss. There were no major fires. The chief said 227 inspections were carried out during Fire Prevention Week.

Dennis Wayne Smith of 80 First Ave., a volunteer fireman for four years, was hired for the permanent force when Duane Foshay resigned to become the fire chief in Picton.

Councillor Joseph Gould spent a half hour defending his action in hiring a man to control stock and maintenance in the town yards, shortly after he (the councillor) was made chairman of the public work's department in Jan., 1964.

Mr. Gould said there had been no system of keeping track of tools and supplies before he took over. "Now," he said, "the yard was run efficiently, and the ratepayer's dollar was being saved." He said that in 1964, after the controller took over, 4,000 gallons of gasoline was saved, as compared to 1963 figures. Up until 1964, gas tanks and oil drums were left open and no record was kept of distribution. Economical modifications had been made to town equipment which had also resulted in a saving, he said.

Councillor Gould said that he felt obliged to justify his hiring of a controller because of criticism from certain councillors and town officials.

And the council decided to enter a float in the Santa Claus parade, rather than make a cash donation. Men from the works' department will prepare the float. Councillor Gould even offered to act as "Santa Claus."

"If somebody will get me a red suit . . I'm big enough."

Mr. Grills for South Hastings

Belleville dairyman Les Grills has been returned once again to the House of Commons as Conservative member for South Hastings. It is a position Mr. Grills has fought for tenaciously and successfully in a political career extending over more than a decade. He has had his ups and downs, but has now reached a new summit of achievement with last week's defeat of Liberal candidate Bob Temple.

Mr. Grills first entered federal politics in 1953. It was an inauspicious start, for he lost to realtor Frank Follwell. In 1957, however, Mr. Grills turned the tables by defeating Mr. Follwell. He retained the seat in 1958 when when Dr. D. C. McVicker carried the Liberal standard and again in 1962 when Mr. Temple was his opponent.

In 1963 Mr. Temple was returned when the service vote gave him a narrow margin. Now the positions have been reversed once again. In last week's election Mr. Grills held a plurality of more than 700 against his opponent, and although Mr. Temple polled well in the service vote he could not overcome Mr. Grills' initial advantage.

A native of Sidney Township, the South Hastings member gained most of his municipal experience on Hastings County Council. He was deputy reeve and warden during this period before entering federal politics.

Well known in Belleville and district, the member also enjoys a wide circle of friends in Ottawa. Writing in The Ottawa Citizen, Norman Campbell notes that Mr. Grills "knows more people in the House than anyone."

This does not come as a surprise to those who know Mr. Grills as a warm personality, a man of the people regardless of their political beliefs, a determined fighter and one who has an unrivalled knowledge of the problems affecting this riding.

IRA Threat

A tiresome feature of the Hibernian scene over the years has been the activities of the Irish Republican Army.

The IRA, outlawed on both sides of the Irish border, announced some years ago that it had decided to end its campaign of terrorism against the north. The support of the nationalist population that it once enjoyed was on the wane, sharply lacking from the Irish population in the United States was not what it once was and anyway, Ireland as a whole was moving forward to new heights of economic prosperity. Terrorism was just no longer popular even with the die-hards, and the guerrillas were having a rough time in encounters with police and military. Hence the decision to stop the senseless campaign.

Now, there are fears of a renewed outbreak. According to reports from Belfast, Ulster government authorities suspect the IRA of planning a campaign of violence to reach a climax next Easter, the 50th anniversary of the Easter uprising in Dublin. This rebellion was the beginning of a period of violence which ended in the partitioning of Ireland between the Roman Catholic South—now the Irish Republic—and the Protestant North.

Further outbreaks in a country which already has seen enough of violence and bloodshed is a possibility that Ireland can neither afford nor tolerate. That the authorities are aware of the situation is some guarantee, however, that trouble, if it should arise will be minimal.

Away From It All

This is the time of year when people feel a bit edgy and wish they could get away from it all. It is a little cool for golf and too early for skiing. Between one thing and another, life weighs rather heavily.

It may not be possible to go to that island in the Caribbean or make an air tour of South American capitals, but at least we can dream —and pick up a few folders. That way one enjoys a sort of "instant vacation," if only in the imagination.

What is your pleasure? Is it golf in Phoenix, Arizona, or in Bermuda. Would you prefer island hopping in the Caribbean, or just stay on this continent and have "fun in the sun in Tucson," as the brochure so deftly phrases it.

Perhaps you would like to go further afield. There is an airline which provides an opportunity to spend 14 days in what is generally acclaimed the most exotic spot on earth, Tahiti, and its sister islands of Moorea, Bora Bora and Raiatea —for $795.

Which is not as costly as it seems when it is considered one can scarcely buy a decent second-hand car at that price today.

Anyone feeling better . . .!"

To Your Good Health

Drinks, Eats Heavily Yet Woman Stays Thin

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Could you explain this? A woman, aged 45, drinks a fifth of liquor each night (more on weekends) and eats a hearty but unobjectionable appetite you could possibly imagine, yet she is thin and gaunt looking. — D. B. G.

Alcoholics (and anybody who drinks that much is an alcoholic with a vengeance usually eat improperly and inadequately.

An uncontrollable appetite doesn't always imply corpulence for various reasons. I just finished reading an article by Milton Golin in which he told of a woman whose husband ate himself away most of the week. Every Friday she bustled around and put dabs of food in dishes in the icebox to look like "leftovers" so he would think she had been eating, instead of mostly just drinking all week long. Many alcoholics have a talent for rush-fortified deceptions.

Does your fifth-a-day victim really eat wisely and adequately? Or does she nibble a bit, but not get the foods she really needs? She may be undernourished in spite of putting on a good show of wanting food.

There are still other possibilities. Cirrhosis of the liver could be a big factor, or other defects or illnesses — tuberculosis, hyperthyroidism or a number of less common disorders.

Sounds to me as though the lady should have a thorough physical checkup at once quite aside from her addiction to alcohol. If her health in general can be bolstered there may yet be time to do something about her drinking.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a lot of pimples on my face and have stayed away from candy but nothing happens. What should I do? — M. M.

Avoiding candy sometimes helps, but it is far from the whole story. For a detailed outline of what else you can do, read my booklet, "Acne, The Teenage Problem." You can get a copy by sending 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dunellen, Ill.

Dear Sir: My sister had a bilitery stomach and I suggested that she eat one of those candy-roll antacids. Before I could get one out of the wrapper, the housekeeper told us they were bad, primarily made of baking soda, and that they would literally eat holes in the stomach. So you think they are safe, or will repeated doses be harmful? — G. K.

I don't wonder that your sister has a jittery stomach with a know-it-all housekeeper like that. No, occasional use isn't harmful, and won't make any holes in the stomach. I do warn against getting into a regular habit of taking baking soda or other antacids because excessive use throws the digestive tract out of balance, chemically, and upsets the digestion, but that housekeeper just isn't talking sense. Not all antacid pills contain bicarbonate.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a baby born six months prematurely, meaning that it has been developing for only three months, be, there is no possibility of survival.

Babies aren't fully developed until the normal time for birth, but with incubators, special feeding, and so on, a lot of them live now when born a month or two early, and occasionally but not often when a little earlier than that.

Letter to the Editor

Quinte Figure Skating Club

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Recent discussions on a popular program on radio station CJBQ have made it evident that many people are not aware of the functions and role in the community and in some cases the existence of the Quinte Figure-Skating Club. I would, therefore, like to attempt to clarify some of these points.

The Quinte Figure-Skating Club is a section of the parent club, the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club. The headquarters for this group is at the corner of Dufferin Avenue and Queen Street where tennis is played in the summer and outdoor skating is available in the winter months depending upon the weather. Because of the whims of the weather the figure-skating section has each year confined its activities to the arena as it has been necessary to guarantee ice time to the professionals. The Figure-Skating Club is also a member of the Canadian Figure-Skating Association of the Central Ontario Section of this organization, so it must abide by their rules and regulations on this body.

Figure-skating is not new in Belleville but regular organizational instruction has been available for only the past eight years. As those who saw the "Pop Concert" of last year will know, figure-skating encompasses the compulsory school figures, dancing, and free-skating. All of these activities are included in each of our skating sessions. The club members skate at Memorial Arena on Monday, Thursday and Saturday from 4.30 to 7.45 p.m. The operation this year extends for twenty-two weeks, finishing on March 19th, 1966.

Mrs. Bonnie Boundy of Port Hope is the professional in charge of skating tuition. She teaches the children in small groups according to their ability. With the beginners this means instruction in how to skate. As they progress they are taught the steps and figures involved in figure-skating and dancing. The students are taken through the various levels of the Star. Test system as they improve and are then able to take part in the dancing sessions. There are groups for the more proficient and also for adults whether beginners or experts. A limited number of private lessons are available from Mr. Routh, a professional from Kingston, who comes to Belleville for the Saturday session.

The Figure-Skating Club is a self supporting and non profit organization similar to the other sections of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club. It is felt that as such it is making a definite contribution to the recreational program of the city.

The average membership has always been around one hundred people and the most of these are children. This is a wholesome, healthy sport, a lot of fun and teaching discipline and co-ordination. Some of our members may hope to continue with skating as a career where as others do it merely for recreation. Learning to skate well in early childhood is a definite advantage for a boy who wishes to play hockey well. It is interesting to note that more and more hockey clubs and schools are employing professional figure-skaters as instructors.

The annual operation of the Club has to be contracted for long before the season starts. Our professionals are under contract as is the arrangement for ice time at the Arena. Budget arrangements have endeavored to keep the fees to a absolute minimum. The basic membership for the Club for one season is $23.00 with a $3.00 reduction for each additional member of one family. Group instruction is an additional $10.00. With a total of twenty-two weeks, at three sessions a week, we feel that this rate is not at all excessive compared with other activities. This amounts to approximately .50c a session. The fees, as with most clubs, are gradually asked for in advance but this has never been a hard and fast rule.

The administration of Club functions and the actual day to day "work" of keeping the activities running smoothly is done by members and by parents of the members. This involves such things as arranging schedules, playing recorded music and many other tasks. These, of course, are done without any remuneration from Club funds.

I hope that this has clarified some of the points at issue. I would like to emphasize that the Club will give a hearty welcome to new members of any age. Inquiries may be directed to the club secretary, telephone 962-7547 in the evening.

D. M. Scott, President,
Quinte Skating and Tennis Club.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 16th, 1945

Members of the Department of Lands and Forests of the Province of Ontario now have an added inspiration in their work with the publication of "Ontario Lands and Forests Review," which has just made its appearance in a very attractive form. The magazine is published by and for the members, to be a link between the diverse activities carried on by the department and to bring about a closer understanding and mutual sympathy between the men in the field and their co-workers in the home office.

As indicated in a foreword, the task of the Department is to preserve and direct the use of the greatest single source of wealth and recreation in this Province, "from this source come the houses in which we live, the tables off which we eat, the cellophane in which our cigarettes are packaged, even dresses women wear and the very paper on which these words are printed. Without wood man's modern material world would be crippled."

30 YEARS AGO

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bay of Quinte Country Club took place on Saturday with a banquet last evening at the Queen's Hotel. The retiring president Eugene V. Illsley occupied the chair, and the reports for the year were submitted by Robert M. Jones, the secretary-treasurer of the club. The reports showed that the club enjoyed the most successful season since inauguration. The following directors were elected for next year: Fred H. Deacon, Jamieson Bone, R. J. E. Graham, Roy G. Hubbard, Leonard R. Dempsey, Dr. George Stobie, Robert H. Martin, Harry W. Ackerman and E. W. Rogers.

The theft of fowl in Hastings County is increasing to an alarming extent. Last night chicken thieves got away with approximately 150 birds from the farm home of Percy Jackman in the sixth concession of Rawdon township. The night previous 50 turkeys were taken from the farm of Robert Mathews in Rawdon township. Mrs. and Mrs. Fred Fricher of this city were recent guests of Mrs. Wesley Buchner in Campbellford.

Although the score was one-sided it does not indicate the play that was put on by both teams and it is in no way disparaging of our boys

Cat Explosion

Saint John Telegraph Journal

The real population explosion is in cats, dogs, pets with eats.

That's the word from the cat food manufacturers, who ought to know. They say Americans more cats than dogs in the United States, the experts report, with about 30,000,000 population somewhere over 50,000,000.

This is not expected to distract fashion leaders, but there is an ominous note: Apart from registered and licenced pets, there are about 10,000 other cats and dogs born every hour. If this keeps up, we'll have room for no love in animals.

Strictly Personal People Must Learn How To Disagree

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

People are never going to agree, so we have to learn how to disagree. This is the basic task facing society; all other tasks are subordinate to it.

The extremists of the right and the left want to make all people agree — by coercion, if not by consent, by imposing an official attitude upon us, with absolute standards and severe penalties for dissenters.

But most of us, who belong to neither extreme, have not yet solved the problem of learning how to disagree. In a crisis, we become as dictatorial as our enemies, beyond a certain point we will not tolerate disagreement.

Consider our attitude toward the protesters against our Viet Nam policy. We do not distinguish between those who disagree and those who violate the law; between those who assemble peacefully to protest, and those who foment riots.

Yet, the reason we have all this agitation about Viet Nam is our failure to disagree in the past. There has been no real public dialogue on foreign policy; our commitments have not been explained, our mistakes have not been ventilated, our objectives have not been clarified.

As a result, we are in the dark about foreign policy; we must accept on faith the statements of our government leaders that what we are doing is both just and necessary in this war that is not a war against an enemy who is not an enemy.

The tragic events in which we are involved today began in 1954. A decade has gone by in which the American public, on the whole, has been indifferent to Southeast Asian affairs, and in which the successive administrations were not particularly informative on the progress of events.

But a democratic society cannot operate in this fashion and still keep its freedoms. A democratic society — the very phrase is to have any meaning beyond mere rhetoric — must learn how to engage in creative disagreement. If it does not, then when things go from bad to worse, there is no room for disagreement — the worst time to saw off a limb is after you have already fallen off it.

We cannot afford the luxury of being apathetic about foreign affairs. We are, like it or not, too strong, too important in the world, if we have the right — and the duty — to have the duty — to question our government's wisdom in domestic affairs, we have also the right and duty to question our government's conduct of foreign affairs. Otherwise, we have only the illusion of liberty; by the time we ask questions, the only answers we have been forced on us by circumstance.

Ice Age May Be Imminent!

Peterborough Examiner

The weekly scientific magazine, Nature, has outlined a new theory of the origin of ice ages advanced first a year ago by Dr. A. T. Wilson of the University of Wellington, New Zealand and now supported by evidence put forward by Dr. John Hollin of Princeton University. The theory suggests that when sufficient ice accumulates in the Antarctic, the ice will start to melt at its base, so beginning a massive surge of ice over the neighbouring seas. This new expanse of water would reflect back more sunlight, so causing the atmosphere to cool and the northern ice cap to grow.

Dr. Hollin thinks he has found evidence in Eastern England and North-Western Europe of a sudden inrushing of the sea 100,000 or 150,000 years ago, which preceded a sharp change of climate leading to an expansion of the ice. This theory implies that another ice age could happen any time, now or thousands of years from now, and that it would result in massive rises in sea-level, drowning cities and causing huge tidal surges.

The implications of this theory are highly unpleasant, for it suggests that another ice age could begin unexpectedly, quickly and catastrophically. What precautions can be able to do about it? Install atomic reactors in the ice masses to thaw them out or smash the advancing edges of the ice with nuclear explosions? This would provide a ready solution to problems of disarmament but it would of course result in severe radioactive pollution of the seas and atmosphere. But, whatever the merits of this theory, it does demonstrate that science fact is moving closer to science fiction all the time.

Words and Their Value

Greensboro (N.C.) Daily News

In discussing the most beautiful words in the English language, some quote merely the sound of the word itself to be attractive. Others hold that the meaning of the word must be considered.

The late Wilfred J. Funk, for example, once compiled a list of the 10 words he thought the loveliest: Dawn, hush, lullaby, murmur, peace, tranquil, luminous, chimes, golden, mellow.

The sounds of these words must not be the sole reasons for their value. Their worth is the "echo of clearly" on the images translated.

If it were the sound alone, we would not be able to tell the other words with the same general sounds, but less lovely in connotation. We have heard loo, wormang, hand - drill, cyst, fruminous, limes, molten, and dreary.

Here are some latter day considerations of beautiful words: Leisure, weekends, pay day, vacation, retirement, social security.

The late Louis Graves, founder of the Chapel Hill Weekly, Chapel Hill, N.S., once said the sweetest words he ever heard were voiced daily by the cook who said every morning, "Breakfast is ready."

A Question Of Manners

Windsor Star

One of the most annoying experiences, and somewhat humiliating, is to write a letter and not even get the courtesy of a reply. This has caused comment in England, where more business and other affairs are done by mail than here.

One writer claimed he had written the prime minister of Italy and go no answer to a query for information. "With middle class manners," he declared a stamped and addressed envelope," he explained.

Another writer says effecting answer. There is nothing unusual, he said, about the disinterest of a duke. Oscar Wilde pointed out, how can the upper classes be expected to behave properly when the lower orders do not show them a good example.

There is something to it. We recall a labor leader saying to Rt. Hon. L. L. Mackenzie King, in extenuation of some rough talk, that it was the language of the working man. Mr. King heavily replied that, in his personal relations, he had never known a working man to be discourteous to him.

Man, Wanted For 3 Years, Is Arrested

A man — wanted on false pretences charges by Belleville police for the past three years — yesterday was arrested in a pool hall after being recognized by an officer.

Thomas Reed, 44, appeared briefly this morning before Magistrate T. Y. Wills and was remanded a week in custody.

Police said there were similar charges against the accused man in other Ontario centres.

crucial . . . to think in terms of a meaningless slap on the wrist."

In Salisbury, Smith told the Rhodesian armed forces and police: "You will be subject to pressures designed to undermine your loyalty." Britain would try to sow doubts in their minds, he added.

While Smith repeated the claim that his regime was "without any shadow of doubt" the government of Rhodesia, Gibbs remained in residence to underline Britain's contention that he is the lawful authority there.

Rather than use military force, the British government hopes that Rhodesians will shift from support for Smith once sanctions begin to hit their pocket books.

SLIDE STARTS

Already the Rhodesian pound has started a drastic slide on the London money market—no-one drastic that the Bank of England Monday revoked all licences to deal in the U.S. grid.

Until last week, Rhodesia was part of the sterling system on which more than half the world's trade is conducted. Its pound was roughly par with the British pound.

Monday it had fallen to 16 shillings ($2.40). The bank stopped dealings in an indescribed speculation. Some financial authorities thought a free market likely to develop now in Zurich or Brussels.

In Whitehall, government spokesmen derided suggestions from Rhodesia that the Queen is herself sympathetic towards the Rhodesian rebels.

Rhodesians were reported to have been told that before Wilson left to visit Rhodesia two weeks ago, he was told by the Queen: "Don't sell the white man down the river, Mr. Wilson."

IT'S 'BALONEY'

A government spokesman dismissed the idea as "absolute baloney, sheer invention" and Wilson himself seemed to be touching on this point in an address Monday night to the annual lord mayor's banquet.

British responsibility for Rhodesia, he said, had been made clear not only by legal authorities and ministers "but by the highest authority within our realm" — meaning the Queen. He added:

"Any instruction or command issued by Her Majesty's ministers in the name of the Queen could not and would not in any circumstances be issued without the specific authority and approval of Her Majesty herself."

As a means of countering the staff censorship imposed by the regime inside Rhodesia, the government was reported looking for ways to improve the BBC broadcasts beamed to the area.

Meanwhile, the Soviet government in a statement issued through Tass said it is ready "to co - operate with African countries in rendering every conceivable support in the just struggle for achieving real national independence" for Rhodesia.

The statement made no specific mention of military aid, however, and said the Soviet government would "unswervingly comply" with UN resolutions on Rhodesia.

Local Man Found Unfit To Stand Trial

A 33-year-old Belleville man, arrested on an indecency charge, was found not mentally fit to stand trial yesterday at the Hastings County peace sessions.

Meantime, a warrant has been issued for an alleged male companion who failed to answer the same charge of gross indecency before Judge J. C. Anderson.

Belleville psychiatrist Dr. E. B. Cass told the court the man had a low mental capacity.

The jury then found the accused man unfit for trial. He was ordered to the Ontario Hospital of Kingston for treatment.

man after whom Rhodesia's capital is named, withdrew an amendment to curb the government's powers. He was assured that any measure against Rhodesia would receive prior approval from Parliament before being enforced.

The new law declares that Rhodesia remains a part of Her Majesty's dominions, and that the government and Parliament of the United Kingdom hold responsibility and jurisdiction for the territory.

The declaration is aimed as much at the Afro-Asian bloc in the United Nations as at the Rhodesian rebels. Wilson's government at this stage is set against using force to put down Smith's regime and is insisting on Rhodesia's British status to head off any attempt to stage Mau-Mau uprisings in the flag.

Prime Minister Wilson said at a banquet here Monday night: "It is our resolve at the earliest possible moment . . . to restore the rule of law, to recreate a legal administration under the governor's authority, to bind up the wounds that Rhodesia has inflicted upon herself, without malice or rancor . . ."

REJECTS PUNISHMENT

The government rejected punitive measures, but not effective measures to restore legal government in Rhodesia, Wilson said.

He added: "This issue is too faulty equipment."

He said he had discussed the matter with Hydro's security director, Ted Atherton, who said he had not been notified of any RCMP investigation "and he would be the first to be notified."

A Hydro spokesman described the relay that failed as a trouble-sensing device which cuts the circuit by pushing a circuit - breaker into operation when a line goes bad. It works automatically, somewhat like a fuse in a house circuit, to cut off and isolate a malfunctioning line.

WORKED TOO WELL

Robert Hillery, Ontario Hydro director of operations, explained that the primary relay system on the six lines into the Sir Adam Beck No. 2 generating plant at Queenston operated as usual during the blackout.

The relay that failed was a backup device to supplement and take over if the primary system was out. It sensed trouble when there was none—and the 1-2000 of a second caused circuit-breakers to trip the other six lines.

"They all went out," Mr. Strike told the press conference. "The effect was to block Sir Adam Beck No. 2 out of our system." It also sent a surge of 1,600,000 kilowatts into the U.S. grid.

"Protective equipment on the systems in the U.S. also apparently failed to operate and resulted in a major blackout," said Mr. Strike's later statement.

At the time of the incident, Ontario was taking power from New York State and was also circulating power through Ontario, entering from the U.S. at Niagara and returning at Cornwall. This procedure is a normal part of the operation of the NEXUS international grid established 10 years ago.

Mr. Strike said another relay on the tie-in with the eastern States should have gone out at 800,000 volts. But it didn't.

"The relay is not in place to go but through the line to the United States."

ROSARTS BELIEVED

Premier John Robarts, who only last Friday said Ontario should reconsider withdrawing from the international power grid if it was in danger of further blackouts because of the U.S. tie-up, said Monday:

"I am sure the people of Ontario share the relief I feel, that we now know with reasonable accuracy the origin of last week's power failure."

He said the investigations have made it obvious "no searching examination must be made of all equipment as well as the organizations involved. If we are in ensure that there can be no repetition."

Stewart Udall, U.S. secretary of the interior, in Toronto to speak to the Canadian and English clubs, said in an interview he did not feel Ontario was entirely to blame.

The Queenston failure "only triggered" the situation, he said.

Some forecast both counties would learn from "the failures and weaknesses" that were disclosed by the power failures.

Lorne Macdonald, head of the Hydro legal department, said in the interview he was in no position to comment on whether the power commission was liable for damages because of the blackout. He said this possibility has not been discussed.

PUC Will Offer Prizes For Outdoor Lighting During Christmas Season

It has been decided that the Commission will offer prizes for Residential Outdoor Lighting at Christmas time. The proposed prizes are to be electrical appliances and it has been suggested that we have the city divided by the river with similar prizes for each area.

In order to qualify for a prize, it is suggested that:

(a) The decorative display be in operation from dusk until midnight each night from December 6th to December 31st inclusive and the judging be done between 8 p.m. and midnight on a clear night during this period.

(b) The display can be inside or outside the house but must be judged by their outdoor appearance as viewed from the street in front of the house.

(c) The display to qualify must be on the house or grounds that go with the house and owned by the resident or rented by him.

(d) Each individual house shall be considered as a unit and eligible for one prize in each class of lighted display.

(e) To qualify for one of the prizes, the lighting display must be on a bought and lot situated within the boundaries of the city of Belleville.

(f) Commission employees are not eligible to compete.

The prizes are to be awarded on the following basis:

(1) Most spectacular display and

(2) Most original display.

A separate set of prizes will be provided for each area, that is one set for the east side of the river and a separate set for the west side of the river.

The prizes suggested for the two classes of display on each side of the river are as follows:

First Prize—Electric Blanket.
Second Prize—Electric Can Opener.
Honorable Mention—Electric Knife Sharpener.

This would mean at least 13 prizes are to be awarded if the honorable mention display is chosen in each class. There could, however, be more than one prize of this type if in the opinion of the judges the quality of the displays warrants additional prizes.

"The judges are to be chosen by the Commission and their decision will be considered as final.

Land Developer Wants to Build Shopping Centre

A local land developer is seeking a zoning by-law amendment which would allow the construction of a small shopping centre on North Front Street.

The property in question is the lot to the northwest of the intersection of North Front and Donald Street. Mr. A. Storey is requesting the zoning change on behalf of an unnamed principal.

The request has been referred to the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board.

WAYS OF COOKING CARROTS

At the produce counter earnest young shoppers were each stowing a plastic bagful of carrots into their carts. I wondered how the majority of them served them.

Since carrots are plentiful, cheap and popular, I thought some ideas for glamorizing them for family and for guest meals should be welcome.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Homemade Scotch Broth; Puffy Omelette with Mushroom Sauce; Baby Limas; Blanc Mange Pudding with Fresh Frozen Raspberries; Coffee.

CARROTS PIMIENTO (serves 4):

5 large carrots sliced wafer thin (see below), ½ cup hot water, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon accent, 2 to 4 tablespoons chopped canned pimiento, 2 tablespoons finely chopped chives or green onion tops.

Shred the carrots on your broad shallow shredder into wafer-thin slices into a saucepan. Add hot water, butter or margarine, salt and accent. Cover, bring to boil, reduce heat as low as possible and cook about 12 minutes or until tender. All water is absorbed or evaporated and there is nothing to pour down the sink drain. Stir in pimiento and chopped chives or green onion tops, reheat and serve.

CARROT CASSEROLE (serves 6):

(Note: This is excellent for a dinner party for it may be made in advance and refrigerated until mealtime and baked ½ hour before serving time.)

5 medium-sized carrots sliced thin, 1 medium onion sliced thin, 1 lb. cello package spinach (or 1 10-oz. package fresh frozen spinach), 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 table. spoons flour, 1½ cups milk, 1 cup shredded process cheese, packed, ¾ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, ½ to ¾ cup buttered soft bread crumbs.

Cook together the sliced onion and carrots until tender and drain. If spinach is fresh, cook it until nearly tender and drain well and chop. (If spinach is fresh frozen, thaw it.) Make a sauce by melting the butter or margarine, blending in flour, then stirring in milk until thick. Remove from heat and stir in cheese, salt and pepper. Place half of the spinach in bottom of a buttered medium casserole. Cover with half the carrots and onions. Pour over half of the cheese sauce. Repeat these 3 layers. Top with crumbs. (Note: If made in advance, cool and refrigerate at this stage.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 20 minutes or until bubbly and crumbs are golden. (Note: If put in oven cold from refrigerator this dish requires at least 30 minutes baking.)

Festive Fare

"Round the Bureau Kitchen we've been thinking of Christmas for some time now. For Dairy Foods lend themselves naturally to festive dishes with the special homemade flavor and holiday flair that adds to the merriment.

Open House

Delicious eggnog, sold already to serve, makes it easy to welcome friends in large numbers. It's really just a matter of adding a festive touch or two to the punch bowl and cutting some of your very best Christmas cake to go along with it.

Orange Nog

For the younger set, try an orange version of the traditional eggnog: Combine in a large bowl 2 (6-ounce) cans of concentrated frozen orange juice, and 1 quart of milk. Beat well to mix, then add a quart of prepared eggnog. This makes enough for two dozen callers.

Morning Treat

While overnight guests enjoy the luxury of "sleeping in", you'll have plenty of time to fix Holiday Waffles. They're just ordinary waffles topped off with hot cranberry butter. For six, beat together 2 cups cranberry sauce and ¾ cup butter, sweetening if necessary with a little brown sugar. Good on pancakes too, so take your pick!

For the Wee Folks

Cheese sandwiches for lunch are tops with the wee folks and tops with Mom too since they're so good nutritionally. Cookie cutters transform them quickly into Christmas treats that tell of more good things to come!

Pass the Pudding

Deck the Christmas Pudding this year with Holiday Hard Sauce. Divide your regular hard sauce in half and tint red and green. Shape into small bricks, and press together to make a large one. At serving time top hot Christmas pudding with a slice of colored sauce and drizzle with warm vanilla sauce. Looks pretty as the colors melt and mingle!

Ice Cream Snowballs

Parties for the youngsters anytime of the year call for plenty of ice cream. For added Christmas fun roll scoops of ice cream in flaked or shredded coconut and press a small red cake candle into each one. Store in the freezer. Do be sure to dim the lights when you're serving them.

Parents' Role Defined By Child Psychiatrist

In a talk spiked with wit and humor, Dr. John Rich, noted child psychologist and television personality, alternately challenged and reassured an audience of parents gathered in Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital on Monday night.

About 90 parents and 20 student nurses heard Dr. Rich speak on "The parent's role" in the last lecture of the series "Meet your school aged child" sponsored by the Belleville branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Dr. Rich startled his listeners with such unexpected remarks as:

—"No woman can be a good mother to children of all ages."

—"Abandon your first child. Write him off as a dead loss and start fresh to apply what you've learned in your second."

—"Never hit a child except in anger. A quick smack and the whole thing over is better than long drawn out nagging."

The pipe - smoking psychiatrist discussed a multiple of subjects ranging from sex to the future of the human race with complete candor and a candor and a total refusal to take himself or his profession too seriously.

MUST BE MATURE

"Parents must be sufficiently mature so as not to compete with kids as brothers or sisters" he said. They must be confident enough of themselves to be able to say to heck with the advice of grandparents, neighbors and psychiatrists."

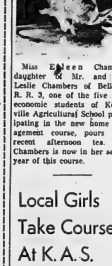
Today's society is not based on the family, Dr. Rich contends. It is based on the factory. Job transfers and increased mobility have resulted in what he calls the "nuclear family" consisting of father, mother and children. Gone are the nearby relatives and close friends who gave the child a chance to know many types of parents.

"Dad is a man who is away all day and comes home grumpy," he continued. "How can a boy model himself in a meaningful way on that?"

The wife and children in a nuclear family are more vulnerable than the husband, who belongs to a bigger work family. The vulnerability of the nuclear family is a problem for society to solve. Parents alone cannot find a substitute for the old interdependant tribal family, now disappearing in this country.

"Parents can help their adolescent children with advice far less than formerly." Dr. Rich said. "Because of automation, kids are told they will have to retrain twice in their lifetime. Learning is temporary. At the same time, their guidance teachers urge them to stay in school and to get more education. In a modern city household, life doesn't grind to a halt, as it did years ago on farms, when a kid fails to do his chores. Today's teen-agers feel useless, confused. The result is frustration, vandalism and apparent irresponsibility. Society must find some useful, meaningful work for teen-agers to do."

TYPES OF FAMILIES



Dr. Rich described the three types of families and the kind of children they produce. Children who grow up in a democratic family show originality, are serene and become leaders in adult life. Indulgent parents turn out uncreative, uncertain children. Rejecting parents rear stubborn, depressed and rebellious youngsters.

"When you're working with children, the speaker said, "you just can't win."

Dr. Rich's lecture concluded the current lecture series. Next Tuesday evening parents who wish to discuss and assess the lectures have the opportunity to meet informally in Education Hall under the leadership of Judith Sule of Toronto. Mrs. Sule is Ontario Division representative for the Canadian Mental Health Association and a skilled and experienced discussion leader.

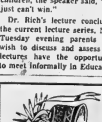
MAY RATE GADGETS

Officials of 30 countries, including Canada, are trying to work out a standard method of rating the performance of electrical household appliances.

Miss Eileen Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Chambers of Belleville R. R. 3, one of the five home economic students of Kemptville Agricultural School participating in the new home management course, pours at a recent afternoon tea. Miss Chambers is now in her second year of this course.

Local Girls Take Course At K. A. S.

Two Belleville girls, Eileen Chambers and Nancy Waites along with nine other students are participating in a home economics program at Kemptville Agricultural School. This course is normally available to college and university students at degree level.



"Leahurst" which, was a former residence of Kemptville Agricultural School principals has been converted into a dormitory for eleven girls and a dean, to house the overflow of Home Economic students from the main residence, which is upstairs. The lower floor of the residence had been converted into a complete living residence, to house senior students taking part in a new phase of the home economics course.

Five girls move into the house and alternate positions as manager, waitress, cook, assistant cook and housekeeper, for the period of occupancy. The girls are required to attend all classes while managing the house.

A tea for staff members was held recently at the residence and was in charge of the first five participants which included the two local girls, who are both graduates of Quinte Secondary School.

Women's Institutes

QUINTE W.I.

The regular meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute was held in the Memorial Hall, Dundas Street East, on Tuesday afternoon with 21 members and one visitor present.

The president, Mrs. Charles Wood, opened the meeting in the usual manner and welcomed everyone present.

The group leaders for historical research and current events Mrs. Bedell and Mrs. Sharpe took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Sharpe gave an interesting report of current events during the past year, and reminded everyone of some important events and finished projects, which had taken place in and about the city.

Mrs. Ralph Sills, curator for The Tweedsmuir Histories, gave a most interesting talk and first reminded the members of November 11th as Remembrance Day and the preservation of the memories connected with it. A "White Cross Mother," Mrs. E. Bedell, a valued member of the Institute, was present. Mrs. Sills suggested that each woman select a hobby, one that she will enjoy as it is most beneficial to her mental health, the busy woman is the most happy and contented. The importance of the family history is a project that each family should be busy with, while there are older members to give the valued information that is needed.

The members appreciated Mrs. Sills' interesting talk and presented her with a small gift. Correspondence was read by secretary Mrs. Robert Atkins.

It was decided that the Institute purchase $5 worth of Christmas gifts from a church bazaar and donate them to the Cobourg Mental Health Institution.

Mrs. D. Atkins was appointed delegate to the area convention. There was a discussion on the resolutions presented by the different Institutes in the area to be voted on at the Area Convention.

Lunch was served by the conveners and committee in charge and a social half hour enjoyed.

A successful euchre party was sponsored by the Quinte Women's Institute at the Memorial Hall on Friday evening of last week. The hostess for the evening was Mrs. Harry Grills.

The prizes were won by the following: ladies: Mrs. Vickers, Mrs. Ruth Clarke; consolation, Mrs. Feeney. Men's: George Little, Melvin Wannamaker, consolation, Mrs. Dowdle (playing as a man) and draw prize, Mr. McNish.

Successful Living

Says Don't Press Hand-holding Now

DEAR DORIS: I'm 23, have a university education and a good job, but I don't have any success with girls because of my looks.

DORIS CLARK

Ever since I was very young I've felt the bitter reward of being plain-looking and decided then that if girls couldn't like me for my looks I'd make them like me for my disposition. As a result I have developed what some people have called a super personality. Everybody likes me. I'm the most popular fellow in the office and make friends almost instantly with everyone I meet.

The few girls I have been out with were fine at the affairs but most of them squirmed almost automatically at the idea of kissing me goodnight or even hand-holding. I have many, many girls for my "friends," but they sure can cook up some fancy excuses when I ask them out.

What I want to know, Doris, is if it would be foolish for me to go to a plastic surgeon and have him try and make me better looking, like they do in Hollywood. I don't want to be Rock Hudson but just a guy a girl doesn't have to lose a flip of a coin to go with. — HOMELY HANK.

DEAR HANK: Even in Hollywood, beauty is only skin-deep. Have you noticed how often the glamorous romances of movie actors are followed by divorce?

If you have features which are irregular, there is no law against seeing a plastic surgeon. Girls — and boys — are getting noses and chins rearranged regularly. But the disposition which makes people like you will always stand you in good stead.

Just don't press the hand-holding until the girl you like begins to love you for that deeper-than-skin charm of yours.

DEAR DORIS: I am very interested in radio electronics. I have been saving my money and have decided to start up a ham radio set.

I have looked for information on this subject such as: cost of a set, where one could buy a set or the parts and instructions to buy and build by myself, what are the requirements to obtain an operator's license and where one could get this license. — RADIO NUT.

DEAR NUT: I'm sending you the name of a book about being a ham radio operator. Officially this service is "Amateur Experimental Service"; a service "operated for self training, intercommunication and technical investigations."

For a license, you apply to the Federal Department of Transport, Telecommunications and Electronics Branch, Ottawa. To become active in the service you pass an examination, after qualifying as a British subject over 15 years of age; or a landed immigrant proceeding to citizenship within a limited time.

The Emergency Measures Organization still fails back on ham operators in some cases where communities are isolated by disaster. Such a hobby is a great experience in electronics and in making friends all over the continent. All over the world, too, I'm told, when conditions are right.

Confidential to DON'T KNOW: No. I do not feel that potting is right between steadies of any age. Sex is not "dirty", but it is too precious to make it a means of pleasurable sensation. Your boy friend is indulging himself, rather than showing any consideration or real love in urging such ideas.

DEAR DORIS — (1) If you were asked to go in your boy friend's place for a visit, would it be wise to take a gift for him? or for his parents? If so, what?

(2) I'd also like to know the meaning of all the roses, such as red, yellow, white, etc.

(3) Who buys the man's wedding band? — POSIES.

DEAR POSIES — (1) You take a gift to your hostess — his mother; flowers, a plant, a book, cup and saucer, or chocolates.

(2) A red rose is for love, yellow for jealousy, white for purity. There are books on the language of flowers in most libraries.

(3) The lady who puts it on his finger — the bride.

DEAR DORIS: Thanks to your inquiry I have a beautiful calla lily begonia again. Mrs. S. sent me not only slips of that plant but of other plants as well.

It is indeed cheering in these days of confusion and tensions to have such kind consideration from people like yourself and Mrs. S. — PLANT LOVER.

DEAR PLANT LOVER: Glad to know about your Happy Ending. People are kinder than anybody.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BEGONIA: There is nothing terribly abnormal about the behavior you describe. Perhaps we should classify it as a bad habit. With regard to the other part of the situation, I could suggest helpful reading for you if you could pick up my letter yourself at the General Delivery wicket. I could also go into more detail in a private letter. Write again.

Not Even Pretty Nurses Can Use Water to Excess In Hospitals in Viet Nam

By PETER ARNETT

QUI NHON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Feminine squeals resounded from the thatch-walled still house.

"Hey, please turn the water back on," was one cry. Another moaned: "I've still got soap all over me. Let me wash it off."

Under the rules of the U.S. Army's 85th Evacuation Hospital, not even pretty nurses could get more than the allotted shower each day.

A senior officer explained: "I've told them time and again. Thirty seconds of shower to wet up, a 30-second break to soap themselves down, then another 30 seconds of water to wash all the soap off."

The cries continued from the shower room. The army engineer who controlled the pump could withstand the entreaties no longer.

"I'll give you 10 more seconds," he shouted through the walls. A chorus of delighted cries lasted until he turned the water off.

Then the nurses, most of them in their early 20s, trooped out in raincoats and sandals. By the time they had reached their tents 200 yards away, across a sea of sand, they were just as hot and dusty again.

LACKS GLAMOR

"Really," said one as she flopped on her canvas cot, perspiration gathering on her brow, "isn't there any glamor to war any more?"

Rationed water is just one of the realities of field life that the nurses are having to adjust to.

They fought and won a battle to have their tents lined with floorboards.

But they eat breakfast, lunch and dinner with the 34 doctors and male nurses anywhere they can find a seat. Their hospital still has no mess hall.

For many of the 39 nurses at the hospital, Viet Nam came as a shock.

Even when they got the news they were coming to Viet Nam, most remained optimistic—possibly spurred by Nellie Forbush, the nurse in South Pacific who won a handsome French plaster on a Pacific island in the Second World War.

Why else did each girl bring over two trunks of pretty dresses?

The only chance they had to wear them was on the troopship in August.

DON'T NEED DRESSES

"I've already sent one trunk back to the states," said Lieut. Elisabeth Lemieux of Rockford, Ill. "I'll get the other home later this year."

The other nurses are sadly taking a last look at the creations they used to wear at army bases back home.

Standard attire here is fatigues.

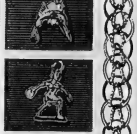
"What would a French planter see in me?" asked one nurse as she tried to keep her khaki fatigue blouse tucked in. There are plenty of French planters around Viet Nam ill the tea, rubber, coffee and sugar plantations, but none has come to call.

Most of the nurses are young. Some are philosophical.

Some of the nurses dislike being in Viet Nam and do not hesitate to say so. But this has not impaired their work, the doctors say.

Some doctors, however, have doubts about the effectiveness of female nurses on the war front.

"I often wonder here if the nurses' tranquilizer value is less effective than their frictional influence," said one doctor.



He apparently was trying to say that demands for better living quarters and amenities are an upsetting influence.

Winnipeg Girl Surprised at Winning Title

TORONTO (CP)—"It was the most exciting moment of my life. I couldn't believe it was really me," said brown-eyed Diane Landry, named Sunday as Miss Canada 1958.

"I never thought I'd be chosen," said the 20-year-old business student from Winnipeg. "I really got a tremendous surprise."

At a press conference Monday, Miss Canada appeared fresh and vivacious after sleeping only four hours. She told reporters:

"I was so excited, I just couldn't get to sleep. I tossed and turned for hours."

A slim, 35-23½-35½ brunette, her large brown eyes wide with excitement, Miss Landry said she originally entered the contest to further her singing career.

"I have been singing for four years and playing the piano for six. When I was chosen Miss Manitoba in June, I decided to enter the contest in Toronto, mostly for the experience and the chance to meet people."

Miss Landry received a $1,000 scholarship $5,000 in cash, other gifts and awards totalling about $20,000 and a world tour.

FRIENDLY FILE

Dear Susanna: I recently converted my address book to a card index file. What an improvement! When friends and acquaintances move or extra names are to be added, it's so pleasant just to make out a new card.

For anyone who is unhappy with their type of address listings, this is certainly the right time of year to revise the system and have it all tickety-boo for Christmas addressing.

Another marvelous innovation was the purchase of an inexpensive date stamp. When I send out Christmas cards I start at the front of my file. As I write the envelopes I stamp each file card with the year. After Christmas I indicate who has sent me cards by stamping the word "Rec'd." right beside the year.

I use these cards as well to keep a record of special occasions, anniversaries, and other information I might want to have at my fingertips. — No Name Please.

Here, also, is the perfect place to register the idiosyncrasies of friends and relatives: i.e. (a) Uncle Harry isn't keen about green (especially green ties). (b) Roger's boss is a glutton for mutton (have plenty of mint sauce). O.K.? —Susanna.

TEAMWORK

Dear Susanna: It was a miserable day and I had my four-year-old grandson to look after. While hunting for something to amuse him I discovered a shoe box and a large old package of Christmas seals.

I sat him on the kitchen table with a little water in a saucer, into which he dipped his fingers. He had a fine time and decorated the box nicely. He carried it home with great pride to use as a storage garage for his tiny cars and trucks.

You never saw a boy so pleased — and needless to say it saved the morning for me — I got my whole kitchen tidied and cleaned. — Grandma Smith

VOW Will Step Up Campaign

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. C. B. Macpherson, national president of the Voice of Women, said at a press conference Monday that the organization plans to step up its campaign to get members of Parliament to express themselves on international problems.

She said the pacifist group has urged its 4,000 members to ask their members of Parliament to state their views on the war in Viet Nam, United Nations recognition of Communist China, radioactive fallout, disarmament and the sale of war toys.

Dr. Ursula Franklin, physicist consultant to the organization, said not enough information is available on the effect of radioactive fallout on children. She said she disagrees strongly with the federal health department's stand that the danger is negligible.

Mrs. Macpherson said the external affairs department and the Peking government have shown considerable interest in the organization's plans to act as host to a group of women from Communist China — perhaps by 1967.

Candidates Are in Hot Pursuit of Woman's Vote

By PETER BUCKLEY

PARIS (CP)—The women of France may be accustomed by tradition to being wooed, but mainly not by politicians.

There's a big change, however, in the campaign for the Dec. 5 presidential election. Both government and opposition spokesmen are out in hot pursuit of the women's vote for the first time.

And even more remarkable in a predominantly Roman Catholic country, birth control is the issue that started the politicians' new-found courtship.

Despite a national affection for rich women of history—as Joan of Arc, France only saw fit to give women the vote in 1945. Political tech is not organized, even then, that women would vote the way their husbands advised them and they were often right. Men believed —and were not shy about saying it publicly—that French women were incapable of deciding anything beyond the seasoning in their next ragout.

President Charles de Gaulle and the advent of the public opinion poll changed all that.

Voting figures show there are almost 10 per cent more women than men among the nearly 28,000,000 registered voters in France. And the polls found that the women's vote was decisive in the massive support given President de Gaulle during the series of referendums he held since he came to power in 1958.

STUMBLED ON ISSUE

Long before the present election campaign gained momentum, political leaders were reported casting about for ways to attract the distaff vote. Something more effective seemed necessary than mere praise of women's role in the home, the politicians' traditional concession to women voters.

Addressing a political rally in October at the town of Nevers, Mitterand accidentally suggested that a 1920 law forbidding dissemination of contraceptive devices should be repealed.

The response was immediate and overwhelmingly favorable, talking even Mitterand by surprise. His mail swelled overnight and the other candidates began grabbing for positions.

One of de Gaulle's ministers told the National Assembly in Paris the next day that a special commission would study the various methods of birth control and report back.

Two other candidates, both Catholics like Mitterand, expressed public satisfaction that the Vatican had ordered a study of the whole problem while indicating they didn't favor the 1920 law.

Since then, statements from political platforms and interested groups have been getting front-page attention in France's newspapers. A massive public debate has started and the interest shows no sign of waning.

FAVOR REPEAL

Public opinion polls show women are keenly interested in the topic and about 65 per cent favor repealing the law.

The 1920 statute says bluntly: "There will be a penalty of from one to six months in prison and a fine of from 100 to 5,000 francs (about $20 to $1,000) for anyone who, for purposes of contraceptive propaganda, describes or divulges or offers to reveal the procedures necessary to prevent pregnancy, or to facilitate the use of these procedures."

However, a family - planning movement has been gathering strength in France for the last 10 years, establishing a chain of clinics which distribute information, including a formidable list of doctors ready to assist with birth control material or advice. The law has taken no action.

Since the latest discussion began, family planning spokesmen estimated publicly there are between 500,000 and 1,000,000 abortions a year in France—roughly equivalent to the number of legitimate births.

They scoffed at a statement by former Gaullist premier Michel Debre that widespread contraception would mean the extinction of France as a nation.

Whether or not the current debate brings a change in the law against contraceptives, it is almost certain to bring a new interest for women in the political life of France.

Having had their favor sought so ardently from the platforms, they are unlikely to be content to return to their kitchens in total indifference to the issues the next time their political opinion is sought.

Ann Landers

Honesty No Excuse For Viciousness

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Does anyone really want an honest opinion? I am beginning to think they do not.

My brother-in-law who lost his wife two years ago asked me for my opinion of the woman he has been dating. I told him I thought she was a loud, vulgar, mouthy-bunny shrew and that if he married her she will wring him out like a pair of cotton socks, toss him aside and go on to the next sucker.

ANN LANDERS

Instead of thanking me for my honesty he gave me a withering look and said, "Well, if that's the way you feel about Amelia I'll see that my name is removed from the wedding list.

Now my husband is furious with me. This brother is his favorite and he says we will never be invited in their house. I repeat my question: Does it pay to be honest? — CANNOT LIE.

DEAR CANNOT: There's a vast difference between being honest and chopping people into hamburger. Cruel and vicious remarks masked as "an honest opinion" fool no one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I promised myself the next time you did it I would write to you and today is the day. Please, please stop suggesting volunteer work as therapy for crazy, mixed-up dames.

Women who are capable of performing a real service to the community don't need to be told to join anything. They are right in there pitching and doing a wonderful job.

It's easy to spot disturbed women who volunteer not because they want to serve, but because they need something to do. They are high-strung, irritable, and trouble-makers. It takes five times as long to train them as it does to train the others. Then they drop out because they can't get along with their co-workers or the work doesn't turn out to be the cure-all they had hoped for.

So please, Annie, don't do us any favors. Send the disturbed women to doctors not to us. — G.

DEAR G.: Perhaps you have a point, but it does seem to me that there is a volunteer job for every pair of willing hands and strong feet—even if they belong to a high-strung, irritable woman.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Eight of us girls get together every two weeks to play cards. One of the girls who has been married three years announced in April she was expecting a baby on October 12th. Well, on August 18th she gave birth. Her child weighed 6 lbs. 8 ounces and had a full head of hair. She made a point of explaining to everyone that the baby was premature.

Please tell us how the world a premature baby can weigh more than most nine month babies? When we told her she must have miscalculated the date of birth, she stubbornly insisted that she did no such thing.

Since this woman is so obstinate we decided to ask you to check out the facts and settle the argument. — SEVEN DISBELIEVERS.

DEAR SEVEN: It is unusual for a premature baby to be so large but it is not unheard of. What baffles me is not the size of the child, but the size of your interest. Why do you dames concern yourselves with such trivia?

factory in late summer, when contact was made by the industrial commissioners.

Mr. Kneisel took company officials on a district tour while endeavoring to convince them of a Belleville location.

"He spent a lot of time with me and a lot of gas showing me Belleville and the countryside and getting me the facts that helped me make a decision," Mr. Turner told members of the industrial commission last night.

PRIME LOCATION

The Belleville plant will be in a prime location for transport service. Near the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway, it is adjacent to CNR facilities and two newly-built road transport company terminals.

Following a press conference with company principals the commission marked the event with a reception for city council.

"We are expanding in Canada—and are now looking forward to being in Belleville," Mr. Turner told councillors in a brief speech.

"I can assure you we're going to be good citizens."

One of the motive forces for the company's decision was Belleville's location.

The city is between Montreal and Toronto—and Quebec is a prime market area for Gossard.

Attending last evening's short — but sweet (for the commission) — event was Ross Radford, chief of the Ontario Department of Economics and Development branch plants division.

The conference was hosted by commission chairman J. C. (Pat) Houston.

England Will Be Topic At Kiwanis Travelogue

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville will present Dr. Charles Forbes Taylor speaking on the topic "There'll Always Be An England" as the 2nd program of its "Travel and Adventure Series." Dr. Taylor will appear on Thursday evening at 8:15 p.m. in R.C.I. auditorium.

Dr. Charles Forbes Taylor's first appearance before a large audience was at the age of four. His interest in photography began at 16, when he photographed the burning steamship "Congress" on which he and his father were passengers, after climbing down rope ladders into lifeboats. His pictures were published by newspapers all over the world. He changed to film making in 1935 and since then has photographed Europe, America the South Pacific, the Near East, South America, Alaska and Hawaii. He holds several university degrees, and has written more than nine books.

From the Druid ceremonies at Stonehenge to ultra-modern London buildings, Dr. Charles Forbes Taylor establishes his claim that there will always be an England. The Druids, Stonehenge, William the Conqueror, Knights of the Round Table and the Magna Carta precede England's coming of age; the Elizabethan Age, a time of greatness. Although not overlooking its beginnings, Charles Forbes Taylor's color film about Great Britain tells the story of England from Elizabeth I to the present. It investigates Shakespearean country heritage, the Devonshire hills, the famous cliffs of Dover, folk festivals, colorful pageantry of Royalty, sailing of the pilgrims and their struggle for liberty and many of the facets of Britannia, the "Sceptered Isle". The English people, forerunners of our own democracy, are building a whole new civilization. Though written off by some, England, as shown by Dr. Taylor, is far from dead. The viewers will see that it is still a cornerstone of freedom in the world today, and forges constantly onward.

Arizona on President Johnson's jet plane and decided to rest after the five-hour flight and an appearance at a jam-packed reception where they met the Washington, press corps.

Their entrance to the capital for a three-day visit came at dusk and the half-hour motorcade ride from Andrews Air Force Base stopped rush-hour traffic.

The Princess made her entrance into Washington wearing a midnight blue velvet sleeveless dress and jacket by a leading London designer, Belinda Bellville. With it, she wore a Duge sapphire and diamond brooch, double strand pearl necklace, pearl and diamond earrings, a full length mink coat and a hat of pheasant feathers, designed by Simone Mirman.

So far on their three-week U.S. tour which began Nov. 4 in San Francisco, the Princess and her husband reported they had been most impressed by the view of the Grand Canyon from their low-flying plane.

Mrs. Johnson was invited to a British embassy luncheon today and the Johnsons planned a dinner dance for the royal visitors at the White House this evening. Both are descendants of Queen Victoria of England from Elizabeth I to the present. It investigates Shakespearean country heritage, the Devonshire hills, the famous cliffs of Dover, folk festivals, colorful pageantry of Royalty, sailing of the pilgrims and their struggle for liberty and many of the facets of Britannia, the "Sceptered Isle". The English people, forerunners of our own democracy, are building a whole new civilization. Though written off by some, England, as shown by Dr. Taylor, is far from dead. The viewers will see that it is still a cornerstone of freedom in the world today, and forges constantly onward.

The Princess and Lord Snowdon were leisurely for more than an hour Sunday in the rope course at the press function.

They chatted and shook hands with scores under the hot lights of television and other cameras.

One gift tendered by the Nikita, the Soviet Women's National Press Clubs, were calling books and crayons for the royal couple's two children.

About 25 persons picketed the entrance to the hotel where the royal party was held, calling for force to stop Rhodesia's declaration of independence. But police had removed the pickets back before the royal couple arrived.

Socred —

appointing Mr. Hays to the Senate from where he could join the cabinet as minister without portfolio.

He was vitally tied up with a number of Conservative programs before his electoral defeat in Calgary South. In the cabinet he could keep a close eye shepherd some of his programs.

Electing Mr. Olson into the Liberal caucus would have the additional advantage of giving the Liberals a more moderate majority of 133. They have the support of 132 Commons members now including a Quebec independent.

However, even with 133 supporting them, it is not the guarantee the election of a Speaker to preside in the 265-seat Commons, Conservatives and Socreds are of the woods. Normally a government supporter is nominated as Commons Speaker and only he votes only in case of a tie.

Sources say one thing does seem fairly certain in a situation where just about everything is the reverse—Forestry Minister Sauvé, heavily defeated agriculture minister, appears unlikely to get the job.

The agriculture portfolio is unlikely to go to a Quebec province member when it has been the private preserve of the west for so long.

Another possibility is Bruce Beer, farmer and parliamentary secretary to Mr. Hays in the last house. But he has the disadvantage of representing an Ontario riding, Peel.

The eventual choice may be none of these. In any event, Prime Minister Pearson has been seeing a number of what have been termed "influential people" apparently as part of the process is set up a new cabinet.

Besides agriculture, Mr. Pearson must fill the labour and finance portfolios. Mines will left vacant by the defeat of J. Watson MacNaught and Walter Gordon resigned from finance.

One official close to the government said the Liberal cabinet clearly needs a "strong, new image" to face Parliament when it convenes Jan. 18.

On this basis it appears industrialist Robert Winters, who captured York West in the, Toronto area in a successful political comeback, would be in it.

The decisions are up to Mr. Pearson. But he'll be in New York for much of this week. Sources indicate that as a result the expected series of changes will be delayed until next week at the earliest.

ROAD WORK FOR PRESIDENT—Zambia's President Kenneth Kaunda hacks at the roots of a tree on a road-widening project at Serenje, about 200 miles from the capital of Lusaka. Kaunda and his cabinet ministers spent a day on the job. The road work, near the spot where explorer David Livingstone died, was to support the government's campaign to get the people to work harder. (CP Photo)

Zambian President Idolized by People

Zambia's Kenneth Kaunda is among African leaders idolized by their people as heroes for having led them to independence. Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween describes reaction to Kaunda as he travelled to Serenje to work on a highway-building project

BY JOSEPH MacSWEEN

SERENJE, Zambia (CP)—Foliage fluttered in the hands of grandpax, grandmas, poppas, mommas and tots.

Cheer after cheer rose from the throats of enraptured tribesfolk here. The tropical evening came alive with joy for families who had travelled many miles—ox - foot, bicycles and trucks—and waited through the day at the parched, dusty airstrip.

For many, this was the greatest moment of their lives: They were seeing for the first time in their flesh their beloved leader, President Kenneth David Kaunda, 41, of Zambia, the former Northern Rhodesia.

The familiar figure—his picture was known to all—stripped from his aircraft, waving the big white handkerchief that has been his symbol of greeting since pre-independence days.

New roars of welcome swelled to the cloudless sky. The foliage, everything from big green branches to twigs, descending on the strength of the holder, became a waving forest as Kaunda, smiling happy, moved forward to be greeted by dignitaries and to touch the hands of the people.

The scene was typical of the exuberance with which Africans, exulting in their newfound nationhood, greet their favorite prime ministers and presidents in these days of uhuru (freedom).

CAME TO WORK

One nation, one party, one leader! minor politicians shouted, urging the faithful to even greater fervor.

Kaunda, however, had come to Serenje, some 200 miles from the Zambian capital of Lusaka and near the Congo border, not for a party rally but—to work on the road.

Early the next morning the young president, in white overalls and kneeboots, marched off to the highway job with his cabinet ministers as an example to his people.

They sang a Bemba tribal song in the language of Kaunda's youth: "To eat to Kaunda's youth: "To eat we must work." Kaunda's justice minister stood up another time to discourage slackers: "Let us rescue the lazy ones."

"We're always urging the people to work hard," Kaunda said later at a roadside press conference. "We must, since we're working ministers, not talking ministers."

When it was recalled that a man - eating lion killed 20 persons in the work area some years ago, Kaunda replied: "All the more reason why we should open this district."

MONTHS WITHOUT RAIN

The ministers toiled during a long hot Sunday, knocking down trees in a curious—fashion, by clearing away the earth with hoes and then hacking at the roots. They were widening the road which passes a few miles from where explorer David Livingstone died.

"How long since it rained here?" one worker was asked as choking dry dust rose from the tree roots.

"Five months ago," was the reply.

Local chiefs presented Kaunda with a hoe and axe in appreciation of his efforts. Although the expedition had light hearted moments, it pointed up the no-nonsense approach of the president to his job and the seemingly endless hours he spends at it.

Back at his desk in Lusaka, Kaunda returned to the theme of example, remarking: "It doesn't help for us to talk to our people about hard work if we ourselves retreat to the comforts of state houses or ministerial homes. I think we've got to demonstrate as well as talk about hard work."

Medicare

over his statement about the other two — universality and whether it may be governmentoperated or letting private carriers have a role.

In Calgary during the campaign, Mr. Pearson said "perhaps 95 per cent (of the population) should be covered in two or three years" and indicated the provinces might be allowed to delegate medical administration to a private agency.

DISPLEASES DOUGLAS

NDP Leader Douglas charged Mr. Pearson was throwing out the window the principle of making the plan available to everyone, and was giving a role to profit-making, private insurance companies.

Health department informants say coverage of all is still the aim. But this will be possible only over a period of time as was the case with hospital insurance.

To allow time for enrolment, the provinces at first were required to cover only 85 per cent of the population with hospital insurance, with 95 per cent being covered within five years. This formula was proposed by Leslie Frost, then premier of Ontario, and the 85 per cent-to-95 per cent of the population now is covered.

Although Mr. Pearson's campaign statements left doubts about who might operate a provincially-administered plan, informants here say the private insurance companies will not be major participants.

Private agencies, such as nonprofit, doctor - sponsored plans now in operation, could be used by some provinces to administer the scheme, they say. Governments would supervise them and audit the books.

The finance minister's offer is to pay half the cost of a medical care insurance program covering all provincial costs. He wants it operating by July 1, 1967.

He later offered $500,000,000 in federal money over a 15-year period to provide medical, dental and related hospital research and training facilities.

An ad hoc committee, composed of representatives from the federal and provincial governments and six private organizations, has drafted a report on how this fund might be set up and the money spent.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh is to send this report to the provinces soon after she receives it, and at the same time suggest a date for a meeting about the fund and medicare itself.

Like brother-president Julius Nyerere of neighboring Tanzania, Kaunda is a former school teacher. Born at a Church of Scotland mission, he is the son of an ordained minister who had become a tribal chief. Kaunda's mission, he is the son of an ordained minister who had become a tribal chief. Kaunda's father was a religious zealot who, during crossing relations with hostile neighbors in the south-central African cockpit, he declared: "We base our approach to human problems on the principle that all of us are human beings, children of one God, and that's all there is to it."

Government heads anywhere have a heavy work schedule but in Africa they have particular problems in that the young countries are short of experienced personnel. Hence the load may fall heavier on the men at the top.

"I have found to my sorrow that if he gets behind schedule 15 minutes on Monday, he will be behind schedule all week," said a Kaunda aide.

Kaunda, however, gave an inkling into how African leaders, despite the work load, manage to enjoy a bit of family life. He and his wife Betty, married since 1946, have nine children, including twins.

"Every time I go for days without seeing my children at all, although we are in the same house, the expedition had a touch of sadness, noting his work day averages 15 to 18 hours.

"My first - born came back from school, I think eight or 10 days ago, and I only met him for the first time today at lunch."

Kaunda gave a rich deep chuckle: "Yes, it's very bad indeed. I must say I'm very happy with my kids when I see them, though. They all understand and are very good to me, my wife and children."

U.S. Expects Grain Surplus Will Be at an End by 1970

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States warned Monday that it expects developing countries to meet more and more of their food needs from their own resources.

U.S. surpluses may not be equal to the task in a few years, it was suggested.

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman told the annual farm outlook conference that the U.S. expects to have ended its grain surplus by 1970.

Raymond Ioanes, administrator of the agriculture department's foreign agriculture service, said the U.S. should not be expected to meet any large future increase in global food needs.

The "bulk of any such attack" ought to come from the needy nations themselves, Ioanes said during a panel discussion.

MUST CONTINUE

Food assistance must continue for some time, Ioanes suggested, but it must be a mixture of aid to stimulate domestic output in food-short countries.

He also said that while the U.S. regrets Rhodesia's action in breaking with Britain, it is a "hard-nosed fact" that Britain will need alternative sources of farm products in a year or two unless a solution is found.

He mentioned sugar and British tobacco needs of up to $75,000,000 worth annually.

Farm exports as a whole may total a record $6,200,000,000 worth for the year ending next June 30, he said, with world demand for better diets a primary cause.

Another element "perhaps overshadowing all the rest in interest is east-west trade."

The pattern of Communist grain purchases, chiefly by Russia, had shattered previous theories of one-shot deals for Canada and other exporters. But the future still wasn't clear.

Ioanes said however that no large demands seem to exist right now and prospects for U.S. wheat exports, while good, weren't as bright as those for feed grains or soybeans and products.

Freeman, in opening the conference, said U.S. wheat output could, if necessary, be doubled in two years, with most of the increase in the first year, by throwing 50,000,000 acres of retired crop land back into use.

Cause of Death Is Determined

NE WYORK (AP)—The death of newspaper columnist Dorothy Kilgallen was caused by the combination of moderate quantities of alcohol and barbiturates, the medical examiner's office reported Monday.

Dr. James Luke, assistant examiner reported that Miss Kilgallen died of "acute ethanol (alcohol) and barbiturate intoxication." He said the quantities of alcohol and of barbiturates in her bloodstream were not excessive, but the combination caused a fatal "depression of the central nervous system."

Her Excellency Madame Georges P. Vanier receives the first sheet of 1965 Tuberculosis Christmas Seals from Miss Caroline Dorenfeld. Last summer this eight year old volunteer spent part of her holidays helping her local tuberculosis association by folding seals. Here she demonstrates to Her Excellency how she went about it. Her Excellency officially launched the campaign today with a television and radio message to the country.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Bob Temple, having shed the toga of politics, lost no time in getting back into the ranks of the Romans of sports.

The ink was scarcely dry on the final returns of the recent election, than Bob announced to this agent that "The Bobcats will be back in softball next year."

"Already," Bob said, "some players have said they will be back in the Bobcats' fold next season. I hope to field as good a team as we had in former years."

Softball, despite a shadow cast over it in the latter stages, had a good season last year—and efforts will be made, I'm told, to produce as good a league next year.

The Belleville Bobcats should be as in former years, a decided asset to whatever league is formed.

Time was, and this is unusual for a sponsor, when Bob donned the habiliments of the softball wars and joined the ranks of his Bobcat warriors in city league battle.

He was the "Elston Howard" of his Cats and while topflight scouts didn't seek his services he compared favorably to the catchers of the era.

During his tenure as a sponsor Bob did not spare the time and money as the "sugar daddy" of the club. In fact when the final tabs came in, not least was one from the family physician at hospital.

Four times the injury jinx perched on the Temple shoulder and as many times it struck him down.

Among other physical setbacks he collected a dislocated neck; lost four teeth with 28 lip stitches and suffered an eye injury.

In spike of these he was one of the few sponsors of the city to bring home an all-Ontario championship. His Cats won the Intermediate "AA" title some six or seven years ago.

"MUSH" CALLS IT

"Unless," opined Mushmouth guzzling a beaker of eel-clam juice in his Zwick's Island cavern, "the officials pull another Brinks job on the Ottawa Rough Riders next Saturday, I think the Grey Cup fandango will be a repeat of the 1948 bootcanny when the Calgary Stampeders and the Rough Riders and their fans ushered in the first great national hangover."

"That statement will draw snarls of disdain and whatnot from the Pussy-cat pair that haunts your news room daily. Oh well, the only Tiger roars you'll hear next week will come from gasoline tanks and detergent boxes on the living room square-face.."

"Yup," he went on. "The Calgary Stamps should cop the second one against the Blue Bombers in time to get their chuck-wagons, six-guns and flap-jack flippers ready for good ole Tawrawuk while the Rough Riders should toss that five-point deficit back in the Tigers' maw and add a few for good measure."

"That's mush crystal ball speakin' now and the ole glam-eye has been pretty consistent lately. Ask those Chuvalo fans you have up there in the ballwick."

Mushmouth, to the contrary, there never has nor ever will be a Grey Cup hassle to compare with the 1948 inaugural of the now famous season's end spectacular.

Who will forget "Buck" (the mayor) McCallum riding his western "Silver" along the main canyons while yippee-I-ay cowpokes flipped flap-jacks on the city hall steps.

The square-dancing outside the Royal York at four ayem and drug-store cowboys trying to log away everything that wasn't nailed.

The gorgeous western costumes worn by fans from the oil-fields and prairies, with proud young western beauties with one foot on the bar-rail quipping "sarsparilla straight." Or hogs "Sugarfoot" Anderson and Keith Strode immaculate in all-white western costumes the cynosure of all eyes in the press club.

It's a far cry from that Grey Cup game in 1929 when the Hamilton-Regina tilt produced a loss of $13.92. The gross gate was $2,787.70.

This year over 32,000 fans will contribute $365,612 (paying $6 to $12) just to see who will keep it next year. And $300,000 will be paid for TV, radio and film rights.

Saskys' Reed Canada's Top Player

MONTREAL (CP)—Fullback George Reed of Saskatchewan Rough Riders today was named the outstanding football player in Canada.

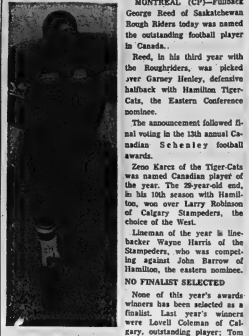
Reed, in his third year with the Roughriders, was picked over Garney Henley, defensive halfback with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, the Eastern Conference nominee.

The announcement followed final voting in the 13th annual Canadian Schenley football awards.

Zeno Karcz of the Tiger-Cats was named Canadian player of the year. The 29-year-old end, in his 10th season with Hamilton, won over Larry Robinson of Calgary Stampeders, the choice of the West.

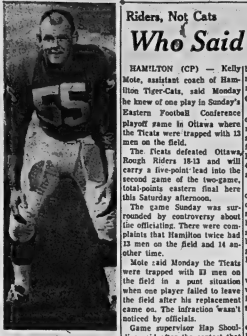
Lineman of the year is linebacker Wayne Harris of the Stampeders, who was competing against John Barrow of Hamilton, the eastern nominee.

NO FINALIST SELECTED



None of this year's awards winners has been selected as a finalist. Last year's winners were Lovell Coleman of Calgary, outstanding player; Tom Brown of B.C. Lions, top lineman and Tommy Grant of Hamilton, top Canadian.

The presentation will be held in Toronto Thursday Nov. 25, during Grey Cup week. Reed receives $2,000 in Canada savings bonds while Karcz and Harris each receive $1,500 in bonds. Each of the winners will also receive an action portrait of himself by Montreal artist Tex Coulter, a former awards winner during his playing days.



Voting in the awards begins in October when nominators in the nine football cities are asked to select from their own team a player in each of the three categories giving a preliminary list of 27 names.

On the second ballot, nominators vote for players in each category from the Western and Eastern conferences, reducing the eligible candidates to six—three from the East and three from the West. In final voting, each nominator votes for one player only in each category and final winners are declared.

Riders, Not Cats Who Said No. 13 Is Unlucky?

HAMILTON (CP) — Kelly Mole, assistant coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, said Monday he knew of one play in Sunday's Eastern Football Conference playoff game in Ottawa where the Ticats were trapped with 13 men on the field.

The Ticats defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 18-13 and will carry a five-point lead into the second game of the two-game, total-points eastern final here this Saturday afternoon.

The game Sunday was surrounded by controversy about the officiating. There were complaints that Hamilton twice had 13 men on the field and 14 any other time.

Mole said Monday the Ticats were trapped with 13 men on the field in a punt situation when one player failed to leave the field after his replacement came on. The infraction wasn't noticed by officials.

Game supervisor Hap Shoolice said after the contest that he counted 13 men on the field, but not 14, and said he would make a report to football commissioner Sydney Hallet.

CLAIR COMPLAINS

Ottawa coach Frank Clair complained about the extra man in the first quarter and said he was astounded by a fourth - quarter ruling giving Hamilton the ball on the Ottawa 40 following a Ticat fumble and apparent Ottawa recovery.

On the play, Garney Henley of Hamilton intercepted a pass deep in his own territory and raced to the Ottawa 40 where he was brought down near the sidelines by Jim Dillard. The ball squirted from Henley's grasp and Whit Tucker of the Rough Riders jumped on it.

Officials, however, ruled there was no fumble because the play was whistled down by umpire Bob Shepherd of Toronto before the ball got away from Henley.

The Globe and Mail, however, said that field judge Jim King of Montreal was wrong when he signalled an Ottawa recovery of the fumble. King, within a few feet of the play, ruled the recovery and an Ottawa first down before learning that Shepherd had blown his whistle when Henley was tackled.

The newspaper said that King failed to consider that Tucker went out of bounds before recovering the fumble, and cited Rule 9 which states that a player going out of bounds must remain out of the play until the ball becomes dead.

In Ottawa Sunday, Shoolice said Tucker was inside the boundary when he recovered the ball, but did not mention if Tucker had first gone into touch.

City OMHA Teams Win Openers

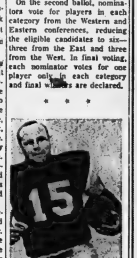
Belleville teams got off to a flying start in OMHA league play here last night with a pair of victories over visiting clubs.

In a bantam tilt, the Kinsmen crew whitewashed Picton by a 7-0 score.

The city midget squad, as yet unopposored, topped Napanee 6-3 in a rough contest.

The Kinsmen, who visit Gananoque Wednesday night, took a slim 1-0 lead in the first frame and added three goals in each of the other heats.

Terry Meagher scored three of the markers and helped out on another pair. Allan Greveaux, Jim Pottt, Steve Moore and Dennis MacCormack also scored. Genereaux earned three assists with one each for Moore, Pat MacKnife, MacCormack, Brian Coughlin and Mike Allore.



There was only one penalty in the game, that to Belleville.

In the midget game, Belleville snapped a 1-1 first-period tie with two unanswered goals in the second frame, then held a 3-2 edge in the third.

Mike Healy netted both second - period goals unassisted and later assisted on another. Cliff Scott, Bob Carter, Pete Jury and Joe Lumsden were the other marksmen. Lumsden got two assists, Ray Dumbie, Ron Fuller, Wayne Storma, Jury and David House one apiece.

Jack Moon, Brian Stinson and David Jocko collected the Napanee goals with Bruce McDevitt and Jocko getting single assists.

Napanee took seven of 12 penalties assessed. Included were fighting majors to Jocko and Belleville's Carter.

Ron Feagan Close To 200 Wins

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ron Feagan of Goderich, Ont., moved a victory ahead of rival Gilles Lachance of Montreal's harness racing action Monday night at Mohawk Raceway near Campbellville, Ont., and Richelieu Park in Montreal.

Both are bidding to become the first Canadian to win more than 200 races in one season.

Feagan added two victories at Mohawk to bring his season total to 197.

At Richelieu, Lachance was second in two of three races he drove, leaving his total at 196 victories.

Only four drivers in history have topped the 200-victory mark. Bob Farrington of Richwood, Ohio, Don Busse of Kingston, Ill., Bill Haughton of Oyster Bay Cove, N.Y., and Ed Freundt of West Germany.

Farrington currently leads United States drivers in wins this season with 287 and Haughton is second with 210.

The two Canadians are third and fourth in North American rankings.

O'Shea collected a goal and three assists in Thursday's game against Hamilton and now has 10 goals and 17 assists for 27 points.

A team-mate, Bobby Orr, and Peterborough's Andre Lacroix share second place with 25 points each, following Lacroix's six-point surge in three games. Orr picked up three goals, two in one loss to the Flyers.

Doug Shelton of St. Catharines Black Hawks still leads the goal scorers with 15, even though he didn't score in two games last week. With his seven assists, Shelton is in fourth place with 22 points.

'Bobbys' All Even In Scoring Race

Mohns Third

MONTREAL (CP)—A pair of Bobbys—Hull of Chicago Black Hawks and Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens—continue their neck-and-neck battle for first-place honors in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Hull and Rousseau, who play opposite wing positions with the two top clubs, each has 18 points, but the Chicago left-winger still remains the league's top goal-scorer with 12 in nine games, despite the fact he only acquired one marker in the last week.

Statistics released by NHL headquarters today show right-winger Rousseau with seven goals and 11 assists for his 18 points. His assist total is tops in the league.

Canadiens, with 15 points, hold a two-point edge in the team standings, although the Hawks have played two games less. The Hawks opened the season with four straight road victories, split in their first two home games to date, and post a 2-2-1 record at Chicago Stadium.

Doug Mohns, another Chicago winger, is third in the scoring battle with seven goals and seven assists for his 14 points.

Montreal centre Jean Beliveau and centre Bobby Hull of Chicago trail Mohns by one point. Beliveau has five goals and eight assists, and Mikita, last season's scoring leader, has four goals and assists.

NEVEN SHOWS

Bob Nevin of the resurgent New York Rangers is in sixth spot with 21 points, one more than teammate Don Marshall of Montreal Canadiens and Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings.

Rod Gilbert, Jean Ratelle and Harry Howell of New York, Bill Hay of Chicago and Jacques Laperriere of Montreal are locked in ninth place with nine points each.

Hay and defencemen Rod Selling of New York, with two goals and two assists each, and Howell with one goal and three assists, were the top point-getters last week.

Glenn Hall, the Chicago veteran, still leads the goaltenders, despite the fact he was beaten 11 times in three games in the last week and watched his goals-against average jump to 2.22. He now has allowed 20 goals in nine appearances this season.

Rookie netminder Bernie Parent of the last-place Boston Bruins registered his first NHL shutout against Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday night and joins Hall and Detroit's Roger Crozier as the only goaltenders with shutouts.

John Ferguson, Montreal's policeman and lieutenant, tops the penalty parade with 31 minutes. Canadiens as a team lead the league in the penalty department as well as the standings, with 184 minutes served.

Quits As Head Coach

Van Brocklin Stuns Vikings

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Vociferous Norm van Brocklin, considered by nearly everyone except himself as one of professional football's finest young coaches, stunned Minnesota Vikings Monday by quitting as head coach.

The high-strung Dutchman, who can strike an erring player dumb with searing words and moments later charm the crushed athlete, said there would be no reconsideration of his decision to resign after 4½ years with the National Football League team.

The Viking management, shocked by van Brocklin's announcement to three reporters he summoned to his office Monday morning, did not accept the resignation at face value.

President Max Winter and general manager Jim Finks said they hoped to arrange a meeting with van Brocklin 167 miles to distant him. There was no indication when this might be.

Van Brocklin went into seclusion following his announcement and talked only briefly with Finks on the telephone.

Finks said the coach quit less than 18 hours after the Vikings suffered a 41-21 loss to Baltimore Colts which eliminated them as contenders for the NFL's Western Conference championship.

In his talk with the three reporters, van Brocklin spiked speculation that he might be headed for Atlanta to take over as head coach of the new NFL team which begins competition next season.

"I want to get out of football now and I have no intention of reconsidering," said the former pro quarterback who guided Philadelphia Eagles to the NFL title in 1960 after nine seasons with the Los Angeles Rams.

"I'm not doing this to angle for any other coaching job. I have only name has been mentioned for the Atlanta job, but this is it, the end, in coaching for me.

"I don't know what I'm going to do for a living. But it won't be in football."

Notre Dame Fans Get Warning

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Displays of poor sportsmanship by students and other Notre Dame fans could result in the end of intercollegiate competition at the university, Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, university president, warned Monday.

Notre Dame has long had one of the most famous U.S. college football teams.

In a letter to students living in campus housing, Father Hesburgh urged them to avoid "turning the campus into a jungle or embarking on an anti-national binge" in enthusiasm for a football victory over Michigan State next Saturday.

The unbeaten Michigan State team, champions of their league and ranked No. 1 in the United States, end the regular season against the once-beaten, fourth-ranked Irish here.

Father Hesburgh warned that poor sportsmanship by students and fans before, during, or after games could result in "the end of intercollegiate competition between schools" as it is reason for other universities to become involved with such nonsense."

Centre Pro League

DETROIT (CP) — Andre Champagne, a 22-year-old left winger with Tulsa Oilers, has moved into a tie with Paul Andrea of Minnesota Rangers for first place in the individual scoring race of the Central Professional Hockey League.

In eight games with the first-place Oilers, Ottawa-born Champagne has scored six goals and picked up eight assists for 14 points. Andrea, a 28-year-old right winger from North Sydney, N.S., has seven goals and seven assists for 14 points.

Dick Harbaruk of Tulsa is third with 13 points. Tied for fourth with 11 points each are Lowell MacDonald of Tulsa and Skip Krake and Pete Panagabko, both of Oklahoma City Blazers.

Wayne Rutledge of Minnesota is the leading goaltender with a 2.33 goals-against average.

KEY MAN HURT

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Bill Nelson bruised his injured right knee in Sunday's loss to Dallas and has been told to take it easy in workouts this week, the Steelers said Monday.

Cookie Still In Running

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't count Cookie Gilchrist out of that rushing race in the American Football League.

Although Paul Lowe of San Diego Chargers is out front with 850 yards to Cookie's 694, the Chargers have an open date Sunday while Cookie and the Denver Broncos will be at work. Gilchrist ran for 119 yards on 16 carries against Houston Oilers last Sunday while Lowe was held to 48 yards by Kansas City Chiefs.

Nobody has missed an extra point in the AFL this season, with a perfect record of 175 for 175. Pete Gogolak of Buffalo Bills, who has kicked 79 field goals as well as 40 conversions, is the leading scorer with 80 points.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Look long enough and eventually you'll find players who don't wear Quebec uniforms among the leaders in the American Hockey League scoring race.

The Aces have the AHL's top four scorers and seven of the first 12, as listed in statistics released by the league today.

Rochester's Gary Smith is the top goalie with a 2.03 goals against average for six games.

"Overworked" Says Smythe

Leaf Brass Rides Herd On Punch

TORONTO (CP) — Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, said Monday that manager - coach George (Punch) Imlach will be relieved of some of his duties next season and will get help from the executive for the balance of this campaign.

The Leafs, winners of three consecutive Stanley Cup playoff berths and runners-up last year when they were eliminated in the semi-finals, are currently in last place for the first season and there has been speculation that Imlach is under fire.

"Certainly he's not going back to do better than he is doing," Smythe said. "So is the hockey club manager. But if you're asking if I'm going to fire him, the answer is no."

The hockey committee is a group of seven directors of Maple Leaf Gardens, where the Leafs play their home games.

The chairman is Harold Ballard, who is also the executive vice-president of the Leaf organization.

Smythe said he could not blame Imlach for the team's poor play so far this season in which the Leafs have won three, lost six and tied two.

"If it's anybody's fault, it's mine," he said. "I gave him too much work to do. Next year he'll only have to worry about the Leafs at training camp. We'll go back to the way we used to do things where we let our league teams each went to different towns and held their own camps.

WORKS TOO HARD

"You can't expect Punch to open practice from 7 a.m. in the morning until midnight on the ice for four weeks of training camp and then be sharp to make decisions."

Imlach, whose present contract as general manager and coach runs until the end of next season, handled the Rochester American and Tulsa Oiler training camps in addition to the Leaf camp in Peterborough this year. Rochester, in the American Hockey League, also a Toronto affiliate, will run their own camps. Smythe said. Houle conducted his own training camp this season.

"I think Punch has admitted that he should have kept Eddie Shack and Pete Stemkowski at camp this season," Smythe said. "I don't think he would have made that error in judgment if he hadn't had so much to do. He got a little bit over his head, that's all, and now we're pitching in to help him catch up."

Stemkowski and Shack were farmed out by the Leafs but recalled. Shack scored two goals and sparked the Leafs to a 5-2 victory over New York Rangers last Saturday in Toronto.

"If Carl Brewer hadn't retired, we'd have three more NHL-ers in the standings," Smythe added. "And we'll win the Stanley Cup this year—if we get into the playoffs."

LEAFS BUILDING

Brewer, a defenceman, resigned from hockey in a surprise move midway through the Leafs' training camp this fall.

Imlach Monday mentioned a three-year building program for the Maple Leafs.

"I'm not interested in a player over 27 years old," he said. "Maybe I would have won the cup last season if I could have got Johnny Bucyk of Boston. But I don't want Bucyk any more. It's going to take three or four seasons for our kids to develop and by that time, when we're ready to move, a fellow like Bucyk will be finished."

The Leafs play in Montreal Thursday night against the Canadiens. Imlach said that if the team doesn't do well, he'll make one change immediately. But he did not elaborate.

And They Do It—Just For Kicks

By MURRAY CHASS

NEW YORK (AP) — If the trend continues, the next place-kicking specialist in college football will be a barefoot, soccer-style refugee from Tibet in college on a skiing scholarship.

Actually, that kicker already is here, but in various forms.

He's a Norwegian in the United States on a skiing scholarship, a Mormon who kicks with ski boots purchased in Finland, a Hawaiian who boots barefooted, a Chilean whose jersey colors changes each time he scores, a Hungarian refugee whose brother started the soccer fad and an Englishman who plays soccer in the morning and football in the afternoon.

Those who watch such trends got the biggest kick out of Jan Stenerud, a Montana State sophomore from Fetsund, Norway. The 20 -year - old Scandinavian kicked a 39-yard field goal against Montana recently, establishing a modern national collegiate record.

WON SCHOLARSHIP

Stenerud was pried out of Norway on a skiing scholarship, one of several given each year by Montana State.

The ski team was working out on the football field, and Stenerud picked up a football and started kicking soccer style. The basketball coach saw him and reported him to the football coach. Then someone showed Stenerud how to put on a football uniform.

He now has kicked 11 of 12 extra points and seven of 13 field goal attempts.

Another one who had to learn how to put on a uniform is Lane Walsh, Utah's specialist. Walsh never played football until last spring when he volunteered to do the kicking.

He had just returned from a Mormon mission in Finland where he purchased ski boots, and there was nothing more obvious than to start kicking while wearing them. So far he has booted 15 of 16 extra points and two of four field goals.

KICKS BAREFOOT

Far from wearing ski boots, Michigan State's Dick Kenney of Alta, Hawaii, wears nothing on his foot. Through the Spartans' eight victories, Kenney has hit on 20 of 22 extra points and 11 of 18 field goals.

Bernardo Bramson of Marrland and Santiago, Chile, uses regular shoes but irregular numbers. He starts the season with a zero on his back and each time he scores with one of his soccer-style kicks the number changes. His number now is 3.

Most football fans know about Princeton's Charley Gogolak, the Hungarian refugee whose brother, Pete, angles them home for Buffalo Bills of the American Football League. But Charlie has so many records he doesn't know what to do. He also has 79 points.

Finally there's Derek Busk who came from England to attend Yale. He plays rugby and soccer team Saturday mornings, then rushes over to the football field. Bish hasn't had a kicking chance in a game yet but John Griswold, another dual athlete, has.

Griswold tried one field goal and missed. The reason is obvious.

He wasn't wearing his skis.

HOW ABOUT THAT! — Craig Breedlove flashes a happy grin of victory as he is hoisted aboard his crew's shoulders after setting a world land speed record at Bonneville Salt Flats yesterday. Breedlove and his jet car averaged 600.601 miles per hour in the two runs through the measured mile to take back the record he lost nine days ago to Art Arfons. The Arfons' record was 576.353 m.p.h. Bombers, Stamps Clash Tomorrow

Mistakes Out, Victory In Says Grant

WINNIPEG (CP) — Coach Bud Grant says his Winnipeg Blue Bombers must make fewer mistakes and improve the execution of their plays to even their best - of - three Western Football Conference final against Calgary Stampeders Wednesday.

Calgary took a one-game lead in the series with a 27-9 victory in Calgary Saturday.

"We can't expect to make the same mistakes and win," Grant says.

Wednesday's game here will be televised on the CBC national network starting at 8 p.m. (9 p.m. EST)

If a third game is necessary it will be played in Calgary Saturday.

"We're certainly capable of winning this game and the next one and the next one," Grant says.

He said Bombers "gave away just too much" during Saturday's game.

PLANS ADJUSTMENTS

Grant doesn't plan to overhaul Winnipeg's strategy for Wednesday's encounter "but we will make small adjustments — the type we would make after any loss."

Linebacker Ken Maglicic is the only doubtful starter. He suffered a sprained ankle during the game Saturday and is expected to be replaced by Paul Robson.

Grant says halfback Dick Worzney will return to action after missing two games because of a back injury. Guard Sherwin Thorson, fresh off the injury list, will also return to the Winnipeg lineup. Thorson missed the first game of the WFC final because of a recurring knee injury.

Meanwhile, Calgary fullback Lovell Coleman is fit to play, having suffered only a bruised ankle Saturday.

The weather is expected to be clear with temperatures in the 20s at game time. Winds are expected to be under 20 miles an hour.

Since Sunday night, three to five inches of snow fell on Winnipeg but the field has been covered with a tarpaulin for all, but the extreme edges of the end zones. The covering will be removed Wednesday morning — a job that will take about seven hours to complete.

Barring heavy snowfall shortly before the game, officials feel the ground will be ideal for football.

Breedlove Sets Record At 600 MPH

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Craig Breedlove has won his duel with Art Arfons for the world land speed record—at least for this year.

Neither man disputes it.

"I know we've got the record," Breedlove said Monday after recapturing the mark he has traded with Arfons for a year.

"There's major damage to my car . . . the repairs probably will take 30 to 40 days," Arfons said at his home in Akron, Ohio. That means Christmas, although Arfons would rather wait until mid-January.

Breedlove and his jet car, Spirit of America Sonic 1, compiled a two-way average speed of 600.601 miles an hour through the measured mile in regaining the record. The performance wiped out a 576.353 mile-an-hour mark set by Arfons last week.

"Everything functioned perfectly," Breedlove said afterward.

RACED AGAINST WINTER

Time is running out at the raceway with winter moving in. Breedlove had to delay his record run because of gusty winds and rain Sunday. It rained all night but the sun broke through as the blue jet was pushed to the start of the 11-mile track just after daybreak Monday.

The salt bed was soggy when Breedlove raced through the measured mile twice Monday. His time on the first run was 593.178 m.p.h., and he came back faster—608.201 m.p.h.

The average speed counts for the record.

The mushy track may have helped. On his first run, Breedlove's braking parachute filled with salt and water and collapsed. But he was able to breake the speeding car at the end of the track.

Coming back, the jet veered to the left after coming out of the measured mile and United States Automobile Club timers said they feared he was out of control. But the chute popped open and Breedlove bailed just beside his trailer-van headquarters.

WON'T BE THE

WINNIPEG (CP) — There's one thing certain about the second game of the Western Football Conference final here Wednesday night—there won't be a tie. The teams will play overtime if Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers are tied after the regulation 60 minutes of action.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very satisfying improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction of retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Series, Victim of Ratings Game, Bites TV Dust

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Another victim of the ratings game quietly bit the television dust Monday. It will be mourned, partly for what it tried to bring to television but mostly for what will take its place.

The program scheduled for extinction is a high-minded interview show, ABC's The Young Set.

The program came at an hour when a re. EST is second-over the two rival networks are filled with soap opera (NBC) and reruns of old Dick Van Dyke and Andy Griffith shows (CBS). Moderator Phyllis Kirk tried valiantly and often successfully to provide intelligent opinion and stimulating conversation.

Miss Kirk brought together specialists and personalities ranging from dog trainers to Dick Gregory. On one occasion this reporter tuned in on a session in which an Anglican bishop, a Roman Catholic priest and an agnostic were conversing. And Miss Kirk, who egged them on, did obviously done her homework.

PLAN GAME SHOWS

The Young Set dies Dec. 17. On Dec. 20, in comes two half-hour game shows. One is called Supermarket. Sweepstakes and will feature women bidding on items commonly found in stores. The winners will be turned loose in a self-service store to scoop up as much merchandise as possible within a time limit.

The second, Dating Game, will present eligible spinsters and bachelors after some sort of a computerized selection process.

On the casting front, ABC has replaced Edmond O'Brien — who walked out of its Long Hot Summer—with Dan O'Herlihy, last seen around regularly in that network's Travels with Charley: Mike McGreevey which lasted a short time a year ago.

The role of Will Varner, abruptly vacated by O'Brien, will be filled by the new actor without explanation. However the role will be written out of two or three episodes to be broadcast before O'Herlihy's debut.

At the Park

TODAY — WED.
"BAMBOLE!"

It's ladies day at the Park Theatre, where "Bambole!" yesterday introduced four of the international scene's brightest feminine stars in joyously uninhibited demonstrations of the fact that love is what you make it. They make it fun!

The ladies are Gina Lollobrigida, Elke Sommer, Virna Lisi and Monica Vitti and the men they carry on with, to the complete delight of "Bambole!" audiences. The men they carry on with include Nino Manfredi, Jean Sorel and Akim Tamiroff.

"Bambole!", it should be told, consists of four separate stories from Boccaccio's classic "Tales of the Decameron," all brought up-to-date but still possessing their original frank and delightful ribaldry.

Fourth of the segments that comprise "Bambole!" is the one that has captured international attention for its satiric imitation of the silent screen's sexier stars and their scenes of unbridled passion. This is the one in which Miss Lollobrigida, who needs no exaggeration of her piquant appeal, plays a hotel owner in Rome considerably miffed when one of her handsomer guests ignores her charms. Spitefully, she tells the man's uncle, a Monsignor, that the nephew is planning to leave and passes at her and "Monsignor Cupid," something of a disciplinarian, administers a swift kick. The nephew is Jean Sorel; the Monsignor, Akim Tamiroff.

Virna Lisi, who hit the American screen in "How Is Murder Your Wife," again plays a bride in love, but of course she's told'in "Bambole!" She is newly-wed to Nino Manfredi and that explains the groom's warm Sunday afternoon, is especially attracted by his blonde cousin. There are complications, long distance telephone call from her mother—a conversation which goes on and on, and on—finally drives the impatient bridegroom out of their apartment altogether; he winds up with a sunbathing neighbor, who has a reputation for friendliness," and his still-talking young wife doesn't even know he is gone.

Elke Sommer, the delightful blonde comedienne of "A Shot in the Dark," is equally delightful as a Swedish girl in Rome earnestly seeking the ideal male, one who will father the ideal son she is prepared to give to the world. Her experiment in research includes a series of tests for virility, physical prowess and mental superiority, but her single-minded search for perfection bogs down when she runs into romance.

Third segment of "Bambole!" stars Monica Vitti as a young woman who wants to rid herself of the elderly insensitive, soup-slurping boor to whom she is wed, and she even hires a contractor to do away with him. But Monica's plans go awry and she is condemned to a life of listening to soup being slurped.

Complete shows are at 7.00 and 9.10 p.m.

Janet Leigh Not Considering Running for Any Office

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's one politically-minded star who isn't thinking of running for office: Janet Leigh.

George Murphy has been elected to the United States Senate. Ronald Reagan is casting his eyes at the governorship of California. Wendell Corey is a member of the Santa Monica city council. Steve Allen announced he was running for Congress, but couldn't qualify.

With radio and other political action ambassadors, it seemed possible that Miss Leigh might seek elective office. After all, she is a veteran campaigner and member of two government bodies.

The actress herself put a halt to such conjecture.

"Me run for office? No chance," she says.

"It would ruin my amateur standing. Now when I talk to gatherings about public issues, they believe me, because they know that there's nothing in it for me. But if I were to run for office, my motives would be suspect."

MAKES TOURS

Miss Leigh has done some touring of foreign lands for the state department, and her service led to appointment to the Peace Corps advisory council.

"Then we pursue whatever aspect of the Corps we are involved in," she explains. "I felt I could do some good in recruiting, and so I have made appearances at colleges. I also have been concerned with educational television in Colombia."

Her activity in state political matters also led to her appointment to the "Marmora" Remembrance Day parade.

Marmora is not so stimulated by public affairs that she is giving up her career, however. She is co-starring with Jerry Lewis in the madcap's first adventure away from Paramount. There on a Couch, filmed at Columbia.

She admits that politics hold a great deal of interest for her.

"It started back in 1952, when I did some campaigning for Adlai Stevenson," she recalls. "In 1960 I did a great deal of work for John Kennedy, and I have campaigned for President Johnson last year.

"I think it's a good sign when actors can be seriously considered for political office. That indicates the public is more mature than the time when the misdeeds of one actor would spill off on to be labelled as immoral."

Governor Turn Between Loyalty To Crown and Adopted Rhodesia

SALISBURY (AP)—Sir Humphrey Gibbs, the British-appointed governor of Rhodesia who won't quit, is torn between loyalty to the Crown and the white minority that has long formed during 37 years in the Central African colony.

Gibbs, 54, a tall, lean rancher born in Britain but a Rhodesian citizen, is the Queen's personal representative in the rebellious self-governing colony. Fighting to maintain his sovereign's residence, and has gingly dog to Rhodesia to begin a highly successful ranching life.

Early recognition came his way when he organized the country's farmers into the now powerful Rhodesia National Farmers' Union. In 1947, he decided to try his hand at politics. He was elected to Parliament and was a member of the government of Lord Malvern, then Sir Godfrey Huggins. As a politician he was known for his honesty.

Gibbs soon realized his heart was not in politics. After one term, he left Parliament and went back to his ranch near Bulawayo.

"This man is too honest to have remained in politics for long," Lord Malvern said later.

In 1956, the Queen named him her representative in Rhodesia and recalled him to public life. He was knighted in 1960.

Gibbs was not above winking at friends at formal receptions and, whenever possible, left Government House to go home to Smith's demand that he quit his post.

"I take my orders from the Queen, and only the Queen," he says.

Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Sir Humphrey has been governor of Rhodesia for six years. He loves the roomy freedom and open spaces of Central Africa and once remarked to a friend: "I feel sorry for people who have to live in London and places like that."

Humphrey Vicary Gibbs was born in London in 1902 and educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge. In 1923, aged 26, he left his homeland for Rhodesia to begin a highly successful ranching life.

Early recognition came his way when he organized the country's farmers into the now powerful Rhodesia National Farmers' Union. In 1947, he decided to try his hand at politics. He was elected to Parliament and was a member of the government of Lord Malvern, then Sir Godfrey Huggins. As a politician he was known for his honesty.

Gibbs soon realized his heart was not in politics. After one term, he left Parliament and went back to his ranch near Bulawayo.

"This man is too honest to have remained in politics for long," Lord Malvern said later.

In 1956, the Queen named him her representative in Rhodesia and recalled him to public life. He was knighted in 1960.

Gibbs was not above winking at friends at formal receptions and, whenever possible, left Government House to go home to Smith's demand that he quit his post.

"I take my orders from the Queen, and only the Queen," he says.

Sir Humphrey's family motto is tenax propositi—tenacious of purpose. He has lived up to it so far in refusing to bow to Smith's demand that he quit his post.

"If take my orders from the Queen, and only the Queen," he says.

Negro Rhodesian Leaders Have No Modern Weapons

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Leaders of the African nationalist Negro leaders in Rhodesia apparently are having trouble stirring up their people to revolt against the outlawed Ian Smith regime.

Though the Negroes have a 20 - to - 1 advantage over the whites in numbers, they have no modern weapons.

While a Hungarian newspaper maintains that guerrilla bands are operating in Rhodesia, the more obvious fact is that Smith and his well-armed followers have the situation well under control.

Nevertheless, the anger expressed by many of the Negro ruled African countries over the white Smith government's seizure of power April from Britain is expected to be translated into some form of violence.

What the will Britain do?

The British government maintains that despite the labels of "traitor" and "rebel" stamped on the Smith regime, Rhodesia still is a British responsibility and only the British government can determine its future.

Faulty Relay Blamed for U.S. Blackout

By JACK GRAY

TORONTO (CP) — How did Ontario Hydro find the fault that plunged most of the northeastern North America into darkness and disarray?

It was like trying to find the needle in a haystack.

The difficulty in tracking down the major power companies in the northeastern United States and Ontario Monday with the assistance of the Canadian Electric Power Committee of Ontario, that a Hydro equipment failure was to blame.

Hydro was taking steps to see that it wouldn't happen again.

Equipment was being removed from the Beck generating station near Niagara Falls for triggering the "chain" started the blackout.

Hydro Beck and Robert Hillery, Hydro director of operations said at a press conference that

Five Freighters In Accidents, One Is Sunk

QUEBEC (CP) — Five ships were involved Tuesday in St. Lawrence River accidents which claimed no lives but damaged the vessels, sinking one.

On the river below Quebec City two pairs of freighters collided in fog and snow. One of the ships, the large Canadian ore carrier Lawrence Cliffe Hall, sank in 30 feet of water.

A fifth vessel, the Greek-flag Protostatis which was being towed by three tugs, broke loose and ran aground off Wolfe Island near Kingston.

The Lawrence Cliffe Hall, a 22,000-ton vessel, and the 6,000-ton freighter Sunek collided at 7:15 a.m. off the d'Orleans, 14 miles downstream from Quebec City.

The crew of the Lawrence-Cliffe Hall fled to beach the ship but had to give up the attempt and take to lifeboats with their captain, Devons Larose.

No injuries were reported by either ship.

Less than four hours later and 120 miles downstream from the site of the first accident, the 10,658-ton Soviet freighter Kosmonaut collided head - on with the 10,142-Spanish freighter Monte Urbasa.

SOVIET SEAMAN HURT

A Soviet seaman, Nikolai Pavliel, was seriously injured when his cabin was smashed in the collision. He was taken to hospital in Quebec City where he was to be operated on today.

Both the Soviet and Spanish ships were still able to sail and were expected in arrive at shipyards at Levis, a Quebec City suburb, today.

The Kosmonaut had left Quebec City shortly after midnight Tuesday with a 14,000-ton load of grain destined for Odessa while the Spanish vessel had been on way Mar. 26 Montreal on her maiden voyage.

The 7,500-ton Protostatis was on her way to drydock at Montreal. She was beached two weeks ago at Pointe Traverse, 70 miles west of Kingston. Officials expected the vessel to be refloated shortly.

The collision of the Lawrence-Cliffe Hall and the Sunek took place in heavy fog and snow.

Reports from the scene said the ore carrier, christened last year, headed upstream from Port Cartier on the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Conneaut, Ohio, with a full cargo of iron ore and that she was struck on the starboard side.

A gash from bow to midships was ripped in her side and she sank in 30 to 36 feet of water. Company owners said they expected the vessel could be refloated and that a team of four salvage experts was already on its way.

The cargo would, probably

New High For Tax Revenues

OTTAWA (CP) — The high-spending buoyancy of the economy, together with its taste for imports, is swelling government coffers with an almost embarrassing increase in tax revenues.

Total tax revenues in the first half of the current fiscal year are up seven per cent from the same period last year. But sales tax revenues are running more than 15 per cent greater and customs revenues are up nearly nine per cent.

The period covered by the latest available figures is the six months from April 1 to Sept. 30. The last six months of the fiscal year running to next March 31 will show the full effect of income tax reductions which became effective at July 1.

Former finance minister Gordon estimated in his budget speech to Parliament last spring that sales tax revenues this fiscal year would increase by $98,000,000 to $1,303,000,000 from $1,205,000,000. This is an increase of eight per cent.

But sales tax revenues for the first half of this fiscal year amounted to $658,000,000, com

4 Planes Lost In Viet Raid

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — Four U.S. planes were lost on a bombing strike over North Viet Nam today as sharp fighting raged for the fourth successive day in South Viet Nam's central highlands, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

One navy and three marine planes were downed during a strike against a key bridge on the railway line linking North Viet Nam's capital of Hanoi with the major port of Haiphong.

Two of the pilots were rescued but one was killed and another is missing, the spokesman said.

North Vietnamese troops launched a new attack against a battalion from the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division in the Ia Drang Valley 220 miles northeast of Saigon.

The savage battle, which has been raging since noon Sunday, ahead, has been described as one of the bloodiest of the Viet Nam war.

First Snow Falls

It's That Time Of Year Again

Nearly five weeks earlier than the calendar says it should have happened, the Belleville area got its first touch of winter this morning. An estimated two-and-a-half inches of wet sloppy snow was dumped on the Quinte district.

The snow came right on the heels of .32 inch of rain which fell yesterday and last night.

This morning temperatures began to fall with the thermometer dropping below the freezing mark by mid-morning.

At any rate rubbers and galoshes, snow shovels and windshield brushes were the order of the day as people sloshed their way to work, scraped auto windshields and shovelled sidewalks.

From police reports, motorists behaved comparatively in town and country.

City police described their traffic situation "quiet as the grave."

Provincial police, however, reported "a flood of calls" complaining of minor accidents and cars in local highway ditches.

And not a few pavement pedestrians complained of being splashed by muddy water as cars sprayed slush from pot-holes in the streets.

Adults generally viewed the snow covered landscape with dismay and foreboding of worse to come, but for the younger generation it was a different story.

Snowballs flew as children made their way to school, happy with the thought that winter was again on its way.

Despite dropping temperatures, the snow is not expected to remain long. Warmer weather will melt the snow and winter is not expected to arrive in earnest until late next month.

Yesterday's rain and today's brief touch of winter have put a damper on Pinnacle Street reconstruction, however.

The rain yesterday slowed work in a crew while today construction was practically at a standstill.

Last evening during the heavy rainstorm there were rolls of thunder and sharp lightning.

Brig. Took Handouts Is Claim

OTTAWA (CP)—The parade of high-level Canadian Army officers was expected to continue today at the trial of a former vice-quartermaster - general of the army who is charged with accepting a benefit or advantage valued in excess of $8,000.

Brig. John Baxter Allan, 51, is being tried by a 12-man jury at the Carleton County general sessions of the peace.

Monday was taken up with argument on a second count against Allan alleging complicity to accept a benefit or advantage. On Tuesday, Judge Peter Macdonald ruled the charges must be heard separately and reserved decision on a defence motion to quash the conspiracy count.

Brig. Allan is charged with accepting the benefit or advantage, while a government official, between August, 1957, and May, 1963, at Ottawa and elsewhere in Ontario.

LISTS BENEFITS

The indictment says the advantage or benefit arose from payment of hotel bills, for merchandise, and transfer of stock from Morris, Mark, Edward and Benjamin Levy, or one or more of them, who in their capacity as directors or agents of three Toronto firms had dealings with the government.

Cabinet Changes Coming

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson flew to New York Tuesday amid a flurry of conjecture about the nature and timing of his pending cabinet reorganization.

Informants tend to agree the Liberal leader will announce a new-look Cabinet next week at the earliest.

An aide to Guy Favreau said the party's Quebec leader has no intention of resigning from the cabinet in which he is president of the Privy Council.

Mr. Favreau broke off a Florida vacation Sunday to return to the capital where he conferred with Mr. Pearson.

The Favreau spokesman said the question of his resignation did not come up. Moreover, he said, Mr. Favreau's position has been strengthened by the solid support of most Quebec Liberal members of Parliament and by the good Quebec showing the party made in the Nov. 8 election.

The question of Mr. Favreau's resignation arose when

Phone Service To Govt. House Is Suspended

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia announced today the telephone service at Government House — the governor's official residence — had been suspended.

He told a press conference he was disappointed at the stiliest adopted by Sir Humphrey Gibbs, whom he described as the former governor of Rhodesia.

Smith claimed that he had evidence that Rhodesians are more united now than ever before and he called the governor's position precarious.

Tuesday 4,000 Negro postal workers balked at signing a pledge of loyalty to the Smith government within two weeks or lose their jobs.

A spokesman for the Rhodesian African Postal Workers Union said a deputation had protested to Postmaster - General C. R. Dickenson.

APPEAL TO BRITISH

One report said the postal workers appeal to the British government for guidance, even if it had to be broadcast by radio to get past Rhodesian censorship.

There was no immediate confirmation of reports that other branches of the Rhodesian civil service—both Negro and white —had been asked to sign similar pledges.

Following the Salisbury regime's seizure of independence from Britain Thursday, the governor dismissed Smith and his ministers. Britain says the governor is the sole official authority.

Gibbs is defying pressure from Smith to vacate Government House.

Smith said today "we hope the present situation will not continue for long."

Smith also claimed there was a tremendous revival among the Negro section of the population following independence.

The announcement was arranging a meeting between his government and representatives of the United People's Party, to discuss the situation in Rhodesia.

About half journalists attended the press conference, Smith's first since independence.

PARTY BANNED

Earlier the 50 Parliamentarians of Smith's Rhodesia Front party held their first meetings since independence was seized.

As the legislators met today, the British Union Jack still fluttered over the residence of the British-appointed governor.

The Rhodesian public, meanwhile, began feeling the first economic effects of the break with Britain as prices went up on cigarettes, whisky, beer, wines and liqueurs.

LONDON (CP) — Seven special orders giving effect to British government sanctions against Rhodesia will be laid before Parliament today.

The orders were signed by the Queen within 11 hours of the passage of the Southern Rhodesia Act, which empowers government ministers, subject to endorsement by Parliament, to take any measures deemed necessary to counter the unilateral declaration of independence by the white-minority government of Rhodesia.

Any of the orders can be confirmed by Parliament within the next 28 parliamentary sitting days, and if they are not approved by both houses, they will automatically lapse. At present, however, the government seems assured of endorsement.

One order, preventing alleged fugitive offenders from being returned to Rhodesia unless their return is considered expedient by the British home secretary, comes into effect today.

Another order that takes effect today makes illegal any orders issued by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and his regime since Thursday, when the colony declared its independence from Britain.

Other sections of the same order, which will come into force Thursday, give Britain's Commonwealth secretary powers to exercise executive authority in Rhodesia. This would enable Rhodesia to have a legally constituted government in British eyes and would forestall creation of a rebel government or

Chile Reception Warm, Rude to Kennedy, Rusk

CONCEPCION, Chile (AP) — Spitting South Americans gave a rude reception Tuesday night to Senator Robert F. Kennedy in Chile and to State Secretary Dean Rusk in Uruguay.

About 100 pro-Communist students spat on Kennedy at the University of Concepcion, threw eggs, rocks and money at him and drowned him out when he tried to speak to a student crowd of several thousand.

It was the only unpleasant note to an otherwise enthusiastic reception in an area where Chilean Communists and Marxist Socialists have their greatest strength.

The eggs and stones missed the New York senator, but spittle fell on his forehead and clothes.

Rusk was the target of a 25-year-old man who slipped up and spat at him in Montevideo, Uruguay, just after the secretary had placed a wreath at the monument to Gen. Jose Artigas, Uruguay's national hero.

Kennedy, on a South American tour, insisted on going to the university despite warnings of a hostile reception. He wailed calmly on the stage of the gymnasium for 30 minutes while the small group of leftists sang the national anthems of Cuba and Chile and screamed before the opening today of the inter - American foreign ministers' conference in Rio de Janeiro. Arriving in Rio, he said his reception during his trip had been "extremely hospitable . . . with the exception of one young individual whose welcome seemed to be a little unconventional."

France Culture Pact Recognizes Provinces

OTTAWA (CP) — A long-expected master agreement enabling the provinces to sign cultural pacts with France was signed today by External Affairs Minister Martin and Francois Leduc, French ambassador to Canada.

It permits the provinces to make "ententes" with France within the framework of the master agreement for exchanges in the educational, cultural, scientific and artistic fields, providing the French government informs the Canadian government.

"The authority for the provinces to enter into such ententes will stem either from the fact that they have indicated that they are proceeding under the cultural agreement and the exchange of letters of today's date or from the assent given them by the federal government," Mr. Martin said in a letter included in the master pact.

Quebec's exchanges with France became a source of controversy in Parliament after Pierre Laporte, Quebec's cultural affairs minister, said in June that Ottawa was not consulted about a proposed exchange.

Mr. Martin replied then in a lengthy statement that no agreement between a province and a foreign power has any validity in international law unless it has been approved by the federal government.

Today's signing took place in the Commonwealth Room in Parliament Hill's centre block.

Mr. Leduc expressed the hope the provinces other than Quebec will take advantage of the agreement to establish direct contacts with France and help to spread the French language.

Mr. Martin told a reporter there was no special significance in the fact that the signing ceremony was held in the Commonwealth Room. All treaties and international agreements were signed in this room by custom.

Expect January Tender Call For Senior Citizens' Housing

With general approval of new plans received allowing for an increase in the number of units, hope for a tender call early in the new year for senior citizens' housing in Belleville was expressed today.

The revised plans drafted by architects Watson and Wiegand will provide a total of 27 housing units on Turnbull Street.

The inter-connected bolla lags, of one and two-storey height, will be constructed around three sides of a central court. Original plans were for 30 units but provincial housing authorities felt more units could be constructed on the Turnbull street site.

A common recreation room for use of the senior citizen tenants would be incorporated into the buildings, it was stated.

At a special meeting at city hall yesterday, the new plans were generally approved by Ontario Housing Authority officials and by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Mayor Jack Ellis and Ald. Don Boyle are members of the special council committee set up to arrange for the citizens' housing and low rental housing in the city.

Low rental housing construction has been underway in the city since early summer with the single family units being spread around the city.

On the other hand the senior citizens' housing would be all built on the Turnbull Street site.

For Margaret

A Secret Party--And All the Street Came

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imagine having Princess Margaret and the Earl of Snowdon turn up in your neighborhood for a party and you'll get the idea of how it was on Highland Place.

Especially, if the host and hostess—the U.S. attorney-general and his wife—are trying to keep everything a secret.

It was like a block party with children and dogs and grown-ups watching the show. Four boys climbed on a roof to get a better view. Older folks brought their drinks along and launched impromptu weather parties.

Suddenly, that sleek, black Rolls Royce rolled up. The Princess, in a white satin gown and white mink wrap, stopped briefly outside the house. Flashbulbs flared.

A crowd pressed tightly against the white fence to watch the recognizable gift the home of Attorney - General and Mrs. Nicholas Katzenbach, the social lions of Washington Tuesday night.

Applause and a loud, appreciative wolf whistle greeted the Princess. She waved and smiled.

"assassin" and "Yankee go home" at him.

When the senator finally started to speak, the jeerers drowned him out. He asked if they would come forward to discuss matters with him and the leftists shouted back that he should come to them.

Kennedy started toward them. As he approached, some tried to kick him, others spat at him and others burned a U.S. flag in a corner of the gymnasium.

Other students tried to quiet the leftists. Some challenged them to fight. Aides and reporters surrounded the senator and he left the building.

Outside some said - Communist students approached Kennedy's wife, Ethel, and said to her: "Ethel, we apologize for this shameful situation." This group waited in front of the house and when the leftists came out set on them with clubs and stones.

Kennedy had a similar reception at another student meeting in Santiago Monday night. Leftist students jeered and threw vegetables at him and kept him from speaking for 10 minutes—until one - Communist student chased them from the gymnasium.

Tag for Santa's Parade

The Belleville Santa Claus Parade Committee will hold a tag day this weekend to raise money for parade expenses.

A committee spokesman said, "Many businesses and individuals help us out considerably each year by sending donations but these do not meet the expenses involved in putting on the parade.

"The committee has worked hard to make the 1965 parade the best ever, but we still require help. We need taggers to assist us this weekend."

Anyone wishing to assist the committee's tag day can do so by reporting at the Belleville Recreation Centre on Pinnacle Street any time Friday from 1 p.m. till 9 p.m. or Saturday from from 9 a.m. till 1 p.m., or by phoning Mrs. George Grant at 968-6614.

"So please, this weekend when you see a tagger, whether he be an Air Cadet, fireman, clown or anyone in civilian dress, buy a tag," said the organizer. "Then while you watch the Santa Claus Parade, December 4, you can say, 'I helped to make this parade possible'."

government-in-exile.

Two other orders suspend a sugar agreement with the territory and remove Rhodesia from the Commonwealth trading preference area.

Another order will make it easier for loyal Rhodesian citizens to be granted citizenship of the United Kingdom and colonies. A sixth order makes Rhodesians holding United Kingdom passports subject to immigration control while the last order enables immigration authorities to confiscate passports issued by the breakaway Rhodesian regime.

As the Labor government prepared to enforce the orders, a leading member of the Conservative opposition warned against using "brute force" to end the Smith government with economic sanctions.

Iain MacLeod, a former colonial secretary, believes Britain eventually may be forced to negotiate with the rebel white government in Rhodesia, political sources said.

MacLeod was said to have put this view before a private meeting of Tory members of the House of Commons Tuesday night.

Prime Minister Wilson regards the rebels as traitors and in any event has said it would seem impossible to negotiate with creators of what he called a police state.

MacLeod, according to Conservative informants, said Britain would be unwise to refuse to deal with rebels in power and should not take up rigid positions

To support the argument he was reported to have cited his own experience in dealing with Jomo Kenyatta in Kenya and Archbishop Makarios in Cyprus.

Both were put under detention by British authorities and Cyprus were colonies. Both are now presidents of independent states.

Some informants said the Conservative meeting was the scene of a clash between the party's right wing and younger members who demanded the opposition should give more wholehearted support to Wilson's Rhodesian policy.

MacLeod was reported to have attacked Britain's embargo on "Rhodesian tobacco and sugar, claiming the measure would not bring the Smith regime to its knees.

Magistrate Calls Defence "Ingenious"

TRENTON — Belleville lawyer Kenneth Ross and town solicitor Roderick Campbell have been invited by Magistrate T. Y. Wills to present him with written submissions on some moot points of the law before the magistrate deals with a charge of "unlawfully driving a vehicle without sufficient brakes," brought by the Crown against Phillip F. Clement.

Mr. Ross argued in Trenton court yesterday that the information contained in the charge did not disclose this particular offence—or any offence for that matter—when it comes to sticking to the letter of the law.

He said one sub-section of the law laid down that a vehicle must have two braking systems, one of which was adequate to stop the vehicle or hold it stationary.

Another sub-section says the braking system must be "in working order."

And after all, said Mr. Ross, the law itself doesn't make it clear whether the driver, the owner or the manufacturer is responsible for the condition of the braking system.

Mr. Campbell said he had been "taken by surprise" by Mr. Ross' argument.

Magistrate Wills complimented Mr. Ross on his "ingenious argument," which he also termed as "novel."

Mr. Ross said he felt the Crown had resorted to the use of "popular language" to describe the alleged offence. He said the law was specific in most cases, even to defining that "every person driving a sleigh on the highway must have two bells."

The lawyers' submissions must be in by Dec. 7.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A total of 230 U.S. space vehicles and rocket parts were circling the earth as of June 30, the United States reports.

Whitley Announces Candidacy

TRENTON — R. J. (Dick) Whitley, former Trenton councillor with nine years' experience, said today he would seek re-election to Trenton council.

Mr. Whitley served on council in the 1930s, under Mayor Harry Cory; in the 1940s, under Mayor Kenneth Coach and during 1960 and 1961, under Mayor James MacDonald. During his terms of office he headed up the public works' and the sanitation departments.

This brings to four those who have declared themselves as candidates for council: two former councillors, Donald R. Fraser and Clifford Gunter, and Councillor Joseph Gould, who served on the 1964-65 council as chairman of public works. Councillor Gould means to modify his appeal for re-election by telling the public that he and Mrs. Gould mean to spend three months in Florida . . . and if the voters want him on those terms, the councillor is willing to serve.

Mayor James MacDonald will seek re-election and although ill has been said he will be opposed, no one has actually come forward.

Clifford A. Baker will also seek re-election to the utility commission. With a "Baker's dozen" of years' experience on the commission, Mr. Baker says he would like to see the completion of the Murray Township dam and storage pond.

Murray Township, James F. Day has indicated that he may seek a seat on township council this term.

Trenton Man Charged With Assault

TRENTON — Robert Richard Turner, in his 40s, of 55 Sidney Crescent, Trenton, was formally charged in Trenton court yesterday with assaulting John Howarth, 40, of R.R. 4, Trenton, causing actual bodily harm.

Turner was first charged by police Oct. 30, after a man was alleged to have struck Mr. Howarth over the head with a chair in the Queensway Hotel. Mr. Howarth was taken to Kingston General Hospital for treatment, but has since been released.

Turner, who is to be represented by Belleville solicitor Ronald Cass, did not plead in court yesterday, and the case was enlarged until Dec. 7.

Soviet Union Building Another Cuba in Middle East Kiwanians Told

Belleville Kiwanians were told Tuesday that the Soviet Union is building another Cuba in the Middle East.

Dr. George Liban, Executive Director, Central Division, Zionist Organization of Canada, told the regular weekly Kiwanis meeting, "If we think that we here in Canada should not be concerned about what happens in the Middle East, then we are wrong. Airplanes now fly from here to the Middle East in a matter of a few hours. The world has indeed grown smaller."

Dr. Liban said the Israel - Arab situation revolves around three problems: the refugee problem, the Jordan water problem and the east - west political clash.

"The Middle East tension is nothing else than a clash between east and west," Dr. Liban said. "It is the desire of the Soviet Union to drive the English and the U. S. out of the Middle East.

"The Soviets support the Arabs through puppets such as Nasser," he said.

"The United Arab Republic, and other Arab States, builds its army, navy and air force up with Soviet supplied arms and fineces. The Soviet Union is now spending $900 million to do this.

"The long - term plan of Russia is a political - military foot, hold on the shores of the Mediterranean. They do not want an Israeli - Arab war, but they do want to aggravate the situation for their own gains."

COULD SOLVE PROBLEM

Of the refugee problem, Dr. Liban said, "With a little cooperation from the Arab countries the problem could have been solved long ago.

"Every war in history has resulted in a problem of refugees, but they all been solved because refugees usually resettle in their homeland.

"If the Arab countries would let refugees in, just as Israel does, there would be no problem, but the Arabs are using the problem as a political weapon.

"The United Nations has pumped in $450 million to the refugee problems. As a result, the situation has come to such a state that farmers living outside the refugee area were not as well off as the refugees were so they have come to live as refugees in order to gain the benefits of food and clothing rations."

Jordan water project is one of the main sources of contention in the Middle East. "In spite of the world," Dr. Liban said, "water is more precious than gold or oil or anyting else.

"In 1955, Eric Johnston, asked by President Eisenhower to attempt to settle the water dispute, proposed the so-called Johnston plan. It would have divided the waters with 40 per cent to the Arab states bordering Israel, and 40 per cent to Israel, Israel accepted the plan, the Arabs rejected it.

ISRAEL NEEDS WATER

"Israel needs water desperately so she builds a huge pipeline called the Jordan Negev Conduit. As soon as it began operating, Arab states suggested they would sabotage it. Of course, Israel declared any act of sabotage on the pipeline would be considered an act of war.

"Jordan, while turning down the Johnston Plan, have themselves implemented part of the plan by constructing their own pipeline, diverting water from the Yarmuk River, one of the head water of the Jordan.

"The Arabs threaten to divert the three head waters of the Jordan, that is, the Hasbani, Yarmuk and Banyas rivers. Lebanon has the Litani River on her territory and makes no use at all of 85 percent of the waters there. Yet they want to divert the Hasbani River, obviously for no other purpose than to spite Israel."

"Israel wants peace. She has made 27 peace offers to Arab countries within the past 18 months. However, the Arab countries do not recognize Israel, so they will not negotiate with her.

"There is no fighting at the moment but how long will that last?"

Mayor Jack Ellis, left, talks over concrete problems last night with Primo Pennacchetti, centre, President of the National Concrete Products Association, and John Badger, editor of the NCPA News.

Area NCPA Members Meet Assoc. President

Area members of the National Concrete Products Association met in Belleville last night with the Association's National President and two of his officers.

Meeting in the Hotel Quinte, were Primo Pennachetti, president of General Concrete, Hamilton, and also president of the NCPA, T. C. Thompson, secretary - manager, and John Badger, editor of the NCPA News.

The men met with representatives from concrete manufacturers in Oshawa, Bancroft, Iroquois and other centres closer to Belleville, such as Cobourg and Peterborough.

Mr. Pennachetti has travelled coast - to - coast in the past year for the Association. He said, "We are just completing an interesting year.

"The concrete industry is growing at a phenomenal rate, about ten per cent per year over the last 10 to 15 years.

"On my coast - to - coast travels I have viewed all parts of the country, and everywhere the concrete industry is vigorous and enjoying a favorable year.

"The Association's goals this year are to sponsor a Research Fellowship in Ottawa in conjunction with the National Research Council. The aim of the two - year program is to bring into focus the need for higher quality products and better methods and manufacturing techniques within the industry.

"The Association will make the benefits gained from the National Research Council available to all its members across Canada thus assuring concrete customers the best possible products at the most economical price."

Mayor Jack Ellis, representing Wilson Concrete Product, said, "Primo (Pennachetti) has really spearheaded the tremendous growth in the concrete industry. He has been a dynamic leader and the whole industry has benefited as a result"

Young Canada Book Week At Library

DESERONTO — November 19 to 25 is Young Canada Book Week and suitable books will be on display for the young people to choose from. Also during this week no fine will be charged on overdue books returned.

The current showcase displays at the library feature one of Eskimo soapstone carvings which have been loaned by Mr. and Mrs. M. Lush. The highlight of this collection is the dog team which consists of two dogs, one of which is black, the sled with kayak and the driver. There is an old Eskimo superstition that there must be one black dog in each team. There are several other interesting pieces, all made by Frobisher Bay Eskimos. Eskimos are one of the few peoples of the wrld wh have never wanted their energy on warfare, hence their art does not glorify human strife. They turn to stone to create their art due to the lack of wood, textiles and vegetable dyes.

BIBLE SOCIETY DISPLAY

There is also a display arranged by the Bible Society, with Bibles, old church registers and Communion rolls from the different local churches. One inffeesting article is the Registry of Baptisms of the Millpoint (Deseronto) Presbyterian Church dated 1876. There is also a history of The Deseronto United Church prepared by Mrs. Vera Ryan.

In keeping with the approaching Christmas season there is an interesting showing of old Christmas toys Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Don McNish there is a lovely assortment of children's banks, dishes, flat-irons, trivets and cooking utensils. One German doll is dated 1884. On loan from Mrs. H. Transue is a doll's complete wardrobe.

If any of the local residents have any Christmas crafts that they would be willing to exhibit in the library, it could be arranged that they could be displayed during the next few weeks and retagged to them in time for their own Christmas decorating.

This will be paid for by the Province of Ontario and will be added to the amount that the town will pay back on a per gallon basis. The lines within the town will be paid for by the Water Resources Commission and will be paid back over a 30-year time period.

Tragedy at Sea

The disastrous fire which sent the Miami-Nassau cruise ship Yarmouth Castle to the bottom is now under investigation by United States coast guard and Bahamas government officials.

Already several disturbing features of the tragedy have been brought to light. There was no lifeboat or fire drill once the ship cleared harbor at Miami, and passengers said the ship's sprinkler system failed to work and there was no water pressure with which to bring hoses into action.

Captain V. G. Niebergall, head of the 7th Coast Guard District merchant marine safety division, disputes the passengers' claims. He said he had testimony that the fire hoses were used until the water gave out and that the sprinklers and other safety devices worked satisfactorily.

On the other hand, Captain Niebergall admitted he did not have authority to inspect the ship because it flew the Panamanian flag, but merely gave it what he described as "a real good, close look when it was in drydock six weeks ago."

Obviously such an inspection cannot be compared with a thorough tour of every part of the ship. Thus the passengers' testimony has as much validity as that of the crew.

A Canadian woman, Mrs. Murray Bell, of Hamilton, Ontario, who with her husband was picked up after more than an hour in the water, was quoted as saying: "Once there was no water the crew took off."

Some members of the crew were also reported to have pulled away from the ship in a lifeboat and to have ignored an officer's order to return to the ship.

Other eye-witnesses spoke of receiving assistance from the crew, but the overall impression gained is that of a ship which was not properly prepared to handle such an emergency.

The ship itself was built nearly 40 years ago, and the overall fitness of a vessel of this age is one question which must be cleared up. Whether its equipment conformed to modern standards and needs is another, not to mention the training and discipline of the crew.

An immediate result of this tragedy will be a tightening up of regulations governing the movement of ships carrying large numbers of passengers. Chief concern was raised about the handling of the emergency on board the Yarmouth Castle that left much to be desired.

The British

The British have a way with them. In appearance and mannerisms they are instantly recognizable before even conversation reveals their origin.

An airline crew relaxing over a cup of coffee in a downtown Toronto hotel made us dwell on this theme. One of the pilots sported a bushy mustache and looked like comedian Jimmy Edwards and all were engaged in lively conversation.

The British, contrary to general opinion, are not all waiting to be introduced, and one can give them a smile or a friendly word, albeit as mutual strangers, and they will not regard you as some kind of nut, as can be the case in similar circumstances on this continent.

So when the crew rose to leave and a fellow sitting nearby said, "How is the U.K., is it still there?" one of the stewardesses responded with a smile. Well, it was still there when we left Thursday (and this was a Saturday). Now we are on a stopover before we go back."

She was bright, brisk, friendly—and unmistakably British.

Never the Same

There is a saying that one can never go back . . . back, that is, to the one led before, perhaps in another place. Young people who travel overseas come back home and they are never the same again. Similarly, adults who attempt to pick up the reins in surroundings they knew in an earlier time are restless.

For the islanders of remote Tristan da Cunha in the South Atlantic it is no different. A Capetown report says many of them are pining for the modern, bustling life they tasted in Britain.

The report says two settlers are already on their way back to the bright lights they left in 1963 and others plan to leave in April.

The entire population of the island first went to Britain after a volcano destroyed their homes in October 1961. Most of them, homesick for Tristan, returned to the island in 1963. Now a new exodus seems to be under way, and for those who leave for Britain this time it will likely be for keeps.

"What are you—some kind of a nut or something?"

Skim Milk, Peroxide No Cures for Cankers

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please advise the cause of canker sores in my husband's mouth. He says skim milk will be beneficial while I say he should take pure peroxide and hold it in his mouth for a minute or so. Perhaps both the skim milk — he drinks a quart a day — plus the peroxide wash? — Mrs. A. F.

If he has been drinking that much milk, I should think he might suspect by now that it is not the right answer. His idea may have come from the fact that one form of treatment consists of taking tablets containing lactobacillus in the mouth. (This doesn't always work, either).

The fact is that the cause of canker sores is not known, common as they are, and there is every reason to think that the cause varies in different cases.

Allergy to some food or other has been blamed in many cases, and not infrequently that seems to be the right answer. It takes some care, watching to see if you can find such a relationship.

Sensitivity to a dentifrice or mouth wash is a possibility.

If at least take the trouble to note whether irritation from a sharp point on a tooth or dental prosthesis may be causing it. It happens. Then see your dentist.

In still some cases recurring bacterial infection, in the sinus or other mouth membranes can be involved — which is another reason for having the dentist check over his teeth if it hasn't been done lately.

So, if in this particular case, it should turn out to be allergy the use of peroxide won't help. But in resisting from secondary infection, then probably some more vigorous treatment is need ed.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is Vitamin K? And what about the advantages or disadvantages of taking a small dose a day for blood clotting. — Mrs. S. H.

Vitmin K has been called the coagulation vitamin.

It is helpful in making the blood clot, and thus stop bleeding, in certain cases, and not effective in others. For example, it is not effective, if basically the bleeding is due to cirrhosis of the liver. On the other hand, if anticoagulants have been given, or for some other reason the blood does not have enough platelets (special clotting particles) to control bleeding, then Vitamin K is very good indeed.

Thus it is a rather complicated problem to know when Vitamin K should be used and when it shouldn't. A small dose (one a day for example) can be very valuable if the patient is otherwise subject to bleeding because of special drugs, or some deficiency in the blood.

Let your doctor decide whether you need Vitamin K, and how much.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a blotch in my eye which moves, and when I read it is very annoying. Are my specialists able to give any explanation but just said that it would have to live with it and that it is common in people over 45. I am 67. I would like to know more about it. — Mrs. P. W.

It is true that such a spot or blotches are common from the 40's on. It is wise to have an examination because occasionally they may be an indication of some serious eye affliction.

Usually, however, your's is what we call a floater, due to chemical changes in the fluid of the eyeball. Ordinary floaters don't do any harm and don't signify trouble. They are just annoying. Since there isn't any thing that can be done about them, we just have to get used to them.

I take it for granted that, since you were examined, a floater is what you have.

The modern Suez Canal was officially opened 96 years ago today—in 1869—19 years after Ferdinand de Lesseps had been authorized to start work. The first canal had been dug about 2000 BC and had been periodically restored until after the Mohammedan conquest. The French venture was opposed by Britain at first, and work on the canal was stopped more than once. However, in 1869, Queen Victoria received de Lesseps in London and Britain later bought shares in the international venture.

It must be a great help to people learning English.

Wouldn't the same broadcast device help Western Canadians learn French?

We have the CBC and we have an excellent CHFA in Edmonton. Have they ever given thought to "Special French" newscasts or documentaries?

Students, we are sure, would benefit. So would those adults who, hearing a French language broadcast, can identify the general topic — but get lost in the rapid-fire delivery.

Strictly Personal

How a Word Can Change Its Meaning

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

How much precision should we demand in writing and speaking? What does precision turn into mere pedantry? These are difficult questions to answer — for if we are sloppy, the language degenerates, and if we are too rigid, the language stultifies.

Several readers objected to my use of the phrase "steam shovel" in a recent column on urban development. They pointed out that steam shovels have not been used in road work for a long time, and that the machines I saw were not operated by steam.

True enough, and if I had known what those machines were called, I would have called them by their right name. But some words become fixed in the language, and it is hard to dislodge them.

For example, we speak of turning a "manuscript" over to the printer. A "manuscript" is, literally, something written by hand; but most so-called manuscripts today are "typescripts." Few writers send hand-written material directly to the printer; yet the word "typescript" has not won its way into our vocabulary, even though it is more accurate.

We still call a non-sleeping car on a train a "coach," because our chief conveyance, before the introduction of the locomotive, were coaches. Likewise, a certain kind of car is a "station wagon," even though it is not a wagon and rarely goes to the station.

What we call a "cab" or "taxicab" today comes from the old carriages known as plain "taximeter cabriolet." A cabriolet was first a light two-wheel hooded one-horse chaise; then, in the early days of motor cars, an auto with fixed sides and a folding top. (The word "hack," still applied by many cab drivers to their cars, is even older, going back to the "hackney carriages" of England.)

One of the most popular, and ingenious, attempts to fix the current word (no pun intended) "battery" for a single cell. Almost every dictionary defines "battery" as a set of two or more cells connected electrically — yet even the manufacturers refer to a single cell as a "battery."

(Incidentally, the very word "manufacture" is so much a misnomer today as is "manuscript." To "manufacture" once meant originally to "make by hand," but almost nothing that is now manufactured is made by hand.)

We continue to call porters at railroad stations "porters" (we call in vain, usually,) even though they don't wear redcaps any more. We still call hotel porters "bellboys," even though they are no longer boys, and deeply resent the depreciatory term, as well they may.

A "stenographer" is now simply an obstacle course for race horses; in the 18th century, it began as a sport called "putting the steeple," in which a group of riders would pick out some distant church steeple as a goal, and race toward it. The object has changed, but the name has stuck — like "steam shovel."

Canada's Foolish Tax Laws

Stratford Beacon-Herald

When is a biscuit a drug, and when is a drug a biscuit?

The strangest things get mixed up with the problems of tax collection, and this was one of the questions that was referred all the way up the tax-appeal ladder to the Exchequer Court of Canada. A recent decision by the Exchequer Court seems to say that when a drug company manufactures and sells a biscuit, it can be taxed as a drug if the company advertises it that way. The test seems to be the style of advertising, rather than the nature of the biscuit.

This is a tricky case to understand, but it is worth trying to understand, because of what it implies about the foolishness of tax laws in Canada.

The drug company (Pfizer), marketed a biscuit which it advertised as being useful for weight reduction. The sales-tax division of the Department of National Revenue assessed the company for $50,000 in sales tax, on the grounds that the biscuit was being sold as a pharmaceutical. The company appealed against the tax assessment, arguing that it wasn't a drug, but simply something to eat. Food is not liable to sales tax.

The court held that the advertising of the product had claimed that it was useful in controlling obesity that obesity is an abnormal condition in human; that anything sold for the purpose of curing an abnormal condition is a pharmaceutical or drug.

The company was told it would have to pay the $50,000.

The ridiculous thing is that we still have a sales tax on drugs. A Royal Commission, a select committee of the Commons Legislature, and a committee of the House of Commons at Ottawa have all agreed, in various times over the past three years, that there should not be any Dominion sales tax on drugs and medicines. In the last session of the last Parliament, Finance Minister Walter Gordon said he was waiting for the results of further studies before deciding whether the sales tax on drugs should be removed. That's where the matter rested when the 26th Parliament was elected. Perhaps the 27th Parliament, which we are choosing today, will get around to doing something about it.

Oil Deposits In Maritimes?

Montreal Gazette

It is hard to see how the federal Government can insist on a strictly legalistic interpretation of offshore mineral rights, when the Government of the United States, faced with the same problem, had in the end to find a political compromise.

The difficulties confronting Ottawa are seen again in the statement made recently by Premier Robert Stanfield. He said that if Nova Scotia loses its offshore mineral rights, it may lose its chance to achieve economic quality with central and western Canada.

What Premier Stanfield has particularly in mind is the possibility that oil might be discovered. If this should happen, the economic outlook of Nova Scotia would be drastically changed.

The case of Nova Scotia has been to some extent established by long precedent. For generations coal has been mined in the province's area. Nova Scotia's right was never challenged. The determination now of the ownership of offshore lands is the matter to the Supreme Court opens up the possibility, supposing the court decided in Ottawa's favor, of oil being developed just off Nova Scotia's shores, but beyond the jurisdiction of the provincial government.

Quebec has raised similar objections to Ottawa's move. So has Newfoundland, and so has British Columbia.

The Government of the United States, having gained a Supreme Court decision in 1947 in "paramount" rights in offshore areas, attempted for a time to vote bills passed by Congress which would have given these rights to the states. But the Eisenhower regime spoon-fed a bill to give the states offshore rights "within their historic boundaries."

However the Supreme Court of Canada might say, it would be politically impossible for Ottawa to adopt a dog-in-the-manger attitude.

UN Admits Maldive Islanders

St. Catharines Standard

The Maldive Islanders are happy because the admission of their nation to the United Nations, and also rejoice that theirs is the smallest member nation of the international organization for peace. Actually the population of the Maldives is only 93,000, less than that of a large Canadian city.

It is also said that the modern world has brushed only lightly against the sunny archipelago in the Indian Ocean. There are no police, no traffic, no telephones, no television. Orchids grow everywhere, notes the National Geographic News Bulletin, and flowering creepers with fragrant violet blooms cover every wall. Backyard gardens are filled with breadfruit trees, mangoes, papaw, coconut, and bananas.

Under British protection since 1887, the Maldive Islands became independent this year. It is one of the world's few remaining sultanates, but the sultan is now elected with a prime minister and a parliament.

With little to worry over, the Maldivans are high-spirited and fond of fun. Their favorite sport is kite flying. Altogether the islands sound like a good place for quiet vacations, excepting that it is a difficult place to reach. Perhaps the representative of the Maldives to the United Nations will prove effective in teaching his fellow members that the way to good living is superior to the rat race of the American continent.

Liquor Bill

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1964, the Federal and provincial governments took in $553 million in taxes on the sale of $1,079,000.00 worth of alcoholic beverages. The total sale comes to more than $50 a year for every man, woman and child — including infants — in the country.

There's not much use trying to argue that a country which can afford a billion-dollar house bill can't afford nearly any reasonable welfare measure that is needed.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

During the war the Great Lakes gave up huge quantities of scrap. Several hundred tons were salvaged from the abandoned quarries on Kelley's Island. One barge-load was made up of 50 tons of rusted steam shovels and other machinery. The Lake Carriers' Bulletin reports.

The old passenger ship, City of Erie, succumbed to the nation's wartime hunger for metal. Built in 1894 at a cost of $375,000, she was the pride of the lakes in her day.

And let it be said, on behalf of the lakes seamen, that the needs of their nation came first. In all that raking and scraping of the lakes from top to bottom, the $100,000 cargo of kegged Scotch that went down with the Regina in 1913 is still unsalvaged, untapped and still aging—so far as is known.

Col. S. S. Lazier, being the senior officer present, placed the decoration upon the breast of the Archdeacon and in a few well chosen words for the excellent services he has rendered.

When attending the assize in Napanee, Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P., of this city, gave a complimentary dinner at The Grand Union to Judge Hart, Mr. Justice Sutherland, Judge Rogers and all members of the bar in attendance at the assize.

Last evening the fire brigade was called to Kerr's boat house south from the bridge. A lighted lantern dropped accidentally and set fire to a boat. The damage was slight.

From our file copy at this time in 1865: "West Bridge St. from the top of Murney Hill to the Fair Grounds is about the worst street in the city; the mud on it at present is several inches deep."

Inept Criminals

Halifax Chronicle Herald

Canada is fairly firmly convinced of their natural superiority over the female of the species might have gained a feeling of inverted pride from a recent study which concluded that "most women make inept criminals."

What was not stressed, however, was the fact that the only female criminals who are cleverness or lack of it can be studied are those who are caught. Presumably the ones everyone knows that criminal courts see many more men than women.

Our sense of the romantic persuaded us to go on believing that the shady side of the law is familiar ground to many unheralded modern imitators of Medea or Lady Macbeth, whose initiative and resourcefulness made them worthy successors of Eve, the cause of it all.

Subconscious Purchasing

It is often the small things in life that at one and the same time cause the biggest headaches and offer the most enjoyment.

One of these small things in life has to be buying a rug. Some may say a rug is not a small thing, but compared to buying a car or a house or an elephant, it is.

The best way to start the rug-buying process is to first determine one is needed. This is done after 59 consecutive daily badgering comments from the woman of the house.

"Dear, we need a rug."

"What for?"

"Don't you have any feeling for me? I have to clean those floors every day. I have to worry every time somebody walks on my floor."

At first, the badgering can be ignored, but it is like commercials, you don't think they are having any effect, but before you know it your subconscious has been enslaved.

Then, suddenly, without really knowing what you are doing, you say to your wife, after she has had her usual say, "Dear, why don't we get a rug?"

"A rug," she says. "Where do you think we are going to get the money?" What do we want with a rug? All you think about is buying things. What's the matter with you?" (At this stage there is no possible answer to that question).

"Well we are going to have a rug."

The plot worked. At first she wanted her husband to want a rug. Once that want had been planted, the next task was to make sure that he continued to buy the rug was his. Then if anything happens — like if mother gets sick of the color after two weeks — guess who gets the blame? However, if everything connected with the rug turns out fine, she can always point to the fact that it was her idea in the first place.

The next problem is to decide the color.

"How about an orange rug?"

"Orange!" she hollers. "Where is your taste?"

However, she must ignore that comment and plug on, seeing that she has been defeated by you-know-who to choose the color.

"Red?"

"Ugh!"

Still, the man should not be discouraged. After all, he has the choice of color.

"Blue?"

"It wouldn't go with the chair."

"White . . . yellow . . . polka dots . . . " and so on, down the line that the colors have been exhausted.

Now that it has been established that hubby is not the one to choose the color, things can proceed.

"What do the papers for the sales.

"Dear, Banal's have got rugs on sale."

"Yeh."

"Dear, we should go down and see them."

"Yeh."

"Dear, are you paying any attention to me?"

"What's that dear?"

"I said get your coat, I'm ready."

"For what?"

"For going down to Banal's and look at the rugs like you promised."

"I said that?"

"Of course you did. If you'd get your eyes away from that TV set for a minute you'd know what you were doing."

"Then drive down to the store goes swiftly.

"May I help you?" asks the salesman.

"Where is the carpet you had on sale?"

"Any other colors?"

"No, but I do have some lovely carpet over here."

"Pretty expensive isn't it?"

"No, not really. Why when you think of how many years longer the carpet will last and how much more enjoyment you will get out of it, not to mention how much more attractive it will look and . . . "

"We'll take it." (Who can fight progress?)

"You could of course you need padding for it, and with that grade of carpet may I suggest this padding. It may cost a bit more but when you consider . . . "

"We'll take it."

"I'm sure you will be happy with it sir."

"Happy maybe, but broke."

"Pardon?"

"I said do you deliver?"

"Yes. When do you want it?"

"Saturday."

"Fine. See you then. Thank you very much."

So you walk out of the store with a brand new status. You are now a carpet owner. Actually that's what a carpet owner. But who wanted to be a carpet owner? What have you done?

"Dear, I think we'd better cancel the carpet."

"You wouldn't dare."

She is right.

Saturday the carpet comes. Then men put it down and are gone, leaving hubby and wife home alone to enjoy their new carpet.

"It does look nice hey does it?"

"I told you it would," she says.

Time goes by about two minutes.

"Don't you like the rug?" she asks.

"Of course I do."

"Then why don't you say so?"

"I did."

"You didn't. You just sit there watching that TV set like the rug wasn't even there."

And that is where we came in. But all is not lost. After all, how can you sweep the dirt under the carpet if you don't have one?

"All I know is she insisted on a church wedding and he insisted on keeping their marriage secret."

Still Two Voting Days in '65, Nominations Next Wednesday

The November 8th federal election is now out of the way but there is still plenty of voting ahead this year for Belleville residents.

Next Monday, November 22nd, local residents will go to the polls on a liquor plebiscite while on December 6th there are the annual municipal elections.

For some Belleville residents there will be two liquor votes on Monday. In all parts of the city there will be a general vote on cocktail lounges, while in the east end of the city and in Hillcrest, residents will also vote on the question of government outlets for a liquor store, brewers' retail store or wine store.

Then on December 6th, voters again will go to the polls to elect a new mayor, public utilities commissioners and public and separate school board trustees.

ALL TWO-YEAR TERMS

In addition to a new mayor, two utilities commissioners, 10 aldermen and eight public and separate school trustees will be elected.

Nominations will be held at city hall Wednesday evening, November 24th, starting at 7.30.

All elected offices in the city this year will be for two year terms, while the number of councillors is being reduced from the present 14 to ten.

The eight public school trustees and the eight separate school trustees will be elected by general vote instead of by the former ward system.

In other words all voters will be entitled to vote for eight public or eight separate school board trustees, instead of voting only for candidates in their own wards.

Also on December 6th voters will again vote on the question of Sunday movies.

4 Planes Lost

tal of 800 Communist troops had been confirmed killed in the action, according to the latest count.

More scores of Americans also were killed or wounded as they fought off the waves of green-uniformed North Vietnamese troops.

More U.S. troops had been flown into the area after the engagement of the war, sources said.

Today, the North Vietnamese remained crouching in silt trenches on surrounding slopes as the B-52 bombers loosed strings of 1,000-pound bombs on the Communist positions.

Under cover of the massive air bombardment, troops of the U.S. cavalry division regrouped in the hills behind Ia Drang Valley, where the fighting has been heaviest.

Reports from the battleground said the Americans had withdrawn. However, an official spokesman in Saigon said no withdrawal had been made. He said the cavalrymen had only "changed their positions" to avoid being hit by the B-52 bombing.

The four planes lost over North Viet Nam were bombing a highway-railroad complex in the southeastern part of the country. The assault apparently was part of an effort to isolate the capital from Haiphong, North Viet Nam's chief port.

It was not immediately known whether this was the first raid against the rail-line linking the two cities.

All four planes were lost within 70 minutes, the spokesman said. Two were reported hit by surface-to-air fire. The cause of the loss of the other two planes was not known.

WEDDING

GOLKA — YOUNG

Brosne and gold 'mums decorated the altar in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel recently when Cherylie Ann Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young, Belleville was united in marriage to Dominic Francis Golka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Golka of Belleville. Father Kelly officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was provided by Miss Dorothy Grant.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta highlighted with inserts of French lace dotted with tiny pearls. The bodice featured a boat neckline and long lily-point sleeves. A shoulder-length veil fell from a crown of pearls. She carried a nosegay of deep pink roses.

Miss Jacqueline Sharland as maid of honor wore a gold sheet-length taffeta gown with matching bow headdress and carried a bouquet of bronze and yellow 'mums. The bridesmaids Miss Deborah Young, sister of the bride and Miss Judy Baker were gowned identically to the maid of honor but in green. Both wore matching bow headdresses and carried bouquets of bronze and yellow 'mums. The little flower girl was Miss Beverly Young, sister of the bride who wore a white organdy frock with matching lace jacket. She carried a basket of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Mr. Robert Golka attended his brother, while Mr. James Ingram and Mr. Douglas Guest were the ushers.

For the reception at the bride's home, the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a blue wool dress, black and white accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother, who wore a green wool suit, brown accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Quebec and points east the bride chose a winter white wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Golka will reside at Maple Court, East Bridge Street, Belleville.

Greek Orthodox Church Denounced for Refusal To Ease Divorce Laws

ATHENS (Reuters) —An organization claiming to represent 100,000 Greeks and their 50,000 illegitimate children has denounced the Greek Orthodox Church for its "anti-Christian and unconscionable" refusal to ease divorce laws.

The church, which still rules matrimony laws in this country in which there are no civil marriages, turned down a motion favored by the justice minister, 65 deputies and a parliamentary committee, which charged that present divorce laws are rife with blackmail and perjury.

The motion recommended making divorce automatic after a couple has been separated for seven years.

The pro - divorce group, the Pan-Hellenic Union for the Protection of the Family Institution, charged that only 20 of the 55 metropolitans of the church were present when the proposal was turned down at a meeting lasting less than 15 minutes, and pressed over by 85-year-old Archbishop Primate Chrysostomos

NO FOURTH MARRIAGE

Divorce can already be granted by civil courts, but only after a lengthy procedure initiated by the "offended" party.

The church fathers also refused the motion's second plea, that Greek citizens be allowed to marry a fourth time. This is so far refused by the law and forbidden by the church.

The motion denounced the present divorce laws,

"The links of marriage, which are sacred, have been disregarded and the procedure of divorce becomes a comedy performed under the authority of justice which accepts both blackmail and false testimony," it charged.

"It is inadmissible that for reasons of sheer judicial procedure or because of the obstinacy of one of the parties a husband and wife who have been separated for more than seven years cannot reacquire their freedom."

Ann Landers

What Has This Woman Been Using for Heart

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have not seen my husband's family for years. His mother is domineering and tyrannical. Her children have olders and they're nervous or divorced.

My husband was lucky. He broke away at 18 and has not considered himself part of the family since. We have made attempts at limited contact but it has always ended in a fight, so we gave up.

ANN LANDERS

Now his parents are old and crying around Florida because nobody visits them. My husband has begun to talk about the early memories, which were good. He says he wishes things could have been different.

A question has been raised about whether we should attend the funeral when the time comes. I say "No!" He feels he should go. Isn't this the height of hypocrisy? Your opinion is wanted. — COLUMBUS COUPLE.

DEAR COUPLE: When you die, Madame, I suggest that you leave your remains to a medical school. It would be interesting to find out what you've been using for a heart.

If you don't feel like going to the funeral when your in-laws pass on, stay home but please don't add to your husband's guilt by talking him out of going. I very much hope he goes to visit his parents while he can still see them alive. Without you they'll probably get along just dandy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I call a spade a spade, so please clean up the language and print this letter.

I divorced my husband six years ago because he had the morals of an alley cat. Our daughter was eight years old. Last year he married a society dame who is filthy rich. She too was divorced and had two children by her former marriage.

Our daughter spends every Friday and Saturday with her father and his family. They live in a beautiful home, the kids have maid service and they eat on a mahogany table with organdy place mats.

Lately my daughter has found a lot wrong with me and our apartment. She says dad's place is more her style. Also the food over there is better. She told me yesterday that her dad is a wonderful man and I made a mistake when I divorced him.

I don't like the way things are heading. How does a mother tell a 14-year-old daughter that her dad was a rat? — EIGHT BALL.

DEAR EIGHT: You don't tell her any such thing. You try to give her a 24ecent set of values so she will not be fooled into thinking that organdy place mats and maid service create a happy home.

If you give your daughter love and feeling of personal worth you need not worry about losing out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Four years ago I became friendly with the real estate man (married) who sold us our home. He began coming by the house several times a week to make sure the roof was in good shape, the furnace was O.K. and like that. Well, Ann, the inevitable happened. We fell for each other.

Five months ago my husband died. I know I should stop seeing this married man but I'm so depressed I can't make the break.

Last night I looked at his billfold which was on the dresser. When I saw the picture of his wife and four children I felt like a worm. But what is a lonely widow to do?" Please. Tell me. — VALENTINE.

DEAR VAL: Put that show on the road.

So you are lonesome? What was your excuse for the four years that your husband was alive? The short answer to your question, "What is a lonely widow to do?" goes like this: Straighten up and fly right.

Woman Finds She Can Run Newspaper

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Two years ago, Mrs. Guy Easterly was told that her husband, for 30 years publisher of the LaPalette Press in Tennessee, had cancer.

Five weeks later he was dead.

That was when she took over the newspaper to carry on as she thought her husband, a former National Editorial Association president, would have wanted.

Now, she said in recalling her decision, she is accepted as an editor and publisher and businessmen and politicians confide in her.

Mrs. Easterly was in Omaha for the National Newspaper Association convention and recalled that while her husband was living she went to many conventions with him — and passed up the temptations to go shopping in favor of attending convention sessions.

"I never realized then that I'd have to use the information," she said.

Mrs. Easterly said her experience had convinced her that a woman with a proper background can operate a newspaper as well as a man, and has brought to her a fuller and deeper appreciation of a newspaper's role in a community.

"It is absolutely vital. I still find it hard to believe how much people respect the paper and rely on it for guidance."

Asked about her future plans, Mrs. Easterly smiled and said: "I always said I'd sell if things got too tough. But then I haven't got too rough yet."

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The monthly meeting of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose Hall with Sr. Rgl. Nellie Scrymgeour presiding.

Four candidates were balloted on and will be enrolled later.

The recorder read thank-you cards from co-workers who received gifts while ill and a thank-you card from the Rupert family for flowers sent to the funeral.

A draw prize, donated by chairman Helen Kellar, was won by Margaret Lake.

A euchre is to be held at Clara Seems' home on Thursday night.

Recorder Ruby Stapley was elected to buy toys for the children's Christmas tree to be held on December 11.

A russian sale will be held on November 28th.

The Christmas supper will be held on December 9th, convened by Nellie Burke with the help of all co-workers.

The meeting was brought to a close with a game of euchre. Lunch was served by Helen Keller, chairman of the month, and her committee.

Winners of the Monday night euchre were: Mr. Cole, N. Scrymgeour, Mrs. Teeney, Mae Newery, William Scrymgeour and Nellie Burke.

For Many Soldiers' Wives The Waiting Time Is Over

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — They call themselves "the wives who wait."

For some of them the waiting is over. The husbands they waited for will never come back from the fighting in Viet Nam. They have died in action with the 101st U.S. Airborne Division, whose home base Ft. Campbell is.

For others the waiting goes on. They ease their coffee time time to time to help keep up each other's morale.

At a recent meeting, movies of the 101st Airborne in action, pieced together from television film and newsreels, were shown to the wives who wait.

Some members of the audience rushed out in tears when they saw pictures of their husbands flash across the screen. Some of the husbands were still alive, some were dead. Three had been killed in the preceding four days.

About 8,000 of the U.S. troops committed in southeast Asia have been dispatched from this sprawling base on the Tennessee-Kentucky border since July.

Many of the wives remained here because this is home to the career soldiers and their families. Many own homes on the base of the "Screaming Eagles," as the division calls itself.

HER WAITING ENDED

The mutual interest group formed by the wives has done much to help them face the sometimes tragic problems which result from war.

"These are things we have to talk about because we know it's a real war, even though we're waiting in a nice room in pretty dresses," says Mrs. Jean Rawls.

Mrs. Rawls is no longer a wife who waits. Her husband, Capt. Robert Rawls, was raked by machine-gun fire and killed as he took his Charlie Company 1st Brigade, 101st Airborne, up a hill near An Nhi Sept. 18.

Upon the advice of the chaplain, the pert, blonde mother of six continued as a member of the group.

"We don't have any officers or dues," Mrs. Rawls explains. "We just have each other—to help each other."

"Operation Cookiebake" was one way the group found to pass the time. More than 8,500 dozen cookies were baked through the efforts of the wives themselves, area churches, scout troops, civic groups and home demonstration clubs. They were packaged by the wives and sent to Sewart Air Force Base at nearby Smyrna, Tenn., to await transport to Viet Nam.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GEORGE, MOTHER OF 5

If there's a second baby in the offing, it's a good idea to plan a few "away-from-home" visits for your first child . . . about once a month. An occasional afternoon at grandmother's, especially if baby is going to stay there when you're in the hospital. Or a few visits at a neighbour's home, possibly, in this way he'll get accustomed to your absence, probably won't feel your loss so keenly while you're away.

Early starter for the new baby will, of course, be specially prepared fruit juice . . . to provide a vitamin C. Gerber Strained Orange Juice (now in handy "six-packs") or Apple Juice are both excellent starting juices for infants. Both are pleasing and mild. The Orange Juice is a natural source of vitamin C (ascorbic acid). Equal amounts of the vitamin have been added to Gerber Apple Juice. One can of either will give baby an ample supply of this important vitamin.

Advance plan. As baby gets a bit older, he (or she) will enjoy the 3 combination juice drinks also offered by Gerber. Try all three: Orange-Apple, Orange-Banana, Orange-Pineapple Drinks. Bonne in bles!

Toddler tactic. Why not keep a supply of inexpensive toys on hand? Then, when girl-hearing callers come to admire the new baby, you can slip one of the toys to them to present to the older child. Does wonders for his (or her) sense of importance.

Golden treasure for baby's pleasure. Gerber Strained Egg Yolks are a sunny delight for any age. A creamy, custard-like texture and a delightful, fresh-egg flavour make for a truly happy mealtime surprise. What's the good nutrientsuition? Gerber Egg Yolks provide iron and vitamin A, are a good source of protein. Delightful just by the spoonful or as a topping for baby's cereal.

Special nog treat for older tots: Blend a cup of milk with 2 tbs. Gerber Egg Yolks, 1 can of Gerber Orange Juice and 2 tsp. sugar. Nothing short of wonderful! Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Miss MacKenzie, 38-year-old native of Winnipeg, asked for all community property and custody of their two children, MacKenzie, 4, and Gisele, 3.

She married Shuttleworth, a Toronto native, in a surprise wedding in Las Vegas, Nev., in 1958. He was then her manager. They separated last Oct. 18.

In her complaint, Miss MacKenzie asked that community debts be divided between them.

She said she is self-supporting and asked only $1 token alimony and reasonable child support.

Susanna's Family Fare

BATTLE STATIONS EVERYONE!

Dear Susanna: My husband is a fine, kind, generous man, but like many men, the pressure of business and his participation in community affairs leave him very little time with his family. The children accept and understand this situation, and appreciate what he is doing for them — and personally I'm never happier than when I'm working or playing with our offspring — 3 boys, 2 girls, ages 9 to 17.

I am delighted to help with school work, sew numbers and emblems on sweaters, help look up project material, search in the woods for rare botanical specimens, and all the 101 things mothers can do for and with their children: but I refuse to let the situation become one-sided, so I make just as many demands on them in return — and I'm usually thrilled at their response. Last evening was such a classic example that I'm sure many families will be interested in what can be accomplished by teamwork.

My husband forgot to call me regarding two out-of-town associates he had invited home to dinner, until about an hour before they were due to arrive. After I hung up the phone, rather sweetly (I think) I pressed the panic button and everyone rallied around. We made a list of 14 things that had to be taken care of — vacuuming and dusting touch-ups, washroom to clean, fresh towels, chips and dip and ice cubes to set out, and so it went.

Each one tackled what he or she could do best and the times were checked off as they were completed. The dinner I had in the oven was kept for the company and the children fixed themselves quick pick-me-up suppers on T.V. trays and took them up to the second floor den so that all was serene and orderly on the main floor when father and his friends arrived.

Afterwards there was much laughter and excitement as we related to father what a funny, wild experience it had been. Actually it was also a most satisfying one. Everyone had pitched in to help for the common good, and it made us feel like such a real family. — Mrs. Harper Wilson

Mission completed! — Susanna.

LIGHTLY AND POLITELY

Stop Use Of Unsanitary Cotton Bags

OTTAWA (CP) — The Consumers Association of Canada reported Tuesday that the federal food and drug directorate has taken action to stop the use of unsanitary cotton bags in flour packaging.

The association complained to the directorate recently that some flour mills and bakeries were re-using cotton bags for flour without cleaning and fumigating them. As a result, there were cases in which consumers found the flour infested by bugs.

A statement said the directorate has warned mill operators and plans inspections to ensure that flour bags are properly cleaned.

The Experts Say

Planning and Patience Make Christmas Pictures

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—If you want Christmas pictures that show how splendid the house looked or move of an excited child than a hasty left ear, a bit of planning and patience would help.

If you have an ordinary camera without sophisticated lens and time adjustments there are some limitations on what you can take with best results.

You probably won't get a shot of the Christmas tree that shows it as sparkling as it really was, Carl Cundiff of Canadian Kodak says. It would need a time exposure to register the lights fully.

The same applies to pictures of an outdoor tree or the house taken from outdoors at night. An ordinary camera will probably only register spots of light.

BE PREPARED

He suggests you start planning Christmas pictures well ahead of time. Be sure your flash is working, for instance.

"We get cameras in all the time with complaints that the flash isn't working. Usually it's because they need new batteries. A lot of people don't realize the flash works on batteries. Especially if you haven't used the camera for a while, check the batteries by taking a couple of shots before Christmas Day.

"If you want to take pictures quickly, perhaps when the kids are opening presents, plan ahead. Have an idea where you want to be taking pictures from. Know where your flash bulbs are and have an ash tray or something ready to dispose of old ones.

"When the camera steady. We sometimes suggest holding your breath the second you push the shutter, and squeeze it gently, don't rock the camera."

"Even if you want to work quickly, if you aren't sure you have your subject in the view finder, take a second look. The camera will only record what you put in it."

MEASURE DISTANCE

On the average camera the flash is adequate in a range of six to 10 feet. If you get much closer you will overexpose, much fasher away and your subject will look dark.

"Room light can fool you. Even if it looks bright, the flash is usually a requirement.

"With a flash, watch out for mirrors or shiny windows which will reflect it and light streak your pictures."

If you are taking a flash picture near the fire, the tree, or any other light source, Mr Cundiff says an angled shot will usually give you best lighting. Try not to point the camera at the light source.

If you are working outdoors, keep your back to the sun if possible. If it's a bright, snowy day you may have problems, the manufacturer recommended exposure is cut down.

"The middle of the day is usually best for truest colors. We generally recommend against taking outdoor pictures after four."

Indoors or out, he says, cluttered backgrounds are another frequent cause for disappointing pictures. Look behind your subject.

If you want closeups, remember you cannot use the flash closer than six feet without overexposing. Without the flash the six-foot rule will probably still hold unless you want to get a closeup attachment which will allow you to get as close as three feet.

Help Separatists

MONTREAL (CP)—A 19-year-old youth who was employed as a civilian clerk by the city police department was committed Tuesday for trial following evidence that he transmitted police headquarters' plans and restricted lists to a member of a separatist organization. Witnesses testified that Andre Girard, charged with breach of trust, transmitted photostats of restricted departmental lists of headquarters and precinct officers.

Successful Living

Worried Over Odds In Mixed Marriages

DEAR DORIS: My daughter is a Protestant and brought up very strictly to God's word. Now she is going with a Catholic boy and plans on marrying him. Could you let me know what chance her marriage has statistically of working out?

My husband and I are strictly against it. Would you please answer my question so that I can show her? Maybe she will believe statistics. — WORRIED MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: I have done some hunting and can turn up no such statistics.

DORIS CLARK

If is reported to me that in a big city, where folks supposedly mind their own business, there is often no problem. In a village the story is different. Family, neighbors, friends, may all presume to judge and to separate themselves from the unhappy party to a mixed marriage.

This is apart from what it means to a husband and wife to try to achieve togetherness when they are everlastingly separate on this vital issue. I urge young people in such a fix to study each other's beliefs and try to arrive at a unity both can accept.

DEAR DORIS: I have a figure problem. I love to wear a two-piece bathing suit and even though I have a good figure and a tiny waist, it is ridiculous, since the area directly above my waist bulges out. The side view is horrifying. Are there any exercises I could do, since I realize dieting would do no good?— THANK YOU.

DEAR THANK YOU: That layer of fat may be caused by a sit-down desk job which encourages a slight forward slump. Deliberate erect posture, a good breathing exercise, and this one for the midriff can help:

Stand with back to wall, both arms outstretched, and reach upward with left arm as high as possible. Relax left arm and repeat, raising right arm. Breathe easily. Repeat five times and gradually increase to 10.

And go swimming!!

DEAR DORIS — My husband and I have been married for a year now and we would love to start a family but so far we have had no luck. We both love children very much, and we would love to have a young baby of our own. I am 18 and my husband is 19.

Many people have been saying that I will not have a baby because I am too and this has upset me a great deal. Is this true? — CHILDLESS

DEAR CHILDLESS — Complete nonsense. Truth is, you are impatient. It takes a woman time to get pregnant, depending on such things as general physical health, relaxed attitude, good nourishment, rest. Nature may be holding off until you are readier for the responsibility and ordeal involved in having children.

Wait a little longer. Develop health habits. If it's no go, see your doctor, and have your husband tested too. There may be a simple mechanical correction to be done; or something requiring the skill of a specialist.

CHANGE CODE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force announced Monday it has changed the honor code at the Air Force Academy to one adopted most recommendations of a committee that studied the academy's practices after widespread cheating was disclosed there. Measures also have been taken which apparently would lead to lessening or emphasis on football.

Many Horse Exhibitors Live Close to Animals Entire Week of the Fair

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—Every year a colorful small town springs up behind the scenes at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Many of its people have known one another for years. Its streets are the aisles between stalls. All of its temporary homes are stalls. Most prominent citizens are horses.

People showing horses at the fair often spend the entire week living in tack rooms next to their horses. Even when they don't they make comfortable rooms out of the stalls, ready to entertain old friends visiting up and down the aisles.

The walls of the tack room stalls are covered, usually in fabric in the stable colors. Some are metal, some wood panelled. They are furnished with rugs, beds, easy chairs, chests, buffets, refrigerators, even chandeliers. The main decoration is often gleaming tack.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Croft of Rockwood, Ont., are living in their tack room this year. Horses kick the walls, rubber neckers stream past the door. Inside, the Crofts relax over coffee and meals. There are potted plants on the walls and pictures of their winners of other years.

WHY STAY?

They stay there, they say, for convenience and to be sure nothing happens to the horses. The animals could get stuck in a stall or get out and wander off or be fed too much by sightseers.

"It doesn't matter how we live," Mrs. Croft says. "The horses have to look good."

She drives them and shows them. She is the sort of enthusiast who began as a child driving a chair with binder-twine harness, hitching the German shepherd to a wagon.

The Crofts are mixed farmers. Their 10 horses are a paying hobby.

Mrs. Croft's day at the fair begins about 5 a.m. The horses need air and exercise during their week of being cooped indoors. Harness and buggy must be polished. The horses' tails and manes must be braided with ribbon, their feet washed.

In the meantime the Crofts must eat. Mr. Croft commutes to their farm and a truck-driving job. Mrs. Croft has to get herself ready for almost daily appearances in the driver's formal boots, breeches, stock, coat and derby.

By Monday this year their stable had two honorable mentions. During their 14 years at the Royal, they have been in the money many times.

Cycling's Popularity Strong, Sportswear Designers Happy

By MARGARET NESS

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP)—Sportswear for women, as we know it, was scarcely in existence before the turn of the century.

Croquet, a genteel game of tennis and horseback riding with sidesaddle were all accomplished in long skirts. Gradually the riding habit became breeches and high leather boots. The tennis costume shrank upwards until Gussie Moran came along with her flounce-causing lace panties. And croquet went out of style.

The bicycle craze of the 1890s introduced divided, but long, skirts. Shorts were a bicycling feature of the new winter vacations at resorts such as the Bahamas. Trousers and slims came into fashion with the motorcycle.

Bicycling is back in favor again. And now even the most timid and unathletic girls can ride a bicycle steadied by a strong male escort. For the American Machine and Foundry Co. has introduced a new side-by-side bicycle. It was previewed by some 150 fashion editors, guests of the New York Group on Grand Bahama Island.

Naturally, for the fashion editors, the clothes that were worn with the machines were almost more important than the harnessed bicycles. The New York models, flown in for the three-day sportswear showings, ram- ost in kick-pleat skirts, divided skirts and shorts. They rode nonchalantly—and apparently effortlessly—around the lawn of the plush Lucayan Beach Hotel.

Their escorts, recruited from the hotel staff, matched up to them in color, except in one case. A blonde model came out in a thin-striped pullover of Shetland yarns and a pink skirt. Her escort was in blue.

AFFORDS BEST EXERCISE

The cycling costumes by Bernhard Altmann featured new tussels, cooled and paled with white. One cardigan outfit was boldly striped in gold, apricot and tangerine. Another misty green pullover added a full of 1965 touch in lacey openwork sleeves.

The popular cable stitching that appeared in much of the fall sportswear was also used by Altmann in a cable-collared pullover, to team with a double-pleated Shetland bicycle skirt.

An added incentive to get you on a bicycle comes from a noted Boston heart specialist, He says he believes bicycling is the best form of over-all exercise. Also it will help slim your hips and whittle down your waistline. And waistlines are in fashion again, from sports to evening wear.

A fashion acknowledgement is due to Mrs. Amelia Bloomer of Seneca Falls, N.Y., for her early influence on bicycling outfits. Mrs. Bloomer decided women needed more freedom in sports clothes and dreamed up a sort of a Turkish trouser style.

As with all revolutionary changes, her "bloomers," as they came to be called, were ridiculed at first. But shortly after her death in 1894 they were developed into knickerbockers that instantly became popular for the new sport of bicycling. They were full, fastened below the knees and worn with button-up leggings. Along with them was worn a leg-of-mutton, long-sleeved blouse.

The costume, which seems ridiculous today, was a milestone in the emancipation of women for active sport participation. Today with slims or shorts or knee-high skirts we wear casual sweaters or comfortable blouses.

As a footnote, movie star Joan Crawford, official hostess to the fashion press during their Bahamas weekend, lists comfort as her first fashion requisite.

FRUIT BAVARIAN CREAM

"Mary, how do you get your jellied moulds to turn out perfectly?"

This question is asked, wistfully, by so many amateurs and experts that I think I should tackle it.

The rule in making gelatine moulds is that 1 tablespoon plain gelatine will set 2 cups (16 oz.) liquid. This works — it will set 2 cups water or milk, but the variety of additions made in these mixtures often reduces the jelling power of gelatine. In fact fresh pineapple not only reduces jelling power, it prevents it. Sugar does not jell readily — you must allow for it when creating a recipe by adding more gelatine than the rule states.

The following Fruit Bavarian Cream serves 10 generously and is sensational and easy and moderate in cost for a party. It may be set in a ring mould or a 6-cup pyramid mould. It is firm enough to alleviate all of your apprehensions yet velvet smooth and rich.

WEDNESDAY (Guests)
Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Wyn's Pork Chop Casserole (see Mon.): Carrot Pimiento (see Tues.): Endive and Cucumber Salad with Sour Cream Dressing: Apple Pie with Cheddar Cheese; Tea.

FRUIT BAVARIAN CREAM
(Serves 10):

NOTE:

Make this at least 6 hours before serving.

2 ½ tablespoons plain gelatine, ¾ cup sugar, divided, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, yolks and white separated, ¾ cup evaporated milk (1 6-oz. can), 1 cup warm water, ¾ teaspoon vanilla, ½ pint 35% cream, whipped, ¾ to ½ cup chopped pecans, ½ cup sliced maraschino cherries (could be red and green), 1 cup well drained diced, fresh fruit such as peaches or strawberries or frozen fresh raspberries, or canned cubed pineapple.

In top of double boiler, mix together gelatine, ¼ cup of the sugar, and the salt. Beat the egg yolks, add the evaporated milk and warm water to them and stir into the gelatine mixture. Cook over boiling water, stirring, until gelatine is dissolved and mixture slightly thickened — about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Chill until it begins to set. Beat egg whites until stiff, then beat remaining sugar into beaten whites. Fold gelatine mixture into beaten whites. Fold whipped cream in too and the fresh fruits and nuts. Turn into a 6-cup mould and chill until set. To turn out, stand mould in hot (not boiling) water and count slowly to 10. Remove from water. Invert centre of serving dish over mould and gripping both firmly, invert. Tap mould to start cream loosening. If it does not, cover outside of mould with a tea towel wrung out of hot water. Garnish attractively with sliced maraschino cherries or fresh frozen raspberries.

Jackie Learned to Accept Unthinkable

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—After her husband's assassination Mrs. John F. Kennedy wrote: Learning to accept what was unthinkable changes you."

The young widow has marked two years since beginning the task of accepting the unthinkable, the tragic event in Dallas, Nov. 22, 1963.

Time and remembering and learning to accept have inevitably effected changes.

"She will never again be the same woman," observed Mrs. Herve Alphand, wife of the former French ambassador to the U.S. and longtime friend of the Kennedys.

Mrs. Kennedy, like many another widow, now has conflicting emotions. She cherishes the memory of her husband and wants everyone to do so.

"He has changed our world and I hope people will remember him all our lives," she has written.

Yet she has found other memories too painful to bear.

HAS NOT RETURNED

Mrs. Kennedy has not returned to the White House she refurbished, despite repeated invitations from the present tenants, the Lyndon Johnsons. When the Jacqueline Kennedy garden was dedicated, her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, substituted for her. Mrs. Kennedy was absent, said friends, "because of the pain of memories."

"Last Year, when the anniversary of his death approached, Mrs. Kennedy did not turn on the television or radio for a week, and she had all the newspapers and magazines kept out of the apartment," recalls Pamela Turnure, her press secretary.

"This year when I handed her a folder of requests for information to be used in such articles I could see her wince at the thought of the whole terrible thing starting all over again."

The rich and beautiful 36-year-old widow has only lately shed her mourning clothes for party garb befitting New York city's social scene. She has a radiant smile and a ready laugh. But one source close to her says that sometimes when the gaiety subsides waves of desolation sweep over her.

DECISIONS NEEDED

From the moment her husband was murdered there have been important decisions to make. By arranging every detail of the president's funeral she showed she can and does take hold in a crisis. The move to New York, the schools for the children, plans for the various Kennedy memorial projects required decisiveness and she showed she had it.

Her new confidence shows through, say friends. She is much more poised than she was as first lady.

Once painfully shy, she now is comfortable in the midst of crowds, as if she had come to the conclusion that they will always be with her. But the new Mrs. Kennedy has learned to move among them, smiling and gracious and at the same time as separated from them as though she were securely encased in glass.

The task of decorating her 15th-floor, four-bedroom Fifth Avenue apartment took a long time. The huge, apricot-hued living room where she entertains at small parties is furnished with French period pieces upholstered in delicate pastel brocades. The room has 18th-century paintings and gold-plated doorknobs. Her city dwelling is accessible only by private elevator.

TAKE HOLIDAYS

Mrs. Kennedy and her children visit numerous other Kennedy-clan households, or take ski holidays. Sometimes the youngsters remain behind with an English governess while their mother goes off for brief rests at Porto Ecole, Italy; Acapulco, Mexico, or Antigua, British West Indies.

As unchanged as it was during her White House occupancy is her determination to give the youngsters, a normal childhood.

Mrs. Kennedy often walks with the children in central Park across the street from her apartment, or takes them horseback riding there. On one early morning sre tried unsuccessfully to persuade a surprised patrolman to give John, 4, a ride on his motorcycle.

Once a week, usually on Wednesday, Mrs. Kennedy spends a long day at her cheerful Park Avenue offices, for which the government has allotted her an annual $50,000 budget. There she is surrounded by memorabilia of that other life.

Five volunteers help Mrs. Kennedy reply to hundreds of letters each week. she has three staff members, all once employed at the White House.

Now that the Massachusetts legislature has granted a site for it, the Kennedy Museum is Mrs. Kennedy's main interest. She now is soliciting recorded reminiscences from hundreds of persons who were heads of state or White House employees during the Kennedy administration.

She is no longer a fashion-trend setter, a fact that delights her. She deplored the public attention focused on her choice of clothes in the not-so-long-ago when her bubble hairdos, semi-fitted coats, collarless dresses, low-heeled shoes and elbow length gloves suddenly became standards for American women.

What she has become instead is a social page setter.

When Mrs. Kennedy appears at a restaurant or supper club, it suddenly becomes THE place to be.

Whenever Mrs. Kennedy accepts an invitation to a charity benefit or a first-night opening, tickets are a sell-out and publicity is guaranteed. Throngs wait outside, hoping to see her.

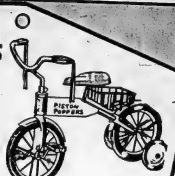
Talented, stimulating people renowned in the worlds of theatre, art, music and literature —but not necessarily wealthy— and friends from the old new frontier make up her exclusive circle.

Mrs. Kennedy is marking time, wishing off the months and years, her secretary says, until the time when Americans will honor her husband on the promising day that life began for him, his birthday, rather than the day on which it ended.

Ont. Liberal Leader Will Not Resign

TORONTO (CP) — Andrew Thompson Tuesday firmly rejected any suggestion that he may resign as leader of the Ontario Liberal party.

After a caucus of 22 Liberal members of the provincial legislature, he told reporters:



"There is no question—but I am leader of the Liberal party." Caucus members concurred.

The question of his leadership came up in speculation after Mr. Thompson was charged in court following a car accident.

Shadow of Prison Walls Not Bothering Hoffa

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The shadow of prison walls edge closer to James Riddle Hoffa, but t tough little boss of the Teamsters still is very much in the saddle.

He shows no signs of intending to quit the presidency of the world's biggest and richest labor union until the law actually lands him behind bars—if it does. He may not give up even then.

A lawsuit filed by some Teamster locals prevents Hoffa from using any more union funds in his own legal defence. But a dinner in Hoffa's honor Oct. 22 in New York raised about $100,000 for legal fees. A series of similar affairs is planned and Hoffa's fight to stay out of prison goes on.

If the courts finally rule the muscular Detroiter must go to prison, persistent rumors inside the union say Hoffa will try to install a caretaker president until he is free to resumed leadership.

PLAYS CLOSE HAND

The twice-convicted Hoffa is playing a quiet waiting game including the outcome of his court appeals.

He doesn't amile as much as he used to and he is somewhat gentler with his subordinates.

Hoffa has been convicted of jury-tampering in a case that brought him an eight-year sentence and of defrauding the Teamsters' pension fund, which drew one to five years.

Some associates report Hoffa is pretty well resigned to the prospect of defeat in the court battle Hoffa himself is not talking.

Both friends and foes inside the union generally agree on this picture of how Hoffa is bearing up as time runs out toward his final appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

ALL ARE SURPRISED

"Everybody is amazed that he is continuing to work as hard as he is doing. He's just going right ahead as if nothing has happened.

"Psychologically, you can see the tensions. If is a little more difficult for him to smile, but he's putting on a good front."

Hoffa, who still claims the support of the vast majority of the teamsters' 1,700,000 members, is going out of his way to avoid new internal strife.

"He's trying not to rock any boats, not to antagonize anybody to avoide dissensions and fights," one source said.

One high Teamster official said no move will be made to unseat Hoffa until his appeals are exhausted in the Supreme Court.

This could drag on for months and one Hoffa union opponent said:

"If he comes into the July, 1966, convention a free man, he may try to change the union constitution to provide for a caretaker."

What is the secret of Hoffa's hold on the rank-and-file?

HAS HELPED WORKERS

"Almost everyone in the union, even the anti-Hoffa element, agrees the guy has done an outstanding trade-union job, both in contracts and organizing," said one Teamster source.

In addition to the basic truckers and warehousemen represented by the union, Teamsters organizers have gone after membership among many other workers.

"We'll take anything that isn't taken," one Teamster official said. He didn't need to add that the Teamsters frequently try to oust existing unions in Hoffa's reign, membership has risen by some 200,000.

Cross-country truck drivers, paid on a mileage basis, now make up to $15,000 a year. The lowliest Teamster warehouseman seldom makes less than $2.50 an hour and Hoffa made a major breakthrough in abolishing lower wage differentials in southern states, where most other unions find it a tough job just to get a foothold.

CONTRACT WAS PLUM

But his biggest accomplishment was the national trucking contract, negotiated last year for more than 400,000 drivers of 14,000 firms, providing an estimated $300,000,000 a year in added wages and fringe benefits. It set the pattern for the Teamsters' continuing efforts to forge national agreements in warehousing and other fields.

The Teamsters, ousted from the AFL-CIO in 1957 on corruption charges, built their own rival empire, launched a vollical action arm called DRIVE.

Hoffa estimates total Teamsters' assets at $1,000,000,000.

Hoffa, 52, is a short five-foot-five, but a solid, muscular 175 pounds. He neither drinks nor smokes and prides himself on his physical fitness, keeping in trim in a basement gym in the Teamsters' marble palace headquarters.

FACED MANY CHARGES

The justice department painted a different picture of Hoffa—indictments on charges of trying to bribe a senate investigator, wiretapping telephones to keep tabs on his own employees, using the mails to defraud in a Florida real estate deal involving Teamsters funds, accepting $1,000,000 in kickbacks from a trucking firm, and beating up a teamsters emp'oyee.

None of the charges ever stuck—until Hoffa's conviction at Chattanooga, Tenn., March 4, 1964, of trying to bribe jurors who heard the kickback case at Nashville, Tenn. The kickback case ended in a mistrial.

A few months later he was convicted in a Chicago trial on fraud in multimillion dollar manipulations of Teamsters pension funds.

The highest-paid union president at $75,000 a year, Hoffa isn't short of pin money. But with the Teamsters' treasury closed to him for legal fees, he may soon be in serious financial trouble. The labor department reported Oct. 20 the costs of his Nashville, Chattnooga and Chicago trials alone were $370,286, paid for out of Teamster funds.

A band of Philadelphia mercenaries want any money spent defending all other Teamsters officials paid back by Hoffa and other Teamsters leaders. The total is estimated by one anti-Hoffa lawyer at $3,000,000.

Hoffa's reign started in 1957 after former president Dave Beck went to prison on an income tax conviction. It has been marked by turmoil and controversy.

Hoffa's 1957 election was challenged by 13 Teamsters, resulting in a court-supervised monitorship that Hoffa fought tooth and nail until he finally emerged in sole control in 1961.

URGES BUDDY SYSTEM

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury here warned Monday against using steam baths alone and recommended that persons using steam baths adopt the buddy system used by swimmers. The jury was investigating the death of Mrs. Fanny Potashin, 80, who was found dead Oct. 14 in the steam bath of her apartment building 1½ hours after the only other occupant had left.

GUEST SPEAKER INTRODUCED

Guest speaker for the evening was introduced by Miss A. Adams, B.A., Latin and French teacher, who gave a detailed outline of the teaching ability and career of Dr. B. C. Diltz, MA, LLD. Dr. Diltz is the author of several English texts, including the well known "New Horizons."

In his opening remarks, Dr. Diltz congratulated the graduates and said he was delighted to see such a young staff at the school.

Canada, he said, is a country of expansion with high standards of living. "We must not overlook the importance of education and the growth of our schools. Living in a changing world offers new skills and more knowledge will be required."

He continued by asking "what is expected of us and our school?". The height of knowledge and discovery would remain with the student the rest of his life for the mind is the chief component of his being.

The training to stick at the task and the ability to do something really well was a must for young people today. The vocation of teaching was regarded the finest of all occupation, Dr. Diltz said.

He concluded by telling his listeners to keep an open mind and always have a sense of wonder and imagination.

Dr. Diltz was thanked by graduate Gordon Pitts.

Two solos were sung by Miss Katherine Burnside.

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS

The valedictory address was given by John Weaver and follows in part dealing with three points: "to be aware of what was happening in the field of education today; the appreciation both to parents and teachers for their support, interest and success in achieving personal success; the awareness of school comradeship and togetherness over a period of years."

Opportunities are now waiting for us, especially with the modern wing with additional subjects at the High School. Now with one course of schooling ended, another has begun, new aspects of our life await us in various colleges, hospitals and businesses."

Mr. Weaver ended with a quotation from one of Charles Dicken's novel and ended by saying, "we have had every thing going for us, now it is up to us."

A reception was held for all graduates, parents and board members, staff and special guests in the cafeteria. Arrangements were made by the home economics classes under the supervision of Mrs. E. Downey. The graduation dance followed with the class of '66 acting as hosts.

DOWNED ON THE FARM — Three young sharpshooters, who preferred to remain annonymous, drove into Peterborough, Ont., Monday with a two-year-old steer strapped to the roof. What happened? They said "it looked like a deer." They bought it from the farmer who owned it after they shot it. (CP Photo)

Walter Gordon quit as finance minister last week, saying his advice to Mr. Pearson to call the election had been bad.

Mr. Favreau also supported the calling of the election, in which the Liberals were denied the parliamentary majority they sought.

At home with laryngitis Tuesday, Mr. Favreau is expected to resume his interrupted post-election vacation later this week, although not in Florida. An aide declined to say where.

Mr. Pearson went to New York to receive the Family of Man Award put up by the Protestant Council for the City of New York. It is for distinguished service to freedom and humanity.

He'll be back in the capital Thursday. Before he left, Mr. Pearson talked to a number of people besides Mr. Favreau.

Among them was State Secretary Maurice Lamontagne. There have been reports that he is under pressure from some elements in the party to resign. But Mr. Lamontagne declined to say anything about his talk with the prime minister.

The Gordon resignation left the senior finance portfolio vacant. Mines and agriculture are also available because of the electoral defeats of the cabinet ministers for these departments.

Sources say Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve is unlikely to replace the defeated Harry Hays in agriculture even though he was named acting minister in the portfolio after the election. For one thing, the post traditionally goes to a western member and Mr. Sauve is from Quebec.

What will happen is anybody's guess. But the outcome could partly depend—with only one MP on the Prairies—on whether the Liberals make a formal pitch to get H. A. Olson, the 40 - year - old Social Credit member for Medicine Hat, for the agriculture portfolio.

There's been a lot of talk but little real action in this direction, informants say. But it's no secret that some top Liberals want the Alberta MP.

A top - level government source said Tuesday Mr. Pearson has made no formal approach to Mr. Olson, but added this does not rule out the possibility that influential Liberals may have made a "sounding out" approach on their own.

The thinking in some Liberal quarters is that Mr. Hays could be named to the Senate and be retained in the cabinet as minister without portfolio to help Mr. Olson. The two men are old friends.

It is understood the Liberals are cool to the idea of a coalition with Social Credit in order to get Mr. Olson, a farmer with a good knowledge of agriculture. If the Liberals did get Mr. Olson, sources said, they would want him to join the party caucus.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson has indicated he is amenable to the coalition idea. But the Liberals, on the verge of a parliamentary majority anyway, are under no significant pressure to go for this idea.

The only Prairie MP they have is Veterans Minister Roger Teillet, whose occupation is public relations and who represents the urban riding of St. Boniface.

Liberal alternatives to fill the post include reaching into the Senate for A. H. McDonald, a former Saskatchewan agriculture minister and provincial party leader.

pared with $370,100,000 last year, an increase of 15.7 per cent. The increase is even more dramatic in the sales tax receipts of the old-age security fund.

That fund, from which universal old-age pensions of $75 a month now are paid to everyone 70 and older, receives three percentage points of the 11-per-cent sales tax. Receipts from April through September this year amounted to $246,300,000, up 36 per cent from last fiscal year - mid - year receipts of $181,000,000.

Total receipts of the old-age security fund in six months this year were $262,300,000, compared with $54,500,000 last year, an increase of 24 per cent. Starting next Jan. 1, however, the fund will have to bear the additional cost of $75-a-month pensions to everyone at age 69 instead of 70. The qualifying age is being lowered year-by-year until it reaches 65.

Sales tax collections represent about 17 per cent of total tax revenues and about 46 per cent of old-age security fund revenues.

Five Freighters

have to be dumped, they said, Michel Dussault, president of the Corporation of Lower St. Lawrence Ports, said it is possible for a snowstorm to interfere with certain types of radar systems, especially the older ones.

He added that an ore boat makes an extremely bad target for radar because it is not a tall vessel and lies close to the water.

The Sunck, owned by Saguenay Shipping Co., had been headed downstream with grain and general cargo for La Havre. She lost both anchors from her crumpled bow section but was still running under her own power.

A transport department spokesman said the ore carrier is an 8,000,000 laker, was lying on her starboard side and on blocking seaway passage.

Only last September the Lee Cliffe Hall, another giant-upper laker owned by the Hall Corp., went down in the St. Lawrence River after colliding with another vessel. Three crew members were killed when they returned to the vessel following the collision in an attempt to beach the ship.

Broadway To Sing Blues In Garden

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

There's no truth in the rumor Bobby Hull is investing a big bundle in scarlet jackets and hair gear for his prize herds of Herefords and Shorthorns.

Even if the story were true you couldn't blame the Prince Edward rancher for taking some protective measures what with show-loving hunters on the loose who cannot tell the difference between a bull and a buck.

Hunting veterans and novices, too, went a bit wild-eyed both in Peterborough and this city the other evening when three "youthful hunters," entirely unabashed, appeared with a two-year-old Hereford steer riding the top of their hunting car.

The story is they mistook the steer for a footloose buck, shot it and reimbursed the farmer-owner for his steaks and chops and weeded their way merrily homeward with the quip "Well it is better than getting nothing."

That is all the story as far as the nimrods are concerned. They refused, it is reported, to give their names but admitted to hailing from "Southern Ontario."

After being seen in Peterborough and later in this city the inference is they hail from some section of this part of Ontario's banana belt.

Veteran hunters today posed the question: "What was a white-face steer doing on a deer runway far inside the forest rim if and when it was shot there?"

And some way phoned and wanted to know if the steer was the Great White Hunter masquerading as a shorthorn in his search for the buddy of the bear he despatched last season.

But the Tweed headquarters of the Department of Lands and Forests takes a more serious view of the affair.

"This is not the first time this has happened," Russ Whitfield of the Wildlife Division said. "And there is a law against it."

"Reimbursement to the farmer-owner after one of his cattle has been shot by hunters is not the end of the story."

"For years now the department along with the Fish and Game Associations of the district have been trying to establish congenial relations between hunter and farmer. We have insisted that hunters first receive permission from landowners to hunt on their property."

"We have suggested that in the event hunters get their quarry on privately-owned land they share their good fortunes with the owner. We have insisted that extreme care be taken not to shoot cattle or use farm buildings and equipment as targets for trigger happy hunters."

A number of privately-owned properties have been closed to hunters because of carelessness.

"We have succeeded in getting some of these opened—but the recent steer-shooting incident might set this back. Reimbursement of loss is not the answer. The actual damage caused is the straining of relations between farmer and hunter," the official said.

No farmer wants to see his cattle killed. In this case the dead steer was probably a mill-run animal of some herd. Imagine what could happen if, say, it was Bobby Hull's grand champion bull that fell victim to the triggers of careless hunters?

The picture of the dead steer atop the hunters' car was broadcast over television and published in newspapers.

There was nothing smart or funny in the quip, "Something is better than nothing." The trio involved might better have taken the back roads home with their "kill" and said nothing about the affair since they claim they had made financial reimbursement to the owner.

They might better had come home with "nothing" since their action could result in "good" hunters being denied the privilege of crossing or using private properties in their search for game.

LATER

The Peterborough Examiner carries the story of the hunters and their kill. It says: "Jack French and two companions of Kingston were moose-hunting near Sodbury when they heard a noise in the bush and suddenly were faced with a young charging 400-pound Hereford bull and were forced to shoot it.

"It was either him or us," was French's story. The hunters had to pay a farmer $125 to take the animal home.

The people of New York are getting something they haven't had for a long time—a winning hockey team. And New York Rangers might be getting something they seldom get—a full house.

A rare mid-week sellout crowd is expected to be on hand tonight when Chicago Black Hawks meet the Rangers at Madison Square Garden, in the only scheduled National Hockey League game.

During the 1964-65 season, the Rangers drew a total of 415,748 fans for 35 home games—a decrease of 19,883 from 1963-64 attendance.

Capacity at the Garden is 15,- 284, 15,925 including standees, and in the 35 home games last season New York averaged 11,- 878 fans per game.

The rejuvenated Rangers, currently third in the standings, two points behind the Black Hawks, will be looking for the fifth win in 11 outings while Chicago will be out for revenge. New York handed the Hawks their second defeat of the season last Sunday, 4-2, in the windy city.

New York observers have been impressed by Rod Selling, who moved up to Doug Robinson's left wing position when the latter was injured in a game against Toronto. Selling has scored a goal in each of his last two games.

ROOKIE IMPRESSES

Another factor in New York's improved standing is the strong play of rookie netminder Ed Giacomin. He is being tipped in some quarters for Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

The league-leading Montreal Canadiens have declined to summon help to replace two injured key players for a game against Toronto Maple Leafs in Montreal Thursday.

Montreal coach Toe Blake will face the Leafs without the services of centre Henri Richard and left winger Dick Duff. Richard is sidelined with a shoulder injury and Duff is convalescing from an infected toe.

Blake said that because of the improved play of several of his players he has no thoughts of reaching into the minors for reinforcements.

The Toronto management is thinking differently.

Stafford Smythe, Leafs' president, said that if "things don't improve, we may have to go to the minors and bring up the kids. If we're going to finish last, we may as well do it with younger players and build something for the future."

Smythe also said that Punch Imlach will remain as general manager and coach of the club.

UNHAPPY WITH IMLACH?

The Leafs' president said the problem is that "we haven't enough Hitlers." He suggested that perhaps some of the players are unhappy playing for Imlach and if so "I would be more inclined to change the coach rather than the general manager."

Meanwhile, Smythe has ended Ted Lindsay's hopes for a NHL comeback with Detroit Red Wings.

Sid Abel, coach and manager of the Detroit club, said Tuesday that Smythe denied permission for the Red Wings to reinstate Lindsay.

Such permission is required for each club in the league when a team wants to reinstate a player who has placed himself on the voluntary retired list.

Lindsay, 40, came out of four years' retirement last year.

The Wings announced Tuesday that centre Pit Martin and defenceman Gary Doak have been sent to their Pittsburgh farm club in the American Hockey League.

Martin, 21, has been with Detroit for two seasons. He has played in all 15 games so far this season, counting one goal and one assist.

Doak, 18, had been called up by Detroit for the Red Wings' game with Montreal last Sunday, which ended in a 3-3 deadlock.

'Win On Field' Says Clair

Riders' Protest Mere Formality

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders are filing an official protest against the officiating in their 18-13 loss to Hamilton Tiger - Cats Sunday but coach Frank Clair doesn't expect too much to come of it.

"We'll just have to bear with it and win the series on the field," he said Tuesday as he was getting ready for the team's first workout since the loss in the two-game, total-point playoff Eastern Football Conference opener.

Second game is in Hamilton Saturday.

Protests about the calibre of officiating are nothing new to the Riders this year. General manager Red O'Quinn has sent letters to CFL commissioner Sydney Halter on "two or three occasions during the season."

"We felt it was our duty to help iry to correct mistakes," O'Quinn added.

WEREN'T AS SERIOUS

"But they weren't nearly as serious as last Sunday."

O'Quinn, Clair and EFC commissioner Hap Shouldice spent Monday night watching films of the game and Ottawa's win Tuesday there were nine outstanding rules violations by Hamilton ignored by the officials.

"Don't get me wrong—they missed some calls against us, too.

"But it was the call on that fumble that set up Hamilton's winning touchdown in the last quarter."

The controversial fumble — nullified by a quick whistle — came after Hamiltons Garney Henley intercepted a pass by Rider quarterback Russ Jackson on the Hamilton 25-yard line. Henley ran it back to the Ottawa 40, then fumbled when he was tackled.

BLEW WHISTLE

Flanker Whit Tucker recovered for Ottawa, but Umpire Bob Shepherd of Toronto had blown his whistle at the time of the tackle, giving the ball back to Hamilton. The Ticats scored a touchdown four plays later.

O'Quinn said the films confirmed Hamilton had too many men on the field for punt returns three times in the first quarter, but said this was minor compared to instances of holding and kicking by the Hamilton defence.

But we're only five points down—less than a touchdown," Clair said.

"There's no excuse for not scoring more in the first half when Ottawa took a 13-0 lead and Hamilton just played better than we did in the second half."

Warbles Stamps' Coach

WINNIPEG (CP)—If Winnipeg Blue Bombers feel they saw enough at Calgary quarterback Eagle Day last Saturday Stampeder coach Jerry Williams has news for them.

Day, Williams says, was being "over-cautious" when the Stamps trampled the Bombers 27-0 in the opening game of the Western Football Conference final.

The coach promised Day will throw the ball with "more authority" when the teams meet tonight in the second game of the best-of-three series.

At Calgary Saturday Day, with occasional help from standin Jerry Keeling, gained 176 yards passing, including a 53-yard touchdown pitch to Herman Harrison.

Williams, who brought his team to Winnipeg Tuesday, said he was concerned when Day completed only one of seven passes in the first half. The Stampeders led only 3-0 on a three-quarter time when Day began clicking with his heaves to Harrison and flanker Bobby Taylor.

The Winnipeg fans and viewers on the CBC's national TV network can also expect to see plenty of the big-game of the Calgary ground attack — fullback Lovell Coleman, recovered from an ankle bruise received in the first contest, and halfback Ted Woods.

JERRY WILLIAMS

If a third game is needed, it will be played in Calgary Saturday.

Williams said Wayne Harris, his middle linebacker and the newly-elected CFL Lineman of the Year, is a definite starter despite a groin injury.

Bombers linebacker Ken Maglicic will likely miss tonight's action with a sprained ankle. Maglicic's replacement would be Paul Robson who filled in for Maglicic during Saturday's game.

Although seven inches of snow have fallen since Sunday, the Winnipeg Stadium turf has been covered with tarpaulins and the field is expected to be in ideal condition—barring a last-minute snowstorm.

The weatherman predicts cloudy skies and temperatures about 15 degrees above zero at game time with winds from the south at about 15 miles an hour.

Meanwhile coach Bud Grant remained confident the Bombers can win the WFC championship away from home after losing the first game of the best-of-three-game series—a feat only two teams have accomplished in the last 15 years.

The Moon Goes Over Mountain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wally Moon was given his' unconditional release Tuesday by Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League.

The 35-year-old slugger, used mainly as a pinch-hitter in recent years, said:

"I'm going down to Florida and talk with some of the other general managers and see if I can't get hooked up with another club."

In other Dodger moves,—Jim Gilliam, who became a coach last winter, was released again as a player but retained as the first Negro coach in major league baseball.

Gilliam was returned to the player ranks last May and was a prime reason for the Dodgers third world championship since coming to Los Angeles from Brooklyn in 1958.

Jockey Wins Six In Row

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP)—Jorge Velasquez, 18 - year - old jockey from Panama, rode six straight winners at Garden State Park Tuesday to one of the best riding performances ever at a thoroughbred race track.

He had a chance to set a United States record of seven-for-seven, but finished third with Dizzy Den in the last race.

The best one - day performance on an American major track is Johnny Heckman's seven-for-eight at Hawthorne in 1956.

CFL Spending $20,000 For Study

Workman Outlines Football Problems

TORONTO (CP) Ted Workman president of Montreal Alouettes said Tuesday night three problems face Eastern Football Conference teams.

Workman told 250 members of the Toronto Junior Board of Trade attending a Grey Cup festival kickoff dinner that the Canadian Football League is spending $20,000 to study problems.

Recommendations to improve the game will be made at the CFL annual meeting in January, he said.

The three problems were emphasis on defensive football, inadequate stadiums and public preoccupation with faults in the EFC.

He said the third problem was "brought about by the negative approach of certain newsmen." He did not identify the critics.

"I am not suggesting we should not be criticized," he said, "but that criticism should be constructive."

At the same time, he admitted that the two largest cities in the EFC—Montreal and Toronto — had teams that weren't winning and weren't crowd-pleasing.

DEFENCE IS CAUSE

Hamilton Tiger-Cats' strong defence was listed as a cause of one of the problems.

"The best team in the East has been preoccupied with stopping teams from scoring," Workman said." "and the rest of us have tried to imitate with mediocre success.

"I believe that here in Toronto Bob Shaw (Argonaut coach) is going to show the defensive-minded how to open up the game. We had all better take a piece of that."

Workman said that next season the EFC will be as strong offensively as the Western Football Conference and that the race in the East will be as close as this year's race in the West.

He refused to concede that the CFL could not compete with professional football in the United States.

"Each year in the United States 7,500 college players graduate," he said. "Last year the National Football League drafted 371 and only 95 made the grade. This indicates that Canadian imports can be improved.

"Canadian players are receiving better training. Some players are attending colleges in the United States."

At the dinner were 10 members of the 1950 Argonauts, who defeated Winnipeg Blue Bombers 13-0 in the celebrated Mud Bowl Grey Cup game in Toronto.

Viking Coach Returns

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Peace was restored Tuesday in Minnesota Vikings' family after a tempestuous 24 hours during which Norm Van Brocklin, the head coach, quit, reconsidered and humbly returned.

The question today was what effect the tornadic episode will have on the Vikings, who return to the National Football League Wars Sunday against Green Bay Packers, runners - up to Baltimore in the Western Conference.

Everybody connected with the Vikings — players, coaches and front office alike—insist the stormy 24 hours will either have no effect on Sunday's game or inspire the Vikings.

Whatever the effect, Van Brocklin was a relieved man Tuesday after, he said, he "came to my senses."

"There is no explanation," the volatile, 39-year-old quiterbman said of his original decision to quit.

WAS DEPRESSED

"I just became depressed, but I later realized I didn't want to quit. I've lived a life of not being a quitter.

"I just wasn't being rational. I couldn't think straight. I was feeling so sorry for myself that I made this great mistake.

"I apologize to everyone. I'm very sorry that I embarrassed myself, my family, and my friends. I'm grateful to be back."

Makes 'Em Feel At Home'

Bears Want 'Cow' Fans

EDMONTON (CP) — University of Alberta Golden Bears will take the best running attack of the Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Association to Toronto Saturday when they meet University of Toronto Blues in the national college football final.

The Bears, led by twin fullbacks Joe Hale and Irwin Strotler, gained 1,252 yards on the ground, well ahead of all rivals.

Quarterbacks Willie Algaier and Tony Rankel used the pass 130 times and had 73 completions. Algaier's record was 41 carries, and Hale, who passed 328 yards on 58 attempts.

Besides his running ability and solid blocking, Hale kicked field goals and converts to lead the team in scoring with 46 points.

FRACAS CONFIDENT

Coach Gino Fracas expressed confidence in his rookie-laden crew, which lost starters Don Nielsen, Clarence Kachman, Ron Martenluk, George Sheriff, Dimetro Roslewich and Paul Brady from last year's club.

Three veterans — defensive end Nestor Korchinsky, linebacker Dale Johnson and fullback Jack Jenner—are out for the season with injuries.

Despite their absence, Fracas claims his club is stronger defensively than ever before and as good offensively as in past seasons.

And to further bolster the coach's confidence, university athletic director Ed Zemrau has asked the college board committee to place two or three cows in Varsity Stadium for the game.

"The cows will make our boys feel more at home," he said.

Has Overplus Of Players

Sazio Has Problem, Who Plays Where?

HAMILTON (CP) — Coach Ralph Sazio of Hamilton Tiger-Cats must feel a little like the old woman who lived in a shoe.

He has so many players he doesn't know what to do.

The Tiger-Cats carry a five-point lead into the second game of the Eastern Football Conference finals against Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday afternoon in Hamilton and Sazio is undecided what players will dress.

Halfback Johnny Counts, who injured his ankle in the last Toronto Argonauts more than two weeks ago, sat out the opening game last Sunday in Ottawa, won 18-13 by the Ti-cats.

But Counts is healthy again and Sazio is trying to find a spot for him.

SAT HIM OUT

When Counts was still on the limp, Sazio made the logical decision and sat him out as the 13th import. Rules in the Canadian Football League permit teams to carry 13 imports but to dress only 12 for each game.

With Counts on the bench, Sazio plucked Dick Cobee from the defensive backfield and inserted him on offence. Cobee responded by scoring one of Hamilton's two touchdowns in the second half that helped wipe out a 13-0 Ottawa lead at half time.

If Counts bumps Cobee back Sazio will also have to figure out which import to go without.

The Ticats came up with the strongest defence in the EFC schedule this season and it's creating problems for Sazio at another position, too.

He doesn't know whether to use Herb Paterra or Bobby Kuntz at middle linebacker.

Paterra had the job to himself until he was injured in October in a game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Sazio needed a replacement desperately at that stage, so he

WILL IT APPLY? — Coach Ralph Sazio of Hamilton Tiger-Cats ponders the Eastern Conference football team's motto and wonders whether it will apply next Saturday when the Ticats play host to Ottawa Rough Riders in the second game of the total-points conference playoff. Hamilton leads 18-13 as a result of the first game at Ottawa. (CP Wirephoto) tured Bobby Kuntz away from his electro-plating business in Kitchener and back into uniform.

Kuntz stepped in at the 11th hour as if he had been playing linebacker all season and now that Paterra has recovered, Sazio has both men at his disposal.

Sinatra Romances Glossed Over in Documentary

By CYNTHIA LOWERY

NEW YORK (AP)—From the preliminaries to his nuptials, one might have concluded that CBS, in its documentary program on Frank Sinatra, had a tiger in its schedule. When seen Tuesday night, however, it emerged as a nice little pussycat of a show.

The subject, Sinatra, came off as talented, hard-working, generous, warm, family-loving, rich, responsible, witty and loyal.

In an interview with Walter Cronkite—the interview Sinatra sought to have withdrawn—he explained that his reputation for a quick temper and ready fists related only to one incident in which he was provoked to action. He complained, without apparent bitterness, about "ridiculous accusations and statements that I was consorting with mobsters and gangsters."

The Sinatra romances were glossed over. His first wife, Nancy, appeared briefly on company in some recent film. Mia Farrow's name was mentioned once—by Sinatra. Illustrative of his problems with "the press," The name was mentioned in connection with a Sinatra picture showing them together, with Sinatra making a gesture, which, he explained, was misinterpreted by a caption writer.

At one point Cronkite said "We have often discussed, as an understanding, friend would forgive," but the understanding friend appeared to supply charter and verse.

GROWS TOO BIG

As an aside, Sinatra Cronkite asserted that Sinatra "was getting too big for his britches." That was often done at the beginning of the big slump in Sinatra's career.

The strongest criticism of the singer came from his daughter, Nancy: "When you have a daddy, you kind of want him to be a daddy all the time. And sometimes, when he's with his friends, they act as like a bunch of kids. And it's great they're having a marvellous time, but that bothers me a little."

The program was interesting enough as a sketch but it did no deeper than an article in a fan magazine. And it is certainly hard to figure out why Sinatra himself got the wind up about the show. He came out of looking about the size of Paul Bunyan.

Recommended tonight—Russian Roulette, NBC, 9-10 EST. book comedy starring Bob Hope in the leading role, with Jill St. John.

On the same program is "Kimberley Jim", starring Jim Reeves, Madeleine Sologne. Complete showings at 7.00 and 8.40 p.m.

Mexican Film World Suffering

MEXICO (Reuters) — Mexico's output of full-length films, which once used to exceed 100 a year, has reached only 32 so far this year and is unlikely to exceed 50 by the year-end.

Announcing the figures, Ramon Moreno, secretary of the Technical and Manual Workers Union said there are no applications pending from film producers for labor to work on film-sets. This was causing unemployment and a consequent hardship to workers in the movie field.

Film critics blame the current slump in Mexico's once-bright film industry on the lack of talent at the producing and directing level. Over-prim morality rules placed on the industry and local bureaucratic measures which in turn inhibit and deter would-be producers have also been blamed.

Louella Parsons Removed From Scene As Columnist

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A bit of Hollywood history was marked this week as the Parsons office moved into new quarters on South Beverly Drive.

"The first thing we did was hang up a picture of Louella," said Dorothy Manners, side-de-camp for 29 years to Louella Parsons, who reigned over the movie world in his golden era as the most powerful of columnists.

The event marks the first time within memory of the most press agents that the Parsons column has not been compiled from Louella's Beverly Hills home. And by the end of this month, the column will no longer bear Louella's name.

Hollywood has known for many months that Miss Parsons has been failing health. Since 1962, she has suffered pneumonia, shingles of the optic nerve and fractures of the hip and shoulder. Survival seemed doubtful for a woman who also had experienced tuberculosis and two heart attacks. Amazingly, she has survived.

HEDDA PRINTS NEWS

It remained for her longtime rival columnist, Hedda Hopper, to print the news that Louella was entering a rest home and her column would soon bear the sole byline of Dorothy Manners.

Those close to Miss Parsons confirmed that she now is in a private sanatorium. She is often difficult to converse with because of the debilities of her ailments and her age. The latter has long been a subject of conjecture. The best sources indicate she was born Louella Oettinger in Freeport, Ill., Aug. 6, 1890, making her now 85.

In today's movie world, it is difficult to conceive the kind of power that Louella wielded in her heyday. Then Hollywood was ruled by a handful of tycoons who ran the big studios, and all played ball with the little lady who started writing about movies in 1914, when they were barely a flicker.

Change in the Hollywood hierarchy loosened her hold on the film colony. The tycoons died off, their studios lost their power and movie making became an international affair. But the Parsons column remained a prime outlet for film news.

Louella's successor, amiable Dorothy Manners, devoted 30 years of service to Louella as assistant.

A BIG DAY FOR IRELAND — Prime Minister Sean Lemass (left) presses a button to open Ireland's first major mine in 100 years. Smiling proudly beside the Prime Minister is Pat Hughes, head of Toronto's Northgate Exploration Ltd., whose prospectors discovered the lead-zinc-silver deposit near Tynagh on Ireland's west coast. Hughes came to Canada from Ireland in 1949 and started prospecting in 1952. He sent a prospecting team back to Ireland in 1957.

Irishman Pat Hughes Turns Golden Mirage Into Silver Reality

By HAROLD MORRISON

DUBLIN (CP)—Pat Hughes is a stubborn Irishman who tried prospecting in Canada but returned home for his biggest strike—Ireland's first new mine in a century.

The 41-year-old Hughes had to be stubborn. Associates at Northgate Exploration Ltd. in Toronto, of which he is president, told him he was chasing a mirage in his pursuit of what he insisted was Ireland's mining potential.

At one stage, Bob Fasken, Northgate's executive vice-president, and George Smith, a director, got Hughes to agree to a deadline, after which he would return to prospecting in Canada.

His prospecting team discovered a big lead-zinc-silver deposit at Tynagh on Ireland's west coast in 1961 a month before the deadline. And when the mine, owned by Irish Base Metals Ltd., a Northgate subsidiary, was opened recently, Hughes celebrated by bringing in planeloads of friends, mining men, stockbrokers and journalists from Canada, the United States and Europe.

Tynagh made Hughes a celebrity in Ireland and has given encouragement to others searching for more lead, zinc, copper and silver. But Hughes isn't worried about competition. He says Ireland i a "hot" prospect.

Next year he hopes to start constructing mining facilities in Tipperary to extract copper at his Gortdrum development, another Northgate-Irish Base Metals property. And in the years ahead he say he expects to see Ireland move from mining to smelting—with Hughes in the forefront, of course.

LEFT WHEN YOUNG

The son of a Northern Ireland building contractor who died when Pat was 14, the young Hughes was left to look after his mother and two younger sisters.

At 19 he had 35 men working under him in the contracting busines. But wage increases and other costs trimmed his profits and in 1949 he decided to try his luck in Canada.

He was unable to get work in Montreal but landed a job as a bricklayer in Toronto, selling magazines in his spare time. He moved to Edmonton and in 1950 got a small contract to build a packing plant 300 miles north of Uranium City.

In 1952 he began prospecting, staking uranium claims in his spare time and selling them to mining companies. But he retained his interest in Ireland. In 1957 he sent two prospectors here to look at properties, including the one where the mine was finally established.

In 1958 he and his partners bought Kirk-Hudson Mines Ltd. and the next year changed the name to Northgate, turning it into an exploration vehicle. Irish Base Metals was incorporated at the same time.

Last August, Julian Berkosha, a prospector in the Stewart, B.C., area, was showing Hughes a gold deposit. Hughes slipped, reached out to Berkosha and both tumbled down a mountain ledge, ending up in a crevasse.

BROKE HIS ARM

His left arm broken, the 34-year-old Berkosha managed to pull himself out and drag himself half a mile to a mining camp to fetch a helicopter for Hughes, still wedged in the crevasse.

"We put a rope around Pat and hauled him out. Even though his left arm was shattered and his face marked up, he insisted on walking to the helicopter. In that glacier area, Pat would have died of exposure in another couple of hours. He sure is the strong-willed type."

That's a statement that has been proved by the Tynagh mine and Hughes' whole career. Hughes says he has acquired enough money to be "very comfortable." He lives quietly with his Irish wife and their three children in a Dublin suburb.

He also has a couple of small boats and has acquired a 40-acre housing site where some day a mansion looking out to the sea may be built, a tribute to the persistence of the unyielding Irish spirit.

Pay Tribute To War Dead At Service

WELLINGTON — Despite the cold north wind blowing on Thursday morning, November 11th, a large crowd gathered at the Memorial Gates of Wellington Park for the Remembrance Day service.

Members of the Royal Canadian Legion, the Legion's Women's Auxiliary, Boy Scouts, Cubs and the Explorer group paraded to the gates.

Cpl. Bayers and Cpl. Church, Guardsmen from Camp Picton, formed a guard of honor at the gates.

Rev. N. J. Truax, United Church minister, officiated. The service began with the singing of "O Canada," followed by "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." The Scripture was read by the Rev. John Shannon, Pentecostal minister.

At 11 a.m the Last Post was sounded by Gdsm. Sowers of Camp Picton, while the colors and standards were dipped. Two minutes of silence was observed. At 11.02 a.m. Reveille was sounded and the colors and standards were raised.

Rev. J. M. Soutter, Anglican minister, offered the prayers, followed by the laying of wreaths. The Provincial wreath was laid by Mrs. Edgar Matthew; the Royal Canadian Legion wreath by Mrs. Charles Tripp, township Hallowell, by Mr. J. Fox; township of Hillier by Mr. Gordon Lolyd; village of Wellington by Mr. Jim Clemenson; village of Bloomfield by Mr. Don Baxter; Wellington Fire Department by Chief Jack Ogilvy.

COMET SPLITS

TOKYO (AP) — The Ikeya-Seki comet has split into two parts, the Tokyo Astronomical Observatory reported Monday. Apparently the comet split after its close approach to the sun recently, but the observatory did not say this. The comet, found by two Japanese amateur astronomers, now is some 70,000,000 miles away from the sun, the observatory added.

Work Ending On Canadian Telescope

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—A giant steel dish rising above the trees in Algonquin Park will start probing the secrets of the universe next spring when Canada's second major radio telescope goes into operation.

Construction of the 150-foot-diameter antenna is almost complete, but remaining work will have to wait until control instruments have been installed and wired—probably about the end of the year.

"This will give us three months to test all the circuits and still be ready for April 1," William Cumming of the National Research Council said in an interview.

"All components are tested before we get them, but with the maze of wiring you have to expect some problems."

The telescope, started in 1962, will have a 120-foot steel-plated dish in the middle with a 15-foot-wide ring of steel mesh around it increase its sensitivity for certain radio-type waves emitted by stars millions of light years away.

The other major radio telescope in Canada is the 84-foot-diameter installation at Penticton, B.C.

STUDY INVISIBLE WAVES

Part of the Algonquin Park project already is in operation on the shore of Lake Traverse, about 120 miles northwest of Ottawa. A tiny six-foot antenna to measure radiation from the sun was finished in 1961 and two other instruments — one with a 33-foot antenna—have been put into use since then. Other sections of the observatory are expected to be ready next summer.

Mr. Cumming, in charge of the observatory for NRC's radio and electrical engineering division, said he would have liked to have the entire surface of the antenna plated with steel.

"But we had to settle for the steel mesh at the edge to cut the wind resistance problem.

"The mesh is almost transparent for signals with short wavelengths but the mesh will be just as effective as steel for long wavelengths."

Although the radio telescope differs from the optical telescope in that it has no lens and does a different job, its functions are similar. Both gather and analyze electromagnetic waves from the heavens.

But the waves gathered by the radio telescope are not visible to the human eye. This means the radio telescope can analyze objects waves emitted by many stars, gas clouds and other objects in space that cannot be detected by optical telescopes.

The research council started its study of radio waves in space back in 1946 at a site 14 miles south of Ottawa. But expansion of the city made the site unsuitable. There was too much interference from man-made electrical equipment.

Afro-Asian Bloc Fights For Red China in UN

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Communist China has assumed a philosophic pose on the sidelines as the Afro-Asian bloc rallied the fight to the United States on the question of seating the Peking government in the United Nations.

The Afro-Asian countries took over from the Soviet Union the task of finding a place for Peking in the world organization—in the face of unyielding American opposition.

The United States, supported by 19 nations hostile to Peking representation, carried its opposition to the limit by proposing to the 117-nation General Assembly that a two-thirds majority be mandatory for membership.

This proposal was brought in as a guarantee that Communist China would be kept out of the UN for at least another year when it became apparent that Peking would attain a simple majority for the first time.

Peking has made the Americans-eight less difficult by insisting on certain conditions regarding its membership, including one that calls for the kicking out of the UN the Nationalist Chinese government in Formosa.

BIG OBSTACLE

The Peking government also has demanded the expulsion of "all imperialist puppet states" from the world organization and that the UN retract its 1951 condemnation of Communist China as aggressors in Korea, condemning the U.S. instead.

The biggest obstacle in the way of the seating of the Communist government is Peking's unwillingness to respond to an American call to help bring peace to Viet Nam—the position is that Peking is behind the trouble there — and China's troublesome relations with India, as well as alleged interference in other Asian areas.

It is China's somewhat angry disposition that has kept Canada from changing her stand on Chinese membership in the UN. Canada always has voted with the U.S. against the admission of Peking but External Affairs Minister Paul Martin indicated earlier during the current session that Canada's position would change if Peking assumed a more peaceful role in world affairs.

Practically all the new African and Asian nations backed Communist Chinese membership. A new sense of urgency was noticed as these countries pressed for the seating of Peking, a number of them strongly denouncing the U.S. for the war in Viet Nam.

The expansion of the war in Viet Nam and the Communist Chinese success in developing a nuclear bomb added significance to the question of Chinese representation. Many speakers felt that such major issues as disarmament and the halt of the spread of nuclear weapons made the seating of Peking imperative.

But Radhakrishna Ramani of Malaysia added support to those opposing the seating of Peking by declaring that evidence provided by Communist China "makes it clear beyond doubt that nothing in the world of international relations is less important to that state than entering the United Nations."

This view, however, was opposite to that of France which this year for the first time joined Britain and the United Union in backing Peking membership.

Roger Seydoux, France's permanent representative to the UN, explained that the assembly should not be influenced by recent Communist Chinese attacks on the UN. He asked:

"What government . . . left on the sidelines of the United Nations for so many years would display kindly sentiments toward it!"

DEAN HONORED

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Albert Trueman, 61, dean of University College, University of Western Ontario, received a diploma of honor Tuesday from the Canadian Conference of the Arts. In presenting the award, Governor-General Georges Vanier described Dr. Trueman as "the everyman" of the Canada council.

Russia Will Make Large Contribution to Expo 67

MOSCOW (CP)—Russia has jumped into planning for Expo 67, the Montreal world's fair, to the jubilation of all its organizers and astonishment of some.

The 26th of the Soviet commitment for the 1967 exhibition became evident Tuesday at the conclusion of two days of talks here between the exhibition delegation headed by Commissioner - General Pierre Dupuy and representatives of 10 countries invited to participate in a theme pavilion.

Dupuy told a press conference he expects Russia to make a large contribution to the pavilion, dedicated to the theme Man the Explorer. It is one of five special pavilions planned for the fair within the general theme Man and His Universe. Participating countries will contribute to them in addition to maintaining their own national pavilions.

Dupuy expressed optimism all 10 countries represented here will send officials to the theme pavilion under discussion, include the United States, Britain and France.

OFFICIALS DELIGHTED

But it was evident world's fair officials were especially delighted by the interest shown by Russia, which conference sources said seemed to belie the lead in drumming up responses from the other countries.

The Russians were "particularly interested in the exhibit Man in Polar Regions, a subdivision of the exploration exhibit. No fewer than 39 Soviet experts were on hand for discussion of this subject.

The discussion was presided over by B. A. Borisov, commissioner of the Soviet entry in the fair. Russian stenographers took minutes of the meeting and these immediately were typed up and circulated to the Soviet Academy of Sciences and other government agencies that might become involved in the Soviet exhibit.

Russia's own contribution is expected to centre around development of Arctic towns and construction in the permafrost zone. Weather and oceanography research may also be depicted.

Dupuy, at the press conference, professed not to be surprised at Russia's unqualified response to the theme pavilion idea. But other Expo officials expressed elated astonishment at the extent of the Soviet commitment.

MADE MANY OFFERS

"They made us enough offers to fill up the entire exhibit," remarked an expo spokesman privately.

Asked what she thought the Russians expect to gain from such massive participation—they already have already mapped plans for a $15,000,000 national pavilion—Dupuy said they want to show off Soviet achievements.

Peoples Party Against Smith

Rhodesia Shows Queen Loyalty In Two Ways

From AP-Reuters

SALISBURY (CP)—The all-Negro Opposition United Peoples Party warned Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith today that it will have no part in furthering what it considers his illegal seizure of independence from Britain.

The party's stand was made clear in a statement issued by its leader, Josiah Gondo.

A party statement said: "The United Peoples Party has already condemned the unilateral declaration of independence as illegal. There can therefore be no question of the party sitting down with Smith and his colleagues to discuss ways and means of furthering the illegal action in any way. This is the attitude which the official and loyal Opposition will adopt in Parliament."

Smith has repeatedly claimed that he had the backing of the Negroes for his unilateral declaration of independence.

Gondo's party has ten members in Parliament which is due to meet Nov. 23.

There are 62 seats in Parliament which is dominated by Smith's all - white Rhodesia Front party. There are five independent members — three African Negroes, one Asian and one white.

Rhodesians queued up today to affirm their loyalty to the Queen in two opposing and conflicting ways.

VISIT GOVERNOR

At Government House, where Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs is still in residence despite a Rhodesian government publicity campaign apparently designed to force him out, a steady stream of people came to sign the visitor's book.

And at the Legislative Assembly in the centre of the city, hundreds queued up in the hot sun to sign the visitor's book of Clifford Dupont, the Rhodesian breakaway government's new acting "governor."

Dupont, former deputy premier in Smith's regime, was sworn in Wednesday as the country's acting chief officer administering the government under the independence constitution proclaimed last week.

He "assumes" the powers held by the British-appointed Gibbs. Smith has said that Gibbs no longer is the legal governor.

Government sources said it was expected Smith would tender

Will Not Speculate On Cause

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of Canadian National Railways have declined to speculate about the cause of the derailment of a 100-passenger diesel train Wednesday that sent nine persons to hospital and slightly injured 13 others.

Witnesses said the slow-moving, two-engine train seemed to slide off the tracks of a detour being used while an underpass is constructed to replace a level crossing in suburban Rexdale.

The route was in operation for only two days, and some witnesses said that soggy ground, covered with a thin crust of frozen mud, sagged under the heavy weight of the train and could have caused the derailment.

But a CNR spokesman said it would be some time before an official statement is released.

"We have to submit a thorough report to transport department officials and this takes time," he said.

MOVED SLOWLY

The Chicago-to-Toronto train was travelling at about 10 miles an hour when the engines and a baggage car were thrown on their sides. Two coaches and a parlor car also left the tracks but remained upright.

The nine admitted to hospital included three crew members. They were in satisfactory condition.

Settlement Of $975,000 Is Accepted

NEW YORK (AP) — The widow and daughter of a financier who died in an American Airlines jet crash agreed in New York state Supreme Court Wednesday to accept a $975,000 settlement.

It was thought to be the largest settlement for a single death claim in state history.

Arnold S. Kirkeby, 60, was one of 95 passengers and crew killed in the crash here of a Boeing 707 jet March 1, 1962.

Kirkeby was president of the Kirkeby - Natus Corporation, a financing firm.

The details of the settlement became known when a stipulation was entered by the law firm for Mrs. Kirkeby and her daughter, who reside in Bel Air, Calif.

Pearson Voices Warning To New UN Members, Honored for Services

NEW YORK (C)—After being honored Wednesday night as the man who has "enormously benefitted" mankind, Prime Minister Pearson warned that the United Nations faces as much danger from impatient new members as from obstinate old members.

The prime minister, who received the 1965 Family of Man award for his distinguished services in the cause of freedom and humanity," said the UN could become impotent if newer members overplay their part.

But he would personally be surprised if these new members which "recently emerged from subservient status ceased to exercise how vitally important to them is the United Nations."

Pearson spoke about the UN after David Rockefeller, chairman of the awards committee, praised the Canadian prime minister as "a dedicated worker for peace and freedom."

"The whole world has heard from him and is immeasurably richer for the experience. . . . His career is an enduring landmark on man's endless pilgrimage to peace and freedom. . . . He has assured Canadians a deeper sense of their own identity and is recognized around the world for clarity and astuteness."

Some 3,000 persons were in the hotel ballroom for the 2½-hour dinner and ceremony that ended with Pearson urging the Affluent Western nations not to let up in their assistance to less fortunate peoples.

"Today, the great danger facing all of us is that, in our relative ease and affluence, we of the West are becoming bored with being continually reminded that more must be done. After two decades of economic assistance there is a "weariness with well-doing. . . . So we lapse into the complacency of the comfortable.

"But to withdraw our concern and slacken our effort on behalf of the whole family of man just because now the 'going is tough' would be both a political mistake and a human betrayal."

Despite all efforts, he said, the economic gap between the West and other countries is widening. The results could become tragic.

Pearson's speech on the difficulties facing mankind followed a generous sprinkling of light-hearted entertainment that spiced the annual awards dinner. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and humorist Bennett Cerf, a noted publisher - author, swapped jokes, Frederic March and Florence Eldridge recited poetry, and opera star Jean Madeira sang several arias. The prime minister had some fun with last week's power failure, triggered in Ontario, which darkened the entire city of New York.

"You must forgive us if we sometimes take an opportunity to show our power," he said. "We don't get many opportunities."

The Society For the Family of Man, sponsored by the Protestant Council of New York, established its annual award in 1963 when the late president Kennedy received the first. Former president Eisenhower was awarded it last year.

In addition to the top award, the society gives four annual "awards for excellence." This year the peace award in that category went to Jean Monnet

Canal Traffic Interrupted By High Winds and Snow

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first real taste of winter continued across Ontario today as, low temperatures, ranging from five degrees in the north to 35 in southern areas, took over in the wake of Wednesday's high winds and falling snow.

The Welland Canal, which has been closed by 30-mile-an-hour winds Wednesday, was opened shortly after midnight as the winds diminished to 15 miles an hour.

Late Wednesday, with snow still driving before winds that gusted to 40 miles an hour over the area, 24 ships were waiting passage downbound at Port Colborne on Lake Erie, 10 of them ocean-going vessels. At Port Weller, on the Lake Ontario end of the canal, 23 vessels waited to move up, eight of them ocean going.

With only 15 days remaining until the St. Lawrence Seaway is scheduled to close, 153 ocean-going vessels are reported moving the Welland Canal at Port Weller, compared with 110 at this time last year. They require three days after clearing the canal downbound to navigate the seaway and reach the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Traffic was disrupted and accidents caused on other sections of the seaway Wednesday as high winds and blowing snow made navigation difficult. Near Amherstburg on Lake Erie, four members of a U.S. Coast Guard cutter swam ashore after the cutter went aground en route to the rescue of a foundering self-propelled derrick. They reached a highway and hitched a ride to Detroit, while plans were made to save the cutter.

The crew members of the derrick, bound for Detroit from the Pelee Passage, were rescued by a tug after spending 15 minutes in the icy water.

Eight to 10 inches of snow, mixed with freezing rain, fell on most parts of the Ottawa Valley Tuesday night and all day Wednesday.

Hazardous driving conditions caused numerous minor accidents, interfered with bus schedules and made school buses late. Forecast was for more of the same.

Northern Ontario, after a day of freezing rain and snow blown before strong winds that brought down power lines and disrupted traffic, could expect sunshine and colder temperatures today.

In the north, where the storm Wednesday dumped from three to 10 inches of snow on various communities, the forecast was for partly cloudy skies, colder temperatures and more snow—this time only in flurries.

Gemini Program Space Leaders Among 91 Aboard

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An electronics executive and two Gemini space officials including director Chris Kraft disarmed a teen-ager who tried to seize a jetliner over the Gulf of Mexico.

Thomas Robinson, 16, who said he wanted to go to Cuba to help anti-Castro political prisoners, fired a barrage of shots into the deck of the lounge before he was wrestled to the seat Wednesday night 100 miles out of New Orleans. He was carrying two guns.

But the two space officials and a score of other top experts —the cream of the brainpower in the Gemini program—coming here to check out spacecrafts for the United States' next space flights, escaped without injury.

"We thought all along the shots were blanks," said Paul Haney, voice of the U.S. astronauts, "still somebody pulled hard the trigger and we crumbled eight big holes in the metal floor.

"All that point I got a little weak in the knees," he said. "It was one hell of a 23 minutes."

GETS JUMP

It was the electronics executive, Edward C. Haske of Southern Ontario, Tex., who actually got the jump on the youth, from Brownsville, Tex., by distracting him a handful of gold coins.

"I walked through the whole German Army in World War Two and I wasn't convinced he was all he was trying to be," said Haske, 46, a decorated B-17 pilot.

"I'm on here," he said. "I just did what I had to do."

Haney was sitting next to Kraft, who directs U.S. astronauts as they circle the globe, when Robinson sat down on the arm of the chair across the aisle.

Robinson dropped a newspaper he had wrapped around a .22-calibre automatic, narrowing the 91 passengers aboard the Los Angeles - to - Miami National Airlines Flight 20.

"He pointed it at Chris, Haney said. "It was only six inches off his face."

"What have you got there, boy?" Kraft said.

"There was a click which I thought was a cocking action," Haney said. "It did not fire. That's why I thought it was cocking action.

"The kid stood up and backed toward the cockpit door and

Four Damage Claims Made After Blackout

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro's legal department has received four damage claims in connection with the Nov. 9 blackout and more are starting to come in, a Hydro spokesman said Wednesday.

Lorne McDonald, general counsel for Hydro, said all claims were from persons in Southern Ontario. He described them as small claims apparently related to the blackout. The blackout, which left an estimated 30,000,000 persons without electricity in Canada and the northeastern United States, originated in the failure of protective equipment at Queenston, Ont., near Niagara Falls.

Hydro officials issued a statement, saying:

"The interconnection agreement Hydro has with other utilities is founded on the principle that while both parties share benefits, each is fully responsible for its own operations."

"While Hydro maintains the highest possible standard of service to its customers and to interconnected utilities, absolute continuity of service is not and cannot be guaranteed."

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Thompson said Wednesday Premier Robarts should explain his statement that Ontario may withdraw from an international power grid.

Mr. Robarts made his statement following the power blackout last week in parts of Canada and the United States.

Canada Triples Forces

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada, in effect though not formally, has more than tripled its commitment in military forces to the United Nations for peacekeeping duty, informants said Wednesday.

The 3,300-man special service force, which includes three infantry battalions, is intended basically though not exclusively for UN service, they said.

The force's terms of reference were deliberately left vague so that it could be assigned various roles as needs arose. But there is no doubt, authorities said, that it designed first and foremost for UN duty.

Officials stressed that no plans are being drawn up for possible use of the force or any part of it in Rhodesia. Such advance planning usually takes place when there is even the slightest indication that the government might accept a new peacekeeping job for the UN.

EARMARKS ONE

For many years, Canada has formally earmarked one infantry battalion for UN service.

This commitment automatically withdrew when the designated battalion takes on a UN assignment. When a battalion was sent to Cyprus, for instance, another was designated as the standby unit for the period.

It now is intended that the special service force will be drawn on for all UN assignments though exceptions may have to be made.

The special service force does not operate as a single entity in Canada but, if events demanded, could be moved overseas as one large formation.

Its units comprise the 1st Canadian Guards Battalion at Picton, Ont., now the UN standby battalion; the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, at Vic-

Princess Dined and Danced At Big White House Party

WASHINGTON (CP) — Princess Margaret dined and danced Wednesday night at a candlelit White House party, fox-trotting with a briskly-conversant President Johnson in the official climax of her four-day visit to the capital.

After another round of sightseeing today, the princess and the Earl of Snowdon leave for New York and the last leg of a three - week American trip that began Nov. 4 at San Francisco.

The gay festivities, also marking the Johnsons' 33rd wedding Anniversary, went on until 2 a.m. and the frug and waltz shared equal billing in the east ballroom.

The princess and her husband enjoyed themselves visibly. She said lady-in-waiting Elizabeth Cavendish.

There were 140 guests for dinner and another 30 were added for dancing at the private formal affair.

President Johnson mixed advice for marital happiness with tributes to 150 years of friendship with Britain in toasting the Queen.

Princess Margaret in a low voice reiterated thanks for American warmth and entertainment in toasting the president.

Before either addressed the gathering, called on "every-body to raise a glass to the most wonderful parents."

Princess Margaret in shocking pink silk and diamonds laughed, listened and chatted,

"Have you seen my scar?"

smoking cigarettes from her black-and-gold holder, as she and beside the president. She congratulated him on his successful recovery from a gallbladder operating five weeks ago.

Towering over Princess Margaret—he is six feet, two inches tall and she just over five feet—the president escorted her to a cabaret-style ballroom for dancing, launched to the tune Everything's Coming up Roses.

Lord Snowdon escorted Lady Bird Johnson.

Earlier, Johnson gave a simple recipe for domestic bliss.

"First, let her think she is having her way," he said. "Second, let her think it is.

On the dance floor, the princess drew the line at the frug and three fast dances but Lord Snowdon danced everything from a Dixieland rendition of 12th Street Rag to a popular Beatle number entitled Hard Day's Night.

There were no Canadians among the guest list which was sprinkled with Washington officials, Johnson staff friends and assorted guests.

Engineer to Hear Experimental Lesson

At 4 p.m. today twenty engineers at Trenton will see and hear an experimental lecture which will be delivered 173 miles away at the University of Waterloo.

Both the visual and audio portions of the lecture will be carried by ordinary long distance telephone connections and if the experiment is satisfactory, it may provide an economical method to give graduate courses to engineers in industry who are unable to attend university.

The remote control teaching experiment employs a Bell Telephone system called Telewriting. The system utilizes two long distance lines, one for the audio portion of the lecture and another for the visual portion which simulate what would normally appear on the blackboard. The blackboard portion is achieved by the instructor writing his notes and diagrams on an Electrowriter which transmits the impressions to a receiving machine at the remote classroom. An overhead projector picks up the transmitted notes and diagrams and projects them on a screen. An amplifier amplifies the audio message. Students in the remote classroom can converse back and forth with the instructors at Waterloo and U. of T. Waterloo professors have also suggested a way in which the Electrowriter can be used to operate a slide projector by remote control.

The engineers attending the lecture are from companies in the Belleville - Trenton area. All want to update their knowledge by taking graduate courses but are hampered by the distance from the university.

Their classroom will be the board room of the Eric Technological Products of Canada Ltd., Company at Trenton.

At Waterloo, regular graduate engineering students at the University of Waterloo will be attending the same lecture. Their only advantage will be that they can see the face of the instructor.

Professor John Ekhs and Professor James Chorek of the University of Waterloo are experimenting with the new remote control system. They are hopeful the experimental lecture will enable the university to provide graduate course lectures in engineering in various parts of the province not served by engineering schools. Their main advantage is the economies offered in comparison with closed circuit television which, at present, involve heavy equipment and operating costs.

New Authority May Be Formed In County

The possibility of a Prince Edward county regional conservation authority being established will be considered at a meeting of municipal representatives to be held at Picton in the afternoon of December 2nd.

The meeting is being called by the conservation authorities branch of the Ontario Department of Energy and Resources following a petition from Prince Edward county municipalities.

The municipalities which would become members of the Authority if it is established are members of Picton, village of Bloomfield and Wellington, and townships of Ameliasburg, Athol, Hallowell, Hillier, Marysburg North, Marysburg South and Sophiasburg.

Santa's "Ho! Ho!" Could Be Slightly Hollow

When Santa Claus stages his annual Belleville parade two weeks from now his rotund figure will be as robust as ever.

But his traditional "Ho, Ho, Ho!" may be tinged with a hollow for there's a financial icicle hanging over his head.

The fact is, if citizen contributions to the parade don't show a marked increase the gain event this year may write its financial report in figures red as Santa's suit.

City firefighters have always been in the organizational van for the event. And it is Fire Chief Ted Foote who has sounded the alarm.

The parade—which attracts spectators for many miles around—usually costs about up to $2,600, he said. This is after trimming expenses about $300 from last year.

"Even at that, last year we started out with a $200 surplus and just about broke even," Mr. Foote added. "We came up so close to that red deficit line it wasn't funny. Every year the donations have been dropping off."

There are two main sources for fund-raising. Businessmen, manufacturers and leading citizens are canvassed by mail. The general public is asked to subscribe during a tag day—this year set for the upcoming weekend.

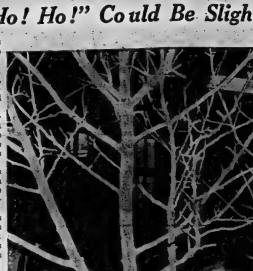
This year 700 letters were mailed canvassing subscriptions.

"So far, we've only had replies to about 10 percent," said the chief.

BUDGET STILL SHORT

By next weekend, with the parade deadline that much nearer, he fears the projected budget may still be about $1,200 short.

"We hope for a good tag day to help make up the difference," said the chief.



Meantime, organization continues to grow apace.

Work on the floats which form a colorful massed centrepiece for the big show is well underway with firemen and volunteers in what is now a tradition of co - operation.

The number of floats – in fact the size of the whole parade, however, still depends on funds received in coming days.

The situation is not bad, yet serious enough to turn Santa's hair to whatever shade white gets under stress. However, it is causing his Belleville helpers some grey moments of depression.

They are now awaiting the results of Chief Foote's appeal to see what kind of a parade they can package this Christmas for the Quinte district.

TREE GROWS in firehall as float is constructed for December 4 Santa Claus parade. Gary Marriott (left), and fireman Bruce Diamond continue assembling props — despite parade financial worries.

Remove Lights At Pinnacle And Dundas

Those seemingly pointless traffic lights at the corner of Pinnacle and Dundas streets are no more.

In fact all four traffic lights, along with standards, have been taken completely away.

According to city engineer Wilbur Purcell, the Pinnacle-Dundas lights have actually served no particularly useful purpose since one-way traffic was put into effect on Pinnacle St. some years ago.

The set of lights northbound traffic from south of Dundas street will be called upon to stop at Dundas while east and west traffic will be allowed to flow without interruption.

The necessary by-laws governing the change in the traffic pattern have already passed through council.

But looking forward to the day when there again might be a two-way traffic along all of Pinnacle street, plastic piping will be installed beneath the pavement so traffic lights could again be installed.

fired three shots in the floor of the lounge. Then he just stood there. He didn't say anything to anyone.

"I've got a gun and I'm not afraid to use it."

Then he fired three more shots into the floor.

Hanley was the only other person in the lounge, Haney said. The husky six-footer talked to Robinson while switchboard operator Mrs. Dorothy Hall called the police.

Then she had calmed down and Hanley pulled out a plastic holder full of old coins. He asked the boy if he would like to see them. The kid said he was a coin collector.

"At some point along the way, the kid lowered his hands. I think he was going to reload the gun. When he put his hands together Hanley grabbed them.

BOTH JUMP

"Chris and I immediately jumped. I was the first one there. Hanley held his hands and I threw him against the seat.

"And while Hanley held him, both Chris and I helped subdue him."

Robinson, neatly dressed in a grey-green two piece jacket and a striped tie, was charged "with intent to intimidate the crew and influence the captain to take the plane to Havana, Cuba." At an arraignment in New Orleans, he was held on $50,000 bond.

Dr. Charles Berry, chief physician for the space program and who was going with the other officials to check out the spacecraft for Gemini 6 and 7 scheduled in two weeks, said after the ordeal was over:

"They could have started a pretty good Cuban space program with that pianolad."

Award Winner Tells Club UN a World of Its Own

TRENTON This year's winner of the "United Nations' Fellowship Award," with the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Mrs. Pearl Kuneius of Calgary, told an assembly of B. and P. club members at Trenton this week that the United Nations was "a world of its own in New York City", and that nations of the world needed most from the "developed countries was training technicians to teach them to be self - sufficient.

She said the UN aim to fight illiteracy, poverty and disease in the developing countries and proposed to do this by promoting science and the free exchange of ideas between countries; by encouraging respect for human rights and the extension of the freedoms of speech, the press, religion and the freedom from want and fear.

Some countries are concerned about their dwindling supplies of fresh water and are studying methods of de-salting sea water cheaply. Some are concerned about the development of large scale public utilities such as transportation and electric power and the building of dams. Some are seeking to finance research along agricultural lines. And all are concerned about health and education. Another problem which faces most countries is the explosion in population and how best to handle this.

MEMBERS CAN ASSIST

Mrs. Kuneius suggested that B. and P. members could assist the U.N. by such things as giving up one hair-do a month and using the money to buy UNICEF cards, and contributing to club projects which tie in with UN programs. She said club members could also attempt to interest people in going out to the developing countries and working there, helping the people to help themselves.

Miss Vera Clark, vice-president of the local club, thanked Mrs. Kuneius. "You have refreshed our interest in the UN and our faith in the future of the UN," Miss Clark said, "I hope we will be motivated to individual and collective action, extending true fellowship to all countries in our 'small world'."

The wife of Trenton's mayor, Mrs. D. J. MacDonald, brought civic greeting to club members and out-of-town guests, who came from Kingston, Napanee, Belleville, Peterborough, Cobourg and Picton, and included Mrs. Dorothy Brown of Belleville, vice-president of District C; Mrs. Beatrice Lasher of Napanee, provincial advisor for District 11; Mrs. Margaret Jones, Peterborough, region advisor for District 5.

The Trenton Club choral group gave two numbers and Alice Wilson said grace and Miss Mary Casselman was the soloist.

Storm Causes Minor Mishaps In District

TRENTON — There were only two accidents in Trenton during yesterday's storm.

Provincial police from Brighton detachment were kept busy investigating a spate of accidents on area highways, none of which resulted in personal injury or high property damage.

At 4.15 on the Smithfield Rd. a car and a school bus were in a collision, but again, no one was injured.

Later in the afternoon, on Highway 33, south of Trenton, cars driven by Velma Kemp of Carrying Place, and Roy Wood of R.R. 1, Carrying Place, collided. Neither driver was injured.

In the late afternoon, a transport overturned on Highway 401, just east of Trenton. The driver was not injured. Traffic was re-routed to Highway Two until the transport was upright.

BENNETT — In loving memory of Patrick Douglas Bennett who passed away November 18, 1961.

Four years ago our brother was called,
To his eternal rest;
And we know the angels sing so sweet,
And heaven when God bless'd.
We miss him here in our home each day,
His presence oft seems nigh,
But we hope to meet him above,
Where no one says goodbye.
— Sadly missed by Mom, Joyce and family.

BOYCE, Arthur G. — Who drowned Nov. 18, 1963.
At night when silent stars look down
On a grave not far from here,
Where sleeps the one we can't forget
The one we love so dear.
He didn't know when he left home,
He would no return,
That he in death so soon would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.
— Sadly missed by Florence, son Thomas, daughter-in-law Iris.

KENT — In loving memory of our dear friend, Jessie Kemp, who died November 18th, 1952.

Board Wants Deadline to Be Continued

The Bay of Quinte District High School Board wants the present March 1st deadline for advertising and hiring of teachers to be continued.

At its November meeting last night the board went on record as strongly supporting the March 1st deadline this despite the fact that many high school boards across Ontario would like to see the deadline eliminated.

Last night's meeting was mostly routine and was one of the shortest of the season with members on their way home by 9.30.

The time when the contract for construction of the board's fourth high school in West Belleville can be officially signed drew a bit closer with receipt of approvals from the townships of Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga, leaving only the Frankford approval yet to come. This is expected next week.

Earlier this week approvals from the city of Belleville and the township of Ameliasburg were received by the board.

Death Caused By Overdose Of New Drug

LOS ANGELES (A) — The death of actress Dorothy Dandridge last Sept. 8 was caused by an overdose of a drug used to treat psychiatric depressive cases, the county coroner's office has reported.

Coroner Theodore J. Curphey said Wednesday the compound, tofranil, is a new drug. He said the office would not attempt to determine if the 41-year-old actress' death was accidental or a suicide.

Curphey's office reported last Sept. 10 that Miss Dandridge died of an embolism caused by bone marrow from a broken toe entering her bloodstream. Curphey said the first report was released early because of "lack of a complete study and pressure from news agencies."

He said the rarity of the reported death - cause prompted further investigation. He said the final report isolating the cause of death was made by the U.S. Armed Forces Institute of Pathology.

He said his own laboratory and private laboratory have been "unable to recover any drug in significant amounts."

Miss Dandridge's body was found in her apartment by her manager, Earl Mills. Her films included Carmen Jones, and Porgy and Bess.

London Bus Drivers Set Strike Deadline

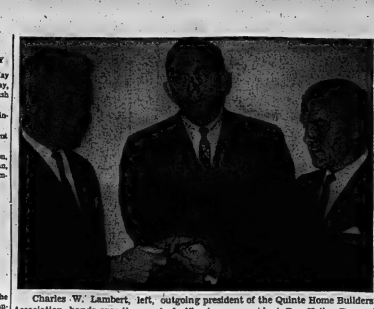
LONDON, Ont. (CP) — City bus drivers will go on strike at 5 a.m. Monday if no wage agreement is reached with the London Transportation Commission by then.

The executive of Local 741 of the Amalgamated Transit Union set the date Wednesday night while Mayor Gordon Stronach was continuing efforts to bring about a settlement.

A bus strike, which would idle garage mechanics also, would be the first in London since 1920.

LTC employees voted 240 to 5 Sunday night in favor of strike action. The union later decided to set the strike date today, but Local President C. E. Cronsberry said it was speeded up "in order to give the public more time to make other arrangements for transportation."

In his letter to employees advising them of the deadline, Mr. Cronsberry said, however: "We are still hopeful that through the efforts of the mayor, a strike will not take place."



Henry Wallace, Former U.S. Vice-Pres., Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Agard Wallace, former vice-president, cabinet member and presidential candidate, died today at the age of 77, his son-in-law said.

The son-in-law, Washington lawyer Douglas, said Wallace died at Danbury, Conn., hospital.

He said Wallace was taken there this morning from his home in South Salem, N.Y.

Wallace had been in hospital at the National Institute of Health in Washington. He was released from the hospital Oct. 28 and returned to his farm home.

Local Home Builders Elect New Officers

The Quinte Home Builders' Association met last night at the Hotel Quinte for induction of new officers.

New president is Don Keller, replacing Charles W. Lambert who now becomes a director. Other officers are Maurice H. Rollins, first vice-president, Ed Bell, second vice-president and J. A. Cox, secretary-treasurer.

Besides Mr. Lambert, the directors are Russ Dean, Al Hodnick, Doug Bone, Pat Halloran, Randy Loewen and Stan Klemencic, Trenton representative.

Guest speaker at the dinner was Bernard J. Bernard, National Home Builders' Association executive vice-president.

Mr. Bernard said the Quinte association is one of 50 local organizations across the country making up the National Association.

"We are all part of a very important industry. The house-building industry is in excess of two billion dollars a year in production and supplies Canadians with 400,000 man-year jobs. In relationship to other industries in the Quinte area, house-building is one of the most important.

"One important function of the National Association is that we are dedicated to improve the character of Canadian homes and to make it possible for more Canadians to become home owners.

"Many of our efforts are aimed at serving the public interest by pressing for legislation that makes it easier for people to become home owners. One example of this is the efforts made by the Association to have changes made in the NHA to lower down payments and extend amortization payment periods.

"The Association also played a major role in other NHA changes which increased the maximum amount of NHA loans.

"As new houses are built two purposes are achieved: the public interest is served, and employment is created.

"There is no product that is more Canadian, that is has a higher content of Canadian-made components, than a house."

Empty, Sealed Ballot Box In Carleton

OTTAWA (CP) — Another empty, sealed ballot box has been discovered—this time in Ottawa's Carleton riding—and the Liberal and New Democratic Party candidates are lodging complaints to Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay.

When Returning Officer Thomas Davison broke the seal to begin his official count on Monday morning, he found the ballots gone and only the tally of ballots remaining.

In Quebec's Shefford riding an empty box was found during the official count which gave Liberal candidate Louis-Paul Neveu a 45-vote win over Conservative Paul Trepanier.

Mr. Trepanier has charged that ballot boxes were tampered with and threatened to take legal action.

In Carleton, the official count gave victory to Conservative Richard Bell, with 32,572 votes, compared to Liberal Lloyd Francis' 31,635. Mr. Francis won the riding in 1963 from Mr. Bell, who at that time was immigration minister.

For the official count, the tally from the empty box was used and it gave a slight lead to Mr. Francis. The poll was in an apartment building.

The 434-foot tanker, with a capacity of 81,500 barrels, is the 17th in the company's fleet and is the first equipped with an ice-strengthened hull.

Cash-crop Farmers Will Not Get Aid

NEW LISKEARD, Ont. (CP) Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart says there will be no government assistance for Ontario cash-crop farmers.

Mr. Dorothy Hounsom, secretary of the Temiskaming Federation of Agriculture, Wednesday revealed the contents of a reply from Mr. Stewart following a protest by local farmers that the per-hectare aid offered precluded cash-crop farmers.

Assistance came as a result of severe crop losses due to wet weather this year. Local farmers are completing applications for aid based by federal and provincial authorities on the number of livestock.

Mr. Stewart said he was sympathetic toward the plight of farmers, but added:

"I am sure that you are fully aware that crop insurance, on the basis offered by the Federal Crop Insurance Act, was not acceptable to the farmers of Ontario a few years ago.

"I realize full well that cash-crop farmers have sustained substantial losses. However, it has been the unanimous decision of both the federal and provincial governments involved that no assistance can be provided for cash-crop farmers.

Ontario Will Receive Gift Of $730,000

TORONTO (CP) — The 73-year-old pine shack studio of artist Tom Thomson and what is believed to be the largest collection of Group of Seven landscape paintings are among gifts valued at $730,000 to be signed over today to the Ontario government.

The gift from Toronto businessman Robert McMichael and his wife, will be received at Queen's Park by Premier John Robarts and Dr. G. Ross Lord, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Conservation Authority.

Turned over to the province will be a 20-acre site near Kleinburg, 25 miles north of Toronto, 200 paintings including works by J. F. H. MacDonald, Fred Varley, A. Y. Jackson, Arthur Lismer, Franz Johnston, Franklin Carmichael, Lawrence Harris, Emily Carr, David Milne and Mr. Thomson.

The property includes a seven-room house built from hand-hewn hemlock logs rescued from Upper Canada farmhouses and the cabin which Mr. Thomson used as a studio.

In return for the gift the government has promised to add additional acreage to the property, to be used to obtain further conservation and recreation area.

Mr. McMichael, 44, is the founder of the weekly Canadian Illustrated News, a wedding photographer and director of a publicity firm.

He and his Danish-born wife will continue to live in the house, and will act as curators.

Martin's Statement Explains Canada's Vote Against China

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said Wednesday that Peking itself has taken on United Nations membership which is unacceptable.

Mr. Martin issued a four-page statement explaining Canada's vote against China's entry into the UN.

He said Red China's price for entry is expulsion of Nationalist China.

Canada would have welcomed the opportunity to see Communist China take a seat in the world organization had Peking made this possible," the statement said.

"If that has not yet happened, it has become Peking itself has set a price on participation which is unacceptable.

"In the view of the Canadian government it is not for the UN to accommodate itself to the views of a single nation, however powerful or populous. It is for Communist China to make its accommodation to the UN today. He said tight money conditions require that cash be conserved for a stepped-up building program.

ACCUSES CHINA

Mr. Martin said Red China has sought to discredit the UN to the point of urging the creation of a rival world organization.

He noted that on Sept. 24 he had repeated before the UN General Assembly Canadian support for the principle of universal UN membership.

Nevertheless, Canada had voted against China's entry because:

1. China had asked as a condition of its entry into the UN that the UN rescind its resolution condemning China as an aggressor in the Korean war. Canada had fought and died in Korea to defeat aggression.

2. China has not departed from its policy that the population of Formosa should be denied representation in the UN.

3. Chinese membership in the UN could not be considered in isolation. Canada had to assess the likely impact of the admission of Red China on its other relationships and on the UN itself.

Mr. Martin said it will continue to be Canadian policy to encourage contacts between Canada and Red China and the rest of the world.

It was hoped that some means could be found to obtain "further clarification" of Red China's intentions regarding UN membership before the issue is dealt with again in the General Assembly.

Students' Problems

We often wonder if all the talk of emotional problems among high school students would be necessary if the students themselves just changed their attitudes.

Emotional problems, mental blocks and all the rest can be very real to those who suffer from them. Nevertheless, some degree of self-analysis and exercise of plain common sense may expose such problems for what they are—fantasies that should be dismissed from the mind with despatch.

Granted there are numerous young people who need professional help, but there are surely many who can sort out their own problems by intelligent self-analysis. Students can help each other by taking themselves and the world less seriously, by displaying more interest in each other and exercising such elementary qualities as kindness and consideration.

Parents have a prime responsibility in this endeavor. If the home is a happy one it should not be affected unduly by "personality" problems.

Nevertheless, the July tercentenary in Peterborough, where the problems of youth have been under close scrutiny in recent months, intends to propose to an Ontario legislature committee that a qualified psychologist or psychiatrist be made available for students to help them with emotional and social problems.

The trouble is, there just are not enough of these professional gentlemen to go around. This brings us back to the question of self-help. For all their "togetherness," students in reality are islands unto themselves and this has a tendency to foster psychological problems.

However, it need not be thus—if only students would stop nursing their complexes and feeling sorry for themselves, and outward instead of inward and develop a greater sense of fellowship.

The Peterborough students, it is interesting to note, also propose the encouragement of "more individual activities" in the wake, no doubt, of the most valuable means of promoting both physical and mental well-being. Ideally, this should be given more priority than the psychiatrist's couch.

Not a Speck!

When it comes to furnishing and decorating a home it is difficult to decide which trend to follow.

The choice is wide, as a glance at various magazines indicates. The only problem perhaps is deciding which is "in." What is it the Jones' have in their living room? Canadian Colonial. We ought to have Halifax provincial then, or Scandinavian modern. Or go really bourgeois with French provincial . . .!

Like those superbly-groomed and sculptured men and women in the advertisements, the creations of the modern interior decorator are almost too good to be true. If one is a guest in a home where everything is in place and not so much as a speck of dust is in sight, one is almost afraid to accept a cigarette for fear of dropping the ash, or worse, or a cup of coffee lest it spills on the carpet.

Such perfection is something men may strive to attain. Yet, having attained it, having matched all the color schemes and hung a pleasing selection of pictures on the wall, does some perverseness not take hold, some baser instinct that rebels against such an immaculate scene and urges the householder to permit just a little bit of clutter to indicate he is human after all?

We have to admire those people who, without necessarily being untidy by nature, still manage to live in a state of splendid disarray, who never get caught up, who in the words of one writer regard money as just "stuff," and possessions as "junk," and who, in spite of planning, other adventures of mind and imagination unconnected with the appearance of the home.

Not to Be Trusted

It was raining heavily and the fellow standing by the roadside was a soldier. Service personnel for the most part are responsible people. However, there is the exception to every rule and it was 17-year-old Boyd Bruce's misfortune to be afforded a sharp reminder of this fact Monday night.

Bruce's story was told in the newspaper Tuesday, how he picked up the soldier in driving rain on Highway 37 south of Tweed and drove 13 miles to a point near Corbyville where he was suddenly ordered to stop.

According to Bruce, the soldier pulled a pistol, slugged him on the head with the butt and made off with the youth's wallet containing $47. Bruce, who was returning to his home in Preston from a hunting trip, woke up shortly afterwards with a nasty bump on his head.

It all goes to show that hitchhikers, in uniform or otherwise, cannot be trusted. In many parts of the United States it is illegal to pick up hitchhikers. This is for the protection of the motoring public, because there have been numerous incidents such as the one described above, throughout Canada and the United States. Some drivers have paid an even more terrible penalty than did young Bruce—with their lives.

Strictly Personal
Students Have a Right to Protest

By Sydney J. Harris

A social psychologist could write a fascinating paper on our "national schizophrenia" about government. Many of us act like two different persons when reacting our government's domestic policy and regarding its foreign policy.

On the domestic front, we question the wisdom, the prudence, even the motives of the federal government in many of its ventures; we complain that the individual is "losing his freedom." No one denies that what we live after right to make such complaints if we sincerely believe them.

On the foreign front, however most of us are outraged when a minority of students and others who dislike the government's policy in Viet Nam protest and demonstrate against it.

Yet it is entirely possible that the U.S. government is wrong in Viet Nam; a week, or a month, or a year from now, this might be admitted and our policy there will be reversed. The public doesn't have enough facts one way or the other to make a rational decision about our policy in Viet Nam, or anywhere abroad, for that matter.

I have no clear idea whether we are right or wrong; all I have are my suspicions. But it does seem clear to me that the students have as much right to march and protest against our involvement in Viet Nam as the right we have to march and protest against any domestic policies we find repugnant. They have the right even if they are wrong—this is, basically, what distinguishes democracy from dictatorship.

The means they use to express themselves are quite another matter. If they are violent and repressive means, they cannot be permitted. If they are peaceful means, they must be permitted, or we prove ourselves to be little better than the Russians.

What frightens me much more than the marches and demonstrations is the ugly attitude of the general public toward them. Patriotism is a splendid thing, but, as Nurse Edith Cavell said when facing a firing squad: "Patriotism is not enough." To blindly accept the government's position in Viet Nam is as senseless as blindly following its domestic program. This is not isolationism; this is abdication of free citizenship.

Except for the neurotic fringe — which all such movements attract — I do not believe that these young men are cowards or in any way "anti-American." I think most of them are acting on high moral principles, and if they happen to be wrong, their attitude is a luxury a democratic society can afford. We do not need, and should not want, the kind of "consensus" that a Soviet Russia or a Nazi Germany demands of its citizens.

There is nothing holy about a government's foreign - policy; neither the Congress nor the people have voted for any "war" in Viet Nam. If we stifle the voices of protest under such conditions, what hope is there for free person to feel that involvement in a war becomes the order of the day?

Man, 71, Thinks Golf May Make Heart Miss

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 71 and for six years have occasionally experienced auricular fibrillation while playing golf.

Does swinging the golf club have anything to do with this? I never have had fibrillation from walking a long distance. I understand that fibrillation affects the young as well as the old. Is there any cure or does one have to live with it? — O. E. S.

True fibrillation means that the heart muscle contracts or flutters in hit-or-miss, rapid fashion, instead of having the series of co-ordinated contractions which cause the beat of the heart.

Now I'm not sure whether to take your diagnosis at face value. There are other and more innocent irregularities of the heart, — palpitation, extra beats, and so on. There is even be transient muscle spasms of the chest wall, actually having nothing to do with the heart, but causing a flutter-y feeling. But they aren't fibrillation.

For that matter, some people can go into true fibrillation and not be aware of it.

Swinging a golf club may add just enough more exertion to precipitate some heart irregularity. But it is also possible that the shoulder or chest muscles are be kicking up a bit, and not the heart.

In short, I'm in favor of having you see your doctor for an accurate diagnosis rather than jumping to the conclusion that swinging a golf club is the one thing that causes your fibrillation. There's no point in worrying over some funny feeling in the chest, but there's a great deal to be said for finding out what it is, and either taking appropriate measures to relieve it, or forgetting about it if it isn't serious.

Yes, auricular fibrillation can occur in the young, especially those who have had rheumatic heart disease. There can be other causes in older folks.

There is no real cure for fibrillation but there are medications that control it and electrical stimulation (defibrillation) that can stop it. One must adjust to limitations imposed by heart problems — if you have them.

But first make sure that such problems are real. I wouldn't want to give up golf unless there is a reason for doing so.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a hiatal hernia is the same as a diaphragmatic hernia, I am enclosing the required 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Ways to Combat It." — Mrs. S. P.

Yes, they are the same.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for one person to be allergic to another, so as to cause asthma or croup? — Mrs. R. D.

Yes, it is possible for such allergy to occur, and records of cases are in medical literature. More commonly it is quite possible that the allergy involves an ingredient used by the person which seems to cause the problem: Soap, detergent, perfume, cleaning compound, some chemical used at work — almost anything such as hair spray, cosmetics, garden spray or something used in the basement workshop.

Further, some strong emotional or psychological factor may bring on the hives, wheezes, or croup; that is, dislike, fear, jealousy, resentment.

Your mention of croup makes me think that a very small child must be involved here. Some careful study of the case may reveal exactly what is causing the trouble. But I want no part of an argument over which adult makes little Susie sneeze or choke up. I'm too well down to some material or cosmetic carried on clothes or skin.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., for your copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Ottawa Offbeat
Composition of New House Reflects Wider Interests

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Say what you will about that election — but please, not too loudly if there are ladies in the house — it had one big pass.

And that was what perhaps may be the beginning of a return to Parliament of men who can speak for the business and industrial community.

Take any Canadian Parliament in recent years — dominated first of all by lawyers, next lawyers, in fact, than all the rest of the professions and trades put together.

A few teachers. Some farmers. A scattering of small merchants. A spare handful of medical men. A journalist or two.

And, more recently, Civil Servants.

Just look at them. Mitchell Sharp, a former Deputy Minister, and Guy Favreau the same. Jack Pickersgill, ex-clerk of the Privy Council and prime ministerial hatchet-man. Maurice Lamontagne, a former senior departmental administrator, and even Prime Minister Pearson himself, an ex-Deputy Minister of External Affairs.

Civil Servants all before, and all now in the government's senior echelons.

CHANGING

But now, with this election, things may be starting to turn out differently.

Back in the Commons to speak for business, industry and the investment community are international corporation executive Robert Winters and stock exchange president George Hees.

A further plus, both business leaders are veterans of Parliament — George Hees a former Conservative Minister and Trade Minister, and Robert Winters an ex-Liberal Public Works and Reconstruction Minister.

Neither are believers in the "big" government. Both are convinced that governments must live within their means, and that there is no spending to be had the Treasury and the taxpayers can afford.

Both, too, have been in the Conservative Opposition and Winters on the Liberal Frontbench, will not agree to any increased spending for welfare into which the Cabinet, still somewhat Social Security-minded, may be more or less willingly pushed by the New Democrats whose support is even more essential now to the minority government.

Bigger and better spending could be the price of an NDP prop under the administration.

George Hees and Robert Winters as spokesman for business will join ranks with Senator Wallace McCutcheon, who was a financier E. P. Taylor's Man Friday before the Conservatives conscripted him three years ago for emergency Cabinet service as Trade Minister when the Pearson Liberal Minority Government was falling apart.

Wheeler-dealer though he was and still is in the world of investment, there's no stuffing in McCutcheon (or Senator McCutcheon calls himself) either.

TREMENDOUS STAKES

He would have a say in this last campaign, with perhaps only Conservative Leader Diefenbaker actually doing more travelling and making more speeches. He has been the same sort of hard-driver in the Senate.

Just as George Hees and Robert Winters now will be in the Commons.

In recent years, business has been a dirty word in almost all direct influence on basic government decisions. In fact, business has been treated almost with suspicion if not hostility.

Instead, new policy concepts and new fiscal policies are being conceived by a small cadre of professional experts — the Big Brass of the Civil Service service — who have contrived to make themselves all but indispensable to politicians holding office.

It has been no secret that it is the constant pressure of George Hees and Robert Winters — and yes, Senator McCutcheon, too — that it is unreasonable for business leaders to exert pressure through direct personal political influence on the administration's professional Civil Service advisers.

Strangely, Canadian business and industrial leaders generally have cloaked their political thinking in a mysterious, seeming little influence, if not altogether opting out of national affairs.

The three levels of government — federal, provincial and municipal — are each spending an annual average $8 billion, making it a combined $24 billion tax spree.

Robert Winters and George Hees have said the businessman simply can't allow himself to be dealt out of the political game — the stakes are just too high, and there is too much to lose.

Now they have given the lead, others will follow?

High Heels Can Hazard

Peterborough Examiner

Sgt. Robert Cooper of the Metropolitan Toronto Police believes that high heels, worn by women drivers, constitute a driving hazard. He points out that the shoe is so designed that the only part of the foot in contact with the brake is the big toe, and one cannot exert much pressure on a brake pedal, with one big toe.

Furthermore, because of the high heel, the toe presses against the pedal at an awkward angle, thus further hampering the driver's ability to exert sudden and forceful pressure. The Sergeant made his observations during an inquest into the death of a small girl who drove her tricycle into the path of a car. Evidence at the woman driver — wearing high heeled shoes — was exonerated, there was ample evidence that she did not stop as rapidly as she might have done in more practical footwear.

Since driving in today's traffic has become a business of considerable seriousness, there is obviously no room on the road for drivers who do so with less than all of their faculties available and operating effectively. Women should be willing to make this small concession to utility when there is so much at stake.

Minister for Indians ?

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Miss Kahn-Tineta Horn is in the news again. Her resignation or a change in the assignment of cabinet duties. Miss Horn makes the case that Indian and Eskimo affairs are now being treated as one of the subdepartments of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration.

She thinks that the relationship between the Government of Canada and the people who owned this country first deserves to be the responsibility of a minister of the Crown, rather than being a sideline to immigration and naturalization.

Miss Horn makes a sensible point. Nobody in the Dominion government is now assigned to pay undivided attention to the government's business with the people who were here before the Europeans, moved in.

The Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, who is the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration in the present cabinet, has been a department of government which is responsible for immigration policies almost from the beginning. Immigration service at the borders, for citizenship courts and the naturalization of foreign-born Canadians and for immigration appeal boards. Tacked on to that is the work of the Indian Affairs branch.

RCAF Pilots Are Favored

Financial Times

Canada's major airlines are finding themselves in a uniquely favorable position to attract prospective aircrew members despite an increasing trend by foreign carriers to come to Canada to recruit.

American and overseas companies are making themselves felt in the recruiting of aircrew but officials of Air Canada and Canadian Pacific Air Lines are confident they will continue to land the best pilot prospects from the group which leaves the Royal Canadian Air Force each year.

Former Canadian air force pilots are the big attraction for American carriers who have been recruiting in Canada. "These people are very highly qualified," said a United States airline representative in Montreal on a two-day or sling junket last week. Such companies as United, TWA and American make Canadian personnel-hunting trips several times a year.

Air Canada and CPA offic als feel they have first crack at men leaving the RCAF because "they want to stay in Canada." in this respect, says Capt. G. K. Edward, assistant director of flight operations for, Air Canada, "we are the luckiest people in the world."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Further returns from the National Used Clothing Drive in this district by people of Europe reveal that over 21 tons of clothing and shoes have been contributed by the citizens. Although the drive officially closed last Saturday in Trenton, contributions have been left every day this week at the railway freight sheds and these have been packed and shipped by volunteer workers. The collection is taking place this week at Bat... and it is learned that the Bata Shoe Company will contribute one thousand pairs of new shoes.

In Glen Miller and Frankford, complete returns are not yet available. The Chairman of the local committee in Trenton is highly pleased with the response made, and Mayor Cory terms it a magnificent job for a worthy cause.

Mr. Leslie Lemon, violinist, and Mr. Clifford Templer, organist at Holloway Street United Church, gave a musical recital and assisted in the service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford last evening. They were the guests of Mr. Charles Allen, organist of St. Andrew's Church while in Campbellford.

Owing to the shortage of potatoes in the Dominion and the increased demand for export as the result of the new reciprocal trade agreement between Canada and the United States, it is predicted that the price of potatoes will reach $2 per bag. The shortage here is said to be a result of unfavorable weather conditions in the fall and in the impression entertained by many growers that potatoes would be right on the market and consequently grew only sufficient potatoes for their own use. There are, however, a few potato growers who are holding their potatoes for an increased price.

The vault in the office of the county clerk Mr. W. Nugent, at Shire Hall, has been overhauled, and new and up-to-date filing cabinets have been installed. When placing papers in the cabinets Mr. Nugent came across some documents bearing the date of 1832; one particular document was the assessment roll of Marlow township for the year 1839 — 86 years ago.

Miss Dorothy Thomas, graduate nurse of the Ottawa Civic Hospital, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Thomas.

An albino deer was shot near Ivanhoe by a resident hunter of that district; it got away.

Mr. Albert Adams, Cedar Street, is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. John B. Harker spent yesterday in Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO

November 18th, 1915

From our file copy of this time in 1855: "There was a large attendance at the meeting of the YMCA over the Mechanic's Institute, and the audience was treated to some real clever debating. The subject was a proposal to petition the government, introduced a bill to provide for the exemption of the Y.M.C.A. property from taxation. David Barrgrar, W. A. C. Hardy and D. C. Stevenson spoke in favor of the bill and it was opposed by Will H. Reed, Leonard Taugher, editor Harry Davis and Stephen Burrows. The debate was closed by W. C. Mikel for the opposition and W. S. Ashley for the government. A division was taken and the bill carried on a strictly party vote.

Owing to the local option campaign here the appeals against the city voters' list will be a greater ever known, there being over 1,000 appeals. The appeals will be considered by the county judge at a voters' list court which will be held shortly.

Mishaps, Public Works Delay, But Back to Normal After First Snow

The Quinte district came through its first winter onslaught of the year with flying, if freezing, snow-white colors.

There were highway accidents, spectacular but not fatally serious. And questions were posed about Belleville's downtown street reconstruction.

More than three inches of snow fell.

It seemed a normal, if slo piper, slippier day.

On the Macdonald-Cartie Freeway three people were hur in a two-car crash near Shan nonville. West of Bellevill traffic had to be diverted a police wrestled seven hours with a tractor-trailer upended across the four-lane highway.

In Belleville, there was a rash of near-misses as vehicle spun end-on-end on icy suburban streets.

Downtown the polar bea blast posed possible traffic pro lems centred on the Pinnacle Street reconstruction project.

The wintry snap caught re building of the main traffic art ery vital to Belleville's one-way street system — still in mid-stream literally and figuratively. Construction halted as snow and pools of water covered the dismantled concrete — now closed to traffic for the past several weeks.

Misgivings voiced by citizens viewing the barren site were reflected at city hall where Mayor Jack Ellis and works committee chairman Jack Deacon called a meeting of contractors in late evening.

Immediately after the mayor visited the project to view the situation first hand with contractors and works officials.

TWO-DAY DELAY

Carl Boyd, chief engineer for McFarland Construction, contracted to repair the thoroughfare, said consequences of the fallout might delay progress two days.

He said the street would be paved from Dundas Street to Victoria Avenue by the beginning of December.

One of the bulges on the Bridge East-Victoria block, said a city official, resulted from the unexpected need to dig a deeper trench for underground telephone cables.

He explained when the old surface was removed the original cable was found uncomfortably nearer the surface than first presumed by Bell Telephone officials.

The group inspected the work area as downtown rush-hour traffic gingerly negotiated potholes on the Dundas-Bridge Streets link.

But city engineer Wilbur Purcell was not quite so optimistic about the base coat of asphalt being put down this year.

"I'm a little pessimistic now about the base asphalt coat going down this fall," he said.

The engineer said the gravel road base should be comparatively dry when the asphalt goes down and with this week's turn of winter conditions the drying out would take considerably longer unless there was a return of really good weather.

If the asphalt could not be laid as planned, Mr. Purcell said the Pinnacle street gravel base would be kept well graded so that pot holes would be kept to a minimum.

City traffic came through the first weather breakdown without serious incident. Complaints were heard from motorists in the eastern suburbs where the snow fallout was crushed to an icy glaze by early evening. The hazard was stressed in the area around Moira Secondary School — which draws a heavy attendance of local citizenry to night school courses.

The Macdonald-Cartier Freeway set the scene for most of the traffic disturbances outside municipal boundaries.

Just west of the Shannonville overpass three people were hurt when a car spun out of control and collided on the opposite lane with an oncoming vehicle.

THREE IN HOSPITAL

Taken to Belleville General Hospital were: Mrs. Helen Ellison, 33; Robert Shapiro, 45, both of Metro Toronto, with cuts and bruises, and A. K. Armstrong, 30, R.R. 3, Collins Bay, possible fractured ribs.

Mrs. Ellison and Shapiro were eastbound when their car struck Armstrong's, say police.

Biggest problem posed hardpressed provincial police traffic patrols through the day occurred about 4 p.m. when a breakdown truck jackknifed and rolled across the freeway a mile west of the Wallbridge overpass.

Police diverted traffic while they coaxed it through the afternoon and night with a series of mobile cranes.

The bread truck was finally cleared and on its way about 11 p.m. after the biggest crane in the area was called out from a city machine shop.

Near the Trenton overpass a skid-truck rolled over about 10 minutes later and presented the same kind of haulage problem. A crane hoist from a city cement works finally cleared the road.

Miss 'Fitz' Fitzgerald, OSD Hospital Nurse, Retires After 31 Years

Nurse in charge at the Ontario School for the Deaf Hospital with 31 years service at the school, Miss Florence "Fitz" Fitzgerald, was honored at a retirement party held at Club Cazaux last night.

Close to 150 persons, including present and former staff members, some from as far away as Oshawa, attended the retirement banquet. Special guest included Dr. J. Boyd of the special services branch of the Ontario Department of Education, and former school principal W. J. Morrison.

School staff member Elgin Vader paid tribute to Miss Fitzgerald in a presentation speech, while Mr. Morrison added a personal tribute stating he had known Miss Fitzgerald as a young girl in her native Siskoes county. Mr. A. J. Clare presided over the banquet program.

As a retirement gift from the school staff, Miss Fitzgerald was presented with a Manly MacDonald painting. Many well-wishers to keep in touch with her hobby as a naturalist, and a purse of money.

'Crib Deaths' in Infants To Be Closely Studied

By DALE NELSON

SEATTLE (AP) — She knew something was wrong the moment she awoke.

She roused her husband. "It's 8 o'clock," she said, "what about the baby?"

The baby, a healthy three-month-old, had been waking her parents at 6:45 each morning—as regularly as an alarm clock.

The mother had checked the infant at 6 a.m., found her sleeping, and had gone back to bed.

Now, hearing nothing, she checked again. The baby was cold and was not breathing.

Frantically, the mother called the fire department to send a crew with a resuscitator, but the infant could not be revived. The child was pronounced dead a short time later at a hospital.

Dr. Gale Wilson, King County autopsy surgeon, told the parents he saw many such cases every year. The death would be entered as acute pneumonia. Doctors didn't know what brought it on, but whatever it was it was terribly fast.

Some 15,000 such deaths occur in the United States each year.

In the Seattle area, eight bereaved couples have formed the Washington Association for Sudden Infant Death Study. Thanks in part to their efforts, an ambitious research project is under way to determine what causes what doctors call the sudden death syndrome, but commonly knows as "crib deaths."

STARTED WITH CARD

The association got its start with a card of sympathy. Mrs. Francis R. Jones, a Seattle policeman's wife, sent it to state Senator and Mrs. Fred H. Dore. Mrs. Jones did not know the Dores, but had read in a newspaper that they had found their youngest child dead in its crib on the same day she and her husband lost a baby in the same way.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Dore became acquainted. Then Mrs. Dore heard of another crib death and wrote a note of sympathy to the parents. A few couples got together and held a meeting, with a pediatrician as a speaker.

They learned that pathologists in various parts of the country had been doing research on possible causes of the sudden unexplained death.

But most studies were hampered, the parents were told, by being limited to autopsies performed in coroner's offices.

With the help of Dore, a Democrat, a bill was put through the 1963 Washington legislature. It changed the coroner law so that cases of sudden infant death could be referred to the University of Washington medical school for autopsy.

AUTHORIZE STUDY

A $20,000 appropriation was passed and renewed in 1963. After a two-year preliminary study, the university medical school transferred the base of the research project to Children's Orthopedic Hospital and Medical Centre.

Children's Orthopedic has received a $144,000 three - year grant from the National Institute of Health for the study.

Dr. J. Bruch Beckwith and Abraham Bergman, faculty members at the university who are on the staff at the hospital, are conducting it.

Earlier in his career, Dr. Beckwith performed 300 autopsies on sudden infant death victims in four years as a pathologist with the Los Angeles county coroner's office. Once he did 13 in one week. Dr. Bergman, a pediatrician, also has had previous experience with the problem.

They expect it will be at least three years before they have any conclusive results.

"We're satisfied that there is more than one factor," says Dr. Beckwith, "but probably the majority will be found to be due to one cause."

Dr. Bergman has found the syndrome to be very uncommon under the age of three weeks, most common between two and three months, uncommon after six months and almost unheard of after one year.

"We feel it is the single most common cause of infant death outside of the newborn period," says Dr. Bergman. "We know it is happening all over the world. There is research being done on it in various places in the United States, in England and, we understand, in Czechoslovakia."

One of the doctors' conclusions is that it is almost impossible for a baby to suffocate in its crib.

Hospital Aux. Holds Auction

An auction of jewellery and household articles donated by members was a highlight of the November meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary Tuesday afternoon in Education Hall. Mrs. F. A. Beeby and Mrs. Reg. E. Burley, performed auctioneer's duties. Proceeds from the sale were turned over to the Opportunity Shop which is the Auxiliary's main money - raising project.

Mrs. William Dallas, president of the Auxiliary, presided at the business portion of the meeting. Mrs. T. H. Bowler, convener of the Opportunity Shop, reported record sales in October. The shop on Market Square, stocked with clothing and household goods donated by members and friends of the Auxiliary, is a source of bargains for thrifty Belleville shoppers. Staffed by volunteers, the shop yearly presents the Belleville Hospital with thousands of dollars for the purchase of needed hospital equipment.

Mrs. Donald Leslie, convener of the holiday treat committee, announced that Hallowe'en favors made by local Girl Guide Companies, were placed on all trays in the hospital.

Net proceeds of $980.50 were realized from the Auxiliary's successful fashion show held recently, Mrs. T. N. Davidson, the convener, announced.

Mrs. John Buchan, director of volunteers at the Belleville General Hospital, discussed some of the volunteer services at the hospital. These include out-patient hostessing, information desk, adult readiims assistants, coffee cart, transportation of out-patients and supervision of paediatrics playroom.

Mrs. William Dallas, president of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. Douglas Burr, 2nd vice-president, spoke briefly on the convention of the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario which they attended in Toronto last month. Most hospitals in Ontario have women's auxiliaries to which they look for financial aid and for help in interesting to the public the aims and needs of hospitals. There is an important role for the volunteer to play when the patient is hospitalized and later when he is attempting to resume his place in society. A woman with time to devote to community service can profitably serve her auxiliary as a worker in a money-raising project or as an in-hospital volunteer. Interested readers in Belleville and the surrounding district are extended a cordial invitation to join the Women's Auxiliary of the Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. C. Holmes gave the nominating report with the new slate of officers for the year 1964.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the women met with the residents in the dining room for their birthday party. Best wishes were extended to those celebrating their birthdays in November and pictures were taken. Mrs. Emily Hudgins who was the guest present and who was celebrating her 80th birthday, cut the beautiful birthday cake. Mrs. S. Mason, Grand Worthy Mistress of L.O.B.A. from Ottawa and Mrs. Ralph Losey poured tea while all enjoyed a lunch and social get-together.

The next meeting will be held December 13th, one week previous to the regular data.

LEGION L.A. Branch 99

Two ladies were initiated into Branch 99, Legion Ladies' Auxiliary at the November meeting. They were Mrs. Mark Kiser and Mrs. Ada Scales.

Members of all three branches are requested to hand in the names of children, 10 years old and under, to the bar steward as soon as possible. The deadline is November 30th.

Thursday, December 16, the ladies will entertain their husbands or escort at a potluck supper. An invitation is extended to all members of Branch 99 and their guests to attend the dance afterwards.

Refreshments are available and the admission is free.

The ladies catered to the Armistice banquet and the hall was filled with veterans of both wars.

The next general meeting has been advanced to Thursday, December 5th. Zone Commander Jack Rabotis will be conducting the election of officers.

At the close of the November meeting a social time was enjoyed and Comrade A. Bradford acted as auctioneer. This event was not only amusing, but also profitable.

Manor W.A. Holds Meet

The monthly meeting and birthday party of the Women's Auxiliary of the Hastings Manor was held on Monday in the lounge at the Manor.

The president, Mrs. A. Denfield, presided, and welcomed the members and visiting guests.

The usual monthly bingo for residents will be held on December 1st and many of the women volunteered to be present and assist.

The birthday cards for the month of December will be sent out to the residents by the kindness of the Avondale Neighbors' Club.

Wreaths and corsages of foil wrapped candy were the attraction at the apron booth, where Mrs. E. Denyes and Mrs. R. Jeffries were in charge of the sale of an array of home - made goodies.

Gold sprayed candle holder centrepieces, artificial flower arrangements and recipe holders were some of the items featured at the handicraft booth, convened by Mrs. F. Burrows and Mrs. Williams. Miss D. Elms and Mrs. E. Sharpe were in charge of the apron booth.

Two booths were sponsored by the young people of the church, Mrs. C. Perry and Mrs. S. Bowen sold cider, candy, popcorn and honey at the Cub booth, while Mrs. F. Cale and Mrs. G. Shaver were in charge of the Jewelry and Christmas stockings sold at the C.G.I.T. and Explorers booth.

WHY WAIT FOR THE FREEZE UP

Dear Susanna: Why not take the easy way out and do it now! Don't wait for the big snows to blow before you cut your Christmas greens. The fragrant pine and spruce boughs you will want for decorating the house in December can be made ready today.

Take these wintry greens to the basement and wash them well with warm water and detergent in your deep laundry tubs. Leave them to soak for an hour in a clear warm rinse.

Remove from the water and shake thoroughly to remove all the excess moisture. Tie a number of branches together and cover loosely with a plastic cleaning bag to keep them clean. Now hand the boughs upside down out in the garage where it is cool,until you are ready to decorate or make a centrepiece. — Miss M. Huston

If you plan to use pine cones in your decorations but discover that the ones you've been saving all this time have closed up and become dingy, you can brighten them considerably.

Submerge the cones completely in bleach for an hour to lighten the color — they will turn a tawny autumn shade. Dry them off and place in the oven at a low temperature for about 15 minutes — or until they open up. Now aren't they the agreatest pine cones you ever saw? — Susanna

SUGAR SHAKER

Dear Susanna: It is pleasant to have a shaker full of fruit sugar close at hand for sprinkling a freshly-baked fruit pie just as it comes out of the oven.

An empty shaker jar in which pepper or other spices has been purchased is just the right size. — N. W.

Gals Will Be Barer Than Ever In Next Year's Swim Suits

By DORIS KLEIN

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—If you thought last summer's bathing suits were skimpy, just wait 'til next year! The gals will be barer than ever.

California swimsuit designers seem to have a common goal: Conserve material. The result is a minimum of suit, exposing a maximum of curves.

California fashion creators raised eyebrows last year with their nude look. But only a few models emphasized it. This year they avowed fashion writers at their annual spring and resort show a selection of numbers that were almost all teasers.

Whereas last year designers cut out only the back, side or middle of a suit, this year they did all three to the same number — and then sometimes punched it full of holes a la Swiss cheese. The suits that do employ fabric cling so closely they look like skin.

Tagged with such names as Escapade, Perfect Alibi and Hide and Seek, they all but guarantee to provide all three for any wearer.

Some suits, like women who may wear them, are deceptive. Sheer nylon clings to the body in one long-sleeved number by Cole of California. And the clinging cover comes off to reveal a bikini bra held on only by sheer black net.

HALTERS ARE BACK

Halter necklines are back. On one gold-plated nylon bikini by DeWeese the halter criss crosses around the neck. But it also drops to drape one shoulder or folds down altogether for a strapless look.

The one-shoulder look is a new fashion in both one piece maillots and bikinis. A DeWeese number swirls over the wearer's body and shoulder in colors of licorice and vanilla ice cream.

One model swept down a runway in a suit of black elastic net over nude fabric,that left the stomach exposed along with the back and sides.

Cole has some of the barest bikini-strips cut brightly colored knit fabric with just patches over strategic parts of the model's anatomy.

California teen-agers inspired most of Cole's sportswear.

The kids have been wearing grannies, colorful mother bandards they made themselves.

Cole took up the fashion with an ankle-length granny gown in gingham - checked cotton with eyelet-ruffled trim.

The surfer look continues strong as knee-length pants for girls called long jams.

For really lazy beachgoers there are beach pajamas, flowing ankle-length culottes called long jams and a knee-length version called hubahabajams.

CINNAMON TWISTS WITH STEAK

A friend of a friend has sent me a recipe for Cinnamon Twists that are ready to eat in two hours.

I tried them and served them with a whopping big steak to four people and have only six left. That tells the story. I hope our timid yeast bakers will give them a whirl.

SUNDAY (Guests)

Baked Chicken with Cream Gravy (see Sat.); Popovers; Broccoli; Pineapple Cole Slaw; Fruited Bavarian Cream (see Wed.); Tea.

CINNAMON TWISTS (courtesy Mrs. Harmer):

1 package granular yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 1 cup dairy sour cream, 3 tablespoons good quality shortening, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1 unbeaten egg, 2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup light brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Sprinkle the yeast on the lukewarm water and allow to stand 10 minutes. Bring sour cream just to boiling point, remove from heat and add shortening, sugar, salt and baking soda and let cool to lukewarm. Turn into a large mixing bowl and beat in the . egg along with 1 cup of the flour, until moist, then beat in remaining 2 cups flour. Turn out on board floured with an additional ¼ cup flour. Knead for 2 or 3 minutes. Cover with towel and let rest for 5 minutes.

Divide dough in half. Roll out one-half to 12 x 9" rectangle. Spread top half with 1 tablespoon of the butter. Mix together the brown sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle half of the sugar mixture over the butter evenly. Bring up bottom half of dough to cover top and pinch and seal edges. Gently roll to make a 12 x 9" rectangle without breaking seal. Cut into 12 one-inch strips. Heave ready two buttered baking sheets. Twist each strip int" a rope making about 6 turns. Place on one of the buttered sheets. Repeat with second half of dough and place twists on second buttered baking sheet. Let rise at room temperature 1½ hours. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 12 to 15 minutes until golden brown. Remove to cake racks to cool at once to prevent sticking as some of the sugar melts and runs out. When cool, if desired, spread tops evenly but sparingly with plain butter icing. 2 tablespoons butter, enough milk to make of spreading consistency. If desired add 1½ cups icing sugar and just ½ teaspoon vanilla or almond extract to icing. Thess were a smash hit. Thank you Mrs. Harmer.

What Women Are Doing

Albert College Guild

Mrs. F. Davidson, President

Albert College Women's Guild meets in the living room of The Manor at 28 Highland Avenue on the second Thursday of each month at 2.30 and eight meetings are held during the year. The membership consists mostly of ladies from the United Churches in the city together with ladies from the Presbyterian and Anglican Churches. Mrs. F. Davidson is this year's president.

Shortly after the Manor was purchased in 1936, and the College became co - educational, Dr. Howard, who was then principal, invited several ladies to lunch at the College and it was from this meeting that the Women's Guild was formed. Mrs. Baker was the first president and for many years the meetings were held in the parlors at Bridge Street United Church.

The main purpose of the Guild was to assist in looking after the girls in the Manor and to help provide a gracious home for their use.

During the years various means have been used to make money for this purpose. The group has sponsored art shows, plays and musicals. The Guild also sponsored the World University Treasure Van which brought gifts for sale from all over the world during the Easter season a dessert bridge is held in Ackerman Hall and the Christmas meeting is a special with invited guests and a gift box to help with the finances.

The meetings consist of a business period, devotional and a varied program which enables members to listen to outstanding speakers, and closes with a social hour.

The president represents the Guild on the Board of Governors of the College and is willing at all times to assist them in their projects.

Each year at Albert College convocation, the Guild presents a gold medal to a graduating girl student.

Albert College Guild is an organization with which the members are proud to be associated and any interested women are invited to join the group.

This is the 34th in a series about women's organizations in Belleville and their activities.

Women's Institutes

CANNIFTON - CORBYVILLE W.I.

The Canniffon - Corbyville Women's Institute meeting was held recently with president, Mrs. Meale presiding. Standing committee reports were given by Mrs. Bowers and Mrs. Milton.

Mrs. Welch was convener for the evening and gave the topic on historical research. Readings were given by Mrs. Milton, Mrs. Windsor, Mrs. Moore, and Mrs. Meale.

Mrs. Welch explained the old method of teaching mathematics used by the Romans, Chinese, Greeks and many other nationalities. The new mathematics that is now taught in school today is far more interesting to the little folk. They learn with signs and symbols. This new method as explained by Mrs. Welch lets a pupil of grade one progress as much in one year as the old method of teaching mathematics as for three years.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Milton.

IVANHOE W.I.

IVANHOE — The November meeting of Ivanhoe Women's Institute was held at the home of Miss Edna Tanner. The president, Mrs. Arnold Revoy, opened the meeting with a poem.

A paper on home economics was given by Miss Tanner in keeping with Armistice Day. Mrs. Micky Haggerty at the piano, Mrs. James MacMillan and Mrs. Aletha Cobden presented musical selections and readings.

Mrs. Lorne Reid of Halloway gave a demonstration on making bows and a contest was held.

Members wishing to donate to the Mental Institution at Cobourg were asked to bring a donation for the December meeting.

Veiled Women of Libya Away From Barracan

TRIPOLI (Reuters) — The veiled women of Libya are moving cautiously into the second half of the 20th century.

The government of this oil-rich North African state, acknowledging an acute manpower shortage is trying to encourage women to take a greater part in the life and work of the country.

With official approval, girls and younger women are more and more discarding the long, all-enveloping veil — symbol of their seclusion from the wider world.

But such is the force of centuries-old tradition that experienced observers say it will be at least another generation, possibly two, before the veil becomes a museum piece.

In so far as the veil is concerned, Libya has remained as out-post of orthodoxy among the Moslem countries of North Africa. In Tunisia and Algeria to the west and Egypt to the east, women have moved with the times to a greater extent.

COVERS FACE

In Tripoli, the veil, a long white garment known as the "haik" remains a uniform for many of the older women. They wrap it around themselves from head to ankles, covering the entire face except for a tiny peephole for one eye.

Where veiled women stay at home and mind the children and are rarely seen in public with their m o d e r n Tripoli movie theatre puts on a show each week strictly for women.

When Libyan officials and businessmen take vacations abroad they usually go with their friends, leaving the wives and children at home.

In 1963, the women were given the right to vote in parliamentary elections, but only a tiny fraction have exercised the right in the two elections since then.

In country districts of Libya, the barracan is still prominent, but often in bright colors and with the face uncovered.

Before Libya, a former Italian colony, achieved independence in 1951, local women had little opportunity for primary or secondary education, and none at all for higher education.

Since independence, however, the government has been progressively building up a network of primary and secondary schools and has established the University of Libya.

Now, education has opened up new perspectives to children and young people and radio has brought the outside world into the home of the formerly illiterate Arab woman.

Traditionally a girl in Tripolitania was put "behind the veil" on r e a c h i n g puberty. From then, no man, except those of her immediate family circle, was supposed to see her face until she unveiled for her husband on her wedding night.

Today, it is estimated that about 60 per cent of schoolgirls of 13 and upwards go about unveiled. Others wear the veil on their way to and from school, but discard it in the classroom.

U.C.W. Meetings

GILEAD U.C.W.

GILEAD — The November meeting of Gilead U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Ross on Thursday afternoon with nine members and one visitor present. President Mrs. Lyle Martin conducted the meeting.

Gilead United Church services will be discontinued and the Gilead U.C.W. will disband after the December meeting. The donation of the U.C.W. fund balance was discussed with final decision postponed until December.

Mrs. Mabel Treverton opened the worship service, Mrs. Emma Easton read the Scripture and Mrs. Ethel Yorke conducted the program on "Remembrance." Mrs. Gerald Livingston gave a musical selection, Mrs. Helen Embury and Mrs. Nellie Huffman gave readings. Mrs. Gerald Swan spoke on "Our Hungry World." She said money is needed, but love and consideration for the less fortunate are also required.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gerald Swan with the exchange of cups and saucers and a donation of suitable gifts for the underprivileged in the area.

WEDDING

McAVOY — DONOVAN

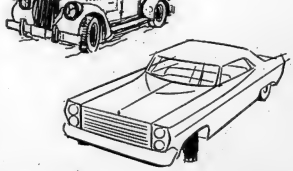
Tall standards of white commercial trees adorned the altar in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville on Saturday, November 13, when Patricia Ann Donovan, daughter of Mrs. Kathleen Donovan of Belleville and the late Mr. James Donovan was united in marriage to Gerard Owen McAvoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McAvoy of Lonsdale. Rev. P. J. Boyle officiated at the ceremony and Miss Dorothy Grant who also accompanied the soloist Mr. Clifford Hunt provided traditional wedding music at the organ.

Given in marriage by her brother Mr. Gordon Donovan, the bride wore a floor length strapless wedding gown of peau de soie featuring a Chantilly lace over jacket with lily-point sleeves. The slim skirt was highlighted at the back with a train flowing from the waist. A veil of tulle extending to the floor was caught with a wedding ring bridleress of peau de soie roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

MR. AND MRS. GERARD O. McAVOY

Mrs. Barbara Burshaw, sister of the bride as matron of honor and the bridesmaids Miss Anne Culhane, Miss Pauline Walsh and Mrs. Theresa Lott were all gowned alike in red velvet floor length slim styled gowns highlighted with white lace jackets. All wore shoulder length veils flowing from wedding-ring headdresses of peau de soie and carried bouquets of contrasting mums. Little Miss Sherry Burshaw, niece of the bride was flower girl dressed in a floor length frock with red velvet bodice and white peau de soie skirt. She wore a wedding ring bridleress of peau de soie and carried a white basket of red and white baby mums. The ring-bearer was Tommy Donovan, nephew of the bride who was dressed in white flannel slacks and a red velvet jacket.

Mr. Francis Freeman was groomsman, while Mr. James McAvoy and Mr. Raymond McAvoy of Webster, New York and Mr. David McAvoy of Lonsdale, all brothers of the bridegroom were the ushers.



For the reception at the Belleville Shrine Club, during which time appropriate music was provided by Frank Howard and orchestra, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a sky blue flowered silk sheath with chiffon overskirt and matching jacket, wore blue accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a beige sheath suit dress with chocolate brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to the North Eastern United States, the bride chose an all worsted pink dress, matching coat with navy blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations and pink Sweetheart roses. Upon return from the honeymoon the couple will reside in Belleville.

Ann Landers

Much-married Mother Poses a Problem

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our mother passed away recently after outliving three husbands. When our father died, in 1935, he was buried in the family plot. Mother selected a double headstone and said she wanted to be buried next to him when her time came.

The family name, Black, is engraved across the top. (I am, of course, making up all the names.) Then the stone is divided down the centre with father's name, Jack, on one side and a place for mother's name on the other.

In 1937, mother married Mr. Brown. He died in 1945 and was buried on the opposite side of the cemetery with his own people.

In 1950, mother married Mr. Green who died eight years later. He was buried in another city next to his first wife.

What we children need to know is this: What should appear on mother's headstone? She died under the name of Green, but she will be resting next to her first husband, Jack Black. Wouldn't it look odd to have them together, but under different names?

Thanks for your help. — THE CHILDREN.

DEAR CHILDREN: I agree that it would look odd if Mrs. Green were resting next to Mr. Black.

Beneath the name Black, which will of course predominate on the headstone, should appear, "Mary Brown, Green," and the dates of her birth and death.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please sign this letter Triple X and omit the name of the city. If my fiance's identity were revealed he would surely be in trouble.

Harvey and I were engaged in May. We plan to be married in January. He is a postman and my apartment is on his route. I don't have to be at work until 10:00 a.m. and Harvey gets here about 9:00: I always fix coffee and toast and we catch up on the news. He usually stays half an hour.

My neighbors have seen Harvey leave my apartment. They have given us both some dirty looks. I'd like to tell them that we are engaged. Harvey says I shouldn't put myself on the defensive and it's none of their business. What do you say? — SPECIAL DELIVERY.

DEAR SPECIAL: Never mind about their business. Delivering the mail is Harvey's business and I suggest he stick to it and pass up the 9:00 a.m. social. He can catch up on the news later in the day — on his own time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 15-year-old girl, Kitty, is giving us more problems than all our other children put together. I'm not sure it's even her fault. I think her father is the cause of most of the trouble. Since he got on the police force, two years ago, he is a nut on juvenile delinquency.

Kitty insists that we are babying her. She says she should be allowed to stay out until 10:30 on school nights. I don't think her request is unreasonable, but her father does. Kitty is a good girl and is popular with both boys and girls. We always know where she is going when she leaves the house.

Please print this letter. All of us want to hear your verdict. — DIVIDED FAMILY.

DEAR DIVIDED: You say you always know where Kitty goes when she leaves the house. That's fine, but you don't tell me where she goes.

Does she go to a girl friend's house to study? Is she riding around with boys?

In my opinion a 15-year-old girl should be at home (her own) on school nights, unless there is something special going on. Your husband is no nut. He is right, and you should back him up.

Are you at war with your parents? Do they have too much to say in your life? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rebellious Premier Driving Himself Into Isolation

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The rebellious Ian Smith appears to be driving himself into further isolation by the almost surreptitious appointment of his own deputy, Clifford Dupont, to replace the unbending Sir Humphrey Gibbs as governor of Rhodesia.

Dupont a one-time London solicitor who migrated to Rhodesia in 1948, can neither give effective advice nor receive advice from the Queen.

While in a British parliamentary sense, the governor merely acts on the instructions of his government, the recognition that he is respected at court and is a link between government and the sovereign provides the essential strength of his appointment.

LOST SUPPORT

Smith, with his courageous war record and striking personality, built up a lot of sympathy for his cause among the British people. But the stubborn resistance of Gibbs, who refused to bow to Smith's demands that he vacate Government House, undoubtedly destroyed some of Smith's British popularity.

The war of attrition that followed, stalling Sir Humphrey's telephone lines and stripping him of his automobiles and part of his white staff, will not help Smith's cause in Britain.

Smith faces at least some white opposition in High Rhodesian places and the haste to oust Gibbs and replace him with his own deputy indicates the possibility of a nervous lack of confidence behind the Smith facade.

The fact that Sir Hugh Beadle, the chief justice, also resided with Gibbs in Government House and apparently did not participate in the swearing in of the new governor may be a further indication of the lack of white cohesion. Dupont was sworn in before a justice of the peace.

The whole operation, rather than indicating that Smith is in full control of events in Rhodesia and therefore should be received and recognized by the world as the effective leader of Rhodesia, merely concentrates attention on the Smith siege on Government House, accompanied by administration by a man who refuses to be ordered out.

If instruction came from the Queen that Gibbs should leave, he undoubtedly would do so. The only other way would be forcible eviction.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen John Sinclair, 17, of suburban Etobicoke was charged Wednesday with capital murder in the fatal stabbing Tuesday night of 50-year-old Eileen Victoria Colnum.

Rhodesia Shows

perarily look after the portfolios of external affairs and defence, which were held by Dupont.

The Queen and the British government regard the governor as the only legal government in Rhodesia. The Queen ordered Smith's government dismissed from office but the order said no practical authority is this country.

PROFESSES LOYALTY

Smith insists that he is loyal to the sovereign. He says the Queen is not able to act as she would like to in the Rhodesian issue because of the British government.

Gibbs was still at Government House on the outskirts of Salisbury, with no telephone link, no services and no official car.

Smith said Wednesday he was stripping the last trappings of office from Gibbs.

Wednesday night an explosion in the centre of Bulawayo, Rhodesia's second largest city and traditional trouble spot, shattered windows in an apartment building but caused no injuries.

Strong police patrols were on duty in many townships in Salisbury and Bulawayo but no incidents were reported.

Smith was asked at a press conference Wednesday how his government would be prepared to go if the situation got tough.

"We will resort to measures as tough as they have to be if necessary," he said.

The prime minister said reelected Negroes, including national nationalist leaders Joshua Nkomo and Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, will be kept in restriction camps "until they make it clear they will agree to work the constitution."

He added that "while they give orders to burn, to intimidate and even to kill, they will stay as they are."

Asked if there had been unrest in the country since independence, Smith said: "There has been a little trouble but it has been insignificant, token strikes and that sort of thing. But the situation is normal. . . ."

TO LIST CONTROL

He said censorship imposed after independence would be ended in "the shortest possible time. I reluctantly accept it as a necessary evil."

Government censors today said they had banned the current issue of Time magazine. This is the first issue of the magazine since independence.

In the southern city of Bulawayo, Dundee-born editor Sidney Swadel of the daily Bulawayo Chronicle ordered chief government censor Ivor Benson out of the editorial room Wednesday night.

"Get out of my office and never let me see you here again," snapped Swadel. "Get out at the double."

The censors have their own room in the building where all news and pictures have to be passed before they can be published.

In Salisbury Wednesday, editor Malcolm Smith of the Rhodesia Herald was questioned by police who took possession of his passport.

Both newspapers are strongly anti-Smith and have been heavily censored in the last week.

CORRECTIONAL SERVICES DIRECTOR for the Salvation Army, Lieut.-Col. Frank Moulton of Toronto, is welcomed by local police officials during visit to Belleville yesterday. From the left are Col. head injuries; Roy Hensen, 47, Guelph, face cuts; Trudy Gronlinger, 28, Guelph, injuries to head and right leg; Gerald Nosewortby, 68, Sarnia, back and shoulder injuries; Norman Brown, 42, Toronto, head injuries.

In Queensway General is Caroline Trim of Milverton, Ont., with injuries to her back and left leg.

Cranes worked with floodlights in chilling winds and blowing snow Wednesday night to clear and repair the tracks. The spokesman said he expected the line to be restored today.

Describing the accident, Joseph Kenny of Brampton said: "There were people being thrown all over the place."

Mrs. Ruby Secsebeili of Montreal described how an elderly man lost his balance and slid past her down the aisle.

"The washroom end of the car just seemed to telescope when the car in front went off the rails," she said.

The accident was the second on Toronto-area lines in a week. On Nov. 11 at Port Credit, a CNR and Canadian Pacific Railway freight collided, killing two CNR crewmen.

VANDALS PENALIZED

ALFRED, Maine (AP)—Ogunquit painter Peggy Cartwright Hodges was awarded $100 when she sued two neighbors, Martha Strater and Pamela Nevins, for $20,000 damages. The two had smeared mustard and whipped cream on one of her paintings as it hung in a restaurant. There was no explanation why.

U.S. to Release 200,000 Tons of Stockpile Copper

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government plans to release at least 200,000 tons of copper from its stockpile. It says the aim is to nip the climb of copper prices and ease a world shortage of the metal.

Defence Secretary McNamara announced the decision Wednesday night, saying the world copper situation threatens a disruption which could lead to "a very strong inflationary development."

The announcement came one week after government proposals to unload 300,000 pounds of aluminum had forced reversal of a price rise in the aluminum industry. The tumult ended when both sides agreed on a long-range program for sale of 1,400,000 tons of surplus aluminum.

There was no immediate comment from major copper companies as to whether they would follow the aluminum pattern and cut prices.

Most U.S. copper producers increased their prices two cents a pound—to 38 cents—during the early stages of the aluminum controversy. Only Kennecott Copper Corp. held firm at the lower level. McNamara announced future market prices in London and New York have been running between 67 and 70 cents a pound.

SET HEALTH WEEK

TORONTO (CP) — National Health Week, an annual event in Canada for the last 21 years, will be observed March 13-19, 1966, the Health League of Canada has announced.

Pearson Voices

for masterminding the European Common Market plan; to Education Commissioner Francis M. Keppel of the U.S. for education; to former governor Luis Munoz, Marin of Puerto Rico for human relations, and to columnist Walter Lippman for communications.

Those attending the dinner paid $100 a plate.

Pearson said he regarded the award as a tribute to Canada, a country that shares more things with the United States than is shared between any other two countries.

We in Canada, however, do not share any desire to lose our own national identity through a continental amalgamation of our two countries" although there would be continued close co-operation.

He said Canada's desire to avoid absorption "is a great national asset" in improving national unity.

In his reference to the dangers facing the UN, he said that the lower voices although their grievances, their prejudices and their emotions to run away with them, the reaction of older members could endanger the world body.

"The United Nations can be destroyed by the impatience of its new members—quite as well as by the obtuseness or obstinacy of its old."

By Geo. H. Carver

(Imaginary conversation between two Tiger Lily's who have been blooming and bleating in the news room garden of Ottawa roses since the Argonauts and Alouettes ran interference for the Tiger-Cats and paved their way to the eastern finals.)

Sabre-Tooth (he's the one with the approaching embonpoint who breakfasts on panther-milk swizzles) —Listen bud, we've gotta keep up this front and maintain the supergrue on these Rough Rider yaps. They're getting cocky since the movies proved that the officials in last Saturday's British Job should belong to the Jesse James Memorial Association."

One-Fang (he's the cub of the pair who lately discovered he liked striped suits, alley cats, and pussy willows)—Okay we'll do it. But remember we'll need a bold approach so we don't give away the fact that we're a trifle hesitant about next Saturday's re-soik."

Sabre-Tooth—"To hell with that. Let's give 'em the old Ookee-Wa-Wa and eak-'em-raw caper. I see where Sasio says he's got so many players he doesn't know where to put them. He'll find a spot for a couple of extra guys while the umps are figuring where they'll eat after the game. We got away with it last Saturday.

One-Fang—"You're right. It seems nobody in Otawa can do much with a minority ruling the roost. So we might wangle spots for a couple of ex-cabinet ministers. In fact we might convince Sasio to insert Pearson in as quarterback. He tossed a lot of passes in the recent election. Only trouble he didn't have enough receivers to score enough points."

Sabre-Tooth—"No, that wouldn't work. If Clair got wind of it he could toss Dief in there on defence and he'd probably lose another 25 on the Old Age Pension line."

One-Fang—"Keep roaring kid. That's the only way we'll put the quietus on these Ottawa yackers. We've got 'em over the barrel what with the Tigers playing in their own jungle backyard and drooling for more Ottawa gore."

Sabre-Tooth—"Guess that's right. The only way we can bluff 'em is with noise... But speaking of the ole backyard, remember last year it was different. Those Bytown cowpokes had us by 17 points, which we had to overcome—and did—but by sheer fight and a couple of Ottawa goofs."

One-Fang—"Yup, that's right. This year the shoe is on the other paw. The Riders are junketing with a five-point deficit and that puts them in the same position psychologically speaking as we were last season."

Sabre-Tooth—"That's right. My psychiatrist told me that. Guess he must have some of that Ottawa virus in his system. He told me that all is forgiven regarding our theft caper, the movies were all wrong and the officials will be given Boy Scout Badges."

One-Fang—"The big bum. Didn't you tell him that in that second half after the officials picked up their white walking sticks, we ran 'em out of the park? Why even the Peace Tower carillon chimed a Jamesa."

Sabre-Tooth—"No, I didn't tell him anything. I decided on more effective action."

One-Fang—"What was that?"

Sabre-Tooth—"I changed places with him. When I got through he was on all fours, arching his back and rubbing himself against my legs. He was mewing something like 'wokee-wa-wa.'"

One-Fang—"That figures. If we keep up the tonsil pressure we'll have the news-room Ottawa yuks looking for mouse dinners."

Sabre-Tooth—"Well, that's that. Keep your digits crossed, One-Fang. By the way what about the Grey Cup?"

One-Fang—"Yuh got me there, podner. I hate to break up a beautiful Cat caper, but I gotta go along with Calgary."

Sabre-Tooth—"Too bad, buddy. I can see nothing but a litter of Jungle Cats lapping champagne out of the old mug unless . . . ."

One-Fang—"Unless what?"

Sabre-Tooth—"Unless the Riders play to form on Saturday."

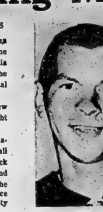
Swooping Mikita Hawks' Top Falcon

By THE CANADIAN PRESS



Stan Mikita, who had no idea what hockey was until he came to Canada from Czechoslovakia when he was eight, is one of the best centres in the National Hockey League.

His performance against New York Rangers Wednesday night showed why.

Mikita, 25, in his eighth season in professional hockey—all of them with Chicago Black Hawks—scored two goals and assisted on two others as the Hawks downed the third-place Rangers 5-3 before a capacity New York crowd of 15,925.

The win moved Chicago into a first-place tie with Montreal Canadiens who take on the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs in Montreal tonight.

Mikita's outstanding performance overshadowed the play of Bobby Hull, who scored his 13th and 14th goals of the season to take over the league scoring lead.

Mikita's four points gave him 17, three behind Hull and one back of Montreal's Bobby Rousseau.

The veteran Chicago centre, who has won the NHL scoring crown in each of his last two season, sparked a three - goal Chicago rally in the first period which erased an early Ranger lead.

Mikita scored his first goal, after Rod Gilbert had given the Rangers a short-lived 1-0 lead, when he clicked on a 25-foot slap shot just 52 seconds after New York defenceman Wayne Hillman had been penalized for interference.

Mikita's sixth goal of the season sent the Hawks ahead 2-1 at 9:23 of the first frame with Ranger forward Vic Hadfield sitting out a slashing penalty. New York goaltender Ed Giacomin stopped Kenny Wharram's 25 - footer, but Mikita swept home the rebound.

Bobby Hull scored his 13th goal of the season less than four minutes later with Mikita and defenceman Pierre Pilote assisting. The goal was one of Hull's less spectacular efforts.

He flicked a soft wrist shot from just inside the blue line which seemed to catch Giacomin off guard. It came just five seconds after Jim Neilson was whistled off the ice for boarding.

Mikita picked up his fourth point of the night in setting up Wharram's neat backhander at 6:07 of the second period. "

Bobby Nevin scored the Rangers' second goal in the first minute of the final period, but Hull scored his second of the night at 2:18.

Rod Seiling notched the game's final goal for New York with just over five minutes remaining in the game.

Tonight, Canadiens will be without the services of centre Henri Richard and left winger Dick Duff, both sidelined with injuries.

Richard is still being bothered with a sore shoulder and Duff is nursing a toe injury which developed last Thursday.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull, Chicago's golden jet, scored two goals Wednesday night and took over first place in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

Hull has 18 goals and six assists, followed by Bobby Rousseau of Montreal with seven goals and 11 assists.

Stan Mikita of Chicago is third with six goals and 11 assists.

Fourth is Doug Mohns, also of Chicago, with seven goals and seven assists. Jean Beliveau of Montreal is fifth with five goals and eight assists.

Sixth is Bob Nevin of New York who scored with six goals and six assists.

Don Marshall, also of New York, in seventh place has four goals and seven assists.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Hull, Chicago	14	6	20
Rousseau, Montreal	7	11	18
Mikita, Chicago	6	11	17
Mohns, Chicago	7	7	14

Bears Win 5-3 Over Indians

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A pair of demoted National Hockey Leaguers—Wayne Rivers and Pit Martin—led their American Hockey League teams to victory Wednesday night.

Rivers, who scored six goals with Detroit Red Wings last season, paced Hershey Bears to a 5-3 victory over Springfield Indians, while Martin, who counted eight times with Boston Bruins last year, scored twice as Pittsburgh Hornets downed Providence Reds 6-1.

Gene Ubriaco and Gary Dornhoefer got the other Hershey goals, while Brian Smith, Randy Miller and Bill Sweeney replied for Springfield.

Norm Beaudin, Bob Wall, Andre Pronovost and Ted Hampson scored a goal each for Pittsburgh. Doug Senior was the lone Providence marksman.

Top Trotter Is Retired

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Retirement of Speedy Scot and two other top performers — Dartmouth and Race Time—was announced Wednesday by Frederick van Lennep, owner of the Castleton Farm.

The trio will stand at stud next year. Speedy Scot's fee will be $2,500. Dartmouth's $2,000 and Race Time's $1,000.

Speedy Scot, winner of $650,909, is rated one of the sport's greatest trotters. He was harness racing's Horse of the Year in 1963.

He counted among major victories Roosevelt Raceway's Founders Plate, a contest requiring successive wins of mares or stakes at two, three, and four years of age, the Hambletonia, Roosevelt's International and the Kentucky Futurity.

BREED AT BOTH ENDS

Jellyfish reproduce by sloughing off a saucer shaped section at the top or the bottom which grows into a new jellyfish

An unusual new snow tire. 80% of the time, it's not a snow tire.

Today, any good snow tire will get you through the snow. But the fact is, a snow tire spends about 80% of its life on snowless roads. That's right, snowless roads. And snow tires can be pretty much of a nuisance when you're traveling down a snowless highway at a good clip. Not to mention how they feel on bumpy side roads.

That's why we built a new type of snow tire: the Dominion Royal Super Winteride.*

As a snow tire, the Super Winteride is a brute. It has the big, thick tread you need to go crunching through deep snow. But when the snow is plowed off the roads (which is usually right after a snowstorm) the Super Winteride doesn't behave the way you'd expect a snow tire to. Its tread is designed so that the sound frequencies cancel each other out. The result: a sound you can live with. And its ride is surprisingly soft and comfortable, right up there with "original equipment" tires in ability to absorb rough roads. In fact, in the Shell 4000 Rally, where cars were driven over some of the roughest roads (snowless roads, that is) in Canada, Super Winterides were used on the back wheels of the Ford Mustang that finished 11th out of 64 cars that started. In a nutshell, the Dominion Royal Super Winteride is a great snow tire when there's snow on the ground; a great all-round tire when there's no snow on the ground. You can't ask for much more than that. Dominion Royal WINTEROYAL

A snow tire spends most of its life on snowless roads.

Versalles MVP Choice

BOSTON (AP) — Zoilo Versalles, Minnesota Twins' spectacular shortstop, was a near unanimous choice today for the 1965 American League Most Valuable Player award.

Versalles, who sparked the Twins to their first American League pennant, received 19 of the 20 first-place ballots cast by a special committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The other first - place vote went to teammate Tony Oliva, who won the league batting championship for the second year in a row. Oliva finished second in the voting, being picked second on 13 ballots, and the 1964 winner, Brooks Robinson of Baltimore Orioles, finished third.

The only other player named on all 20 ballots was relief pitcher Eddie Fisher of Chicago White Sox. The knuckle - ball artist became the first relief pitcher in the American League ever named on every ballot.

Fisher finished fourth in the voting with 122 points, compared with 273 for Versalles, 246 for Oliva and 150 for Robinson.

Football Boycott Is Out

By IAN MacLAINE

TORONTO (CP) — A threatened boycott of Saturday's Save the Children Fund college football bowl game at Varsity Stadium apparently won't materialize.

Peter Gorman, fund bowl chairman, said Wednesday that differences between the bowl committee and University of Toronto students about ticket prices has apparently been solved.

Earlier, university athletic director Warren Stevens said students threatened to boycott the game between University of Toronto Blues and University of Alberta Golden Bears.

At dispute were the premium $4 tickets which Stevens said the committee should have reconsidered in view of the financial problems of university students.

However, in defending the committee's stand, Gorman noted game tickets were also on sale for $2 and $3.

He said that 90 cents of each dollar spent on tickets for the game will go the fund, provided there is a sellout crowd. The percentage will be reduced if there is not a sellout because the cost of using the stadium, which holds 27,000, will stay the same.

Guelph Charges Tampering

GUELPH (CP)—Lou Embro, general manager of Guelph Regals of the OHA Senior League, Wednesday announced the signing of winger George Montagus, a former Peterborough junior.

Montague played with the now-defunct Welland Burlinks last season and led the league in goal scoring with 28.

Embro also said he will lodge a protest with the OHA, accusing Galt Hornets of tampering with Guelph players.

Embro said that Terry Oliver who has signed with Regals, has been working out with the Hornets without benefit of a release or permission to do so.

Bombers Away!—Calgary Next Stop

—Ploen Strategy Clicks

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Western Football Conference final was extended to its maximum three games Wednesday night because someone forgot about Leo Lewis.

The veteran halfback scored the touchdown that gave Winnipeg Blue Bombers a 15-11 decision over Calgary Stampeders in the second game before 18,100 chilled fans. Calgary had won the first game at home 27-9.

The final game will be played in Calgary Saturday.

The details of what Calgary coach Jerry Williams called "a bad mistake":

The Bombers were behind 11-7 in the second minute of the fourth quarter. Quarterback Kenny Ploen called for a bootleg play designed to split Calgary's zone defence.

Flanker Billy Cooper went deep and lured two defenders the same way. Fred Harrison ran a cross pattern, followed closely by Calgary's Larry Keeling.

Lewis was on the Calgary 10-yard line and the nearest Stampeder was at least 15 yards away. He snared Ploen's pass and stepped into the end zone for a 6-yard touchdown.

The six points salvaged Lewis' pride. He had been held to a meagre nine yards on six carries in the first 45 minutes.

The Bomber defence, directed by Jerry James, Phil Minnick and Norm Rauhaus, held Calgary to 33 yards—14 on a pass interference call against Rauhaus—and Bomber Bob Taylor—two pass completions in eight attempts and three first downs.

Minnick came through with what Bomber coach Bud Grant considered a big play. He broke through to hit Calgary quarterback Eagle Day hard at 12:04 of the last quarter, forcing the ball loose to be recovered by teammate Mario Marian.

"We had a good chance until that fumble," said Williams.

The Stampeders, created a 3-0 margin in the first quarter which was wipped out by relief quarterback Dick Thornton's 38-yard ramble for a Winnipeg touchdown in the second quarter, then regained the lead when Dave Cline and Harrison eluded defender Barrie Hansen to grab a 15-yard pass for a touchdown.

But Calgary was hurt by Larry Robinson's failure in the field - goal kicking department. The 1962 scoring champion tried three—from 36, 42 and 33 yards out—but all were wide and good for last single points.

"He didn't have a very good day, did he," winced Williams, a rookie coach trying to guide the Stampeders to their first WFC championship in 18 years.

Winnipeg, after its 13th Grey Cup berth, got its other points on two converts by Norm Winton and a punt single by Ed Ulmer.

Thornton came in to finish off the only sustained drive of the game — 77 yards — after Ploen limped off the field in the second quarter following a tackle by Dick Suderman of Calgary.

He broke away for the touchdown on an option behind good blocks from Herb Gray, Monty Kiffin and Rauhaus.

Cold weather and a frozen field contributed to low offensive output. The temperature was 18 degrees above zero at kickoff but dropped to 12 by the final gun.

Baseball Names Commissioner

Selection Surprise Choice

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball's new public image began forming today behind the leadership of a new commissioner—a retired three-star air force general.

He is William D. Eckert, 56, of Washington, D.C., a trim, sharp-visaged man with thinning steel-gray hair and the build of a high school football halfback.

His unanimous recommendation Wednesday to the major leagues' 20 club owners ended a six-month search by a screening committee headed by John Fetzer of Detroit Tigers and John Galbreath of Pittsburgh Pirates.

The soft - spoken Eckert, a much-decorated officer who retired from the service four years ago, was a surprise choice to become baseball's fourth commissioner. He follows a line that includes Judge K. M. Landis, who ruled with a mailed fist; A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who was ousted by owners in favor of Ford Frick, retiring at the age of 71 after serving since 1951.

Eckert's first lieutenant will be Lee MacPhail, baseball-wise 58-year-old president of Baltimore Orioles, named to head a so-called cabinet as administrator in the commissioner's office.

DEPARTMENTS PLANNED

The new-image baseball government also will have departments encompassing player affairs, public information, television-radio and amateur baseball that includes Little League, American Legion, high school and college levels.

Whether directors of each of these branches will be named is yet to be decided, said MacPhail, who signed a three-year contract at $40,000 annually.

Eckert was given a seven-year pact at $65,000.

The new commissioner admits he knows little of the inner workings of baseball and that his first action will be to confer with as many club owners as possible and the presidents of the American and National leagues Joe Cronin and Warren Giles.

Cronin was mentioned prominently as Frick's successor but eliminated himself Wednesday by accepting another seven-year contract as American League president.

Will Ask Montreal To Delay

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Mayor Jack Leslie Wednesday said a Montreal bid for the 1972 Summer Olympics indicates Canada cannot present a united front on the matter of the Olympic Games.

Mayor Leslie said he hopes the Canadian Olympic committee will ask Montreal to delay its application until 1976.

A Calgary group has received permission from Canadian Olympic authorities to apply to hold the 1972 Winter Games at Banff and Lake Louise, Alta.

Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau, who announced his city's proposed bid Monday, said in Montreal that, because he will be meeting the Canadian Olympic committee in Toronto Saturday, he does not want to comment on Mayor Leslie's remarks.

Vancouver Gets Big Tournament

VANCOUVER (CP) — The $100,000 Canadian Open golf tournament will be staged at Shaughnessy Golf Club here Sept. 29-Oct. 2, it was announced Wednesday night at a $50-a-plate dinner by Peter Bentley, tournament chairman.

He said "all major players," including Jack Nicklaus, have said they will play in the tournament.

Minor Hockey

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association's "little guys," the tykes, turned on plenty of scoring power in their regular scheduled games last night.

Rangers topped the Hawks 8-3, Canadiens whipped the Bruins 11-2 and Leafs downed the Wings 8-2.

Rick Mollins was the night's individual scoring star, triggering the first eight goals for Canadiens. Chris Rutledge added a pair and Pat Mulvihill one. Joe Letersky and Mike Meagher were the Bruin scorers.

Rangers got two-goal efforts from Bruce McIntyre, Eric Powell and Gordon Mair. John McAuley and David Coon also scored. Ricky Hutchinson, Roger Chapman and Ross MacLeod had Hawk tallies.

Mark Walmsley hit the hemp three times on the Leafs' behalf while Grant Walmsley, Steven Vesterfelt and Steve Soucy got one goal each and Paul Bunnett a pair. Gary Cone and Raymond Skelly collected Wing markers.

In an exhibition OMHA peewee game, Napanee came up with a 5-3 decision over Belleville Rolling Construction.

Rollins managed one goal per period while Napanee got one in the first and two in each of the last two heats.

Murray White starred for Napanee by scoring four goals. Steve McGreer notched the other goal. D. Moon helped on four, McPherson on two and D. Wilson on one.

Brian Cousins, Phil Kirby and D. Lapensetie were Belleville's scorers. P. Fralick, D. Smith and C. Janisch had assists.

Belleville's first OMHA scheduled game is at home against Picton next Wednesday.

Hot Riders Spell Trouble For Cats

By BOB McKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders have been a hot-and-cold football team all season but they have one point in their favor for Saturday's Eastern Conference playoff finale against Hamilton Tiger-Cats: When the Riders are hot they score a lot of points.

The underdog Riders trail the two-game, total-point series by five points as a result of their 18-13 loss here Sunday.

But the five-point deficit isn't that big a factor to coach Frank Clair.

"All we have to do is win by a touchdown—or even two field goals."

Clair's main concern about his club's offence was the failure of the outside running.

While fullback Jim Dillard was moving well up the middle, especially in the first half when Riders took a 13-0 lead, the outside running got nowhere.

STOP SCOTT

Halfback Bo Scott, Riders' main outside threat, finished the game with a rushing total of only one yard.

He didn't get a single chance to get outside the Hamilton defensive ends and linebackers.

"It wasn't his fault in most cases," Clair explained.

"The blocking fell down."

The Riders have been working on offensive plays all week ing on offensive plays all week clash which will be carried on both the CTV and CBC television networks.

While Ottawa's major share of offensive yardage during the season came from quarterback Russ Jackson's passing, the Riders need the running game to set up Jackson's passing. When both go well together the Riders seem to score easily from any point on the field.

Jackson likes to go for the long touchdown pass whenever he gets the opportunity but this requires the running threat to pull the defensive backs closer to the line.

His long passes got him into trouble Sunday. He didn't connect with a single long pass in the second half, and had two vital interceptions.

Clair didn't say how he planned to remedy the lack outside running, but it's a good bet he may go to quick pitchouts, and even try spelling Scott with Rick Black, who has filled in for both Dillard and Scott during the season.

The Riders are in a far different situation from the same time last year when they took a 17-point lead into Hamilton but lost the series by one point. But Ottawa Mayor Don Reid hopes to give them a big send-off Friday. The mayor has scheduled a rally in the downtown mall just before the Riders leave for the airport. He hopes to have at least 3,000 fans on hand.

Ottawa Didn't Protest

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian Football League commissioner Syd Halter said Wednesday he had not received a formal protest from Ottawa Rough Riders about officiating in Sunday's opening game of the two-game Eastern Conference final.

Halter said deadline for a protest is 72 hours after the start of the game. That was 2 p.m. EST Wednesday. It had to be in written form and accompanied by a $250 cheque.

He said Ottawa had no grounds for an official complaint because the play in question involved a judgment call by an official.

CFL regulations allow only for protests on a misinterpretation of a rule which has a direct bearing on the outcome of a game and on the use of ineligible players.

MORE ARE WED

OTTAWA (CP)—Fewer births but more marriages were registered in provincial offices both in October and in the first 10 months of this year compared with 1964 vital statistics, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday. The number of deaths in the first 10 months of this year was higher than in the same period last year.

Trimble Loyal To Former Club

"Cup To The Cats", Says Jungle Jim

HAMILTON (CP)—Ralph Sazio got a pat on the back from the man he replaced as coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats Wednesday and he refused to argue with Red O'Quinn, general manager of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Jim Trimble, coach of Montreal Alouettes, the club that Ottawa knocked off in the Eastern Football Conference semi-final, said Sazio has done a great job in his three years at the Hamilton helm.

Trimble, who coached the Tiicats for seven seasons until he left to Montreal three years ago, also predicted Hamilton will win the Grey Cup.

Sazio, priming the Ticats for the second game of the two-game total - point EFC final against Ottawa Rough Riders here Saturday, took time out Wednesday to tell members of the Quarterback Club here that he wasn't going to argue with O'Quinn over officiating in the opening game. Hamilton won 18-13, wiping out a 13-0 Ottawa lead at half time.

The Ticats will carry their five-point lead into the second game of the series at Civic Stadium here starting at 1 p.m. EST Saturday. The game, to be televised by CBC and CTV, has been moved ahead an hour to meet television commitments involving the Western Conference final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Calgary Stampeders, also Saturday, in Calgary.

Winnipeg forced a third and final game in the West Wednesday night by downing Calgary 15-11. The western game will start at 4 p.m. EST.

"If anyone is going to stop Hamilton," Trimble said, "it will have to be this year."

But he didn't think anybody could do it.

Trimble lauded Sazio for the mid-winter deal he made sending Bernie Faloney, veteran Hamilton quarterback, to Montreal.

"Sazio had courage and it took courage to trade Faloney because he was the team leader," Trimble said.

O'Quinn was quoted in Ottawa as saying that he viewed the films of Sunday's game and saw Hamilton make nine violations.

"I'm surprised that's all he found," said Sazio. "I'm sure he could find more."

Seven Walk 25 Miles At Stirling

STIRLING—Seven of eleven Stirling High School students and teachers completed a 25-mile cross-country walk last Saturday, despite pessimistic forecasts.

First to finish the gruelling test was student Fred McAdam. He covered the total course in less than five hours, heading a list of four male students, one girl and two teachers.

Among the eleven starters were three determined girls, the Stirling High School principal and two British members of staff.

The course began with a brisk walk from the school to Oak Lake, then continued cross country to Wallbridge where a half-hour lunch break was taken. The competitors travelled along a paved road from there to Frankford, battling a strong headwind. However, the final stretch, from Frankford back to Stirling, was completed in pleasantly warm sunshine.

Blisters and creaking joints were the only reported ill effects of the journey.

Ken Carr-Braint In Teheran

City Sportsman Honored By Shah Of Iran

(Ed. Note:—Following is the story of his experiences written by Ken Carr-Braint of this city, the manager-coach of Canada's national weightlifting team, during their visit to Teheran, Iran, for the world championships. Carr-Braint is the first Canadian to receive an honor medallion from the Shah of Iran).

On October 21st I journeyed by train to Montreal where I had gathered the seven men team together that were to represent Canada in Iran for the 18th World Weightlifting Championships and 3rd Asian Games.

The team consisted of six weightlifters and one physique contestant and myself as combination coach-manager.

We left Montreal's Dorval Airport at 7.30 p.m. by Air Canada on a Boeing 707 Jet. We watched the sun rise over the horizon next morning, and then we touched down in Paris, France, at 2.30 a.m. - From there over the Alps to Rome, thence to Beirut in Lebanon, then finally Teheran.

We had been travelling by jet for twenty-six hours and forty minutes.

The Iranian Weightlifting Federation had delegates which met us at the airport with bouquets of flowers and kisses on both cheeks.

We were transported to the hotel which was to be our home for the next twelve days. It was very modern, all conveniences with the exception of an elevator. By the time we had left Iran I could take those stairs two at a time and arrive at the top without gasping for breath as I did for the first week there.

We rested the next day getting caught up with our sleep. The following day we started our training schedules.

Teheran, the capital city of old Persia, lies at a medium altitude of 3,750 feet, but as it is situated on a rapidly rising slope, there is a difference of several hundred feet between its northern and southern limits.

We had arranged our training schedules for 4 p.m. in the afternoons so as to match contest conditions as closely as possible.

TURQUOISE MINES

The morning of the 25th of October we were picked up by special bus and driven about seven kilometers to a small village called Rey, where we took part in a ceremony of laying a wreath on the tomb of Reys Shah who was the present Shah's father.

The tomb is actually a shrine beautifully built of marble with a roof of beaten gold and turquoises.

I found out later that they have turquoise mines in Iran, and this beautiful blue stone is found everywhere decorating temples, palaces, and mosques.

On the way back to Teheran we were driven through the agricultural area consisting of hundreds of small plots of land about as big as one of our city lots. These plots are bordered on four sides by ditches which carry water and come all the way from the mountains about 30 miles away. These ditches are used for irrigating their crops and is the only water available as the annual rainfall is very limited.

Unfortunately, the people also use the same water to wash in, etc., consequently it's not too sanitary.

And we were forbidden to eat locally grown produce sold in the shops, for fear of possible germs.

The 26th of October was the Shah of Iran's birthday when the official opening of the games took place.

Teams from 37 countries paraded in front of their Imperial Majesties in a march past at the Amdjadieh Stadium.

This stadium holds 22,000 people and it was jammed full. After the march past we were given seats reserved for us and watched the rest of the performance.

One display was given by the Male girls school where about 200 girls did a native dance which was very good. And the final display was given by 500 wrestlers who filled the whole field.

Each had two large clubs weighing about 40 pounds each which they wielded in unison to the accompaniment of a type of snake dance music. They ended their performance with various individual wrestling matches. It was a very impressive show.

The training was done at the gymnasium of the University of Teheran which had 10 weightlifting platforms. These platforms were in constant use from early morning to late at night by the various teams, and we made friends in all the teams.

The Russians were the favorite to win the team title as they had been for the past six years. But as things turned out they had a very rough time and were beaten by a very superior team from Poland whose athletes were superbly fit and conditioned.

The Russians won two of the seven classes. The Poles two, Hungarians one, Japanese one and Great Britain one.

The Polish lifters had more second and third place lifters than any other nation, so won the team title with the most points.

We had thought before we left Canada that if we averaged in 10th place we would be doing very well by world standards.

As it happened we did very much better. We ended up with one 4th place, one 6th, one 7th, two 12th and one 13th. Our physique contestant won the Mr. Universe short man class.

On November 3rd after the last competition a farewell ceremony was held at 8 o'clock in the evening, in a building called the officers' club.

It turned out to be a palace with giant chandeliers hanging from the ceilings. These chandeliers were about sixteen feet long and at least eight feet in diameter at the base, very impressive.

It was not announced that the Shah would be there but he was, and personally presented the managers of all the teams with an exceptionally nice commemorative medal, a photograph album with photographs of all the highlights of the games, and a lovely copper tray with tiny figurines hammered out on it. Then he left and the Federation officials finished the presentations to all the lifters.

Although the Shah appears to have a very nice and happy life with his young and beautiful wife and two lovely children plus untold millions, I would not trade places with him. There have been many assassination attempts on his life and he has been wounded often. Just as we arrived there one of the palace guards had tried to shoot him and had failed. It must be a terrible feeling to fear for your life.

PROUD MANAGER-COACH — Ken Carr-Braint first Belleville manager-coach of a national sports team, holds the honor medallion presented him by the Shah of Iran during his visit to Teheran.

THE SHAH'S GIFT—The weightlifting medallion presented to international coaches by the Shah of Iran is a treasured memento of Ken Carr-Braint, manager-coach of the city's Apollo Barbell Club. The medallion is polished bronze and depicts a weightlifter.

every day of your life.

The weather was perfect every day we were there with an average of 70, very pleasant indeed.

I think the people who deserve a tremendous amount of credit were the Iranian Federation. They had an enormous amount of work to do, when you have teams from thirty seven countries arriving by air, and they met each team, arranged for their hotels etc., plus the guides and interpreters and the hundred and one jobs associated with an event of this magnitude.

About 70% of the people working with the Federation had taken leave of absence from their jobs for two weeks and donated their time to help make their country's effort a success.

It gives one some idea of their overwhelming enthusiasm. We left Teheran at 1.30 a.m. the morning of November 4th, the weather was a balmy 85 deg. and as we circled the city I looked down at the many colored lights below. It looked like something out of fairy land.

And I anxiously looked forward to coming back to Canada the land of plenty. We have so many things to be thankful for here.

Hunter, 82 Brings Down Two Deer

Thomas Wood, Northbrook's 82-year-old patriarch of the northern traplines and deer-rum, at least knows a buck when he sees one.

No "wild charging Hereford steer" met him when he investigated a rumpus in the bush in the Grimsthorpe area the other day.

It was a big buck in all its antlered glory. Mr. Wood squeezed the trigger twice and the deer fell dead.

Ammunition companies may sue him for non - support as later the incident repeated itself and two shots from the Wood trusty rifle brought down the second buck.

The range was 75 yards in both instances.

It was Mr. Wood's first kill in five consecutive seasons. In celebrating the event he tossed his hunting cap in the air and danced a jig.

He was hunting with a party of nine, five of whom were his sons, Oscar, George, Don, Burnett and Edward. The "gang" brought home eight deer.

A daughter-in-law of Mrs. Oscar Wood, R.R. 5 Belleville said "Dad was so excited over his good fortune, he didn't sleep a wink that night."

Mr. Wood was a well-known trapper and hunter before he retired some years ago. But his eye is still keen and his hunting instincts alert.

The daily double of Blue Zip and Chinese Festival paid $10.10 and the quinella of Well To Do and Buttermilk Pike returned $80.

'Big Dipper' Close To Points Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Come sometime in February Wilt Chamberlain probably will become the all - time career scorer in the National Basketball Association with close to 23,000 points.

The Big Dipper, as the 7-foot-1 former Kansas All-America prefers to be called, became the No. 2 all-time scorer Wednesday night when he tossed in 46 points against Cincinnati Royals.

However, Wilt's team, Philadelphia 76ers, lost the game 131-113 as the Royals won their seventh straight and replaced the 76ers as the Eastern Division leaders.

Jerry West also scored 46 points in pacing Los Angeles Lakers, the Western Division leaders, to a 125 - 115 victory over Boston Celtics in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday.

Teen-age Canada Reading a Dictionary Is Fine Occupation

By JACK HUTTON

I'm a book. I like reading dictionaries.

Now you know the worst. It's a habit that was a fancy 10 years ago, became a hobby six years ago and has now sprouted into a vice.

But if you're looking for a personal vice to develop, I can't recommend this one too highly. Your family may hate you; your teacher may consider you a smart aleck — but you've still got your dictionary.

I thought I'd explore the role of the dictionary in acknowledge Young Canada Book Week (Nov. 15-23). It's not often you get the chance to write about such an old friend.

The trend all across Canada is to introduce students as early as possible to what teachers call the "dictionary habit." This would be fine if so many teachers didn't suspect themselves that's a real dull- book.

You know what I mean.

In some classrooms, being sent to the dictionary is a signal that you've goofed. You're being penalized for forgetting the spelling of a word you may never use again anyway.

What a waste. Thousands of students never discover that a dictionary is filled with qualities you'd never suspect — humor, snobbery, mystery.

ONE OF FINEST

Six feet away from me is a book I often read for those qualities: the Shorter Oxford English Dictionary, it weighs nine pounds. And, for my money, it's the finest dictionary in the world.

The longest word in the Shorter Oxford — FLOCCINAUCINIHILIPILIFICATION — is a splendid example of the fun you can have with words.

Students in a debating society at the English private school, Eton, were thrown off stride one winter when a debating team started using the word.

Members of this debating team obviously knew what the word meant but no one else on campus could find it in a dictionary, let alone spell it.

The hoax was finally revealed. They'd made it up. And when you look at the word (how's your Latin?) it means literally nothing. But the story became so well known that the word found a permanent place in the English language.

Every time I pick up this book I think of Bill Little. Hardly anybody has heard of this gentleman, but he devoted his life to the Shorter Oxford between 1903 and his death in 1922.

When he died he had completed A to T and V. How'd you like to try it? The funny thing is that most people think of the Shorter Oxford and immediately think of H. W. Fowler, the man who later wrote A Dictionary of Modern English Usage.

Well, nothing against Mr. Fowler, but his contribution to the Shorter Oxford was X, Y and Z. Oh yes, he also did U. And a Mrs. Coulson prepared the material for W.

Bill Little did all the rest. And his stamp is on every page, a sparkling, sometimes snobbish sense of humor that can't be repressed. I wouldn't be caught dead using some words after reading what he's said about them.

Take "serviette" as an example.

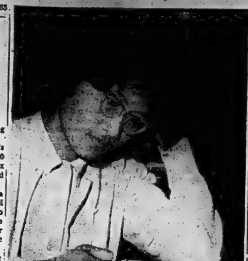
It's a widely used word. The best people drop it in conversation. Bill Little admits it means table napkin, but abruptly adds: "Latterly considered vulgar."

Bill Little had a simmering concern over what was happening to the English language in North America and this inevitably showed up in his definitions.

He frequently gave as many correct meanings as possible for a word, then added a snide comment about what it might mean in the United States. "Lake," he said, should be a large body of water surrounded by land but might be only an artificial pond surrounded by stones in America.

You see what I mean.

A "parade," said Bill, is a procession of marchers. Then he couldn't resist adding that this is frequently done in America for "political purposes."



If you haven't a dictionary in your home right now, I'd suggest your family is missing something. And, if you care fully save your dimes, I hope you someday find space for my old friend the Shorter Oxford.

TOP TWENTY

1. Get Off of My Cloud — The Rolling Stones; 2. A Lover's Concerto — The Toys; 3. Underneath My Pillow — Bubbles and Co.; 4. Yesterday Act Naturally — The Beatles; 5. 1-2-3 — Len Barry; 6. Five Arrested In Air Line Ticket Swindle

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal authorities disclosed a coast-to-coast multi-million-dollar airline ticket swindle Tuesday and said that five man had been arrested.

Secret Agent Epidemic Infects Bob Hope Writers

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's secret agent epidemic has even infected the writers of the Bob Hope Theatre on NBC-TV.

Bur an Roulette Wednesday night was an hour comedy satirable for the presence of Hope playing his usual character, this time called Lex Haines. It is really the same fellow who has been turning up for years, from the Road pictures to his last TV sketch.

In this one, he was a famous American secret agent operating a U.S. soldier audience in West Berlin when a pilot of a disabled reconnaissance plane parachuted into Russia.

The pilot had failed to take his poison pill so an intrepid American Hart was assigned to contact the imprisoned flyer. She is sure to get captured upon by the Russians, who were being spied upon by Red Chinese.

Hope was the innocent dupe. There was a lot of chasing around, bodies and wine crates, but the most fun as usual in these shows were the gadgets—a perfume atomizer that contains knockout gas, a lipstick that is really a gun and photographic equipment disguised as a compact and eyelash curler.

Hope was his usual urbane self and Jill St. John made a shapely if unconvincing spy.

The story, unhappily, had a hurried, unfinished quality about it, as if it had been written under a gun—disguised as a lipstick, of course.

Recommended tonight: Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, NBC, 7:30-8:30 EST, with Ed Wynn as host; Inherit the Wind, NBC, 9:30-11, an adaptation of the Broadway play based on the Scopes trial with Melvyn Douglas and Ed Begley recreating their original roles.

Diplomat Short Eight Pairs Of Pants

LONDON (AP) — British diplomat Martin Reid is missing eight pairs of pants.

A first secretary in the foreign office, Reid and his wife, Joan, are prepared to leave for a new diplomatic post in tropical British Guiana.

Having once lived in the tropics, Reid already was sartorially equipped. He's his eight lightweight suits were more than four years old.

He and his wife decided that, despite the slightly wide lapels, the coats were wearable. But the trousers were too wide, too floppy and too loose for today's fashion.

Scooping up the pants, Mrs. Reid took them off to the tailor for alteration. She collected them Tuesday leaving them in her car parked in south London, while she shopped. When she returned, a thief had broken into the car and stolen all eight pairs of pants.

"I may have to buy new suits," said Reid.

But his wife said: "The thief may return them. My husband, you see, is six feet six."

"Where am I? I'm at the end of my rope! THAT'S where I am!"

History's Worst Power Failure Causes Wonder About Grid

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP)—History's worst power failure apparently began in a piece of equipment the size of a household electric meter.

But the larger question is what's to prevent it from happening again—accidentally or on purpose?

That question goes beyond the immediate cause of the recent massive blackout which affected the northeastern United States and Ontario, where it originated.

It is troubling defence planners, government officials and power company executives, and has caused at least the 30,000,000 people whose utter dependence on electricity became dramatically clear Nov. 9-10 to wonder about the very nature of a power grid, the distribution system which enabled the failure to zip across the northeast like a run in a stocking.

Power grids are interlocking networks of utility company lines which now extend to the Rockies and in a few years are expected to link 48 states in one big "arty line.

THEORY IS GOOD

"The theory is good," said electrical engineer Lawrence J. Hollander. "There is nothing wrong with the theory."

Hollander is assistant to the dean of New York University's school of engineering and science, and is one of a handful of academic men in the U.S. whose scholarly field is power generation, transmission and distribution. When the lights went out last week, Hollander was in the middle of a lecture on the effects of lightning striking transmission lines.

The power grid theory, in broad terms, involves companies with power to spare feeding it quickly on interconnecting lines to companies with temporary shortages.

Years ago each company operated independently. Each had to have what was called spinning reserve—spare generators rotating but not producing electricity that would automatically go into action if a working generator conking out.

It made sense, then, for two companies to agree to keep a single spinning reserve to satisfy both. The more companies making such co-operative agreements, the better. In the northeastern U.S., 42 companies are thus interconnected. Among them are more than 400 generators, all linked together.

IT'S CHEAP

Another advantage of such a network is that electricity can be delivered to customers more economically.

Old generators tend to be inefficient, producing electricity at costs as high as 8.5 cents a kilo-att hour. Newer ones can do it for as low as three-tenths of a cent. A kilowatt hour is the amount of electricity it takes to light 10 100-watt bulbs for an hour.

Many times it's cheaper for a company to buy extra electricity for demanding customers from another company, which has efficient generators operating, than to produce its own with only tired old machines on hand. Electricity can't be stored; it must be produced the instant demanded.

Companies tell companies at every moment where the cheapest electricity is available within the network.

These networks have been formed throughout the U.S. and all of them are connected with neighboring networks. But at present, the inter-network connections are generally small. Thus trouble in one network usually doesn't spread to another. One eventual plan is to replace the weak connections with strong ones.

ARE THEY VULNERABLE?

And thus expanding the area vulnerable to a house-of-cards power failure?

"Not necessarily," said engineer Hollander. "Time zones and seas at differences can work us.

"When it's 5 p.m. in New York, a time of heavy power load, there's plenty of excess power in, say, Los Angeles where it's the middle of the afternoon." Similarly, power output in sunny Dixie differ at any given moment from those in frigid New England, and each can bail out the other.

But how vulnerable is a network to—dare anyone mention it—sabotage?

"If I wanted to knock out the entire northeastern United States, just as happened Nov. 9," said Hollander, "I could pick a Thursday or Friday night just before Christmas. That would be a time of enormous load—lots of lights, stores open for shoppers, cold weather. That would be the time to do it. And I would simply cause some damage to the backbone lines."

IT'S ONE WIRE

The backbone is the extra high voltage wire running from the big plants at Niagara Falls through Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany and Poughkeepsie to New York City. At some points along the route, but not all, there are double lines, providing a backup system.

All the systems in the entire eight-state network are linked eventually to the backbone.

And, most significant, all the generators in the network are in precise synchronization, each turning as though on a single axle. They have to be, Hollander explained, so that the entire system will throb instantaneously at 60 cycles a second.

Should a generator accidentally get out of synchronization, it must correct itself quickly—by as much as 1/60th of a second for 1.5 to 3 cycles, the barest fraction of a 60-cycle second—or it could damage itself.

REPEATS SELF

If the trouble hasn't passed the process repeats itself. If after a third time it still hasn't fixed itself automatically, a repairman has to go out in a truck.

"That's when the protective equipment is supposed to do," Hollander said. "Sometimes the equipment may not perform as expected. Perhaps the answer is better backup systems, more redundancy."

Hollander said when the backbone line is heavily loaded the generators are extremely sensitive, subject to the slightest disturbance.

That was exactly the situation the evening of the big blackout.

New York City at that time was drawing enormous amounts of power from the huge Niagara generators.

Something caused a disturbance—nobody seems to know what—and the little relay box signalled a circuit breaker to open near the giant Ontario Hydroelectric Power commission plant at Queenston near Niagara Falls.

WORKED WRONG WAY

Instead of isolating the troubled line, the breaker sent its current to other lines, already loaded. They couldn't handle the excess.

The current flowing to New York reversed itself and, like air in a punctured tire, rushed to the point of least resistance, draining the power from the great city.

At a different time of day, under a lesser load, generators throughout the system might have met the sudden demand.

But generators, like donkeys, will do only as much as they are capable and no more. When they sensed electronically that they couldn't meet the demand they cut themselves off to protect their own wiring, click, click, click, click, and 80,000 square miles went dark.

Yes, Hollander said, it could happen again. But in his view expanding the grid system would do more to reduce that chance than increase it.

DECLINES GREAT NAMES

BELO HORIZONTE, Brazil — Churchill de Gaulle Longou Moulin thinks his father went too far in endowing him with great names. Following a drop "de Gaulle" from his legal name, he told municipal court the words are particularly ill suited to the Brazilian-Portuguese tongue and he has never heard them pronounced properly.

Successful Living

Takes Heartbreak Out on Small Baby

DEAR DORIS: Last night I slapped my baby and bruised her face. I must write to you before I lose my nerve.

My husband and I got married earlier than we would have because Debbie was on the way. My mother still makes references to people who snub her for what I did.

Debbie is a beautiful, healthy, happy baby of 7 months. She always has a few cranky spells, though, when I come home from work, and I realize that it is probably my tenseness and tiredness that brings them on.

My husband won't help with her at all, yet I had to go to work because he bought everything on time, and also we have hospital bills for him. Like all men, he was terribly spoiled by his mother and expects me to wait on him. He is hurt when I don't want to watch the midnight movie with him. — I never did have a good disposition but now I am unbearable. I resent both my husband and Debbie, yet love them both. — RESENTFUL AND BITTER.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR R. AND B.: Can you imagine the number of people who would be grateful for a "healthy, happy baby?" Has it occurred to you that her "crankiness" is really heartbreak over her unfriendly world — you?

Better stop in your tracks and take stock. Here are two nice people who married too young, took on too much expense, expected too much service from each other. Both concentrating on what they are not getting out of marriage.

If anyone ever needed counselling you do. You need to decide whether the money you make is worth the worn nerves and hurt feelings; you need to think again what heaven it could be to be a full-time homemaker. And most of all you need to know how to prevent irreparable damage to Debbie.

DEAR DORIS: I would like to pass this word on to many teen-age girls about going steady. In my time I was — a little tired of going steady but afraid to give up the boy you've got — then break off and see if maybe you don't feel as good as I do.

Surely, at first I was sad when he broke off with me (for a very petty thing at that). Now I'm enjoying life so much I'm almost sorry I waited over a year going steady. I was afraid I'd never get a date, but they aren't really that hard to find! I'm not extremely good looking, but out of the six nights I've gone out I've had five dates.

Now I'm in love with my sweet guy whom, if all goes well, I will be going out with every second weekend. This way I'll be free to do what I want on the other weekends.

Maybe I'm one of the lucky ones, but in all honesty I'm having more fun meeting different people and doing different things and I'd like to share all this happiness with anyone who feels like I did. — HAPPY AND FREE.

DEAR HAPPY: Yours is just about the best argument for unsteady dating that I have received.

Has it occurred to you that "the very petty thing" might have been the excuse used by a restless steady who wanted to make the break earlier but didn't know how? I'm wondering how many who go steady feel such uncertainties, if the truth were told?

Westinghouse Workers Go Out on Strike

BRANTFORD (CP) — Canadian Westinghouse Co. employees went on strike here Wednesday after a union official was dismissed for refusing to be time-studied on the job.

A total of 187 day and night workers stayed away from their jobs after technician Glen Pattinson, president of their union local, was told not to report for work.

Mr. Pattinson, president of Local 555 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CLC), said he did not know whether his dismissal was permanent.

He said he received a telegram from the company telling him not to report to work until the company makes a decision on his case. He had not refused to work, he said, but objected to being time-studied on the job.

Mr. Pattinson was among 20 per cent of the workers classed as hourly-wage employees. The rest are "incentive" workers with wages based on production.

Company officials were not available for comment.

U.S. Airmobile Division Fights Off Viet Cong

By PETER ARNETT

PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP)—Troops of the U.S. Airmobile Division fighting in the Ia Drang Valley for the sixth day pushed out today in search of their attackers after beating off four North Vietnamese assaults during the night.

Moving out from a position just outside the valley in the remote highlands near the Cambodian border, the American reported 21 of the enemy had been killed and one captured during the night and today.

The U.S. troops suffered light casualties, a spokesman, adding that the latest revised toll brought to 1,201 the number of North Vietnamese dead since the battle began Sunday.

Intelligence said the North Vietnamese fired mortars and small arms into the three main American positions and stormed them in platoon to company strength. The Americans, entrenched in deep foxholes, fought them off.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were engaged in a major buildup to reinforce the hard-pressed Americans. A South Vietnamese force of regimental size was moved into the battle area about 35 miles south of Pleiku and six miles east of the Cambodian border.

In marked contrast to their hit-and-run tactics earlier in the war, the Communists showed no sign of breaking off their attacks despite their heavy losses.

The pentagon said Thursday that 108 Americans were killed and 350 wounded in South Viet Nam during the week that ended Monday night. It was the largest U.S. casualty total for any one week in Viet Nam, and it included only part of the fighting in the Ia Drang Valley.

A Washington compilation also showed a total of 1,342 Communist soldiers were killed in South Viet Nam during the four weeks that ended last Saturday.

In other fighting, two battalions of South Vietnamese troops moved out of the district headquarters at Hiep Duc, 350 miles north of Saigon, to chase an estimated two Viet Cong battalions who captured the village Wednesday and held it until Thursday night.

The Viet Cong burned and blew up the village and U.S. planes also blasted it. The Viet Cong killed most of the two companies of militia who had defended the village.

Five hundred Viet Cong made a daring attack just after midnight on South Vietnamese marines at the An Loc outpost, only 12 miles from downtown Saigon. U.S. military officials said the marines repulsed the assault and killed 18 guerrillas. Government casualties were listed as light.

The attack was believed to be the biggest yet launched in the Saigon military district, although in the past fighting has come within five miles of Saigon.

Eighteen Persons Charged

QUEBEC (CP) — Eighteen persons including a municipal judge, aldermen and court clerks have been summoned to face charges connected with traffic ticket-fixing in the city's municipal courts.

The charges of fraud and conspiracy to commit fraud and obstructing and conspiring to obstruct the due process of the law are based on a report of the Sylvestre commission which recently investigated the operation of the provincial capital's municipal court.

Accused of having obstructed the due process of law, defrauding the city of Quebec and the public in general, conspiring with other persons to obstruct the due process of the law and to commit fraud are Judge Rodolphe de Blois of the municipal court, former assistant court clerk Louis-Philippe Gauvin, former court clerk Gerard Vallee and former assistant court clerk Gonzague Champoux.

Fourteen aldermen — one of whom was re-elected in last Monday's municipal elections—face charges of having conspired with others to obstruct the due process of the law and to commit fraud.

The former aldermen are: Jos Matte, David Burns, Emile Bastien, Marcel Larochelle, Gaston Flibotte, Joseph Conseiller, Gerard Hamel, Paul Mercier, Damase Bhiz, Jean-Marie Lafleur, Paul-Henri Lafond, Arthur Juneau and Henri Gagnon.

The remaining alderman facing the above charges is Jules Morency who was re-elected last Sunday.

The Sylvestre commission report described a "shameful" and "scandalous" system of facing charges in the court.

Tabled in the Quebec legislature, the report said those now facing the charges were involved in a system which cost the city an estimated $100,000 annually.

It said the "petty patronage" system manipulated charges and was "clearly aimed at preventing imprisonment or suspension of the driving license of the accused. . . ."

Lumber Dealer Charged

QUEBEC (CP) — Andre Lamothe, 41, was charged Thursday with capital murder in the death of one of four men the Quebec justice department has said were apparently slain to keep them from testifying at the province's investigation into arsons.

Lamothe, a lumber dealer who was one of four men found criminally responsible by a coroner's inquest for the deaths of four men, was charged with the Sept. 18 killing of Alberic Lebeau, 52, of Ste. Marie de Beauce, Que., whose body was found in woods near St. Gilles de Lotbiniere in September.

In the same area 20 miles southwest of Quebec City were found the bodies of Redempteur Faucher, 47, and Albert Bric, 43, both of Quebec City.

The charge was the first to be laid in the deaths. Lamothe's preliminary hearing was set for Nov. 25.

Woman Killed, Two Missing In Akron Fire

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A woman was killed and six least two persons are missing following a fire that raged through a city block of businesses and apartments early today.

Firemen said 25 to 30 persons were led to safety from the second-story apartments over the small business places.

Akron City Hospital reported an elderly woman was dead on arrival there. The city fire department said two firemen are missing after they entered the flaming structure seeking to lead residents out.

Non-Nuclear Countries Can Make 300 A-bombs a Year

LONDON (CP) — A private British study of the world's nuclear-making power published today says non-nuclear countries now have the productive potential to make more than 300 atomic bombs a year.

Canada could produce enough plutonium from research and power reactors to make about 80 Nagasaki-type bombs a year, say estimates published by the Institute of Strategic Studies here.

The institute's seventh annual report on armed strength, titled The Military Balance 1965-66, includes a table listing the bomb making potential of 17 non-nuclear countries on the basis of their ability to produce plutonium in now-peaceful nuclear research reactors and nuclear electricity plants.

All 17 are parties to the 1963 treaty banning most nuclear weapons tests. Some depend on the United States or Russia for supplies of enriched reactor fuel. Others are bound by agreement to use reactors only for peaceful purposes.

India, for example, is listed as capable of producing two atomic bombs a year with plutonium from a research reactor supplied by Canada. A Canadian nuclear power plant at Rajasthan could give India another 40 bombs a year after coming into operation in 1969. However, Canada helped India build these plants on the specific understanding that they would be used only for peaceful purposes.

Alastair Buchan, institute director and youngest son of the first Baron Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada in 1935-40 emphasized that the bomb-potential table is not intended to suggest that any of the countries listed are expected to join the U.S., Russia, Britain, France or China as nuclear powers.

"But the list takes on significance in considering the abortive attempts in Geneva last summer to work out an international treaty to prevent proliferation of nuclear weapons. Experts believe almost any industrial country could make an atomic bomb and the spreading use of nuclear reactors provides sources of plutonium.

Pakistan has criticized Canada for giving India the potential to make atomic weapons. Canada can control the use India makes of Canadian-supplied uranium for the reactors, but would have no control over the reactors if India obtained uranium fuel elsewhere.

The Strategic Studies Institute estimates that Canada itself could produce enough plutonium for 12 small atomic bombs a year from two research reactors at Chalk River, Ont., another four from the prototype power reactor at Rolphton, Ont., and 44 from the nuclear power plant at Douglas Point, Ont.

The nuclear power plant under construction at Pickering, Ont., would be able to produce material for 180 bombs a year after it begins operation in 1970, the institute says.

Among other countries, the annual potential of West Germany is listed as 13 bombs, of Japan 32, Italy 132, Sweden three; Norway, Switzerland and Israel one each. The potential will increase rapidly from power reactors due for completion within the next four years in industrial countries such as Belgium, Czechoslovakia and The Netherlands.

In global terms of nuclear weapons potential, the possibility of a few hundred atomic bombs equivalent in power to about 20,000 tons of TNT each puts beside the institute's estimates of war-making potential among the great powers.

A balance sheet of military strength shows the United States with 854, nuclear-tipped intercontinental ballistic missiles and Russia with 270 ICBMs, a slight shift in favor of the Soviet Union from a year ago.

The study says China has apparently developed its own source of explosive material for its atomic bombs and might have hydrogen weapons "within the next few years."

However, China is seriously short of modern aircraft and "is unlikely to have her own advanced nuclear delivery system for some years to come."

Barbershop Harmony Is Off-Key

TRENTON — Barbers in this town are crowing scissors' in a price-cutting feud.

Prices for a coolmon haircut now vary from $1 to $1.50.

Ken Wannamaker, secretary of the Trenton Barbers Association, said members signed an agreement to raise prices from $1.25 to $1.50.

The following day several of the barbers who had signed reneged on the agreement and displayed signs advertising no increase in price, said Mr. Wannamaker.

The secretary said when he approached them on the issue some of the barbers told him to mind his own business.

"I did — and then lowered prices at my own shop to $1," he added.

One barber is reported to have threatened to drop his tariff to 75 cents if the trade does n't get organized on the issue.

Another, who has maintained the $1.50 rate was quoted as admitting to less customers "but we make more profit. With operating costs today we need to charge the increased amount."

Mr. Wannamaker claimed barbershops in Belleville, Peterborough and Cobourg have been charging $1.50 for several months.

350 Negroes Fired From Jobs For Protesting

From AP-Reuters

SALISBURY (CP)—Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle indicated today there was some substance to a press report that Rhodesia's judges had refused to take an oath of allegiance to Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel government.

Beadle declined to confirm the report in the Johannesburg, Rand Daily Mail. But he also did not deny it, saying instead that no authority had been given for publication of the report that the nine judges had refused to sign the new oath required by Smith's government after it declared independence from Britain last week.

Rhodesia's judges are appointed by the Crown, not by the government of the colony. Beadle has been staying with Sir Humphrey Gibbs at Government House and made clear he would remain there despite Smith's order to the British-appointed governor to vacate. Gibbs has refused to comply, contending that Smith's government is illegal.

It was whether he was acting as legal adviser to the governor, Beadle told a reporter: "Let's just say I am assisting him (Gibbs) at a difficult time."

Prime Minister Wilson told the House of Commons Thursday that the British government will pay Gibbs' salary if he asks it to. Before Smith stripped Gibbs of his authority, the Rhodesian government paid the governor's salary.

The British prime minister called the restrictions placed on Gibbs—the cutting off of telephone service and transportation—contemptible.

GIBBS THREATENED

Today, Smith said over Rhodesia radio that some people had sent threatening letters to Gibbs, and the Rhodesian leader warned that the government would take action against anyone who did this.

Gibbs was still in Government House today, though the sentries outside the fate were withdrawn.

Meanwhile, work went on to prepare a new residence for Clifford Dupont, actinv officer administering the government.

Dupont, deputy premier in Smith's regime, was appointed Wednesday to take over the powers of Gibbs.

He will stay at Governor's Lodge, three miles outside Salisbury, which was the official residence of Southern Rhodesian governors during the days of the Central African Federation. He is expected to move into the lodge Monday.

Smith announced this he had set up an organization to counter economic sanctions against Rhodesia by Britain and other countries. He said he is Imposing the country's economy but details were not announced.

Clement Caneilus Berenfield, treasury secretary, was made chairman of an advisory com-

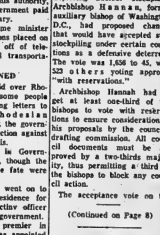
Declare Religious Freedom

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council voted final approval today for a Roman Catholic declaration that all men must have religious liberty.

The council bishops accepted the document, a milestone in their church's 2,000-year history, by a vote of 1,954 to 249.

The vote is St. Peter's Basilica coded work on the declaration which sets a new base for Catholic relations with other Christians and non-Christians. It recognizes the right of followers of non-Catholic faiths to worship according to their conscience.



Meanwhile, an effort by Archbishop Philip Hannan of New Orleans to amend the council's denunciation of nuclear weapons ended in failure.

The council spokesman announced that the bishops Wednesday gave more than the required two-thirds majority vote to the assembly's declaration deploring nuclear stockpiling. Archbishop Hannan, former auxiliary bishop of Washington, D.C., had proposed changes that would have accepted such stockpiling under certain conditions as a defensive deterrent. The vote was 1,536 to 45, with 523 others voting approval "with reservations."

Archbishop Hannah had to get at least one-third of the bishops to vote with reservations to consideration of his proposals by the council's drafting commission. All council documents must be approved by a two-thirds majority, thus permitting a third of the bishops to block any council action.

Montreal, Ottawa Areas Start Digging Out of Snow Drifts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weather conditions began returning to more seasonal norms across Canada today.

Montreal and Ottawa area residents started digging them, selves clear of snow drifts piled up after two days of wind-whipped storms. Heavy rains that disrupted ferry service to Newfoundland and train traffic in Nova Scotia gave way to clearer skies and light snow on the Atlantic coast.

Typical mid-November conditions continued on the Prairies where temperatures hovered just above zero and light snow-flurries spread over Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Cloud and rain covered the west coast and some snow fell in the British Columbia interior Thursday night but the temperature in Vancouver was relatively balmy in the 55-to-60 degree range.

In Montreal, snow removal crews started the round-the-clock job of clearing streets clogged with 10 inches of snow. The snow, driven by 40-mile-an-hour winds, had disrupted shipping in the St. Lawrence Seaway between Beauharnois and Montreal. But brighter conditions are expected for the next few days.

Sunny skies returned to the Ottawa area following snow and sleet storms that ripped down power lines, blocked roads and left cars in ditches.

In the rest of Ontario, there was continuation of cool weather today with considerable cloudiness and a few snowflurries. Temperatures stayed around the high 20s and 30s.

Mrs. JFK Guest of Princess On Arrival in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Princess Margaret and her husband received Mrs. John F. Kennedy as their first guest Thursday night after arriving here on the last leg of a whirlwind U.S. tour to sightsee "in the most vibrant city there is."

"This is not the end of a glorious visit," said the princess, "but the beginning." Her six-day itinerary includes a ball, dinner parties, country outings, shopping and enough tourist hopping to stagger a hiker.

The princess and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, made a speedy start toward warming up New York.

Barely had they stepped off their plane late in the afternoon when photographers shouted at them, "Turn your head, Princess, I can't," she said, "my hat will blow." Laughing, she and her husband climbed into a Rolls Royce.

After freshening up at their hotel, the princess was introduced to some 400 newspaper, radio and television representatives in a hotel suite. She wore a bright orange wool dress by Hartnell, double strand of pearls and diamond rose broach.

A private reception for diplomats and newspaper publishers was held in the hotel afterwards.

The royal couple then were driven to the home of John Hay Whitney, publisher of the New York Herald Tribune and U.S. ambassador to Britain during the Eisenhower administration. Mrs. Kennedy arrived at the Whitneys only minutes after the princess and her party entered. Mrs. Kennedy stayed half an hour and left with a tiny white box in one gloved hand.

Eaton Stores at Napanee, Picton Sold to Beamish

The T. Eaton Co., Ltd. yesterday announced the sale of its Ottawa department store and smaller stores in five other Ontario centres to R. A. Beamish Stores Co. Ltd. of Ottawa. Price was not disclosed.

An Eaton's executive told a press conference in Ottawa that the sale is part of an extensive redevelopment program involving heavy investment. In July, Eaton's announced sale of six of its medium-sized Ontario department stores to Gordon Mackay and Stores Ltd. of Toronto.

Harold Flagal, president of Beamish Stores, indicated his Ottawa-based company intends to expand into department stores in the near future.

He said the purchase of Eaton's Ottawa store and smaller ones in Picton, Napanee, Hanover, Woodstock and Stratford is part of a general and continued plan of expansion of his organization in the retail market.

Stores sold in July by Eaton's were in Brantford, Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay, Brockville, Lindsay and Belleville.

The staff at Eaton's was told of the transaction just before the press conference. Employees were also told they could remain with the new owner following the management next Aug. 5.

The acquisition will give Beamish Stores 43 outlets in Ontario and Quebec, 19 of them in the Ottawa area.

Mr. Flagal said his company will greatly expand the variety of its merchandise.

"We are not sure what fields we will be expanding, but we intend to go into our own brand name with some of our goods," he said.

David Kinnear, executive vice-president of Eaton's said the transaction "involves a very large investment in urban renewal projects in major centres, new stores in shopping centres, continuing expansion and modernization of store outlets and catalogue sales offices across Canada."

The sale to Beamish leaves Eaton's with 20 stores in Ontario.

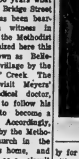
Bridge Street United Church To Observe 150th Anniversary

On Sunday the Rev. A. B. B. Moore, B.A., B.D., D.D., LL.D, president of Victoria University at the University of Toronto will be the anniversary preacher at both morning and evening services at Bridge Street United Church.



For the past 150 years what is now known as Bridge Street United Church has been bearing the Christian witness in Belleville. The Methodist Church was organized here this area was not known as Belleville, but a little village by the name of Meyers' Creek. The first minister to visit Meyers' Creek was a medical doctor, who decided not to follow his profession but to become a minister instead. Accordingly, he was ordained by the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States, his home, and he had to work as a circuit preacher. The Rev. Isaac Brock Smith was the first settled minister.

ERECTED IN 1818

The first Methodist Church, a log meeting house building, was erected in 1818 on the property occupied by Holland's plumbing premises. This building quickly proved to be too small, was taken down in 1831 and a larger edifice erected on the same site. In the same year, in 1847 it was enlarged to twice its size.

In 1865 the congregation moved to its present site in a larger stone structure which was destroyed by fire in the early 1886. On May 12th, 1887 the present beautiful and commodious church was dedicated. When union was consummated between the Congregational, Methodist Presbyterian and Churches on June 10th, 1925, Bridge Street Methodist Church became Bridge Street United Church.

In 1962 ten thousand square feet of space was added, chief-

Hasty Pees Visit Picton For Weekend Training

Due to the onslaught of the early snows, official sources at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment announced today that this weekend's training would be conducted in the Canadian Guards barracks in Camp Picton. Here Hasty Pees will enjoy the comforts of heated barracks, regular force training facilities and beds. This will be a definite change for the unit which has so far this year undergone all of their Petre where normal living facilities are at a minimum.

Lt.-Col. K. H. H. Wilcocks, commanding officer, stated that the excellent outdoor training performed so far at Camp Petre has greatly improved the standard of tactical training of all ranks.

Militiamen of the regiment like the change from drill in armouries to the more practical and realistic outdoor training.

Since September whilst new recruits have been receiving basic training, the trained soldiers have been taught both offensive and defensive roles of the infantry. This has even involved the digging of slit trenches, use of covered approaches and the multitude of requirements to bring effective small arms fire on an enemy position.

The healthy appetites brought by the outdoor training have been more than satisfied by the quantity and quality of food produced by the unit cooks using field kitchens.

Saturday evenings are not wasted—there are lectures and movies, both army and popular with the evening finishing with a hot drink and sing song.

Highlight of this weekend's training will be a night escape exercise. Hasty Pees who have been taken prisoner by enemy Fantasia soldiers will be subjected to "brutal" interrogation in the "Palace" prisoner of war camp. Having escaped from the camp, they will have to navigate themselves to their own lines with the assistance of friendly partisans in avoiding Fantasia patrols and ambushes and trying to map read in the dark across unfriendly country, all participants will be faced with a tough time.

It is this kind of exercise that the regiment likes best, when it can prove its motto "Paratus" which means "Ready".

Any persons wishing to join the regiment are reminded that they can do so by visiting the Armouries on Monday or Thursday evenings between 8.00 - 10.00 p.m.

There'll Always Be an England, Captivates Capacity Audience

By A. HENDERSON

Last evening the Collegiate auditorium was again packed to capacity for the 13th annual World Travel and Adventure Series under the sponsorship of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville with Dr. Charles Forbes Taylor, D.D. LL.D., noted lecturer, distinguished artist, and author. On his previous visit he delighted and held spell-bound by outstanding pictures of the Holy Land. This time he carried his listeners with him through the ages the centuries to the present in his portrayal of "There'll Always be an England." The beautiful coloring of the scenic portrayed, coupled with his delightful and subtle humor held everyone entranced from the beginning to the end.

THANKS FOR GIFT

Dr. Taylor, who was introduced by Mr. Gerald A. Wishart, is a native son of England, now residing in the United States. He made his first public appearance at the age of four years when he sang before a assembly of 1,000 persons, and his second at the age of nine when he sang before a similar large audience. He is also the author of ten books. In replying to Mr. Wishart's remarks the large remarked that he hoped he would live up to the good opinion Belleville had of him. Thanking also for the gift of the delectable Cheddar cheese.

His interesting photography began at 16, when he photographed the burning steamship, "Congress," on which he and his father were passengers. These photographs were published in the London Daily News.

"From the Druid ceremonies at Stonehenge to the ultra - modern skyscrapers of London" Dr. Taylor established his claim that there will always be an England.

1st CALENDAR

Stonehenge, a mystical shrine, built in the form of a circle fashioned by huge stones, each one weighing from 60 to 70 tons, were transported from 250 miles away. By what means is still unknown, and he thought to be the first astronomical calendar ever built by man. The stone representing one calendar month. On the 21st of June the Druids held their sacred ceremonial conclave, the day the sun touched a certain stone.

LOVELY SCENES

Among the lovely and interesting scenes was those of the old Roman bridges with their graceful arches; the Roman baths with various rooms for the different treatments: steam, etc.; the British Warrior Queen, Boadicea, in her chariot, driven by prancing steeds; gorgeous flowers of violets, primroses and sweet-smelling lavender; York, with its narrow streets; Yorkminster cathedral, England's largest cathedral known for its beautiful stained glass windows, 120 in all; Hadrian's wall, reminding one of the great wall of China, which was built to keep out the Scots in 128AD, was 15 feet high, and 18 feet thick; the site of King Arthur's court and the Knights of the Round Table; King Arthur's burial place and the church founded by Joseph of Arimathea, who provided the not new, unused grave for our Lord; King Alfred's statue, and the sacred stone of Scone, on which all England's kings and queens have been crowned; the old castle of William the Conqueror and the place in Runnymede where King John signed the Magna Carta.

BEAUTIFUL CATHEDRALS

England is noted for its beautiful cathedrals, among these are Canterbury, begun in 370, and completed in 1503; Norwich Cathedral having a spire of 315 feet; the massive Anglican Cathedral at Liverpool, most modern in structure, begun in 1904, and when completed will be the fourth largest in the world; Salisbury Cathedral, pure Gothic in structure, built in 38 years, and having a steeple towering 404 feet into the blue.

Beside the majestic churches, Shakespeare's home in Stratford-on-Avon held the attention, with its generous grounds beautifully landscaped in geometrical floral designs, and also the pretty thatched cottage of Anne Hathaway, ten miles from London, which Shakespeare walked when courting Anne; then there were the white cliffs of Dover which have never been sealed since William the Conqueror.

FAMOUS PLACES

The "Pubs," or inns, were also viewed; the Tower of London, famous for its royal prisoners; the Village green, and folk dances in some of which the young people participated, wearing colorful skirts of green and red, and in others only the men took part, in white, wearing a white 'kerchief in each hand.

SHAKESPEARE'S BURIAL PLACE

Completing the first portion with the "Path to Shakespeare's burial place in Avon, bearing his own epitaph, and the warning, "Cursed be he who moves my bones," a space of 3,000 years from the Stonehenge. The visit to the home of John Harvard must not be overlooked; he was the founder of Harvard University.

In the days of Queen Elizabeth, the British Empire became great, with its men of letters, architects and inventors, but the separation between rich and poor was strict and kings and queens reigned by divine right. During the reign of Elizabeth I, there was a deed of religious freedom which induced John Cotton to head the Pilgrim Fathers, who sailed away over the sea for the new world where one could worship God in freedom, in the United States at Boston, and to Prince Edward Island in Canada, making both countries great. Their motto was, "God Careth for Us."

BEDFORD JAIL

Another impressive picture was that of Bedford Jail, where John Bunyan was imprisoned for 3 years, during which time he wrote the "Pilgrim's Progress." Poetic justice decreed that the Duke of Bedford, who was responsible for his jail term, was the man who finally liberated him.

St. Paul's Cathedral, was seen, built by Sir Christopher Wren, from a sacred grant of 5,000. Also Blenheim Castle, 198 feet long; 80 feet wide, and 60 feet high, presented by Marlborough's grateful Queen Anne to the Duke of Marlborough.

TROOPING OF THE COLORS

The most outstanding scene was that of the Trooping of the Colors in which 4,000 red coated soldiers marched as one man; the superb horses; the Queen on her white horse, riding side-saddle, and the Duke on his dark horse; and the perfect precision marching. The Cenotaph in memory of the Unknown Soldier who died the cause of liberty, and Queen Mary's rose garden with its myriad of beautiful roses in pink, white, red; Windsor Castle with the Queen's coat of arms; the modern schools, and the unique garden on top of an apartment building; also the changing of the guard, completed a delightful travelogue.

Paul Fleming Is Seeking Council Seat

Two of this year's city aldermen, Ben Corke and Jos. Raycroft, have intimated they will not seek re-election, but new faces will ensure a stiff fight for next year's ten man council.

Latest in the list of new faces who say they will seek election to council is Paul Fleming, 48, local public chartered accountant in private practice in the city for the past three years.

Formerly with Messrs Sellie, Mr. Fleming has taught commercial subjects at Quinte Secondary School under the Program 5 retraining scheme. A member of the Belleville Separate School Board for many years, he is currently deputy chairman and board chairman of Wapco.

Woman Never Drove a Car In Her Life

A slight, but crucial error of identity, today freed a Deseronto woman of a traffic charge in Belleville magistrate's court.

Court officials were momentarily non - plussed when they called "Mrs. Marian Withcroft" on a charge of making an illeg. at turn at Belleville's Four Corners downtown intersection.

"I'm the wrong person. I have no licence — I've never driven in my life," she replied to the charge.

Inquiry revealed her first name was actually Tatiana. Her husband's first name is Marian.

In issuing the summons court officials apparently had confused Mr. Witkowski's first name as being feminine gender and added the prefix "Mrs."

Magistrate Phillip Baker dismissed the charge.

Many United Appeal Campaigns Will Fall Short of Objectives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most Canadians rallied around the blue flag of the United Appeal again this year, but still many communities are expected to fall short of their campaign objectives.

A survey by The Canadian Press of charity drives launched this fall from Nova Scotia to the Pacific coast has showed 41 cities reached about 95 per cent of their objectives. Nevertheless some are not participate in the campaign.

The 41 cities had a total goal of $27,122,000 and received contributions of $25,900,000. The total national target was $43,700,000.

Many of the campaigns again this year were extended past scheduled deadlines as workers made a final bid to close in on their goal. Final reports for many centres are not expected for several weeks.

Funds from the once-a-year collection are expected to about 2,000 welfare organizations across Canada. Those who advocate the United Appeal say this system is better than the uncertain budgeting of many small agencies, and it spares the charity donor from a continuous round of canvassers.

Nearly half of the country's major cities surveyed have reached or surpassed their objectives. They include Niagara Falls, Windsor, Sarnia, Brantford, St. Catharines, Ottawa, Welland, Peterborough and Oshawa, in Ontario; Hull, in Quebec; Regina, Weyburn and Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Red Deer in the West; and Saint John, Moncton, Fredericton and Truro, in the Maritimes.

BRANTFORD FIRST

Brantford was the first to reach its objective, collecting $255,635—four per cent more than its target of $226,413—from Sept. 27 to the Oct. 16 deadline. Last year it also surpassed its goal.

Toronto, one of nine cities with million-dollar-plus targets, fell two per cent short of the $10,546,000 mark.

Calgary got 92 per cent of its $1,224,000 target; Vancouver received 88 per cent of $3,130,000; and Hamilton got 93 per cent of $1,437,426.

The only million-dollar-plus cities going over the top were Ottawa, with $1,010,000 more than its objective of $1,475,000; Winnipeg, 3.3 per cent above its $2,700,000 target, and Edmonton, finishing one day ahead of the deadline with $879 more than the $1,347,180 sought.

Montreal has five major campaigns seeking a total of more than $12,000,000.

TRENTON — This week, a five-man county court of revision is considering four appeals against assessment in Murray Township.

In Trenton, November 22-24, in the court, whose chairman is Councillor Edward Todd, will sit to consider 43 "value" appeals, four of which are on commercial property. Some of the appeals are based on rental drops over the past year.

The court will also consider a few appeals against school support.

This year's list of appellants is considerably smaller than in recent years.

The New Sophiasburg Central School has a heating system that pleases all... ELECTRIC HEATING

Both visually and functionally, the new Sophiasburg Township Central School creates the ideal environment for "learning".

The twelve classrooms are not only bright, spacious and well proportioned; they are heated electrically. Electric "unit-ventilators" in classrooms, teachers' lounge, study and auditorium ensure that the air remains clean, pure and at the desired temperature. Room-by-room temperature control gives the same custom-comfort available in an electrically-heated home. Teachers like it. Students do.

Electric heating brought many other benefits, such as: Lower installation and construction costs . . . a considerable saving in space . . . greater freedom of design with no boiler or smokestack . . . negligible maintenance and service . . . utmost cleanliness, quietness and safety.

No wonder electric heating is now contributing to the ideal environment of over 160 Ontario schools. No wonder it pleases all at the Sophiasburg Township Central School.

Rhodesian Affair

Britain is tightening the screws around the Rhodesian administration of Premier Ian Smith. So far, however, there is little evidence of hardship in the African territory ruled by Smith's minority white government.

Whether a threatened oil embargo is put into effect remains to be seen. If it is, then Rhodesia would be forced to obtain supplies from South Africa and Portugal (through its African territories of Angola and Mozambique).

Meanwhile Britain's bid to bring Rhodesia to heel could result in a swing in world opinion in favor of the Salisbury government—the very outcome Britain seeks to avoid. There is a David and Goliath aspect to the whole situation that may weigh against Britain. Moreover, the sanctions it is bringing to bear will affect both whites and blacks in Rhodesia.

Iain McLeod, a former colonial secretary in the Macmillan government, believes Britain eventually may be forced to negotiate with the rebel white government. He is reported to have told Tory members privately of his own experiences in dealing with Jomo Kenyatta in in Kenya and Archbishop Makarios in Cyprus.

Kenyatta led the dreaded Mau Mau rebels and Makarios gave tacit support to the campaign of terror which saw scores of British troops and civilians, including women, shot down in cold blood in the streets of Nicosia and Famagusta.

Kenyatta and Makarios were placed under detention while Kenya and Cyprus were colonies. Today they are the presidents of these now independent countries.

In other words if sanctions fail to bring Rhodesia to its knees, Britain may have to come to terms with the Smith government.

Cuba is another case in point. The United States' embargo on trade with the Castro regime failed in its intent. And only recently the Americans found themselves negotiating once again with Cuba, on the question of transportation for Cuban refugees.

Hunters' Arsenal

Firearms valued at more than $5,000 have been confiscated by Lands and Forests personnel in Perth County, in the Stratford area, since October 2.

The guns were seized for infractions of the fish and game laws, including hunting out of season and without a licence, shooting from a vehicle and carrying a loaded gun in a car.

Multiply the Perth County infractions across the province and there would be enough weapons to start half-a-dozen revolutions. County conservation officer Charles Horton was pictured with the arsenal which included a shotgun said to be worth $600.

Like most hunters like nothing but the best equipment. However, when it comes to the law many are found wanting. For one thing their vision seems to deteriorate markedly when they are in the bush, so that when something moves they shoot.

For example, three young hunters managed to kill a steer during a hunting expedition near Peterborough the other day. The incident reminded us of the hunter in that traditional ballad by Allan Lefroy—Harvard math lecturer turned comedian—whose bag was "seven hunters, two game wardens and a pure bred Guernsey cow."

European Upbringing

Judith Bender, a St. Catharines physiotherapist, who has returned home after spending 16 months travelling in Europe and the Middle East, found it ironic (in view of the controversy in this country over bilingualism) that Europeans took for granted she spoke French.-

As it happens, Miss Bender is fluent in French, a skill acquired from living in Quebec with French-Canadian families.

In an interview on her return home, Miss Bender told how she also learned to speak German—with a Hungarian accent—during a period spent as counsellor to 14 girls, the children of Hungarian refugees awaiting Austrian citizenship, at a YWCA summer camp near Linz, Austria.-

Miss Bender made an interesting point when she said: "It was refreshing to find those 11-year-olds less sophisticated than Canadian girls of the same age. Those little girls were really little girls. And yet they were much more mature in other ways. They had learned responsibility at an early age and were used to it, and didn't resent it. And they also showed initiative."

Teaching responsibility at an early age is something that is perhaps neglected here, because young people spend more time in the company of their own age groups than in the bosom of the family. That is what Miss Bender had in mind when she spoke of European children becoming accustomed to responsibility at an early age.

Arthritis Sufferers Can Get Much Help

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are there arthritis clinics that deal with the disease, its causes and cures, and do they accept and treat arthritis sufferers. — Mrs. P. A. M.

• • •

Your question is harder to answer than you might think. In your particular locality I don't know of such a clinic, probably within some hundreds of miles. This doesn't mean, however, that there aren't capable physicians where you live.

Generally speaking, arthritis research clinics are in the larger cities and medical centres, but they do not accept all arthritis patients. They can't. They aren't enough clinics and there are too many patients.

Therefore, you'll find that they accept patients for whom they can do the most good, and this automatically means a preference for younger ones, say, under 40 or so.

That does not imply that older people can't be helped. They can. But the younger ones are those who have acquired active arthritic diseases (it isn't just one disease, you know) and their joints have not deteriorated from sheer wearing-down. It is from these patients that we are likely to find out the most useful ways of treating arthritis.

Local chapters of the Arthritis Foundation scattered around the country are an excellent source of information on what research is in progress and, what clinics (if any) are available in a given area.

A significant effort is being made, through the Foundation, to provide fellowships for physicians to study arthritis intensively with the idea of having them establish clinics, or at any rate provide more care, in smaller and medium-size cities. As one friend of mine, interested in this effort, put it, "We aren't going to have clinics until we have the men especially interested and trained to run them."

Let there be no doubt about it: Treatment of arthritis is not something that can be learned entirely from a book or a school. There is too much about it that nobody knows yet.

But intensive effort is being made to find out more.

Yes, there are clinics studying and treating arthritis, but there is need for more, and efforts are in progress to fill some of that need.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a retarded child who at the age of three can't walk or talk or eat solid foods. Can you tell me where to write to find out about schools for retarded children? — Mrs. M. W.

In your case, you have both provincial and city associations for retarded children which you will find in the phone book. In other localities, there are various ways to get in touch with the proper people. Community Chest or United Community Service organizations are a good source of reliable advice. Many school systems have special departments which can direct you where and how to get necessary tests. Children's hospitals or hospitals with pediatric departments usually can be of service.

Note to S. S.: Yes, with total pregnancy, menstrual periods usually cease as with any other general pregnancy, but as with the latter, there may occasionally be subsequent periods.

• • •

"Don't Quit Because of Arthritis," is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Today in History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nov. 19, 1965 . . .

The Women's Christian Temperance Union was founded 81 years ago today in 1874 at Cleveland, Ohio. It was a comparatively late arrival, for temperance and abolitionist groups had been flourishing since the early days of the century. In Ireland in the 1840s, the consumption of liquor was halved within three years, largely by the efforts of Rev. Theobald Mathew of Cork. The WCTU's main interest was teaching temperance in the schools. Within a generation this was compulsory in every U.S. state and Canadian province except Quebec and Prince Edward Island.

1794 — Britain and the United States signed the Jay treaty.

1917—Lieut. Philip Mountbatten was created Duke of Edinburgh.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—the Serbian army retreated towards the Albanian frontier; 12 Italians died in Udine in an Austrian air raid; Russia sustained a German counter - attack at the Dwina River.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—in action for the first time, the Royal Australian Air Force shot down five Italian aircraft in Africa; the Swiss Fascist organization was ordered dissolved by the government; Greece appealed to the United States for permission to buy war supplies.

Strictly Personal

Greatness is Akin to Selflessness

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

After attending the services for Paul Tillich — a fine man as well as one of the most influential religious thinkers of our time — I returned home and began rereading one of his books, "Love, Power, and Justice." I couldn't think of a better way to honor his memory.

In one of the early chapters, he speaks of the power of life as "self-affirmation." But life is divided between the self and the non-self; what makes a life truly powerful is the ability of the self to include the non-self with it, without being destroyed by it.

The neurotic, he pointed out, can include only a little non-self in his self-affirmation; the average man, a limited amount; the creative genius, a large amount. What does this mean in specific terms?

—She keeps me immediately comes to mind. In what does his great power of life lie, his immortality, his tremendous appeal, his overcoming the barriers of translation and different cultures?

It was not merely his literary genius as such. His poetry is great, of course, but language alone cannot account for the transcendent popularity among all people everywhere who have come in touch with his works. There is something more basic in his plays, beyond poetry, beyond literature, beyond all intellectual and esthetic categories.

It is, indeed, his capacity to include a superlatively large amount of non-self in his self-affirmation. While there are some characters in the plays that he obviously prefers to others, there are none that he does not in some way sympathizes with, that he cannot absorb into his own nature and understanding.

What we loosely call "the power of empathy" was stronger in him than in any other literary figure. Like Terence (only with more justification), he could say, "I am a man, and therefore nothing human is alien to me." He was not censorious, did not judge men as we judge them, did not assume that even the darkest villain was a creature different in kind from himself.

Shakespeare had his own standards of rectitude and morality, of course; but while he abhorred certain qualities and deplored certain weaknesses, he was not willing to indict a total personality. How easy it would have been, for instance to depict Shylock as the stock figure of fun in the 16th century;—and how impossible for Shakespeare not to turn the stage Jew into a man who bleeds just like anyone else.

The more non-self we are able to include in our self-affirmation, the more power of life we have; for all life is a striving toward reunion with the separated. Physical love is the way it was Tillich's most profound reminder to our generation of coldly separated egos.

Lakehead View of Daylight Saving

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

A large number of Lakehead residents will be pleased that the city councils of both Port Arthur and Fort William have decided to hold a plebiscite on Daylight Saving in the forthcoming civic elections.

No dates are set for the duration of the period during which the clocks would be set ahead. Apparently the vote is favorable in both cities the joint liasion committee will work out dates for starting and termination.

The Lakehead is in a special position when it comes to Daylight Saving. Being situated at the western end of the Eastern Time Zone there is plenty of evening daylight after the period of the summer solstice, or around June 21. It is later that the nights start to draw in quickly and outdoor activities are curtailed.

The News - Chronicle feels a suitable period for Daylight Saving might be from the first day of July (when schools have closed) perhaps right through until the end of September or, indeed, October to conform with the termination of DST in most other Ontario cities. The extra hour of daylight after the reopening of school would keep no one out of bed after their normal retirement hour.

It is true that away back in 1945 Daylight Saving was decisively defeated in a Port Arthur plebiscite—by a vote of 4,134 against conceived in 1903 in favor. But that was twenty years ago and a great many things have happened in the meantime; the whole way of life has changed.

For one thing the ownership of cars is far more widespread than it was two decades ago. There is more leisure; people are working shorter hours. They have weekends off. Citizens as a whole are better off, with more money to spend on recreation. They go more places; they do more things. Far more people now have summer camps than twenty years ago; they golf, fish, hunt and take part in any number of outdoor activities. Outdoor living and mobility have become an important part of modern existence. And in all this, an extra hour of daylight in the evening during the non-winter months provides a valuable assist.

Few places in Canada Daylight Saving has been tried, do away with it. The state of Indiana, for instance, is so pleased with Daylight Saving that it has it the year round.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 19th, 1945

In no country on earth is the glory of color more spectacular than in Canada on an October day. Maples flaming red, birches dropping showers of golden coins, and hosts of wild asters and goldenrod making every country lane and woodland fringe at once the joy and despair of artists — the Canadian fall festival of color has inspired admiration not only at home, but enthusiastic praise from visitors whose native lands can show no autumn splendor to equal it.

Leaves put on their fall finery and eventually drop when the supply of sap is cut off. Chlorophyll, the chemical that makes them green, needs a constant flow of moisture. When it ceases the green tint fades out.

Carotin, another pigment present in the leaves all the time, but masked by the green, then comes to the fore. Carotin is the substance that gives color to carrots; it makes butter and the yolks of eggs yellow. It gives the vivid orange hue to the leaves of the sugar-maple and makes the birches golden when the chlorophyll departs.

Abbey's 900th Anniversary

Background to Britain

London's Westminster Abbey will be seen in greater splendor than for many hundreds of years when the 900th Anniversary celebrations of the historic church begin, Dec. 28.

The date will also mark the completion of the repair and cleaning of the interior of the Abbey which began 10 years ago. The repair of the roofs will take another seven years.

During 1966 the Abbey will be floodlit during the hours of darkness and exhibitions to be held during the year include a special show organized by the Queen and the British Association for the Advancement of Science, which will be linked with the work of scientists buried and commemorated in the Abbey.

Leaving the interior of the Abbey which began in 1066 ago. The repair of the roofs will take another seven years.

The work took nearly three centuries. From 1245, the demolition of the old buildings began, until 1532. Even then the upper portions of the towers were left unfinished. These were completed after a further long delay, designed by Nicholas Hawksmoor, in 1745.

For the first five centuries of its existence, from the 11th to the 16th centuries, the abbey church was the coronation (the present House of Commons) was the reigning king's palace of residence. Of the 39 monarchs were crowned in th Abbey and no sovereign since Edward I has been crowned at anywhere else. William the Conqueror, Duke of Normandy, was crowned there on Christmas Day, 1066. The Coronation Chair made for Edward I when he was crowned in 1272 is kept in the Abbey and is still used at each Coronation.

During the Middle Ages, from about 1270 to 1547, no fewer than nine kings and their queens were buried in the Abbey. Edward the Confessor Edward the Confessor who erected the tombs of Henry III and Queen Eleanor, Edward I, Edward III and Queen Philippa.

Wales Boosts Own Language

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Our first reaction to the news that the Welsh language may soon be given "statutory equality" with English through out Wales is that this is a welcome step to counteract the growth of Moomouthshire is to protect on the ground that it would be unfair to deprive the majority of Welshmen who have little or no knowledge of their ancient native tongue.

It is all very well for Welshmen in such Celtic intellectual centres as Aberystwyth, Llanbedrog and Anglesey to insist on speaking their own rich, but archaic Welsh among themselves in Cardiff or Swansea, where less than five per cent of the population can converse in the language, it becomes a bit silly.

More seriously, there is a need to preserve the Welsh language, which is a sister to Gaelic, Cornish and Breton, if it is to survive. There is some its revival, principally in rural areas in the north and central districts, is encouraged by Welsh - speaking radio and television programs of the BBC and other networks.

One of Europe's most ancient languages, rich in history and traditions, is ought to be preserved. But wether the best way is for the Welsh Office, a government - appointed committee, which, while rejecting Welsh nationalist claims, has recommended a limited application of this system, is questionable.

Industrial South Wales, which has the bulk of the principality's wealth and population, is overwhelmingly English (or unilingual) — in English. And even in the rural areas and smaller towns, less than half the members of municipal councils can speak Welsh.

How, then, would rules "radio" and "television", spoken with bad dialectal accents creep into Welsh speech. And those concerned about the purity of Welsh would be the first to protest.

Welsh would be taught in all kinds of English "impurities" — just as French is taught here with words like "le weekend," "le sport" and "le jazz hot."

A bicultural Wales might embolden the other elements among the Nova Scotia population to demand similar concessions for the Gaelic races here — with dire results.

Has imagine what would happen if all Nova Scotia civil servants were required to speak English, French and Gaelic.

Wales has given much to the world, in music and oratory and rugby football. But how many Welsh people now, like David Lloyd George, Richard Burton, Dylan Thomas, Aneurin Bevan, have ever been understood, even in their homeland, if they had spoken their native tongue?

Varsity Spree

Hamilton Spectator

There is no doubt that the general sentiment today is in favor of greater opportunities in higher education. But no one wants to see university gates opened to a flood of mediocrities, slackers and free-riders in the sacred and much-abused name of "democracy." To avoid this—and the public will insist that it does—increasingly rigorous must maintain consistent entrance standards and year-end performance.

Man-in-News

Governor Elected by Smith Will Fight to Bitter End

SALISBURY (AP) — Clifford Walter Dupont, the man chosen by Prime Minister Ian Smith to be the titular head of illegally independent Rhodesia, is at first sight the last man to be chosen for a modern version of a rebel."

At 60, Dupont looks a good 10 years older. He is a slight 130-pounder, whose death had been expected at least twice in the last two years when he was flown to Cape Town for treatment for cancer.

But in his slight, stooping frame, and behind his drawn features, lies a man who has provided much of the steel in the governing Rhodesian Front party. For Dupont has known tragedy and very little triumph in his lifetime, and he is a man who will fight to the bitter end.

Personal tragedy has struck three times at Dupont.

His wife died in 1957 and a year later, his two children were killed in an air crash at Benghazi, Libya. His eldest son was killed in the Second World War.

Dupont, English-born, was educated at Queen's College at Stoarford, birthplace of Cecil Rhodes, and studied law in England.

He ran his own firm in London from 1933 till the outbreak of the Second World War and then joined the army. He was on General Eisenhower's combined allied staff in North Africa in 1942-43, reaching the rank of major.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in extremely light morning trading today at the Toronto Stock Exchange.

In the main list, Massey-Ferguson and CPR were both down ⅛ to 33¼ and 70¼, Algoma ⅛ to 61 and Hayes dropped 1¼ to 25. However Moore Corp., was up ¼ to 87½ and Quebec Natural Gas gained ⅛ to 13¾ on solid volume.

Banks were easier with Royal off ⅛ to 72 and Imperial-Commerce, Montreal and Nova Scotia all dipped ⅛ to 62, 70 and 71¼ while Toronto - Dominion was unchanged at 60¾.

Among primary metals, Falconbridge picked up ¼ to 110 but Inco lost ⅛ to 100¼ and Noranda and Cominco were both unchanged at 31¼ and 50½.

In the western oil group, Canadian Exploration Gas climbed 7 cents to a record 2.31, Okalta 9 to 10 cents, place 2 cents to 1.96 and Dynamic 6 cents to $1.21.

On index, industrials were down .23 to 187.91, base metals .09 to 83.22 and the TSE index 18 to 152.58. Golds were down .12 to 158.46 and western oils .14 to 105.37. Volume at 11 a.m. was 240,000 shares compared with 807,000 at the same time Thursday.

Prices were lower in Thursday's trading.

Base metals paced the decline as Canada's large copper producers were unsettled by the American government's squeeze on United States producers to cut back the price of copper to 36 cents a pound. North American producers last week raised prices by four cents a pound following increases in Chile and Africa.

Inco and Cominco both dipped 1¼ to 100¼ and 50½. Noranda 1⅛ to 31 and Falconbridge ⅛ to 109.

Among industrials, down .84 on index to 168.14. B.C. Forest lost ⅛ to 20.¼ Moore Corp., ¼ to 86¼, Steep Rock ⅛ to 36¼, Robin-mans ¼ to 23¾ and Dominion Stores ¼ to 25¾.

Urge Conservation School For Vanderwater Area North of Belleville

Groundwork for the possible formation of a summer natural science and conservation school in the Belleville area was laid last night as Moira Conservation Authority officials and interested educationists met at Canniffon.

The intention would be to hold day camp school classes at the Col- Vanderwater Conservation Area at Plainfield. The camp classes would be part of the regular school curriculum and intended for older primary school students.

Attending the meeting were Authority chairman George Wishart, education committee chairman Gerald Irvine, and conservation areas chairman Bruce Smith, along with L. A. Kells, Belleville public schools administrator, Bert Frick, Belleville public school principal, public school board member Gordon Hutchinson, and Jack Andrews, representing the boy scout association.

PURELY EXPLORATORY

Authority chairman George Wishart said the meeting was purely exploratory for discussion of the feasibility and possible benefits of conservation school program.

He emphasized the need of children being educated in conservation of the country's natural resources.

Colored slides of conservation camp schools in the Ausable River Authority on Lake Huron, and in Metro Toronto were shown with children undertaking studies in forestry, vegetation identification, stream improvement techniques and other topics.

Queen Victoria Public School Principal Bert Frink is very interested in the idea of "on the spot" natural science studies and for the past seven years has taken members of his school's graduating class on one day trips to the Col. Vanderwater area.

TRIPS BENEFICIAL

He feels the one day trips are very beneficial to young students.

Financial aspects of such a program were discussed with Mr. Wishart noting that provincial grants might become available to help defray the cost.

A special exploratory committee of Bert Frink, chairman, Authority field officer Jack King, secretary, with Bruce Smith, Gerald Irvine and Gord Hutchinson, was named with Chairman Frink being given power to add to the committee.

Committee representatives will meet with city public and separate schools board early in the new year to ascertain if these boards are interested in the program.

Authority chairman Wishart said that if the conservation school program was adopted, it was expected that rural schools eventually would be included.

NEWS SCANT

Local radio news broadcasts give little information about world events, Smith's breakaway government and many people are listening to overseas shortwave broadcasts.

There were signs of some unrest in various parts of Rhodesia. In Bulawayo, 350 Negroes were fired from their jobs of protesting independence. And other 2,000 negroes walked out in a rail strike and face dismissal.

In London, a Rhodesian Negro leader claimed that four Negroes had been shot and killed and several were injured in demonstrations in Salisbury and Bulawayo. Nelson Samkange, London representative of the banned Zimbabwe African Peoples' Union, did not say when the incidents took place. He also reported a white policeman was killed.

In Cairo, President Nasser declared that the United Arab Republic considers itself at war with Rhodesia and ships of Rhodesian registry have been barred from the Suez Canal.

The admiralty said it knows of no ship flying the Rhodesian flag. And Nasser says it is too busy in Yemen for him to be able to send any amount of military force to Rhodesia.

A Study in Misery

Misery breeds itself yet still manages to find a home.

Joe was truly the most miserable man ever. I knew him for three years and never once did he say a kind thing.

He was the father of a close friend of mine in Toronto.

Joe was the kind of man who thought you were trying to con him if you said something nice to him. It was too much for Joe to believe that anyone would want to say something good to a person just for the sake of doing it — without some secret motive.

Joe was married. He had a daughter and two sons.

His education was minimal, but he worked hard, going without many things, to make himself a financial success.

He was very wealthy. He spent all his time driving around in his Cadillac collecting rent from the overcrowded tenements he owned. Collecting rent was the only attention he paid to his houses.

One year just before Christmas he had a man thrown out on the street with his wife and six kids because the man was laid off and could not pay the rent. Joe did not treat people as humans. The man had lived in the house for six years and had never failed to meet his rent payment. But that did not matter. Nor did it matter to Joe that the children were all young and that it was one week before Christmas. The only thing that mattered was the rent.

His thoughts on the matter — "No rent, no house."

Joe had a mild heart attack and spent three weeks in the hospital. He used to demand his family go up to the hospital to visit him the entire visiting period. The family would stand, silent, around the bed for three hours, whether he said or did anything unusual or suggested they should go at which Joe would fly into a rage.

"I remember once he got a whole car load of transistor radios for next to nothing. When his eldest son asked him for one of the radios, Joe blasted him for being a bum and refused to give him one. He bought them for a dollar and sold them for five dollars each, yet he could not give his son one.

His life in a nursing home was, though not near as lush as he could have afforded. He very rarely spoke, and whenever he did break the silence, it was only to complain about something.

He only gave his wife a couple of dollars a week and he kept very close tabs on what she did with the money. He gave his children nothing to spend.

"I fed them and clothe them," he said. "What else do they want?"

People seldom went to the house to see Joe's wife or children because of the reception they would receive.

He always answered the telephone and if he did not feel like answering it, he wouldn't, or if he did not feel like telling you talk to the one you phoned for, he would hang up.

I remember the time my friend asked me to say overnight at his home because I had missed the last bus and was miles from home.

I was sitting in the bedroom with my friend talking when the door opened and Joe crashed in. He looked at his son, looked at me, looked at his watch, then scowled and said, "What do you think I am running here, a hotel?"

Then he walked out of the room. It was the only time I ever slept with one eye open. He did not tell me to go, he simply wanted to say something nasty to remind me it was his house. Who could forget?

He always made sure there were no lights on in the house that did not have to be and he did not believe in running the top until the water got cold.

Finally his eldest son, my friend, could not stand it any longer and he left home. He was followed shortly by his brother and sister. Joe's wife had left many times, but had always come back.

When Joe died trying to push his car out of a snow bank to save a towing expense nobody seemed too sad about it — nobody that is except his wife.

Joe's life taught me an important lesson.

His children were not heartbroken when he died. He had never allowed them to love him, so there was no love lost.

But his wife, that was different.

Somewhere in the long, long ago, Joe had been her lover. She had loved him and he, remarkably, had loved her in return.

It was 28 years until he died, and during most of that time he had been in his shell of misery, yet the light that was there so brightly at the time of their marriage refused to go out in her. It flickered, but lingered on.

He had treated her woefully for so long, yet still she could find something in him to love.

Every time I hear the old refrain "Oh, he's no good. Nobody could like him," I think of Joe. Everybody, no matter how troubled, is a person. And somewhere within everyone there is something good and beautiful. It may not appear so on the outside, but it is there.

It distinguishes man from beast.

Customers Must Be Treated Respectfully

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old boy who works after school and on weekends. Please print this letter and make life a lot easier for all of us who are in this line of work.

A customer comes in and says, "I want an ice cream cone." Then I have to ask him, "What kind of ice cream do you want?" The customer says, "What kind do you have?" I have to rattle off the whole list. Our shop has the biggest selection in town — 29 flavors. After I go through the list, the customer looks at me and says, "Haven't you got kumquat or logaberry?" When I say "No," he gets a real sad expression on his face and says, "I'll take vanilla."

ANN LANDERS

I get so mad I want to jump over the counter and hit him in the mouth. Can you think of a snappy answer for these clowns? — TOMMY.

DEAR TOMMY: Customers don't come in for snappy answers. They come in for ice cream.

A shop that features 28 flavors should have a sign listing them. In the meantime, remember that the customer may not always be right, but he is always the customer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several days ago our three-year-old son came down with hives all over his body. We called the doctor and he had us bring the boy in for tests.

After the tests were completed the doctor said the boy's hives are caused by an emotional problem. He recommended that we take him to a specialist who deals with disturbed children.

My wife didn't say anything till we got home. Then she really blew her stack. She said, "That doctor is crazy. What can a three-year-old child be disturbed about? He doesn't know about the bomb or Red China. How a three-year-old can find out what's wrong they always blame an emotional problem."

Now that I think about it, what she said makes sense. We'd like your opinion. — A.M.C.

DEAR A AND C: Very few people get hives because of Red China. What really disturbs people are close-to-home problems — like a domineering husband, a cold mother, a brutal father, a nagging wife or a ruthless boss. And there's no age limit. It can happen to anybody, anytime. I hope your wife will take the doctor's advice.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is one of the sweetest people who ever lived — after 11:00 a.m. But when he gets up in the morning, he is grouchy and sullen.

We've been married five years and it's been like this from the beginning. I make a special effort to see that his breakfast is exactly the way he wants it. The paper is folded according to his instructions, at the left of his plate. Sometimes he can't find his glasses, so I always have an extra pair on the table.

If force myself to be cheerful and pleasant even when I feel rotten. Nothing helps. Maybe if I understood why he's like this it could accept it. For obvious reasons I can't ask my friends if their husbands behave this way. I'd hate for them to know I have the problem. Thanks for your help. — A.M. BLUES.

DEAR A.M.: Some people don't have the physical machinery to generate energy until noon, so don't be critical.

Nothing can be more annoying to a morning sunpuss than a chirping mote. So cut it chickadee.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HARRY J. CLARKE - BAYVIEW SCHOOLS

A well attended general meeting was held recently of the Harry J. Clarke - Bayview Home and School Association.

The program consisted of a practical demonstration by Mr. W. H. Lenchford of a mathematic class in progress. Grade 7 students took part in the program and easily demonstrated their, readiness to absorb and understand the new mathematics. A talk on the merits of the new maths was given by Mr. E. Fairman, and later questions were answered and problems discussed.

The next meeting of this H. & S. Association will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 23rd, in the H. J. Clarke School. At this meeting a panel of speakers will discuss the problem "How parents can help their children at home." The moderator will be Mr. V. G. Castellano, of the Children's Aid Society. Two teachers, Mr. D. Franklin and Mr. E. Palmateer, and two parents, Mr. Gerald Joyce and Mr. Lee Jouard, will be the speakers.

ST. MICHAEL'S P.T.A.

Mr. Albert Kroetsch, president of St. Michael's Parent-Teacher Association, presided at the second general meeting for the current school year, held November 16.

A fairly large crowd of parents visited the classrooms before assembling in the auditorium. After a business meeting, Mr. Donald Whalen introduced the guest speaker, Mr. E. J. Buckley, B.A., M.A., who is chairman of the Separate School Board, Belleville. His address was on the importance of an education best suited to the individual student and changes which the school board will be making in regard to opportunity classes. This was most interesting and enlightening.

Prizes for attendance were as follows: Academy, Mrs. Cameron's class; Junior school, Mrs Miller's class.

Refreshments were served by the social hostess, Mrs. Douglas Jolley, aided by members of her committee.

Miss Canada Had to Get New Swimsuit

LONDON (CP)—A rush order went out to a London department store today after Miss Dominion of Canada accidentally ripped her swimsuit.

The Canadian beauty queen, 18-year-old Carol Ann Tidey of Hamilton, was getting ready for final rehearsals for the Miss World contest when she shot her suitcase on her swimsuit.

Another last-minute crisis occurred when Latin American girls, led by Lourdes Cardena, 18-year-old beauty from Peru, challenged the contest organizers and the press with discrimination against the Latin American contingent.

The photographers just swivel the cameras past us and then take a lot of pictures of the other girls," Lourdes cried angrily.

Nodding assent were Nubia Bustillo, 19, from Colombia, and Corine Wirguett Corral de Escudor.

Asked whether not being able to speak English may have something to do with their lack of interviews, Miss Ecuador replied: "You don't have to speak English to have your picture taken."

U.C.W. Executive Of Presbytery Reviews Work

The executive of the U.C.W. of Belleville Presbyterial attended a meeting in Newburgh United Church on November 15.

The president Mrs. F. Smith conducted a worship service from one of the new study booklets by Dietrich, "Word and Power". Much of the time was spent in dealing with the business. It has been planned that teams from the executive will visit the locals next year. There was group discussion and evaluation of the work covered this year, 1965.

The historian archivist Mrs. L. Elliott announced that all archives of the local churches be kept in a "strong" box within each church. They are not to be sent in to Toronto.

Next year, 1966, instead of a school for United Church Women there will be a conference at Elim Lodge for executive members of Conference and Presbyterial levels during the weekend of Sept. 17th, 18th and 19th.

Plans were discussed for the annual meeting to be held in Belleville January 24th, 25th. Committee chairman, Portfolio secretaries and vice - presidents and the treasurer gave reports. A potluck dinner was enjoyed by all.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Fluke and her assistants of Newburgh U.C.W. for preparing the noon meal and to the session for use of the church.

TALK ABOUT SOCKS

Dear Susanna: Since I hate waste, I find many, many uses for outgrown and mismated socks — and every household usually has its share. Of course the ones I'm discussing are still in good shape and beautifully laundered.

A white ankle sock with the toe end cut off, makes a perfect bandage cover for a knee or elbow. Pulled on over the bandage, the natural shape of the sock adapts itself to the contour of the joint, and keeps the bandage clean. The leg only, of a child's one white stocking can be used as a circular bandage cover for an injured shin or arm.

Drop reversal moth balls into the toe of a loosely woven one, snap an elastic band snugly around the top and hang in the back of a clothes closet to help protect clothes from moths.

A heavy pair of old socks pulled on over the hands makes dusting venetian blinds as much of a snap as dusting venetian blinds can be. (Nothing makes them really fun to do).

Light-colored socks in various shades can be dyed to match as long as they are the same weave and style.

I should also mention a similar idea to the lovely sock quilt suggestion you have already written about in your column. The strong leg parts of otherwise worn-out men's socks make a novel quilt top. Use the blanket stitch to sew uniform squares to prevent material ones. When hand knit diamond, and other fancy-patterned socks are used the quilt becomes quite a conversation piece.

A not-so-well youngster confined to bed for the day will find diversion in making a friendly puppet. Have the child embroider a face of colored yarn on the toe of a discarded sock. Add some tufts of wool for hair, and a whimsical, amusing, hand puppet comes to life. — M.A.

The one I just made up to my looks was too saucy. And I think he just winked at me! SUSANNA.

ORANGE FLAVOR

Dear Susanna: I keep packaged soup mixes on hand and find them so handy-when making casseroles. If one can of soup does not suffice, and two seems to be too much, I use the required amount of the mix to make up the needed flavor. — A Reader

QUESTION:

On October 15 you wrote about Boeuf Fondue Bourguignonne. Would you please send me the recipe for the sauces that go with it? . . . Mrs. G. C. S.

ANSWER:

Yes I will. I was surprised to receive several requests for these sauces. If I had realized that such an exotic dish would be so popular I would have given the sauce recipes at the same time.

Much Preparation Is Required For Each Ballet Performance

By MRS. D. McKINNON

To most people, the thought of moving to a new home is, to say the least, unpleasant, and only happens once or twice during a lifetime. But with the National Ballet of Canada, which will appear in Belleville at the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium next December, it happens almost every night of their season. And every move means unpacking and repacking thousands of items, not to mention the dozens of trunks and other personal baggage belonging to the dancers.

When the ballet comes to town next Monday, the huge 40 - foot tractor - trailer trucks will arrive in the late afternoon from Sherbrooke and will be waiting at the auditorium when the technical crew begins to set the stage for the 8.45 p.m. curtain. The crew will have arrived by bus about the same time. The first job is to unload the trucks and account for each of the thousands of articles: hundreds of costumes, electrical instruments, boxes of fittings and equipment . . . and 2,000 pairs of ballet slippers.

It is necessary to carry such a large supply of slippers when the company is on tour. Each girl will use an average of five pairs a week, the soloists wear out a pair of shoes at each performance, and the boys use an average of two pairs a week. The company's three air - conditioned buses leave each morning at 8 o'clock in order to be in the next city in time to allow the dancers to check into the hotels and be at the theatre at 4.00 p.m. This is not possible in Belleville this time because classes do not end at B.C.I. until 5 p.m. and the crew and company cannot get into the auditorium until after that time. This is the reason for the late curtain (8.45 p.m.) which will give the company half an hour longer in which to get set up and organized.

Normally the dancers will have a one - hour class by the ballet mistress at 4.00 p.m., a most necessary part of a ballet dancer's life. From 5.00 to 6.00 p.m. the company will have a run - through of the program they are to perform that night, while the artistic director, Miss Celia France, makes any needed corrections. The stage - master will inform the dancers of any changes in the staging due to the physical layout of the theatre. In Belleville this is due to the limitations of the auditorium stage which is quite shallow. He will point out to dancers any "hard spots", splinters or cracks in the stage flooring.

After an hour's break for a light snack (this will be a very short break in Belleville), the dancers go back to the hall to change, make up, and have a short warm - up period before the performance begins.

After their performance comes their big meal of the day: a close with lunch served by Mrs. Nicolson and her committee. Then they go to bed, with much needed rest. There is, too, little time for any sightseeing. During the last act, the crew is already packing the trucks and usually three hours after the final curtain has fallen, the trucks are on their way to the next city, the crew is asleep and all the thousands of items have hopefully been accounted for.

Two Women Given Full Membership in Exclusive U.S. Stock Exchange

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Without a crunching thought in their handsome, smartly coiffed heads, two women have just crashed one of the most exclusive U.S. fraternities—the American Stock Exchange.

Julia L. Walsh and Phyllis S. Peterson — both fortyish women who care for a total of 14 children between them — hold general partnership in securities firms in Washington—had their applications for full membership approved Thursday by the board of governors of the exchange.

Says Edwin Etherington, 40, president of the 618-member exchange: "They're the first women are fully qualified with long records of effective service to the public. I'm delighted to be associated with them and I'm sure every member shares my views."

Full membership means the women can take full part in exchange affairs and can trade at a lower commission rate than they could with associate membership. They can also go on the trading floor in New York if they wish, but they will continue working in Washington with their firms.

The larger New York Stock Exchange says no women has ever applied to it for membership.

'BARRIERS ARE MENTAL'

Mrs. Walsh, a dynamic, five-foot-ten with bright blue eyes and gray-streaked dark hair, says: "Part of the barriers women think exist is in their own minds. In my 10 years' experience in the business, I've had no encounters with men who resented me being there."

Both women became interested in stock market careers as wives of military men.

"For people with fixed incomes, such as the military, the only chance to make money is through investments," says Mrs. Walsh.

Her first husband, Col. John Montgomery, was killed in an accident at Fort Riley, Kan., two days before Christmas in 1957, leaving her with four young sons.

She married widower Thomas M. Walsh, a Washington real estate man with seven children. Adding the daughter born a year ago, the Walshes have a dozen children, ranging in ages from 18 down.

Mrs. Peterson, who has two teen-age girls, is five-foot-three, with dark hair, hazel eyes and a gentle manner.

STARTED BY CHANCE

"I really got into the business by chance," she explains. "My husband's father died and left us stocks. We didn't know the first thing about them."

At the time she and her husband, air force Col. Sumner Peterson, were living in Japan. She took some courses in securities there. "Once I started, I was hooked," she admits.

Nothing in her background—music degrees from American University in Washington and the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston — prepared Mrs. Peterson for the stock market. But when the Petersons moved to Washington, she decided she'd rather work than sit home while the girls were in school. She studied, then became a trainee at Sade and Co. In 1960, a registered representative the next year, and a full partner in March, 1963.

Her husband, now retired from the air force and working with a firm of financial advisers, is her main booster.

Both women agree that good domestic help at home is essential.

FINISHED WITH HONORS

Mrs. Walsh worked her way through Kent (Ohio) State University, graduating magna cum laude with a bachelor's degree in business administration in 1945.

At the end of the Second World War, she was a U.S. foreign service officer in Munich.

When her husband was assistant army attache in Turkey, she headed the U.S. educational commission in Ankara.

"When we came back in 1954, I decided securities was my niche."

She joined Ferris and Co. in Washington in 1955 as a registered representative, becoming a general partner in 1959.

In 1962 she took an intensive, 3 week course at the Harvard Graduate School of Business, the only women accepted and graduated from the advanced management program.

Club Activities

CHRIST CHURCH CONTACT CLUB

The November meeting of Christ Church Contact Club was called to order by president June Fisher. Treasurer Iriz Foster's report showed excellent profits from the recent doll house and light bulb bids.

It was decided that a closing dinner will take place at the Tops Motor Hotel on Monday, November 29th at 7.30 p.m. This will be a smorgasbord dinner.

A rummage sale to be conveyed by Marj Bunnett and a pre-Christmas sale of doll clothes and bazaar items conveyed by Doris Stewart and Edith Pringle will take place in the near future.

Doris Stewart, program chairman, announced that on Monday, November 22nd the club members will be taken on a tour of C.F.R.D. conducted by Mr. Frank Murray. This met with enthusiastic response and everyone is welcome. Members will meet at the church hall at 8.15 p.m. and go to C.J.B.Q. in a group at 8.30.

LISTS OFFICERS

The remainder of the evening was spent in electing officers for 1966.

The following were elected and installed by Canon R. B. Wright: president — Edith Pringle; 1st. vice president — Lillian Middleton; 2nd. vice-president — Betty Guthrie; secretary — Jean Weaver; treasurer — Iris Foster; nursery convenor — Irene Weatherstone; sunshine — Mary Phillips; press reporter — Ann Trendell; membership chairman — Marj. Bunnett; program chairman — Carol Kidd; social convener — Shirley Jones; group leaders — Joan Ford, Barbara Bertrim and Doris Stewart; vestry council representative — June Fisher.

Canon Wright congratulated each newly installed officer and this was followed by a prayer.

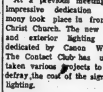
President June Fisher extended congratulations to the new executive and wished them success in the coming year.

Refreshments were served by Edith Pringle, Barbara Bertrim and Ann Trendell.

At a previous meeting an impressive dedication ceremony took place in front of Christ Church. The new sign and exterior lighting were dedicated by Canon Wright. The Contact Club has undertaken various projects to help defray the cost of the sign and lighting.

St. Columba Women Hold Coffee Party

Despite the inclement weather, St. Columba Women's Association held a successful coffee party at the church on Wednesday morning. The event was convened by Mrs. E. J. McLaughlin and Mrs. M. J. Stoneburg.



Hot muffins with jam were served with the coffee and the little folk were served juice and muffins. Credit is due Mrs. A. R. Dunsmore and Mrs. K. D. Taylor for the efficient running of the kitchen.

Mrs. N. W. Hutchinson, Mrs. G. Dervelis and Mrs. I. Hilborn looked after the patrons.

Mrs. R. Brain, assisted by Mrs. G. Ward and Mrs. E. Mac Donald sold baked goods. Mrs. F. Lyon conversed a handicraft table with the assistance of Mrs. J. Hayman.

Sorority Observes 10th Anniversary

A preferential tea was enjoyed on Sunday by the Gamma Mu members of Beta Sigma Phi, at the home of Mrs. Norm Jeffrey Dufferin Avenue. Many of the former members of the chapter were present to mark the 10th anniversary of Gamma Mu which started in Belleville in 1955.

Letters and cards of congratulations were received from members now living out of town who were unable to attend the tea.

Guests were welcomed at the door by the president Mrs. Barbara Baird and the hostess Mrs. Robin Jeffrey including new pledges: Mrs. Margaret Anderson, Mrs. Beverly Findlay, Mrs. Catherine McPherson and Mrs. Ruth Green.

The decor motif for the tea was the symbolic yellow rose of friendship which was always in evidence at social events and adorned the tea table in a beautiful centrepiece of yellow roses and white 'mums.

Pouring tea were Mrs. Dorothy McKinnon, Mrs. Mary Denton, Mrs. Lois Wishart, Mrs. Doreen Greer, Mrs. Ann Acton and Mrs. Jessie White.

Members of Gamma Mu are most grateful to the hostess Mrs. R. Jeffrey, who kindly opened her home, also to Mrs. Marilyn Burtt, Mrs Lois Wishart, Mrs. Judy Mowatt and Mrs. Dot Day who formed the social committee to make this a most successful event.

Slurping, Picking Cause Marital Woes

DEAR DORIS: What do you think of a husband who thinks he's so perfect that he criticizes the way his wife eats? He says she makes a slurping noise when she chews, which is untrue. I suppose a certain amount can't be helped if the food is crunchy.

But he will think it quite all right to pick his teeth out in company, or put his fingers in his mouth if there's no toothpick handy. Don't tell him it's wrong, or answer him back when he hurts your feelings, or he will work me out in the middle of it and not talk to you for days, as though you were a child he was punishing. — HURT FEELINGS.

DEAR HURT: What do I think? That DORIS CLARK he can hand it out but can't take it. He is the childish one.

It happens in the best of families that some little personal habit gets on the nerves of a spouse. Where there is love — and some maturity, for goodness! — there is consideration and a willingness to compromise.

Don't keep silent. Tell him you want to be proud of him, just as he wants to be proud of you; and that you'll quit the noisy chewing if he'll stop picking his teeth in public.

Confidential to NEVER HAPPY: If you have been married for 36 years without reaching any agreement about money, I can understand that you are never happy. How did you ever manage to stay together all this time? I feel you do need someone to talk to about your individual situation. Please go to a social agency or seek counselling through your minister.

DEAR DORIS: I am 24 and living at home. I do the housework for my mom and board. I get $10 to spend.

Now the problem is my mother lets me go out but I have to be in by nine o'clock. I have met a nice man and I have been meeting him away from home. He thinks it's wrong to meet this way. I am too scared to tell my mother, for she will stop me seeing him.

Has she the right to tell me to be in so early? Doris, it's not as though I am a child. How can I make her realize this? — WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED: Either your mother is being overprotective or she doesn't want to lose her household help.

Meeting your friend away from home is wrong — for then, so is that nice o'clock curfew. Moral support from an understanding friend could help you to make your own personal declaration of independence. It's high time — and will only get tougher the longer you leave it.

DEAR DORIS: I am invited to a wedding in November and I'm going to wear a turquoise and white suit.

Would it be proper for me to wear white accessories for a fall wedding or would black and white look better?—WEDDING GUEST.

DEAR GUEST: White gloves, with dressy black slippers, would be best. A black hat might be a bit severe. How about trying for something in a deeper turquoise? Take the suit with you to your hat salon/say and see what she can come up with.

* * *

Confidential to "THANK YOU": There are many jobs these days for young men with mechanical ability; His teacher or vocational counsellor can give him guidance.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: Jane is forever borrowing money or other peoples' clothes. She talks about all of us behind our backs and some things she says aren't very nice. She always thinks she is so popular with boys and other girls but there are very few people who like her.

Should we just ignore her or tell her what we think of her? — A BUGGED FRIEND.

DEAR B.F.: Jane little suspects how obnoxious she is. Perhaps her home is unhappy and she takes this strange means of trying to feel superior.

One of you might try talking to her privately and as a friend. Tell her you know she talks about you; and that no one takes kindly to criticism. Let her know, if you can, that it does not make for a good reputation for a girl to be constantly borrowing money or clothes.

This is better friendship than to ignore her, and it is worth trying.

ST. JOSEPH C.W.I.

The monthly meeting of St. Joseph's C.W.I. was held in the Parish Hall on November 15th. Mrs. D. Dumiste, president, presided and Monsignor J. A. Carley, Spiritual director, attended, and opened the meeting with prayer.

During the month a successful bazaar and tea was held in St. Joseph's Parish under the convenorship of Mrs. J. A. Eilerd. Two other functions, a euchre and bridge evening, were equally successful.

A letter of resignation was received from Mrs. J. A. Eilard, first vice-president, as she is moving, with her family, to Montreal. Monsignor Carley, on behalf of the league, made a small presentation to Mrs. Eilard, thanked her for all her work in the league, and wished her and her family continued success and happiness in their new home.

Mrs. D. Dumiste announced the appointment of Mrs. A. F. Beirne to fill the vacancy.

A motion was made by Mrs. H. Jeffery, to have a small donation sent to the Canadian Mental Health Association to help them get suitable gifts for the patients at Christmas.

An address by the president of the National Council of Catholic Women, which was to have been the program for the meeting, was unavoidably held up, but it is hoped to have this recording at another meeting.

Monsignor Carley congratulated the ladies on the success of the bazaar, and the cheerfulness and good spirit which prevailed which he said was evident, and he hoped that members could now have a rest and enjoy the coming holiday season.

A meeting is planned for early in December which will take the form of a party and exchange of small gifts.

After the closing prayer coffee was served and enjoyed by the members.

Parliamentary Notebook

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—If there's to be a new challenge to the leadership of John Diefenbaker within the ranks of the Progressive Conservative party, a suitable formal setting is unlikely until next spring at the earliest.

The party's next annual meeting is seen as the likely forum if there is to be any action by dissidents.

Dalton Camp, national president, says the next annual meeting will be held either in the spring or fall of 1968.

There is no possibility of it being held before Parliament opens Jan. 18, he said. The party's national executive decided the date.

None was held this year partly because of the prospect of the election that eventually came Nov. 8. The party's constitution permits such a cancellation in an election year.

Mr. Diefenbaker has called a meeting here Monday of the 97 Conservatives elected Nov. 8. There is no suggestion that his leadership will be challenged then.

For one thing, the caucus—particularly the Prairie section—has been Mr. Diefenbaker's chief support in the past. And 62 caucus members are from the Prairies although not all can be classified as strong Diefenbaker supporters.

OVERHANG REMAINS

In any event, there's still a "mild" overhang from the election campaign during which some of the rebels of 1963 returned to the fold.

One of them, George Hees, will be in the caucus meeting Monday. He made a political comeback, taking Northumberland from the Liberals.

He's one of eight prominent men mentioned as potential successors to Mr. Diefenbaker, who has been leader since 1956.

Three other possibles are also in the caucus. They are:

Davie Fulton, the former justice and public works minister, elected in Kamloops after a short hitch away from Parliament as provincial leader in British Columbia.

Michael Starr, the party's House leader in the last Parliament and former labor minister, re-elected in Ontario riding.

Alvin Hamilton, member for Qu'Appelle and regarded as the man who helped Mr. Diefenbaker most to keep the Prairies in the Conservative camp.

Both Mr. Starr and Mr. Hamilton stood with Mr. Diefenbaker in the 1963 cabinet crisis in which Mr. Hees and two other ministers pulled out, largely over the question of nuclear arms for Canadian forces.

Mr. Fulton had left earlier in an attempt to overhaul the Conservatives provincially in B.C. The party's failure to make a dent in provincial politics in B.C. under his leadership has been cited by some as a handicap in any bid to succeed Mr. Diefenbaker.

OTHERS MENTIONED

Premiers Roblin of Manitoba, Robarts of Ontario and Stanfield of Nova Scotia also get frequent mention in the leadership guessing game.

Mr. Camp is another thought by some to have leadership chances despite his electoral defeat in Toronto Eglinton Nov. 8 at the hands of Trade Minister Sharp.

The expected interval until the next annual meeting gives Mr. Diefenbaker time to reinforce his position as party leader.

Most observers feel he is working from a stronger base than before the election. By denying the Liberals a majority by a whisker in the Nov. 8 vote, Mr. Diefenbaker's hold on the leadership was, if anything, strengthened.

Moreover he has given no public indication he intends to step down in the foreseeable future although he turned 70 during the campaign.

He takes every opportunity to tell reporters about his good health and brushes off retirement suggestions as old-hat talk he's been hearing for years.

Declare

religious liberty declaration cleared the way for the promulgation as a church decree by Pope Paul in a public session Wednesday before the council ends Dec. 8.

The vote represented another triumph for the progressive majority amongst the Roman Catholic hierarchy. A small group of conservative bishops fought the document every step of the way.

The final revised text made concessions to both sides.

The declaration states that all men have an intrinsic right derived from God to think and worship as they believe without outside coercion.

This was what the progressives fought hardest for during the long debates and behind-the-scene struggles that marked the document's stormy passage through the council.

It also is what many Protestant churchmen regard as the council's most important single expression for the unity movement to bring Roman Catholics and other Christians closer together.

The text still contains a section demanded by conservatives reaffirming the church doctrine that Catholicism is the one true religion and the one true church.

Many progressive bishops and Protestant observers at the council feel the assertion is out of place in the religious liberty document since it already has been spelled out in the council's 1964 decree on the nature of the church.

But several American bishops expressed the opinion that the declaration has been toned down to make it more acceptable to Protestants.

Red China May Be Looking For Ways to Restore Face

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — China has been shut out of the United Nations for another year, but it was not much of a victory for the United States and not much of a loss for the Chinese.

What is more important and more meaningful is that Peking may be in a dangerous mood. Its eventful year, a year of blows has fallen on China's prestige. It may be looking for ways to restore her face.

—China picked up some UN votes in Africa, but this by no means indicates that Chinese policy has prospered there. The pro-China votes in many cases are dictated by fear of continued exclusion of a powerful and important nation from the world organization. Actually, China blundered in Africa this year by preaching the doctrine of revolution in new states already free of colonialism. A number of them lowered the boom on Chinese activities within their borders.

—Peking lost face, too, in connection with the Asian-African summit meeting. It had long campaigned for such a conference, but on its eve found it necessary to demand postponement because the time was "unfavorable."

—Peking was embarrassed by the ceasefire in the fight between India and Pakistan over Kashmir. It backed away from its ultimatums to help India to dismantle border bases.

—Events in Indonesia were a blow. The ardently pro-China Army there is on the run. The Chinese joined the Indonesian Communists as targets of public revulsion after a murderous coup attempt failed. Until Oct. 1, China had enjoyed a dominating influence in that potentially rich, powerful country.

What's left now? Where else is there a heavy investment of Peking clout? The answer is: In Viet Nam—Should that investment also seem to turn sour, the Chinese may feel impelled to abandon their customary caution.

Peking has been railing at the Russians, accusing them of plotting with the Americans to end the Viet Nam fighting. It has insisted that war and violence are the only means to Communist triumph, that the Russians have treacherously abandoned revolution for the sake of their own safety and comfort.

They have had little satisfaction from Moscow. They are left out on their own limb. If war is the only way to revolutionary triumph, what are they doing about it themselves, in Viet Nam?

The Chinese have been cautious in their support of the war but lately there have been reports, still lacking confirmation, of Chinese advisers coming into South Viet Nam with fighting units from the north. Is this a token of things to come?

SUFFERS FROM BOMBING

The United States is reported to be relying primarily on military successes to induce North Viet Nam to talk about peace, and there have been successes. North Viet Nam, its economy and its economy suffering from American bombing, is reported lamely from an ultimatum to be edging toward the Soviet viewpoint that there is some merit in unconditional negotiations at this time.

Even if North Viet Nam is not persuaded, however, there is always the possibility that the Americans will knock out or blockade Haiphong, a port vital to the Viet Cong effort in the south, or perhaps even attack installations in the area of Hanoi itself.

In that case the Chinese, isolated from much of the Communist world and smarting from a series of reversals, may see the worst reverses of all in prospect unless they take some sort of action to retrieve the situation. Whether the Viet Nam Communists want it or not—and the chances are that Hanoi would shudder at the idea—Peking may decide to risk overt involvement.

From Peking's point of view, what has been laid on the line in Viet Nam in terms of Chinese prestige may be far more important than what rode on the Indian-Pakistani affair, the Asian-African summit, the Indonesian upheaval or the vote on UN membership.

OAS Ministers Debate Unrest in Hemisphere

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—Foreign ministers from the United States and 18 Latin American countries were set to-day to begin full-scale debate on the key issue of subversion in the Western Hemisphere.

They are delegates to the first meeting in 11 years of the foreign ministers of the Organization of American States.

Policy speeches from each of them begin today and are expected to take the rest of the week.

The speeches also will cover representatives' views on ways the hemisphere, human rights and co-operation.

Thursday the ministers elected Brazil's Vasco Leitao da Cunha as their chairman, and set Nov. 30 as the target date for winding up discussions.

Delegates predicted strong opposition to the plans for foreign intervention despite a spirited defences of it by Brazilian President Humberto Castelo Branco.

Castelo Branco, head of a government which took over from elected leaders last year, said American countries had to adopt a "new realities" including guerilla and psychological warfare.

He called for new machinery for joint inter-American decisions, and moves toward economic integration of the whole of Latin America.

Despite his pleas, delegates still expected strong opposition to foreign intervention—such as the U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic in April—from Chile, Mexico, Uruguay and others.

Canada's Queen of the world's power boat races-ways has been given a new and permanent throne.

She won't be garbed in the scarlet, ermine and diamond tiaras as humans know royalty, but in her mythical crown she'll proudly wear the three diadems symbolic of unbeaten supremacy.

"Miss Supertest III," winner and twice defender of the coveted Harmsworth Trophy, will rest on her new laurel-wreathed base in Toronto's Centennial Centre of Science and Technology.

Ontario Premier John Robarts has announced that her nautical majesty has been presented to the Centre by James G. Thompson of London, Ont., her designer and builder.

And somewhere up there in sportsdom's misty Valhalla an apple-cheeked Bobby Hayward, the guiding genius in the queen's court, nods approval.

In Prince Edward County the tree sentinels that guard the lolling slopes of Hayward Loog Beach, the scene of two of Hayward's greatest triumphs, bow leafless heads in silent acclaim.

Future world power boat championships may be held on the gently-rippled waters of the Reach, but they will never have the glory of the unlimited hydroplane queen in her twice successful defence of global honors.

Death wrote a grim final chapter to "Miss Supertest III", brilliant but brief biography, in the aura of her third world championship glory, she rested in her London home.

The Grim Reaper struck swiftly, savagely. It plunged its lethal dagger deep into the racing heart of the Thompson family when it took the life of Bobby Hayward on that memorable September 10, 1961.

By a strange twist of racing fate, Hayward lost his life on the same foam-waved Detroit River course where he wrested the Harmsworth Trophy from its American defender three years previous.

And by another ironic twist he was driving "Miss Supertest II", an older sister of his championship queen.

The tragedy struck a double blow. It ended Canada's supremacy as the world's top nation in unlimited hydroplane racing. It wrote the last page in the brilliant power boat racing history of the Thompson family.

Jim Thompson announced his retirement from the sport. "Miss Supertest II" was retired in unbeaten splendor after a brief appearance at the CNE.

Hayward's death shocked the hydroplane racing fraternity of the world especially the United States. In sympathy and respect to a gallant driver's memory, the Americans refrained from issuing a challenge in 1962.

Unable to produce a defender, Canada was forced to default the famous Harmsworth Trophy in 1963. It is now in the hands of its trustees in London, England.

The gift of "Miss Supertest III" to the Centennial Centre will not only perpetuate the memory of her gallant feats, and her equally gallant driver, but give thousands of Canadians the chance to see the famous "queen."

Said Jim Thompson: "This boat was built for the specific purpose of bringing the Harmsworth Trophy to Canada. It took us nine years of hard work, innovation and experimentation to accomplish it. We are pleased to make it available for Canada and Canadians to see."

Said Premier Robarts: "Miss Supertest" has played an important role on the social and recreational development of the province and the nation. Her achievements are a matter of pride for all Canadians . . ."

The Centennial Centre, to be located in Toronto, is the official project of the Province of Ontario to mark Canada's first 100 years as a nation. It is progressing toward its opening in 1967. The site is at the geographical hub of Metro-Toronto on Don Valley ravine land.

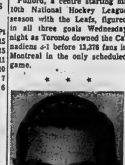
Says Quebec Will Seek NHL Berth



QUEBEC (CP)—Gerald Martineau, president of the American Hockey League Quebec Aces, said Thursday the club will seek a National Hockey League franchise.

Mr. Martineau said a "most complete dossier" is being prepared and "it will no longer be possible for anyone to accuse the Aces' management of not doing everything possible to obtain such a franchise."

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Toronto Maple Leafs are having a hard time so far this year, Bob Pulford doesn't appear to have much to do with it.

Pulford, a centre starting his 10th National Hockey League season with the Leafs, figured in all three goals Wednesday night as Toronto downed the Canadiens 3-1 before 13,378 fans in Montreal in the only scheduled game.

BOB PULFORD

The threesome of Eddie Shack, Pulford and Larry Jeffrey, easily the best combination on the ice for either club, accounted for a goal apiece, all in the third period.

Ralph Backstrom was the "one Canadiens' marksman, picking up his fourth goal of the season midway through the opening period.

LARRY JEFFERY

The win was the fourth for the Leafs, who now have 10 points, one less than New York Rangers and five behind Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal who are locked in first place with 15 points apiece.

Backstrom put the Canadiens on the scoreboard at 10:25 of the first period with assists going to Dave Balon and Claude Provost. On the play, Provost was dumped in front of the Montreal bench, but managed to steer the puck to Balon.

The Montreal left winger carried right in on his wrong side only to have Toronto netminder Johnny Bower stop his hard shot. However, Backstrom, who had followed in, dumped the rebound behind Bower.

MADE KEY SAVES

The teams battled in a scoreless middle frame only to have Montreal netminder Lorne Worsley and Bower come up with key saves.

But in the third period, at the 6:00 mark, Pulford set up Shack who beat Worsley to tie the score. It was Shack's third goal in five games since his return to Toronto from Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

Jeffrey, obtained by Toronto in an off-season trade with Detroit Red Wings, broke the tie just five minutes later. It was his first goal since coming to the Leafs, and proved to be the winner. Pulford and Bacon drew assists on the goal.

Pulford put the game on ice with 26 seconds remaining in the game when he fired his third goal of the season into an empty net.

Worsley had been removed to give Montreal a two-man advantage because Bacon had been penalized at the 19:00 mark.

Referee Art Skov called only three penalties throughout the game, none in the opening 20 minutes, one in the second to Montreal and one to each club in the third.

On Saturday, New York is at Montreal, Chicago visits Toronto and Detroit plays at Boston.

Sunday's action has Montreal at Boston, Toronto at Chicago and Detroit at New York.

Says Orr "Unduly Fouled"

OSHAWA (CP)—Wren Blair, general manager of Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series, said Thursday he plans to send a letter to the OHA referee-in-chief complaining that defenceman Bobby Orr is being "unduly fouled."

Blair said he hopes the letter to Pat Patterson will correct the situation.

"Because Bobby is better than many players, fouls against him are often overlooked," Blair said.

Such treatment could result in serious injury, he said.

Reed, Coffey Unanimous Choices

Here's The Western All-Stars!

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fullback George Reed, who rushed for more than one mile, and end Tommy-Joe Coffey, who caught a record-equalling 81 passes, were the only unanimous choices for positions on the 1965 Western Football Conference all-star team announced today.

Coffey, whose catches for last place Edmonton Eskimos matched a record he set last year, was one of five players who broke through a three-club domination of the 25-man team selected by the football reporters of Canada. The east player resulted from a tie for an offensive half spot.

Calgary Stampeders, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders—who finished one-two-three respectively in the standings — took 20 places.

The Stampeders and the Bombers each had seven players honored; Saskatchewan six. Inchs ding Hamilton Tiger-Cats and three and British Columbia Lions, defending champions who plunged to fourth place this season, two.

The makeup: Offence — Five Riders; four Bombers; two Stamps, two Eskimos. Defence —Five Stampeders; three Blue Bombers; two Lions; one Roughrider, one Eskimo.

ALL BACK HARRIS

Wayne Harris of Calgary received unanimous support on defence from the 24 voting members but two placed him at corner linebacker. The others put him at interior linebacker.

Which whisky do the Jones' really drink?

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.

Yet they don't let price dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

Which is why it's not surprising that so many of the Jones' drink Bonded Stock. This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

The sensible price is an extra you get for having good taste in the first place.

One other thing; you don't have to be one of the Jones' to appreciate Bonded Stock. All you need is a taste for good whisky.

Gooderham' and've been distilling fine whisky since 1832.

Rollins Meet Tennessee Here Tonight

Kingston Frontenacs, sporting something of a 'new look' this season, will make their first appearance here tonight against Belleville Rollins Construction.

The occasion is an OHA Eastern Junior "B" game, slated for Memorial Arena at nine o'clock.

Both Rollins and the Frontenacs have been experiencing trouble winning with any degree of consistency in the tough new circuit.

It is a little early to judge but one might suspect that Kingston and Belleville will have a battle on their hands to grab playoff berths next spring.

Oshawa, Peterborough and Trenton have been rolling along great guns and barring dismal upsets shape a real battle for the top spot or two. However, the Frontenacs and Rollins as well are the hustling young Cobourg Cougars will upset more than one apple cart between now and playoff time.

Kingston is led this year by Syl Apps Jr., a fine young hockey player in the style of his father, the ex-NHL star with the Toronto Maple Leafs. They also have defence star Dennis Leavalee back, plus some good rookies, including speedy Leo Lavallee, younger brother of hardrock Gary Lavallee.

Belleville's main hopes ride on the scoring efforts of Bob Boyle (5-5); Carl Donnelhower (4-4, 8); Grant Hagerman (3-5, 8) and Pete Fleming (4-1, 5) and the steady defensive work of Doug Potts, Harold Townsend, Bob Zibbler, Arnold Marks and goalie Wayne Brant.

It should be a good scrap and the club brass looks for a crowd to match.

Riders Ordered To Roll

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Football is a game of mistakes, says general manager Red O'Quinn of Ottawa Rough Riders.

"The team that makes the least number of mistakes usually wins."

The former all-star end with Montreal Alouettes has assembled the youngest team in the Canadian Football League this year and both he and coach Frank Clair admit the Riders have made a lot of mistakes on the field this year.

"But young players learn from their mistakes," O'Quinn added, "and our boys are learning.

"They are capable of winning any given game, and when they get rolling there isn't a single team that can stop them."

O'Quinn was disappointed last Sunday when the Riders blew a 13-0 halftime lead and lost 16-13 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the opener of the two-game, total-point Eastern Football Conference final, but he has been quietly optimistic about this Saturday's game in Hamilton.

The average age of the Riders' roster is only 24. There are nine rookies—eight of them 22 or younger.

THREE OVER THIRTY

Only three players have reached the 30-year mark. Defensive guard Sam Scoccia is 35 and in his second year of pro ball — 12 with the Riders and three with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Offensive guard Merv Collins is 31 and offensive centre Gerry Selinger 32.

While chances of a tie in total points after Saturday's game is remote — it hasn't happened since 1959 when Hamilton rallied against Toronto Argonauts and went on to win the series. The league has a standing procedure to decide the winner.

The teams get a 10-minute rest after the end of regulation time, then play a 20-minute overtime game, complete with a half-time kickoff at the 10-minute mark.

If the score still is tied, the teams stay on the field for a five-minute break and into sudden death overtime, where the first point scored decides the Eastern representative in the Nov. 27 Grey Cup game in Toronto.

Wanted: Football Coach, Apply Als

Trimble Fired

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference are going to have to do some shopping. This time, it's to replace head coach Jim Trimble.

The club's board of directors announced Thursday it has decided not to renew its contract with Trimble.

Ted Workman, president of the Alouettes, said the club has no replacement at the moment but added that the search for one will begin immediately.

"We will open our door to the best possible coaching candidates in North America," he said in a statement.

Board Chairman Joe Atwell did not attend the board meeting after being snowed in at Toronto International Airport but he "handled the meeting by telephone."

Atwell, co-owner of the Alouettes with Workman, said the board members discussed the move at a meeting last week. He said the decision was unanimous.

"Most of them felt that he didn't generate enough offence. What he's been defensively minded. You can't change him at this stage. Members of the board aren't football people but they want to see a better offence."

The 47-year-old Trimble said he was "shocked" to hear their decision.

"I don't have a clue about what I am going to do yet but I'd like to stay in football," he said.

Trimble, a native of McKeesport, Pa., became the youngest coach in the history of the National Football League in 1952 with Philadelphia Eagles. He was named professional Coach of the Year in his rookie season.

He joined Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1956 and in 1959 he signed a five-year contract with Hamilton.

During the seven years he was with Hamilton, he coached them into five Grey Cup games.

While at Hamilton, Trimble ... ed a remark ... 28-2 record in seven seasons, and the Ti... cord in playoff competition.

Trimble then came to Montreal where he signed a contract with the Alouettes in February, 1965. In his three seasons at the Montreal helm, he guided the team to only 17 wins against 25 losses.

Despite the fact that he no longer has a job as coach with the Alouettes, Trimble intends to make Montreal his permanent home.

"We're very fond of living here and the children are all doing very well in school," he said.

Nationals Tie Wings

Petes Defeat Generals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes waited and team captain Danny Grant until the last minute to defeat Oshawa Generals 5-3 and move within a point of second place in the Junior A Ontario Hockey Association Thursday night.

Hamilton Red Wings, meanwhile, twice wiped out two-goal leads built by London Nationals for a 5-5 tie. The Red Wings moved into a sixth-place tie with Kitchener Rangers.

Defencemen Brain Conboy scored the winning goal for Peterborough with 35 seconds left in the game.

Grant scored twice for the Petes, who now trail Oshawa by a point, while Mickey Redmond and Dale McLeish added the remaining goals.

Oshawa marksmen were Chris Hayes, Gary Cooke and Fred Cudeau.

Sandy Snow and Fred Speck each scored twice for Hamilton with Gary Marsh adding one. London scorers were Neil Claremont and Stan Allan, with two goals each, and Jim Dorey.

Westrum To Guide Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Wes Westrum, a .277 hitter as a major league catcher, was given the job Thursday of trying to get baseball's New York Mets out of the National League cellar.

Westrum, the interim manager since Casey Stengel fractured his left hip last July 25, was named the Mets' manager in a unanimous vote of the board of directors. His contract is for one year.

"This is the most pleasant baseball news I've ever had," Westrum told a press conference by telephone from his home in Phoenix, Ariz.

Westrum expressed confidence in the Mets, saying:

"We've got a fine young hitter in Ron Swoboda, a good young pitcher in Craig Cosen, and the nucleus of a pitching staff with Tug McGraw, Dick Selma and Bob Gardner."

In succeeding Stengel, who retired Aug. 30, Westrum becomes the second manager in the Mets' brief history. In the first three years under Stengel, the Mets finished 10th and last each time, winning 40, 51 and 53 games, respectively.

They finished last again this past season, compiling a 21-64 record under Stengel and a 19-43 mark with Westrum, as boss. Westrum, 42, took over from Stengel 'of his second year as a Met coach. Prior to that he spent six years on San Francisco, Giants' coaching staff.

Oakville Dominates Scoring

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oakville Oaks continued to dominate the individual scoring race in the Ontario Hockey Association senior series this week, holding down five of the first six positions.

Jack Price heads the list with eight goals and 10 assists for 18 points, one more than teammate Norm Sibbick, who has seven goals and 10 assists.

Centre Grant Moore, a member of Canada's national hockey team last year, and Dave Gallant are tied for third place with 16 points each. Moore, who scored six goals and six assists last week, has a total of eight while Gallant has six.

Netminders Tom Mercer of Kingston Aces and Harold (Bun) Hurley of Guelph Royals each have given up 22 goals in seven starts to lead with 3.14 averages.

Terrell Underworld Controlled?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The California Athletic Commission charged Thursday that World Boxing Association heavyweight champion Ernie Terrell is controlled by the underworld.

Dr. Dan P. Kilroy, commission chairman, issued a statement urging all jurisdictions to refrain from permitting Terrell to box until he can demonstrate he is free from "undesirable influences."

"The California Commission is appalled at the suggestion that Ernest Terrell would be permitted to box for any title so long as Bernard Glickman remains his manager," Kilroy said.

It has been proposed that Terrell fight the winner of the Nov. 22 Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson title fight to clear up the heavyweight picture.

In the statement, Kilroy reviewed the 1961 conviction in Los Angeles of Frankie Carbo and Frank (Blinky) Palermo on charges of trying to muscle in on the managerial interests of Don Jordan after he had won the world welterweight title from Virgil Akins.

"The California commission remembers Bernard Glickman as co-manager of Akins. Glickman was closely associated with Frank Carbo, loaned Carbo money as one friend to another, consulted with Carbo on hundreds of occasions in regard to fights, made bets with Carbo on fights, and called Carbo the good will ambassador of boxing before the Kefauver committee investigating boxing," the commission said.

Terrell, appearing in Toronto with his rock 'n' roll group, denied the charge.

"It doesn't make sense to me," said Terrell. "He (Gilroy) doesn't know a thing about me. He's just guessing. His statement is unfounded and unprovoked and he has no reason to make it, unless he's trying to get ahead politically or get his name in the papers."

Terrell said that Glickman is not his manager.

"He only advises, and instructs me what to do," he said. "Bernie cannot sign contracts for me he can only advise me on fights. He does a lot of other work for me, too. He helps with nightclub bookings for my act."

Terrell said he has nothing to hide.

"Everything I've done has been completely to the letter of WBA regulations," he said.

Quinte Hockey League Results

The rich got richer and the poor got poorer in a pair of Quinte Hockey League games at Memorial Arena last night.

Unbeaten SACO clipped Sinton - Horlock Combiners 6-4 while winless Grant - Realty dropped a 3-1 decision to the Ter - Haar Daubers.

The Combines held SACO to a 2-2 tie in the first period but left behind 4-2 after two and were outscored 2-1 in the third frame.

Don Forsythe and Art Deline bagged two goals apiece with Harry Reid and Garry Genereux notching singletons for the loop leaders. Genereaux also had three assists, Doug Haiem two, Doug Lanos, Deline and Les Moreau one each.

Reg Ell, George Daniel and Wally Istead scored for Sinton - Horlock. B. Genereaux, Istead, Lee McBrien, Bill Taylor and Bruce Symons had helpers.

The winners' Ray Lucas was involved in an incident with a referee following a hooking penalty and drew a misconduct and a game misconduct. Referees for the night were Lou Smrke and J. P. Laminade.

Ter - Haar took a 2-0 lead against the hapless Realty crew and clinched it later after the lead had been halved.

Frank Chris, Al Rutan and Jack Calnan bagged the Ter - Haar markers, in that order. Pete McNevin and Ken Forsythe gained single assists.

Dennis Kerrish scored on a solo effort for Grant's.

Penalties were all of a minor nature with Daubers taking seven of 12.

On The Golf Trail

LAKE CHARLES La. (AP)—Power-swinging Bob Panasiuk of Shandon, Ont., fired a 66 Thursday to get the jump on the field in the inaugural $10,000 Alvin Dark invitational golf tournament.

Panasiuk put together matched rounds of 33, six strokes off par over the 6,705-yard Lake Charles Country Club course.

Trailing by one stroke was Hal McComas of Dallas, Tex., who in turn had a one stroke margin over six others.

Alvin Dark, the Lake Charles native for whom the tourney is named, shot a 73.

CARACAS (AP)—Bill Wakeham of Victoria, B.C., who turned pro only 13 months ago, fired a four-under-par 66 Thursday and took the first-round lead in the Caracas open golf tournament in this Venezuelan capital.

Alvie Thompsace, who moved to Toronto from Vancouver some five years ago, was second, one stroke back.

Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg also made the top 10 with a par 70.

Spain's Ramon Sola, the French Open champion, was third with a 68, one shot better than countrymen Angel Miguel and Americans Wes Ellss and Jack Rule.

Williams Patching Lineup

Stampeders Relive Gruesome Events

Ti-Cats Use Same Lineup

HAMILTON (CP) — Ralph Sazio will go with the same lineup Saturday that he used in the first game of the Eastern Football Conference final against Ottawa Rough Riders.

The coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats will test dress halfback Johnny Counts and will use Dick Cobee, normally a defensive back, in his spot in the offensive backfield.

The Ticats, 18-13 winners in the first game last Sunday of the two-game, total-points series, meet the Riders at Civic Stadium here Saturday with the kickoff at 1 p.m. EST.

The game, to be carried on both the CBC and CTV television networks, has been moved ahead of the customary 2 p.m. starting time to allow television commitments involving the Western Football Conference final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Calgary Stampeders in Calgary.

Counts sat out last Sunday's game as he was recovering from an ankle injury. He's healthy again, but Cobee's performance in the opener, in which he scored a touchdown, convinced Sazio to string along with him again.

SWAP SPOTS

Cobee's berth on offence means that Ted Page will replace him at defensive halfback and Jim Reynolds will play in Page's spot at corner linebacker.

The Ticats are trying for their fifth consecutive berth in the Grey Cup classic, their eighth in nine years. The Grey Cup game will be played in Toronto Nov. 27.

CALGARY (CP) — The best thing going for Jerry Williams this week is the fact that he didn't join Calgary Stampeders' coaching staff until 1964. He doesn't have to relive two of the most gruesome events that ever happened to a football club.

As he moves toward the end of his freshman year as head coach, a job he inherited after a season as assistant to Bobby Dobbs, Williams can confine his worries to patching a lineup for Saturday's deciding game of the best-of-three Western Football Conference finals against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Williams was around when Calgary was bolted out by British Columbia Lions in last year's WFC final. But that was straight football — and besides, the Lions went on to win the Grey Cup.

What he missed was the 1963 semi-final in which the Stampeders managed to blow a 27-point lead in the second game of a total-points series, and the 1962 final, the memory of which still wakes up loyal Calgarians in the middle of the night in a cold sweat.

It was bad enough in 1963, when the Stampeders went into Regina with a 35-9 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders under their belts and chased quarterback Ron Lancaster through the snowdrifts while he completed pass after pass to beat them 39-12 for a one-point edge in the round.

But 1962 was the year the Stampeders were 11 seconds away from a berth in the Grey Cup final when the roof fell in. And that's a story that nobody is telling in Calgary this week.

With the best-of-three series tied at a game apiece, the Stampeders were leading 7-6 with less than two minutes to play and the Bombers punting from their nine-yard line.

Charlie Shepard's boot took a good bounce and Calgary was chased back to its own 25, where two running plays got nowhere. Jim Furlong kicked short, the Stamps were penalized for no yards and Winnipeg took over on the Calgary 17 with time for one play. The Bombers elected to try a field goal.

The only man in the Calgary end zone was Harvey Wylie, one of the finest defensive halves in the game, a four-time WFC All-Star and a popular choice as 1962's Canadian player of the year.

Gerry James kicked from the 22-yard line, Furlong charged in to deflect the ball and it spun beneath the goalposts with several Bombers charging after it.

Wylie spotted a gap between the oncoming players and tried to kick the spinning ball to safety. He barely connected and it popped into the hands of Winnipeg end Farrell Funston for the touchdown that gave the Bombers the game, 12-7.

Ten Pin Topics

By AUS WATKIN

CONGRATULATIONS!

I have no doubt that the executive of the Belleville Ladies' City Ten Pin Association had a warm feeling when they arrived bound Sunday night from the Ontario Ladies' Annual Ten Pin Tournament. They had gone to Hamilton, not at all sure they could swing next year's tournament to our city. They did just that.

Our informants tell us that the presentation of our case by association secretary, Dorothy Anderson, left nothing to be desired, plus a timely telegram from His Worship Mayor Jack Ellis and sundry other help.

Anyone who has had to do with running a tournament of this stature will doubtless realize the work that will be involved. It is hoped that all members of our local association, both ladies and men, will co-operate to make Belleville's Tournament a large and complete success.

3-8-9 TOURNAMENT

This tournament held last weekend was quite successful and made for quite some scores. There were 54 entries (not bad) and the following are a list of the winners and their scores, including handicap:

1, Dave Burn 745; 2, Mike Anderson 744; 3, Marlon Gelthorpe 718; 4, Joe DeGeorva 703; 5, Murray Kionear 697; 6, Betty Sine 696; 7, Fred Begley 694; 8, Jim Begley 693; 9, Wayne Parrinder 692; 10, Lou Thurgood 691; 11, Bell Angove 689.

LADIES' BIG TEN

Barb Ward 172, Marilyn Thurgood 167, Ruth Bateman 161, Carm Miller 161, G. Poste 160, Barb Stone 157, Millie Smith 156, Audrey Hardy 154, Kaye Rutherford 153, Kay Moreau 153.

A REMINDER

Just two weeks remain for those who wish to qualify in the O'Keefe's singles tournament either open or classified, seen or not, at 8-45 Pfefferle or Grace Poste can supply the particulars at 962-3429. Coming up from Monday, Dec. 13 to Wednesday, Dec. 22 is the annual turkey shoot. Further details will be in the column as soon as they are available.

IN PASSING

As successful as they were in getting next year's tournament the girls never did get going to well in their teams. Although I do not have all the scores, it appears that only the double team of Jessie Hunter and Maxine Messer have a chance of being in the money

Gar Anderson tells me that he has succeeded in getting the junior bowlers sanctioned by A.J.B.C. If you want some fun on Saturday morning just go down to the bowl and watch the future Don Carters in action. They will surprise you

NEW STAMPS READY

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Centennial postage stamps, bearing the floral emblems and armorial bearings of Saskatchewan and Alberta, will go on sale Jan. 19, the post office department announced here Thursday. The Saskatchewan stamp, printed in brown, green and orange, contains the Prairie lily, designated the official flower in 1941. The post office plans to issue 14,500,000. The wild rose, adopted as the official flower in 1930, is on the Alberta stamp which is printed in tones of red and green. About 12,000,000 of these will be issued.

College Football Interlock

TORONTO (CP) — Warren Stevens, University of Toronto athletic director, said Thursday he had been invited to attend a meeting here next Friday to discuss a national interlocking college football schedule with a televised game of the week.

Stevens said he received a letter from John Bassett, publisher of the Telegram and a major stockholder in Toronto television station CFTO-TV.

Letters were also sent to the universities of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Western Ontario, as well as Queen's University and St. Francis Xavier, Stevens said.

Hanover Rich Race Favorite

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Bret Hanover, with the three-year-old pacing title already wrapped up, goes after his 31st stakes victory tonight as the short-priced favorite to win the $151,252 Messenger at Roosevelt Raceway.

The swift son of Adios-Brenna Hanover, also a leading candidate for harness racing's Horse of the Year title, will be bidding for the triple crown, an honor won only by one other horse—Adios Butler in 1959.

Bret, owned by Richard Downing of Shaker Heights, Ohio, and trained and driven by veteran Frank Ervin, already has won the first two legs of the triple—the Cane Pace Thursday and the Little Brown Jug—en route to a career record of 44 victories in 47 races.

Victory in the one-mile race, worth $75,626, also would give Bret Hanover the honor of being the first trotter or pacer to exceed the half-million dollar mark in two seasons of competition. The colt's bank account now stands at $438,648.

Adios Vic, only horse to beat Bret, is not among the seven entries for the messenger.

The chief opposition is expected to come from Rivaltime and Tuxedo Hanover.

Nationals Unbeaten In Twelve

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's national hockey team extended its winning streak to 12 games by whomping University of Manitoba Bisons 13-2 in an exhibition contest Thursday night.

Nationals held leads of 2-1 and 5-1 after two periods of play against the defending Canadian intercollegiate hockey champions.

Roger Bourbonnais and Rick McCann scored three goals each for the Nationals. Ray Cadieux added two, and Morris Mott, Marshall Johnston, Paul Conlin, Al McLan and Jean Cusson had singles.

Bowl Game Might Be Forerunner

TORONTO (CP) — The Save the Children Fund college football bowl game here Saturday might be the forerunner of a possible country-wide conference bringing together college football teams from Halifax to Vancouver.

Coach Dalt White of the University of Toronto Blues, the Eastern team which will play University of Alberta Golden Bears in the game, said Thursday the idea has been kicked for some time but he is not aware how far negotiations have progressed.

He said initial representation probably would include—teams from the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association, the Western Intercollegiate League and the University of British Columbia.

The Blues and Alberta were selected to play in this year's bowl game—the first championship game sanctioned by the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union—over other college football teams in the country on the basis of their play during the year.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Jockey Jim Fitzsimmons regained the lead in the battle for Greenwood Race Track's leading rider title when he rode two winners Thursday to bring his total to 23 for the meeting.

In the first race, he was aboard Foredeck, a two-year-old maiden, which returned $9.00, $4.60 and $2.60.

Barleycorn, with Fitzsimmons riding, won the seventh race of seven furlongs, to return $5.70, $3.60 and $3.

The daily double of Foredeck and Miss Park was worth $31.50 and the quinella of Margabella and Ivy Reply paid $12.70.

Gray Nets Three In Aces' Win

QUEBEC (CP)—Terry Gray, with three goals, led Quebec Aces to a 10-5 win over Buffalo Bisons in an American Hockey League game Thursday night.

Other Aces scorers were Ed Hoekstra with two, Wayne Hicks, Jean-Guy Gendron, Simon Nolet and Bill Sutherland with one each. Jack Bionfield scored three times and Gerry Goelbet, Alain Caron one each for the Bisons.

The Trots

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Bill Wellwood, the 25-year-old driving ace from Stratford, moved into second spot with 13 wins behind Ron Pegg-ins after taking the eighth race with Black Creek Thursday night.

Floyd's Honor won the first race and Phyllis Marie took the second to complete a $64.30 daily double.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Duke Spangler, with little experience as standard breds, won his fourth race in only eleven starts Thursday night in the featured eighth race at Windsor Raceway.

The winner, a favorite, paid $4.80, $3.20 and $2.70.

The daily double, Evergreen Pat in the first ($6.00) and Bristolette in the second ($25.40), paid $95.20.

TO LICENCE ASSESSORS

SARNIA (CP)—The Ontario municipal affairs department says it will begin a program early next year of licensing all provincial assessors. P. G. Gillis, department director, told an assessor's meeting here Thursday regulations on issuing the licences will be forwarded to municipal councils as early as possible in 1966.

'66 Fairlane

FAIRLANE 500 XL HARDTOP

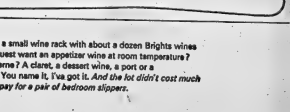
Rakish new look for an exciting family car!

Everything's new! And the picture tells only half the story. This year's new Fairlane is one of the most beautiful "re-inventions" ever to happen to a car.

Style is sleek. From the side it's long and lean and moving. From the front it's wide and low and powerful. From the back the new Fairlane looks custom-built for performance.

Choice is complete: a new Fairlane GT series with GT stripes. A Fairlane 500 XL series with bucket seats and floor shift. An elegantly panelled Squire Wagon, with under-the-floor stowage and the wonderful new Magic Doorgate (swings open like a door for easy entrance, and drops down like a tailgate for easy loading). And a hot new convertible for sheer fun. Plus sedans, hardtops—thirteen new models to choose from.

Features are unique. Some you can see: curved side-windows for extra roominess, reversible keys, keyless locking, suspended accelerator pedal, foot-operated parking brake, a much bigger glove box. Other features you'll feel when you drive Fairlane. The wider track and new suspension give you a smoother ride and flatter cornering. And Fairlane's new "torque-boxes" tune out noise and vibration, for the quietest ride you may have ever experienced.



If you're planning for a new car this year, you really owe it to yourself to see these new Fairlanes. Your Ford Dealer is open all day Saturday.

WAYSIDE INN
SHANNONVILLE

I use my cellar for entertaining!

My "cellar" is a small wine rack with about a dozen Brights wines in it. Does a guest want an appetizer wine at room temperature? A chilled sauterne? A claret, a dessert wine, a port or a bubbly wine? You name it, I've got it. And the lot didn't cost much more than I'd pay for a pair of bedroom slippers.

74 sherry
An appetizer wine, most popular in Canada. Serve with hors d'oeuvres, and the soup course.

74 port
A delightful dessert wine. After dinner, with snacks, with cheese—perfect!

Mme. Ch. Denis CLARET
Canada's most distinctive "wine of the country." Ideal with steaks, hamburgers, red meat of any kind.

Mme. Ch. Denis SAUTERNE
Chilled, it does wonders for white meat of any kind—fish, fowl or pork —and salads!

HAZEL TOY
A rich "brother" wine. Delicious—appeals to everyone.

Du Barry SPARKLING VIN ROSÉ
An "anytime" wine that's light and tingling on the tongue. Serve before, during and after any meal at all.

Pleasant Gift Idea

What more pleasant or welcome gift than a cellar of Brights fine Canadian wines? You'll never get a warmer "thank you!".

Supports U.S. Action In Viet Nam War

TERRY STOLIKER (Quinte)

Today in headlines throughout the world we are confronted constantly with the crisis in Viet Nam. Now we are faced with another aspect of this war, a conflict of opinion.

There are those who believe that the presence of the United States in Viet Nam is warranted and there are those who would have the U.S. withdraw its troops. I must disagree with this latter view and with the actions taken to present it to the peoples of the world.

Breaking the law by burning one's draft card is one way of drawing attention to one's cause. The fact is that the law has been broken; a fact which does not seem to bother these 'pacifists.' It is said that rules are made to be broken. Broken rules or broken laws can only lead to a broken country. Is this what they really want? I hope not.

We also read of those who show their views by committing a fiery suicide. To these people I offer my prayers and pity.

There are very few among the peoples of the world who want war, and we can imagine no one who is happy with the news of young men dying in distant lands. Nor are there many who enjoy the thought of children suffering because of the ineptness of this adult world they will one day inherit.

No matter how distasteful, how frightening the aspect of war might be, we can not in good faith agree with those people who would have the United States leave their battleground in defeat. For defeat is what it would be if they withdraw now. A defeat of freedom enabling the further advancement of Communism.

Possibly the day will soon come when the peoples of the world will realize the true folly of war and lay down their guns together. But until that utopia arrives; until the Communists are willing to take constructive, sincere steps towards peace, we may only hope that the forces of South Viet Nam and those aiding them will keep up their fight.

It may sound a bit bleak, but the war in Viet Nam must be won. It must not be lost. The chance of a dream that faded into oblivion.

Yellow Triangle Intriguing

LOUISE BROWN (N.C.C.)

On wall at Nicholson hung a sign: The sign said, "The Yellow Triangle, by Wassily Kandinsky",b but no triangle yellow or otherwise, could be seen. The students were intrigued by the sign and bare wall. Now that the painting of the same name has been hung, the students are even more intrigued. "What is it?" they ask.

"It" is one of the valuable prints of famous paintings donated to N.C.C. by Belleville's Catholic Leading Library. This diversified collection of paintings includes works of such artists as El Greco, Picasso, Rembrandt, and Georges Braque. There is something for everyone. Picasso fans gaze in awe at a haunting portrait of a guilt-ridden woman; more alive and pathetic each time you see the picture. Those who appreciate colorful art gaze at the merits of a sea-scape by Braque. Some pictures inspire nothing but criticism. Others are admired and appreciated. A few like "The Yellow Triangle" merely confuse.

Whether the students like or dislike the paintings is of secondary importance. What really matters is that they are aware of the pictures. Even if they do not happen to like Rousult's work, at least they know it exists, and they have seen enough to form an intelligent opinion. Thanks to the Catholic Leading Library, no Nicholson student will ever say, "El Greco? Is that a new dance?"

PCs Win Mock Battle At Quinte

Last week a 'mock' election was held at Quinte in conjunction with the Federal election. The Progressive Conservative Party lead by Terry Stoliker, was victorious over the Liberal Party lead by Lynn Harrington and the NDP under the leadership of Geoffry Roulet. Each party presented its platform in three minutes speeches and were given four minutes of rebuttal. Lord Alberstein, portrayed by a local history teacher, was moderator and referee for this political gathering. His services were of great value during the heated debate that ensued.

Deplores Canadian Reticence

WAYNE LOWRY (N.C.C.)

Recently a controversy arose over whether or not Canada should divert some of its waters into the United States under a continental water program.

There were those in the higher echelons of government who backed this proposal solidly and there were those who opposed pulling the plug on one of Canada's most vital resources. The Canadian people themselves, for the most part seemed adamant and little interested in the fact that there was a strong possibility that they would lose one of their most valuable assets.

This was, of course, not true but it did serve to point out the one great shortcoming of most Canadians — a reluctance to express an opinion. Canadians are, by nature, a reticent people who have lingered so long in the shadow of their great neighbor to the south that they have lost their initiative and ability to think for themselves. Also their opinion of themselves has been greatly lowered by the poor state of affairs existing within Canada.

Moreover, in our schools, Canadian history takes a back seat to that of United States and, in our business world, American interests control many growing industries. The result is a "quiet takeover" in Canada. And what are we, the people of Canada, doing about it? Nothing.

It's time that we woke up to the fact that we alone can make a great nation of our country. Canada's future is at stake,-we are going to sit idly by while the rug is being slowly pulled from under our feet? I hope not.

This Issue Launches Youth Page

This is the first edition of The Intelligencer's weekly Youth Page written by, for and about Belleville's youth.

Regular features will include "At The Top," with Jim Ferguson — John's top 10 Belleville hits plus the war to watch; current events, and, starting next week, Dave's Hideaway with Dave Charles, a column on the teen scene.

Every high school student is invited to submit articles through their staff representatives to be used in the Youth Page.

Articles should be typed and must be submitted by Wednesday of publication week in order to appear in Friday's Youth Page.

It is hoped the Youth Page will keep Belleville's teens informed on events effecting them and on the viewpoints of their fellow teens on specific happenings of our day.

The success, or failure, of the Youth Page depends upon you, the youth of our city. If you have views, and surely you must have, the Youth Page is a good place for you to express them.

HALLOWE'EN

PETER JONES (N.C.C.)

With a sigh of relief, the balding, paunchy man shut the door but it did serve to point out the one great shortcoming of most Canadians — a reluctance to express an opinion. Canadians are, by nature, a reticent people who have lingered so long in the shadow of their great neighbor to the south that they have lost their initiative and ability to think for themselves. Also their opinion of themselves has been greatly lowered by the poor state of affairs existing within Canada.

Moreover, in our schools, Canadian history takes a back seat to that of United States and, in our business world, American interests control many growing industries. The result is a "quiet takeover" in Canada. And what are we, the people of Canada, doing about it? Nothing.

It's time that we woke up to the fact that we alone can make a great nation of our country. Canada's future is at stake,-we are going to sit idly by while the rug is being slowly pulled from under our feet? I hope not.

With a sigh of relief, the balding, paunchy man shut the door and returned to his comfortable arm chair, and to Tolstoy's War and Peace.

Momentarily he reflected on the last evening. His dear, gentle, sweet wife had deserted him for the evening, and had left him to parcel out the mountains of goodies awaiting the confused children, who flitted from head to toe in bright colors, flitted from house to house in the crisp October night.

He settled comfortably in his chair, and picked up the voluminous book. The book held his interest for many minutes; Napoleon faced the Russians at Borodino.

He looked up, puzzled. Had he heard a minute sound, filtering through the climax of a Strauss waltz? He waited, attentively. There, it came again, a gentle, far-away knock. "Here we go again," he thought, as he advanced to the door, and mouthed a friendly smile to his aging face.

He opened the door, and gazed in wonderment. Before him stood an old woman, bent and twisted with age. Beneath a shapeless, drab hat, a long, wan face, be-warted and senile, was framed by long, loose curtains of greying black hair, knotted and twisted and greasy. A dirty-white sack disappeared into great masses of dark clothes which hung in formless folds around thin arms and bare legs. Mis-informed, knob-jointed fingers clutched possessively at a shopping bag, which overflowed with the usual variety of Hallowe'en junk. The what-ever-it-was opened its mouth, and between rotten, blackened teeth issued a voice, all the more startling because of its surroundings. It tinkled from the mouth of the speaker like the wistful, sweet call of the bugle from the carnage of the battlefield: "Trick or treat!"

"What gives?" thought the man, as he turned rather hesitatily, and procured a handful of peanuts. He turned back to the evil image, and taken by a sudden impulse, said, "O.K. Trick!"

"You'd better give me something," said the old hag, in her child's voice. "I'm a witch, you know."

The man smiled, said nothing and waited, speculatively.

It was several minutes later that three of the neighborhood children approached the door, and were surprised to see the door wide open; and on the threshold a green frog, wearing a ridiculous welcoming smile, and surrounded by scattered peanut shells.

FURNITURE SOLD

LONDON (AP)—The sale of the first of two batches of furniture from the late Sir Winston Churchill's London home brought a total of £21,166 (56,522) Thursday. Had the furniture not been Sir Winston's, experts said it would have brought about a third of that.

Sudanese Visitors Speak at Nicholson

LINDA POWELL (N.C.C.)

Two young Africans with unpronounceable names and wide, infectious grins charmed the students at Nicholson when they spoke at an October assembly.

Abdel Rahman Ahmed and Abdel Wahid Hamid were asked questions about their native Sudan by a panel of three students: Pat Whalen, Rosemary Sodtke, and Linda Powell.

Employees of the Bata Shoe Co., Ahmed and Hamid, had been two months in Canada. When they spoke about Canada they became as animated as they did about their description of their own country.

Jazz, mushroom pizzas, the fruit all seemed their enthusiasm. So did football. Ahmed attended a practise of the Nicholson team, and insisted on being photographed wearing a football helmet. Hamid was more interested in girls than in football players. In photographs, dressed in his flowing native robes, and surrounded by girls, he looks like a sheik with a Canadian harem.

Both young men came to Canada expecting to see cowboys and Indians — an idea they had picked up from television westerns. The lack of Marshal Dillon and Daniel Boones convinced them that T.V. was not always exactly true-to-life. T.V. did influence their thinking while they were in Canada, but only to the extent that all of us are influenced by modern advertising. Hamid bought jars of a recently introduced hair setting lotion to take home to his mother.

Ahmed and Hamid left Canada the day after they visited Nicholson. They were afraid they would have to leave without ever having seen snow. The morning of their departure, however, the weatherman obliged with a few snow - flurries. That gave the two young men one more wonderful memory of their stay in Canada.

Way Opened For Television In Color

OTTAWA (CP)—The way has been opened for speedy processing of applications by television stations to start broadcasting in color by mid-1966.

But the Board of Broadcast Governors, announcing the road-clearing Thursday, added a big proviso:

Conversion to color shouldn't be done at the expense of extending signals to unserved areas or of providing second service to areas where only one channel is seen.

The BBG announced it will waive the usual public hearing for color TV applications where neither of these conditions is involved. Such applications would simply be passed to the BBG from the transport department after a technical check, be given a BBG recommendation without a public hearing and be sent back.

This would avoid delaying all applications until the next public hearing of the board, set for Feb. 1.

START IN MAY

The formal start for color TV in Canada is Jan. 1, 1967. But the government has announced that a test period will start July 1, 1966 with stations allowed experimental colorcasts overnight after regular broadcasting hours.

A final publishing-up period begins Oct. 1 for color transmissions during regular hours to iron out any remaining kinks.

But the BBG said it would consider public hearings for applications where there are considerations about second service or extension of service.

Play Based on Famous Trial Is Well Presented

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Inherit The Wind is a play based on the celebrated clash between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow 40 years ago in the Scopes trial. As a television drama Thursday night it was played out in a courtroom but emerged more as a preachment on freedom of thought and of expression.

The 90-minute version of the play by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee on NBC started with a street scene in a small town on the eve of the trial of a young teacher charged with breaking a state law. He had taught his classes something of Charles Darwin's controversial theory of evolution.

The angry townsfolk were primarily fundamentalists who believed implicitly in the Bible and considered any theory of man's origin except the one set down in Genesis to be heresy.

The prosecutor in the case was called Mathew Brady, an old man at the end of a career that included running unsuccessfully for U.S. president three times. The defense lawyer was called Drummond, another old man who had spent a lifetime defending unpopular causes.

The play's climax came when Drummond, played by Melvyn Douglas, put his opponent on the witness stand as a Bible expert and proceeded to examine him furiously on his philosophy and beliefs until the witness contradicted himself.

MAN MUST THINK

The point of the play was an unsophisticated restatement of the thesis that in a free society man must be free to think for himself and to express himself and that all ideas—must have a chance to be heard.

Ed Begley, as the ailing and disappointed orator and office seeker, gave an impressive performance, by turns pompous, ridiculous and pathetic.

There was some incidental ro-

AT THE PARK — Famed country and western singer Jim Reeves, who makes his motion picture debut in the bright musical bonanza "Kimberly Jim", with Madeleine Usher and Clive Parnell showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre, on the same program in color, "Gunmen of the Rio Grande" starring Guy Madison as Wyatt Earp. Tonight complete shows at 7.00 and 8.40 p.m. Saturday continuous show from 1.00 p.m. Doors open at 12.30 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Katharine Ross makes her feature film debut as the wife of one of James Stewart's six sons, in the wonderful heartwarming picture "Shenandoah", co-starring Rosemary Forsyth, and Doug McClure, photographed in Technicolor, now in its 4 last days at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

mance between the young teacher and the daughter of the town's hell-fire and damnation minister, but the heart of the play was the struggle between the two old men and their points of view about freedom of expression.

The program moved along slowly and heavily, however, and at times was so static and talky that it seemed to be more of a two-man argument than a dramatic show.

But when a theatre-length play is chopped down to fit into television's rigid time schedules, drastic cuts must be made. And because there was no time to establish the backgrounds of the two men, the devastating examination scene failed to come off with the same electricity it had on the stage.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — James Stewart "Shenandoah", Technicolor, Doug McClure, Glenn Corbett, Patrick Wayne, Rosemary Forsyth, Katharine Ross. 2.20 - 7.20 - 9.35.

AT THE PARK — All Color Show — "Kimberley Jim", Jim Reeves, Madeleine Usher, Clive Parnell, 7.00 and "Gunmen of The Rio Grande", Guy Madison, 8.40.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Often the owner is requested to give a second mortgage because the buyer after signing the Agreement of Sale is unable to raise the necessary cash required for settlement. The following inquiry is typical of many received on this subject.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We sold our house for $20,000. The buyer gave us a $1,000 deposit and local savings and loan association agreed to give him a $15,000 mortgage. Now, three weeks before settlement the buyer informs us that he doesn't have the $4,000 to make settlement. He wants us to give him a second mortgage for $4,000. My wife and I have spent many sleepless nights arguing. What would you do? —"Scared to Confess"

ANSWER: I would insist that the buyer produce the $4,000 required for settlement. If he did not, the contract would be declared in default.

A second mortgage of $4,000 would represent too great a risk on your part, the buyer would have only a small equity in the property in a poor location or a poor condition and an adequate first mortgage could not be obtained, or the price being quoted represents a sum considerably in excess of fair value or the property.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Having been burnt once, this time I'm asking. The last time I bought a home I had to wait more than two months (beyond the date in the Agreement) to get possession. It cost me over $400 in hotel bills.

I'm about to buy my second house. I can see nothing wrong or the owner is waiting for a new house to be built. The agent is pronouncing positive for 30 days — but I doubt it. — "Stuck Once But Never Again"

ANSWER: The following procedure will almost guarantee that you will not be stuck again. Insist that the Agreement of Sale insert a penalty clause which becomes effective if possession is delayed beyond the agreed date. A penalty of $25 per day or even more is suggested.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: After only a few months, my next door neighboring shut carries a 10-year-guarantee, became pitted and the paint started to peel. I am more than a year I have been trying to get it replaced but everybody involved has simply ignored me or has listened to my complaint and has done nothing.

The home improvement company says that it is the fault of the window manufacturer. The manufacturer's representatives have looked at the job on two occasions, acknowledged that the workmanship was defective, but I have never heard from them again. I have even written to the Better Business Bureau of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau. The last advice I received was to consult an attorney and sue. I have constantly followed your column, and am impressed by the practical approach to problems. What shall I do? — "Stuck"

ANSWER: This is a case of "passing the buck" — a common way of handling home owners complaints. Normally, after a time one gives up, feeling they are helpless.

The company that manufactured the aluminum siding is a most reputable substantial firm and keenly aware of the necessity of good public relations. A personal letter to the president of the company(you are at liberty to use my name if you desire) will get you quick action. If you do this, I predict that within two weeks a company representative will be at your home making arrangements for replacement of the defective siding.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have just completed a very enjoyable season with my first boat. It's a 24-foot beauty built of mahogany and oak. Before putting it away in winter storage is any work required? — "Love Boats"

ANSWER: Boats give much enjoyment but they also require much attention. First, give your boat a thorough soap and water scrubbing to remove dirt, tar and marine growth. Then hose down the surfaces with a clear water.

It is a good idea to check for gouges, cracks or dents. Damaged areas should be repaired with a good quality compound. Sandpaper the repaired areas smooth once the compound has dried.

If the surface is in good condition, two coats of marine finish should be sufficient. If the present finish is in good condition or is not well bonded, sand it down lightly. Then, prime the bare wood, follow with a coat of sealer, sand lightly and follow with the application of marine undercoat, sand again and apply two coats of marine finish or paint. After all that work you will have the winter for rest, but your boat will now be ready for spring.

Father Paid Ransom Of $45,000

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Charles Hyde III planned to help authorities piece together likenesses today of the two men who kidnapped him for $45,000 ransom.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde, Jr., was abducted early Thursday by two men and released unharmed after the father, head of a wholesale grocery company, paid the ransom.

After the boy was kidnapped while on the way to school, the father was notified by telephone to round up the money in $5, $10, $20, $100 and $1,000 bills.

Hyde drove to a supermarket parking lot as he was ordered, to wait for a call at a pay telephone booth, and while he was there the value holdup for the cash was removed from his car.

Recalling the nine-hour night, Charles said when the captors left him in the concrete waterfront building where he had been taken, they told him they'd shoot him if he didn't stay at least 20 minutes.

Then he worked his hands loose from the tape which bound them and climbed about a half mile up, a hill where the waterfront to the home of family friends.

Late Thursday at the sheriff's office, he and an officer who specializes in composing portraits of wanted men from secret of plastic pieces tried to work out the visages of the two kidnappers. They planned to go on with their work today.

In addition, the state patrol planned to provide a slide set showing late model autos to see if Charles could point out the kind of small white compact car his abductors used.

Sunday School Lesson
Learning From Servants

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

A young girl told her pastor, "I'd read the Bible more if it were as interesting as the Reader's Digest." Everyone would agree that many modern magazines present interesting reading, but to infer that the Bible is an uninteresting book is to speak from ignorance of it. The Bible, where can one find an episode anywhere that, for sheer interest, surpasses that of Naaman?

Naaman was Commander-in-Chief of the Syrian army with an enviable record in his credit. He was famed for his valor. He was a favorite with the king. But — and the extreme tragedy of his life is introduced in the first sentence — he was a leper. Of what good were fame and fortune so long as he lived under the shadow of an incurable disease?

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 21: "Naaman", II Kings 5:1-27.

Before the story of Naaman is ended kings and prophets become involved in his life, but the star of these events is none of these. The real stars in the story are the servants, including a Hebrew maid who had been cruelly carried away from her home by Syrian captors, and who placed as a servant in Naaman's home. Here she must have found affection, for, instead of glorying in the tragedy of her master, she wanted to help him. She recommended the prophet, Elisha, and the stories of what he could do, so she said. Her words implied that what my lord were with the prophet who is in Samaria! He would cure him of his leprosy." (II Kings 5:3 RSV).

Anxious to leave no stone unturned, Naaman might head to a cure for his favorite general, is the king of Syria sent Naaman with a letter of introduction to the king of Israel. The king of Israel was frightened. He interpreted it as a trick to pick a quarrel with him by asking him to do the impossible. But Elisha came in his hour, pressed the great general simple instructions: "Go wash in the Jordan seven times, and your flesh shall be restored." (II Kings 5:10.)

HURT FRIDE

Naaman's pride was hurt. He had hoped for a dramatic miracle, and it looked as if the prophet were making sport of him. He went away in anger, saying, "I thought that he would surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the Lord his God, and wave his hand over the place, and cure the leper." (II Kings 5:11 RSV). In injured tones he raged, "Are not Abana and Pharpar, the rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? could I not wash in them, and be clean?" (II Kings 5:12 RSV).

In this case, his servants had better judgment than he. They said to him, "If the prophet had commanded you to do some great thing, would you not have done it? How much rather, then, when he says to you, 'Wash and be clean'?" (II Kings 5:13 RSV)

This made good sense, and he went and "dipped himself seven times in the Jordan," and "his flesh was restored like the flesh of a little child." (II Kings 5:14).

It may satisfy one's ego to battle in the Pharpar; that is, to do something dramatic, but most people must be content to battle in the Jordan of ordinary events. After all, most success does not come through dramatic efforts. It comes, as someone has said, by doing the ordinary thing so often and so well, that while the act is extraordinary becomes ordinary. Most people wish at times that, like Elisha, they could call down fire from heaven by their prayers. (I Kings 18:36-38) But the real power in prayer reveals itself not to those who pray spasmodically for miracles, but to those who pray daily for strength.

Most parents like to have birthday parties for their children. But dramatic gifts are no substitute for day-by-day understanding and love in turning a house into a home.

William Carey was a brilliant linguist and botanist as well as a missionary. But he did not credit his success to his genius. "I can plod," he once told his people. "I can persevere in any definite pursuit. To this I owe everything."

This is where the servants had the advantage over the General. They were accustomed to doing the common, ordinary things of life. It was not until their master had received the humility of his servants that the miracle came into his life. And this was the lesson Jesus later revealed. He was tempted by Satan to use his cause by doing the dramatic, expressed by the thought of jumping from the temple, (Matthew 4:5-6) but he knew that victory could come only by steadily worshipping and serving God.

Debate Rhodesia as Margaret Visits UN

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Malaya-Thailand debate is thrown open its doors to welcome Princess Margaret and the Earl of Dalhousie today.

The three-hour visit by the princess and her husband to the headquarters of the 177-nation organization will overshadow, for part of the day at least, the work of such subjects as disarmament and peace-keeping.

The royal party is scheduled to arrive at the UN after a visit to the Empire State Building, to have a private luncheon with Secretary - General U Thant and to attend the General Assembly.

Princess Margaret's visit to the UN comes at a time when the Security Council has before it the Rhodesian question.

Members of the 11-nation council could not agree Thursday on a compromise resolution on what action should be taken against Rhodesia's seizure of independence from Britain. Two draft resolutions were expected to take place among members before they reconvened today.

In the assembly's main political committee, the Soviet Union today called for the withdrawal of all UN peacekeeping troops from the Middle East.

URGED TALKS

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko urged the committee to "take initiatives" to possibility so that a world conference could take place before the middle of next year.

William Foster, chief U.S. disarmament negotiator, said his country would not object to

Peacekeeper Canada Serves Stern Warning On U.N. Members

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada warned the United Nations Friday that she might not participate in peacekeeping operations if efforts to negotiate settlements are not "pursued vigorously" by the governments involved in the disputes.

Paul Beaulieu, Canada's ambassador to Brazil and a member of the delegation to the UN, said "we believe that a continuing obligation rests upon the governments concerned to strive to settle their differences."

Addressing the General Assembly's special political committee during a debate on the question of peacekeeping operations, Beaulieu said:

"My government for one will find it increasingly difficult to participate in peacekeeping operations, especially those that may be financed voluntarily, if we are not at the same time convinced that efforts to negotiate a peaceful settlement are being pursued vigorously."

Canada would like to see that non-permanent members of the Security Council who make voluntary contributions to peacekeeping costs gain an "appropriate voice" on questions pertaining to peacekeeping, Beaulieu said.

Canada, as a major contributor to peacekeeping operations, feels that these contributors should have some say in initiating, financing and supervising peacekeeping operations, he added.

Beaulieu said this was important because of the difficulties that future peacekeeping will be financed on the basis of voluntary contributions.

The Canadian ambassador then called on the UN members to make voluntary contributions "to restore the United Nations to solvency."

Canada already has suggested that a pledging conference be held for this purpose, said Beaulieu, "but whether or not such a conference takes place

Crucial Meetings Called To Halt General Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Crucial meetings were to be held in British Columbia during the weekend as the time for a scheduled general strike drew closer.

Reg Clements, chief provincial conciliation officer, was to meet separately with representatives of individual oil companies and the striking oil workers union.

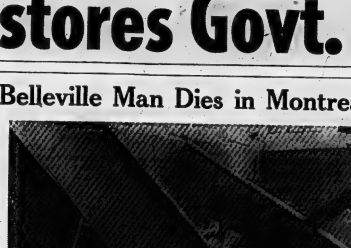
Local unions throughout the province were to consider calls for a province-wide 48-hour work stoppage to back up oil workers if they call a strike against all oil companies.

The general strike would start at midnight Wednesday when the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) has said it will extend its present strike against British American Oil Co. to all companies unless there is a settlement of its dispute.

The union has also struck a subsidiary of Imperial Oil Co. and is on strike against BA operations as far east as Ontario.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault Friday called for a special meeting of the legislature at which he said the government could bring legislation that would allow oil workers to postpone their walkout without losing the right to strike.

Mr. Clements has been working since Wednesday to reach a settlement as industry and government warned that a general strike would be illegal and costly. The parties have still to come together in face-to-face meetings.



Main dispute is the union's demand for job security. It wants 18 months' notice of technological changes, severance pay in the event of partial or complete plant shutdowns and retraining of employees whose jobs are made obsolete. The union would accept a two-year or a year's pay for every five worked.

The union is also demanding a 30-cent-an-hour wage increase over a base rate of $2.92.

Belleville Man Dies in Montreal Mishap

MONTREAL — A Belleville man was one of three killed yesterday when three huge hoppers on the barge, Cabeco 2 a mile offshore in the St. Lawrence River collapsed.

Identified as a victim was Jim Tomalty, 23, R. R. 2 Belleville — the second cousin of Sidney Tomalty.

Mr. Tomalty, father of three girls ranging in age from four to 11 years, was a native of Quebec and had lived in Belleville about 10 years.

A mechanic, he had lived at R. R. 2 — a route linking West Belleville with the road to Wallbridge — for about seven years.

At Montreal, a spokesman for the Atlas Construction Company said cause of the fatal mishap was not known.

His men, all employees of the construction firm, were working about a mile offshore at the eastern end of Montreal Island where the Lafontaine Bridge tunnel is being built across the St. Lawrence from Montreal Island to the south shore.

The hoppers, filled with 200 tons of sand, collapsed on a shack erected on the barge in which the workers were eating lunch.

Funeral service for Mr. Tomalty is scheduled for Monday in Lachute, Que.

His family, including his wife Ramona, left late yesterday for Quebec.

Mr. Tomalty's mother-in-law, Mrs. Vera Farrar and her son, George, 14, lived in an apartment in the Tomalty residence.

Loyalty Oath For Officials Also Dropped

From AP-Reuters

SALISBUR Y (CP)—A press report said today the Rhodesian government has dropped its controversial demand that all civil servants take a new loyalty oath.

The report in The Rand Daily Mail, of Johannesburg, South Africa, said Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime dropped the demand in an apparent effort to avoid any internal crisis over the issue.

Many senior officials were believed divided between loyalty to the Smith government and allegiance to the Queen. The British government has branded Smith's regime as illegal.

Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle hinted Friday there was some truth to a previous report in The Rand Daily mail that Rhodesia's nine judges had refused to swear allegiance to Smith's government. Beadle neither confirmed nor denied the report.

Beadle has been staying with British Commissioner Timothy Gibbs, the Queen's representative in Rhodesia, who has remained in the country despite Smith's order to vacate it.

The rebel government restored a police guard to Government House after disclosing that Gibbs had received four threatening letters. Smith himself reported the threats in a radio broadcast.

He had previously removed the guard of white and black policemen as part of his harassment of Gibbs.

BLASTS FACTORY

An explosion blasted machinery in a clothing factory at Balawayo Friday night—the city's second bomb incident in a week of racial tension.

An explosion Wednesday caused considerable damage to the Bulawayo city centre, but no one was injured.

The bomb incidents came after several attempts by African nationalists in the last week to organize a general strike by Africans, to protest the seizure of independence from Britain by Prime Minister Ian Smith's

New UN Rhodesia Motion

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Two Latin - American nations sought support today for a compromise plan on rebel Rhodesia in an effort to break the deadlock between Britain and the African states that has paralyzed the UN Security Council.

The council called for an emergency session today to act on the resolution introduced Friday night by Uruguay and Bolivia.

The resolution asked the 11-nation council to call for a world - wide oil - and - arms embargo against Rhodesia and urged Britain to "quell the rebellion" of Rhodesia's white-minority regime.

The resolution makes no mention of the Africans' controversial demand for military force but it leaves the door open for such a step by calling the council to keep the issue

Foreign Aid Not Lifted

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's proposed 1966-67 foreign aid appropriations have been sent to the cabinet for approval but no significant change from the last two years is expected, informants said Friday.

In the 1964-65 and 1965-66 fiscal years, the Canadian foreign aid program amounted to some $225,000,000, monthly loans. The 1965-66 program has not yet been approved by Parliament, scheduled to reconvene Jan. 18 after a summer vacation and a fall election.

External Affairs Minister Martin told the commons external affairs committee June 29 that the government hopes to increase foreign aid to $400,000,000 by 1970.

Informants indicated that no advance of this goal will be made in the coming 1966-67 fiscal year, which begins April 1.

Though no significant change is the financial allotment is contemplated, there may be one fairly significant change in the form Canadian aid takes.

The possibility of Canada equipping and staffing a chil-

U.S. Adhering to Policy Of No-nuclear Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is adhering to a no-nuclear-weapons policy in fighting the war in Viet Nam, military ground-fighting gains, wave and conventional bombs remain the tools for land battles in the south and air attacks for striking the north.

Because the matter is so politically and militarily sensitive, administration officials decline to discuss it. But there clearly has been no shift from its officially stated view that nuclear weapons do not figure in current strategy because

An explosion in the world of delicately balanced international relations could outweigh the use of nuclear weapons in the Viet Nam war, and military leaders believe nuclear weapons don't fit the needs of the war.

There is, however, another aspect to U.S. policy on use of nuclear weapons as defined by top officials: if in another conflict a situation arises requiring their use, they will be used.

Defence Secretary McNamara, they recently have emphasized this. In testifying before a congressional committee earlier this year, the official chief of the armed forces put it this way:

"There has been no senior official, military or civilian, of this government that I am aware of that has indicated that we have any policy restricting our use of nuclear weapons in any situation in the world, when we believe it is desirable to use them in our own interest. I think if there is any misunderstanding on that point it should be eliminated."

Nootheless, both President Johnson and McNamara have sought to scotch any idea that nuclear weapons might be resorted to for quick victory in Viet Nam.

The basis of Washington's concern about the impact of nuclear weapon use in Viet Nam is two-fold:

1. The possible if not probable reaction of other countries, neither involved in the Southeast Asia problem nor themselves having nuclear capability.

2. The much more immediate concern about the reaction of the two big Communist-powers, the Soviet Union and China, if atomic fire-power were turned on the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Communists operating in South Viet Nam or on targets in North Viet Nam.

The U.S.S.R. and China, recently cool toward each other, might feel compelled to go to the direct military support of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese if the U.S. used firepower against them —or even if it seemed imminent.

'U.S. Will Absorb Us' -- Douglas

SASKATOON, Sask. (CP)— Political union of Canada with the United States will follow if union is not halted, T. C. Douglas said Friday.

The former Democratic Party national leader was keynote speaker as the three-day annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Co - operative Commonwealth Federation section of the NDP ended. He said Canada is in danger of losing its position as a sovereign nation.

"Economic power . . . would mean Canada would become a

Princess Delights Admirers In 'Twist' With Her Husband

NEW YORK (AP)—The Earl of Snowdon urged his tiny Princess on to a crowded dance floor, snapped his fingers and coaxed softly: "Come on, come on—swing."

The laughing Princess obliged with a slight twist, blushed, then stopped as a tall blonde admirer cut in.

Admirers were treated on Friday night's charity ball for the Winston Churchill Foundation, Princess Margaret's biggest function during her New York visit.

Several hundred persons who braved chilly rain to watch her arrival at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel applauded wildly as she stepped from her limousine on to a red carpet and was rushed to a private reception inside.

Guests at the ball were just as enthusiastic when Lord Snowdon and the Princess left their chairs in the middle of the fish course, walked off the stage and swung into a waltz.

Part-way across the ballroom floor, Snowdon turned and waved his hands saying: "Hey, everyone dance now."

About 400 took to the floor.

It was a merry evening in the tiered, candle-lit ballroom and the hostess said she was having a "wonderful dance, thank you."

New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller whisked Princess Margaret to the floor for 10 minutes of two-stepping during which time the Princess was often lost in the crowd save for her diamond tiara.

She wore a sky-blue organza gown that matched her eyes. Designed by Norman Hartnell it was heavily embroidered with crystal and blue-satin stitch.

Handsome 28-year-old Prince

Today's Chuckle

One thing we know about the speed of light — it gets here too early in the morning.

Amyn Aga Kahn, brother of Karim Kahn, stole the Princess for several dances too, as did W. Chester Hawkins and Charles Wallis, also old friends.

Sometime after midnight, Snowdon stopped in the middle of the floor, looked at his feet, and said he thought they were "getting flat."

The 1,200 consumed 3,000 pounds of beef, 900 pounds of fish, 120 pounds of turtle meat in soup, 350 pounds of string beans and 800 bottles of imported French wine.

Well - fed and sleepy, the royal couple left the dance shortly before 1 a.m. Their day had been busy: A bomb scare at the Empire State building, an African boycott at the United Nations reception and a tour of British government offices.

The weekend is jammed with private parties, luncheons, tours and official visits. Their 30-day cross-country visit ends next Wednesday.

Miss Canada Sixth British Beauty Beats World -- Foreigners Say It's Beastly!

LONDON (CP) — A controversy stirred today among foreign beauty-queen promoters over a British victory in the Miss World contest Friday night for the third time in five years.

The winner, Miss United Kingdom, 21 - year - old Lesley Langley, was chosen by an international panel of judges in the British - staged annual contest.

Miss Dominion of Canada, 18-year-old Carol Ann Tidey of Hamilton, placed among the seven finalists, Canada's best showing to date in the contest.

Dianno Lyn Batts, 19-year-old Miss U.S.A. placed second prompting American promoter Alfred Patricelli to say:

"I fully expected Dianne to win. This really looks bad with three British girls winning now in five years. The chances against this happening are astronomical."

The other officially announced placings were: third, Miss Ireland, Gladys Waller, 21; fourth, Miss Austria, Ingrid Kopecky, 21, and fifth, Miss Tahiti, Marie Lise Ly.

Leslie Bunting, Miss Rhodesia, was the other finalist. It wasn't announced whether she or Miss Tidey placed sixth. They were left standing forlorn in the wings at the Lyceum Theatre.

Miss Langley, a blonde model who had a small part in the James Bond movie Goldfinger, said: "Because I did not have a chance, everyone said the judges would be afraid to pick

City Water Is Now Being Fluoridated

Possibly not too many local residents noticed the difference, but the Belleville Public Utilities is now fluoridating the city water supply.

Utility Manager E. L. Burnham said today that the fluoride was being added to the water in the form of liquid Hydrofluosilicic acid at the ratio of one part chemical to a million parts of water.

City residents voted for fluoridation of the city water supply in last year's municipal election.

Although the equipment is in operation, the commission still lacks the facilities to store the chemical in large quantities and as a result it is costing about double the price for which it could be purchased in bulk quantities.

Gore and Storie, consulting engineers for the commission, are currently drawing plans for a new chemical building and it is expected tenders for the structure will be called in the near future.

The new chemical building will provide storage facilities enabling the commission to make bulk purchases of the fluoridating chemical.

periphery to supply raw materials to feed a great insatiable industrial machine. We would become the drawers of water and the hewers of wood."

He added Canada is building a richer society through a monsale of peoples and cultures. The American concept of society, places people of all origins into a single American mould.

As part of the United States, Canada could not make a contribution to world affairs, the former CCF premier of Saskatchewan said.

"World powers such as the United States need friends who can speak out bluntly to them on their foreign policies in the way Canada has done on occasions."

Mr. Douglas stressed that this did not mean anti-Americanism. He said the concept of economic and political union was being forced on Canadians by the nation's rapidly-growing trade deficit.

A resolution asking governments to seek an end to "American armed interference" in the internal affairs of other nations failed to gain approval by the more than 500 delegates.

MOTION CHANGED

After a brief but heated discussion on the motion was reworded to ask the NDP to urge world governments to seek an end to armed intervention by "all nations."

Delegates backed a motion opposing the "military tactics being used in Viet Nam." The resolution asked withdrawal of all forces with the exception of a United Nations peace-making and peace-keeping force.

The same resolution asked the Canadian government to seek an end to hostilities in Viet Nam and said the Vietnamese have the right to choose their own form of government.

Southern Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence was condemned in another resolution. The motion backed economic sanctions and said that if forcible intervention is found necessary, it should be carried out by the UN.

be the preferred method of financing peacekeeping operations and particularly so for those operations authorized by the Security Council.

SHOULD PAY

"It is right and proper for the Security Council to have the primary responsibility for decision to establish peacekeeping operations," said Beaulieu, "it is equally to be expected that the members of the council and especially the permanent members should pay an appropriate share of the cost."

Beaulieu said that Canada agrees that the 11-nation Security Council must continue to exercise its primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security.

But, he said, Canada cannot accept that, in the absence of agreement among the members of the council, the UN should be prevented from recommending measures to maintain or restore peace.

"In these circumstances," he said, Canada considers that membership as a whole must have an opportunity to recommend what is to be done."

Informants have said the body of Garneau, with head, hands and feet severed, is lying buried near an unidentified village in the Lake St. John area north of Quebec City.

Three of the bodies have been found in the Quebec City region and that of Chandonnet was dug up near Sherbrooke.

LOOK FOR OTHERS

In addition to Garneau's body, police are also looking for those of Maurice Gingras and Paul Nadeau of Quebec City. It is believed that Gingras' body is buried near St. Ferdinand and that of Nadeau near St. Nicholas, both in the vicinity of Quebec City.

Four men have been held criminally responsible at a coroner's inquest for the slayings of the already-recovered victimes.

They are Andre Lamothe, 41, Quebec City, a lumber merchant, Jean-Jacques Gagnon, 33, a Montreal accountant, Ovila Boutet, 52, and Fernand Quirion, 43, both of Quebec City.

The search of the Lake St. John area is expected to be made difficult by the snow which was dumped in the area by a snowstorm this week.

The source said that a fifth and unnamed person has been taken into custody and that it was this person who was leading the police to Garneau's remains.

A justice department source said that a coroner's inquest in connection with Garneau's death will be held next week.

A government statement said today that all the 387 tribal chiefs and headmen of Rhodesia had approved their support of Smith's white government in its declaration of independence.

W. H. Nicolle, the British internal affairs, had in four days this week met with all the chiefs and headmen and represent the 3,500,000 Africans living in the tribal land of Rhodesia, the statement said.

Robert Strachan, New Democratic Party opposition leader, declined in an interview to say whether he supported a general strike.

He said: "It's not a question of supporting it. If it happens— and I hope it won't—I'll have to examine my position. I don't want to indulge in hypothetical situations at this time."

He said it is utter nonsense to say a general strike would wreck the economy.

Believe Blast Occurred in Toilet Bowl

VANCOUVER (CP) — A department of transport investigator said Friday "something foreign to the aircraft" appeared to have caused an explosive that resulted in the crash of a DC-8B and the death of 52 persons last July 8.

John Love testified after a beaming woman told of finding a man in the Canadian Pacific Airlines plane just 70 minutes before it took off on its ill-fated trip.

Mr. Love and Mrs. Hubert C. Eldred were testifying at an inquest into the deaths in the crash near 100 Mile House, B.C.

Mr. Love said a toilet bowl in the rear of the plane was so fluttened that it was apparent it was the source of the explosion that wrecked the tail section.

THERE'S NO DOUBT

"Our investigations seem to show no doubt that the explosion was caused by something foreign to the aircraft," he said. "It is apparent that nothing from the fuel or heating system or any other system of the aircraft could have caused a blast with that velocity."

He said investigators had also ruled out the possibility of somebody being in the toilet at the time of the blast.

Employment News

During the past week the employment picture in the area served by the Belleville National Employment Service Office, continued to show a strong labor demand. This trend was reflected in the number and variety of employment opportunities listed by employers at the Belleville office.

Although the construction field spearheads this labor demand, it is to be noted that a further strengthening effect has been an increased demand from the industrial and service enterprises. It is also gratifying to observe that for the second consecutive week the demand for the female worker displays an uptrend.

Three Municipal Winter Works Projects are currently in progress and assisting in combatting local unemployment.

The following job opportunities represent only a few of those now available at your local NES. office.

In the female division locally is sales lady experienced in filing and selling better grade shoes is required on a part-time basis. An opening exists for a qualified seamstress, who is experienced in alterations. Needed in this area, at all times, are mature reliable women who are interested in, and capable of doing various domestic duties as general maids and companions. There is also a continuing demand for conscientious women interested in taking care of small children. For women over 21 years of age, well groomed and personable, there are several positions as waitresses. An interesting opportunity is available in Ottawa for a qualified Commercial Artist to do advertising illustrations for a well known department store. A World Wide Airline Company requires a clerk-typist to work in Northern Manitoba. At least six months experience is essential and it is preferred that the successful applicant be single and between 19 to 30 years of age. An attractive wage rate is offered for this position.

MANY OPPORTUNITIES

In the male division locally there are numerous job opportunities in industry or the transportation and communication field for those men possessing at least a Grade 10 education. Some positions call for a six months training period during which time the trainees are paid a monthly salary.

There is also a constant demand for young men possessing Grade 12 or better education for career positions in financial and industrial organizations not only locally but elsewhere throughout Canada.

An excellent opening is available in a branch of a Canadian-United Kingdom organization for a keen young trainee. The applicant must possess grade 12 or better with a preferred age range of 20 to 23 years. A sales person is required by a department store to sell only soft plumbing and heating items but be qualified to also do job estimates.

Several openings are available as hospital orderlies. In demand also is an experienced automobile salesman and a salesman for a men's clothing retail store. A world wide mining company is sending a representative to the local NES Office on November 26 to interview any number of men desiring to work as either miners or smelter workers. This is permanent employment. Experience is not necessary, education requirements all for the applicants to be literate and between 19 to 30 years.

Both workers seeking employment and employer seeking workers are invited to contact the local National Employment Service Office at 324 Church St. Belleville, or telephone 962-8681.

Accused Did Not Recall Some Evidence

QUEBEC (CP)—Moise Darabaner testified Friday he did not recall a portion of the evidence the Crown said he gave during a Superior Court bankruptcy hearing last March.

Darabaner, 43, a Quebec City businessman, testified in his own behalf during his trial on charges of defrauding and conspiring to defraud Miss Rachel Smiley and Junior Holdings Co., a small investment firm of which she is president.

The current trial, in which the charges involve about $115,000, came to an end with the Friday session.

Presiding Judge Cyrille Potvin set Dec. 22 as the date by which lawyers for the Crown and defence must submit their written arguments.

Darabaner repeatedly denied that he knew Miss Smiley had been defrauded by Gaston Constantin.

Constantin, a key witness for the Crown in the case, faces the same charges as does Darabaner. Constantin has said both he and Darabaner conceived the idea of defrauding Miss Smiley.

Darabaner testified Constantin never worked for his (Darabaner's) loan company, Aide Universelle, and that he had never been paid anything by the company.

Westinghouse Workers Will Return to Work

BRANTFORD (CP) — Striking workers at the Canadian Westinghouse plant here agreed Friday to return to work Monday.

Glen Pattinson, president of Local 555 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CLC), said the company promised no disciplinary action for the strike except in his own case.

The strike of 187 of the plant's 230 workers began Wednesday in support of Mr. Pattinson who had been sent home by the company the previous day for his refusal to submit to a time study of his work as a technician.

Mr. Pattinson said he is not to return to work until the company reviews his case.

RCMP Supt. Will Address Canadian Club

"The R.C.M.P. in the North" will be the topic when Supt. William George Fraser of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police addresses the Canadian Club of Belleville and district at a meeting to be held this coming Tuesday evening in Sir Winston Churchill School at 8.15.

Supt. Fraser till recently was the officer commanding "G" Division of the R.C.M. Police, the division responsible for the policing of the entire Canadian Arctic which included the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory.

The speaker joined the RCM Police in the summer of 1931 and upon conclusion of recruit training was immediately posted to Eastern Arctic, where during that service he was one of the search parties who went out seeking the whereabouts of the German expedition.

In 1944, Supt. Fraser was detailed as personal bodyguard for Sir Winston Churchill during his time at the second Quebec Conference with Mr. Roosevelt.

Upon Confederation of Newfoundland with Canada on April 1, 1948, Supt. Fraser was posted to that division and remained there for slightly over three years as officer in charge, Criminal Investigation Branch.

Mr. Fraser who has just completed a year's course at the Imperial Defence College, London, is now in the RCMP Criminal Investigation Branch.

New Reeve And Deputy In Tyendinaga

Tyendinaga township has a new reeve and deputy reeve, but there still will be an election next week for school board and a new nomination meeting will have to be called to fill a vacant seat on municipal council.

As result of this week's nomination meeting Deputy Reeve Delbert Harvey has been acclaimed reeve for next year, while councillor Carman Gibson steps up to the office of deputy reeve.

John McFarlane, William Sexsmith and Stephen Geneja will fight it out for the two seats on the township school board.

Only two men, William Cooney and Leonard Walsh, qualified for the three open seats on council.

Moira Authority to Preserve Century Old Log Schoolhouse

A century old log schoolhouse in Elzevir township five miles north of Actinolite is to be preserved for posterity by the Moira River Conservation Authority.

The old schoolhouse, unused for classes since 1915, will be torn down and re-erected at O'Hara's Mill northwest of Actinolite as a further historic attraction to the sawmill site which each year draws hundreds of visitors.

The building was donated to the Authority by Elzevir township.

Elzevir township clerk Lloyd Price of Actinolite says the old log school situated at what is locally known as Johnson's Corners was built about 1865 and was used for classes until 1915 when a new frame school was erected.

USED AS WOODSHED

The old log school continued to serve in good stead, however, and until five years ago was in use as a woodshed.

But with the modern day school centralization programs, the "new" 1915 Elzevir frame school has now also gone into disuse with pupils for the past five years being transported by bus to a central school at Actinolite.

The old log school at Johnston's Corners is now in a bad state of disrepair with a leaky roof and doors and windows missing.

The doors and windows will be replaced; old blackboards, slates and other school equipment of the era will be acquired and the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area will have another interesting relic of the past.

Cocktail Lounge Vote

Belleville citizens will have an opportunity on Monday to vote on whether liquor may be sold under a lounge or cocktail bar license. In the last vote—in September 1962—the result was slightly less than the required 60 per cent. On the other hand a dining room license was approved by a narrow margin.

The vote is an important one, affecting the rights of a large number of citizens. That there is a considerable body of opinion opposed to cocktail lounges in Belleville is well known. In 1962 their vote was sufficient to negate the 59.3 per cent who voted in favor. Then as now, they are entitled to their opinion. However, in the interim period, the population has increased and this could make a difference on Monday.

The 1962 vote moreover was not a true reflection of citizens' views. On that occasion only 10,176 people, or 51 per cent cast their votes. Yet we feel the issue is one demanding a greater response from the voting public. It involves not only the right to say "No" but also the right of those who feel they should be able to patronize cocktail lounges, just as beer drinkers have the opportunity to indulge their preference. It involves the tourist business which stands to gain if a cocktail licence is granted.

Where cocktail bars exist in Ontario they are conducted in a civilized and orderly manner. They are frequented habitually by the orderly people. There is no evidence that these lounges encourage alcoholism in any marked degree, and none to suggest that young people are habitual users of such establishments, even if they could afford them.

A large turnout of voters is the best arbiter in this matter. The opportunity presents itself once again Monday and it is the ballot, the democratic process, that will decide.

Rhodesian Censorship

Premier Smith of Rhodesia has cast further doubt on the legality of his administration by imposing a censorship on news media.

While he says censorship will be ended in "the shortest possible time," Smith betrays the weakness of his position with the statement: "I reluctantly accept censorship as a necessary evil."

As the title of world opinion mounts against Rhodesia it has ceased to perturb Ian Smoe Smith will end such restrictions. As in South Africa, government control will likely be tightened still further. This would entail restrictions on newspaper content and an end to freedom of speech.

Some idea of what may be in store for Rhodesia in this regard is the banning of the current issue of Time magazine—the first since independence.

But censorship is not a new development in Rhodesia, and it is this fact that casts further doubt on the probity of Mr. Smith's assertion that censorship will be ended as soon as possible.

Reports from Salisbury refer for example to "government censors." This would suggest these gentlemen have been in office for some time. And just what self-respecting newspapers think of them is made only too clear by an encounter between Sidney Swadel, Scots-born editor of the Bulawayo Chronicle and chief government censor Ivor Benson.

Swadel ordered Benson out of the editorial room last Wednesday night. "Get out of my office and never let me see you here again," said Swadel. "Get out at the double."

Incredible as it may seem, the censors have their own room in the building where all news and views have to be passed before they can be published. This fact, not to mention the Bulawayo editor's confrontation of the chief censor suggests that the job of censor in Rhodesia is a well-established one.

Viet Nam War Grinds On

The old axiom that war "is hell" has been proved over and over again in the fighting in Vietnam. Combat troops and civilians alike have suffered in appalling fashion in this as in no other war.

And still it goes on. An American airmobile battalion suffered grievous losses in a fearsome ambush in the Chu Prong foothills the other day. A staff-sergeant who survived said fire seemed to come at his men from all sides, above and below ground and all round them. When it was all over bodies were piled high, as many as 15 to 20 lying on top of each other. There were the screams of the dying and a badly-wounded U.S. lieutenant pleaded to be shot dead so he would not fall into enemy hands.

Americans and North Vietnamese lay side by side where they had died together in close combat.

How long both sides can continue to suffer such terrible losses is problematical. At this point no end is in sight. The North Vietnamese say they will fight on for years and that, in the doubtful event of negotiations, is the prospect Americans must face, too.

Forget Those Stupid Old Wives Tales

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I need help desperately. When I was pregnant the first time a close friend did her best to scare me to death. She believes all the old wives' tales that ever existed, and she did her best to make me believe them, too.

Now I'm expecting again. She just won't leave me alone. Please print something about these old wives' tales. If I could show her something written by you, I think it would help. — Mrs. N. F.

It would probably be a public service if somebody would compile a list of "Things Not to Believe about Pregnancy." But there are so many unfounded stories that it would be a whopping job to compile a representative collection of them.

Why some people delight in such a morbid hobby as peddling misinformation is beyond understanding. Beyond mine, anyway. Half a century ago, of course childbirth was a considerable hazard for both mother and child and the causes of trouble were less understood.

Today the number of infant deaths in the first month (by far the most dangerous period for babies) has been cut in half since 1920. In the same interval, maternal deaths have also declined to a great extent.

The principal risk is to women who get medical help only when they baby is about due to be born. The safe way is for them to consult a physician as soon as they think they are pregnant.

You don't say, Mrs. N.F., just what kind of scare stories you are being told. There are any number of wheezers about a baby being marked, one of them true. No baby is born with "strawberry marks" because the mother ate strawberries, or is deformed because mother saw a re-run of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." The rest of the crafty fairy tales are in the same category — just stupid.

Now it seems to me that pregnancy is a time when the mother-to-be deserves to be pitied and served, and what pleasure anyone could derive from trying to make her needlessly frightened or apprehensive escapes me.

It's all of a parcel with the way some people find sick-minded pleasures in telling a person about to have an operation about all the horrible things that might happen, instead of all the good things that do happen.

Smallpox and polio were conquered much more expeditiously than we can solve the problems of these crepe hangers. I don't know how to shut them up, except to stop seeing someone who behaves like that; or (b) laugh her out of it; or (c) be plain spoken: "But my doctor told me he had heard that story and there was absolutely no truth to it. How did you ever swallow such nonsense?"

Dear Dr. Molner: What effect would a considerable number of x-rays (taken before the third month of pregnancy) have on the baby? X-rays such as of teeth, or other parts of the body, like arms or legs. — Mrs. E. S.

Doubtless no effect. X-rays of the teeth or arms or legs do not reach the baby anyway. But when other X-rays are required the slight dancer, if any, of exposing the baby is many times overbalanced by the mother's needs.

Mrs. M. O.: "Encephalitis" means pain in the head. A "lumbar puncture" means a puncture (a very tiny one) in the lower part of the spine, to get a sample of fluids. This often is an extremely useful and important test.

Cocktail Lounge Vote on Monday

Editor,
Intelligencer,

In the discussion taking place over the radio and elsewhere concerning the voting on Monday next, many think "no" is not the answer, but is "yes" the answer?

It is a personal decision to be sure, but if one has to watch a member of the family become an alcoholic, or the little family of existing parents destroyed before they have had a chance to live, one would say "no" in stronger terms do not make it easier but more difficult if possible.

A woman from Europe said it was much better where they came from, as here in Canada no one either drinks in excess or does not touch it. She did not tell me what I found out later that her husband drove the family out by his excessive drinking at times. Also to see the police throw a man in their car who was as helpless as a bag of grain would lead to believe we are descending to the category of the dumb-animals.

Those who can drink or leave it alone are not competent to judge what should be done for the large majority who cannot resist it. Prohibition has been much condemned, but our young people are being raised where liquor is easy to get as never before. May the decisions we make be the right ones.

A Constant Reader.

Dead-end Election Revived "Rock the Roof" Oratory

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — So alright, go ahead — call the election a miserable re-run of the same dreary old stand-off, all a great big dun-colored drag, a slab of boredom 13,000 miles wide, a yawn lasting two months.

But say this for it, too — it produced a revival of the fine old-fashioned art of full-blown political oratory that now may survive even the deadening influence of the House of Commons.

Up until the politicians started hitting the hustings in all but annual revivals of the great campaign show, the technique of talking off the top of the head from the public platform had been pretty well lost in the electronic shuffle.

Years of leaning on the artificial strength of the transistor and the false authority of the microphone — which together transformed the weakest and most uncertain voice into a veritable trumpet, seemed to have muted the vocal chorus of most of the political performers.

But those nine weeks of stumping up and down the land, often in places where electronics either weren't always available or entirely dependable, have given the orators new self-confidence in their lung-power.

They've got muscles on the muscles of their larynx now.

And when they move in for the kill into the Commons, the amplifiers of the public address system will have to be tuned down to a lullaby level or the vocal athletes will be blowing the roof off Parliament's new circular stone Centre Block.

Most sensationally loud of the platform performers of the last Caouette who, single-handed, salvaged nine Creditistes from the wreckage that happened to all hands, even the vaunted Liberals, in Quebec.

Man, is they say, Caouette is real — real fortissimo.

With gestures, looking for all the world like some bi-ped crossbreeding between a farm windmill and a rig pumping oil.

And get a load of that Donnie MacInnis, the Tory pole and many other indestructible accepted them as quite genuine. In 1770 Chatterton went to London, where he found literary success and financial disaster. He committed suicide by taking arsenic three months before his 18th birthday.

Auto Safety

Toledo Blade

Instead of dragging its heels in regard to safety until it is faced with the possibility of congressional action, the auto industry ought to devote more of its vast resources and know-how to finding ways to build more safety into its lines. After all, if United States car makers can all decide within a few weeks in mid-1965 that such things as padded panels, dual brakes and backup lights are suddenly to be standard equipment, why could they not have begun research and time-tabulation to say 1955 or earlier?

Auto Junk Spoils View

Victoria Times

Vermont, which counts heavily on its scenic attractions for tourist appeal, faces a problem.

It has, says the Christian Science Monitor, 600,000 people, 350,000 cow sand 200,00 junk cars.

The cows are declining in number, the human population is creeping up, and the number of cars on the road and coming off the road is growing at a rate of 20,000 a year.

The "boneyards" are spoiling the looks of the countryside.

Because it would cost about $500,000 to haul the wrecks away and convert them into scrap iron, some other method of disposal is being sought.

The problem is exaggerated in Vermont, but the New England states have an monopoly in this particular field.

Throughout various parts of this continent similar junkpiles of abandoned cars are growing.

Before the touring public finds that it can't see the country for the old fenders, it might be wise to devise some system of ridding communities of this pressed steel junk—or establish some regulation that will assure old Betsy decent interment when her rolling days are done.

The Women in Their Lives

Lethbridge Herald

A New York writer urges young girls to think carefully before they say "no" to a marriage proposal. She says his story is full of girls whose rejected suitors went on to fame and fortune. Take a good look at some of the famous ones she mentions and decide just how high they would rate as marriage risks.

Elifson Bagbie rejected the Scottish poet, Robbie Burns. He died penniless, a victim of being jailed for debt, after a long sickness, while in middle life. Of his marital fidelity and domestic devotion there is considerable debate.

The girl who rejected Sir Walter Scott was not entirely unfortunate. He had lengthy spells of incapacitating sickness, undertook — in addition to his successful literary production — the office of sheriff, sleeping-partner in a printing concern, and clan chieftain. The last years of his life were spent in an heroic effort to repay bankruptcy debts.

Magdalena Willmann refused the hand of Beethoven, but was a mere distraction. He was temperamental husband would have been hard to find, combining moroseness and bad management in money matters. She could not have failed to have known his tragic deafness, overtook him.

What kind of husband would Poe be? Irritating, irresponsible, imprevident, social rebel permit of Walden Pond, David Thoreau have made? Margaret Chaworth did not marry Byron, showing remarkably good sense. He wrote her lurid poetry, became involved in numberless love affairs, and left an enviable name. He had a marry a lovely girl — who first rejected him then changed her mind — and he abused her badly so that she thought him mad. He, too, had money problems. Finally he turned her out of the house and Byron was exiled by London society.

Tchaikovsky was desperately in love with Desiree Artot, but married Nadejda instead, saying someone else. He turned to music for consolation. He had a fantastic "love affair" by correspondence with Mme. von Meck, whom he never met, but who supported him for years. He married Antonina Ivanovna Milykova, but his morbid, erratic nature broke that up in three months.

One might lengthen this list indefinitely. Whittier, in sentimental fashion, wrote of a judge's son who spied Maud Muller reaping the meadow sweet with her. Entranced by the glad surprise that leaped out from her long-lashed hazel eyes, he almost proposed to her. Whittier laments, "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, The saddest are these: "It might have been"."

The New Math

Seattle Post-Intelligencer

The New Math was introduced to make it impossible for parents to help their children with homework. Trouble is, the system is so complicated he can't get much help from his teachers either.

The methodology behind New Math is as involved as the figuring a Democratic Gain to advance her budget.

In fact, the New Math was first developed by a woman who was trying to lie about her age.

Our quarrel with the new-fangled system is that you no longer can solved mathematical problems by counting on your toes, fingers.

The purpose of the New Math is to confuse folks so they'll have no easy breakdowns as computers do.

Vancouver's Grave Is Neglected

Vancouver Sun

A widely-travelled Californian of cosmopolitan experience calls attention to the melancholy and neglected state of Capt. George Vancouver's grave in Petersham, Surrey, England.

Capt. Sabel acknowledges the efforts of Post No. 2 of the Native Sons of British Columbia to mark and maintain it.

But he finds them inadequate either to inform the visitor or preserve the memory of this remarkable man.

His criticisms are valid. It is a shame to the city of Vancouver, to the province of British Columbia and to the Dominion of Canada that no better memorial is provided.

For Capt. Vancouver was much more than merely an early visitor to the site of this city and the man after whom it was named.

As one of Cook's midshipmen, in 1778 he was a member of the group who were the first white men to set foot on the soil of British Columbia. This was the beginning of his training for a greater role.

Fourteen years before the vessels under his command carried out the first meticulous survey of the coast and now the coasts of northwestern United States, British Columbia and Alaska bear the marks of this region are still based on these surveys.

He may also have been the first white man to set foot on what is now Vancouver, having probably been preceded the previous year by the Spaniards Narvaez and Verdia.

But his explorations made this coast safely accessible to oceanic commerce. His excellent diplomatic relations with the Spaniards at Nootka facilitated its transference to Great Britain. His voluminous and popular published journal a first drew the attention of the world to this region.

Without his work, British Columbia might well be another British, nor British Columbia, nor part of Canada today. His achievements were peerless, useful, enduring and made him one of the greatest of the great explorers who adorn the history of the Royal Navy.

The City of Vancouver alone should well afford to mark his grave in such a manner that it calls these feats to the attention of the generations which still benefit from them.

But as long as this is not done, the debt is still owed and the shame must be shared by the province and the nation, as well as by his namesake, city.

Stories of Famous Hymns

"TELL ME THE OLD, OLD STORY"

Tell me the old, old story,
Of unseen things above,
Of Jesus and His glory,
Of Jesus and His love.
Tell me the story simply,
As to a little child,
For I am weak and weary,
And helpless and defiled.

Tell me the story softly
With earnest tones and grave;
Remember, I'm the sinner
Whom Jesus came to save.
Tell me the story always,
If you would really be,
In any time of trouble,
A comforter to me.

Tell me the old, old story
When you have cause to fear
That this world's empty glory
Is costing me too dear
Yes, and when that world's glory
Is dawning on my soul,
Tell me the old, old story:
"Christ Jesus makes thee whole."

CHORUS:
Tell me the old, old story,
Tell me the old, old story,
Tell me the old, old story,
Of Jesus and His love.

Some of the sweetest songs of the Church have been written in hours of faith-testing sorrow and tribulation. It was so with Katherine Hankey's hymn, "Tell Me the Old, Old Story."

Miss Hankey, the daughter of an English banker, composed the verses of her hymn while convalescing from an illness which had kept her in bed for many months. Grateful for her recovery, she spent many hours with her Bible and, as a result of her readings, she wrote some watered meditations on the life of Jesus.

It was from these writings that she developed the poem from which her illness were taken. Her song of devotion was very lengthy (it is said that she began it in January and did not finish it until late in year) and was in two parts. The first part was entitled "The Story Wanted," and the second — a sequel or answer — was named "The Story Told."

From the first half of her poem, Miss Hankey's hymn "Tell Me The Old, Old Story," was taken. The last half provide material for her second hymn, "I Love to Tell the Story."

In 1867, a year or two after both hymns made their appearance in "Heart to Heart," a little volume published by Miss Hankey, William H. Doane the composer heard the verses of "Tell Me the Old, Old Story" read at an international YMCA convention in Montreal, Canada. The sentiment of the hymn so moved him that he took a copy of the stanzas with him when, a few days later, he went to the White Mountains for a vacation.

It was during this outing that he composed the tune which helped to carry the hymn into universal favor. The music for "I Love To Tell the Story" was written in 1869 by William Gustavus Fischer, a Baltimore piano dealer.

Poetry Quells Storm Says Lecturer

KITCHENER (CP) — Philip Burton predicts the marriage between his stepson, actor Richard Burton, and Elizabeth Taylor will last.

Mr. Burton, a drama instructor who is on a Canadian lecture tour, said in an interview Friday Miss Taylor is a wonderful daughter-in-law and he doesn't foresee any sneakup in her marriage.

"She is a wonderful woman," Mr. Burton said Friday after lecturing at the University of Waterloo. "They are very happy together."

He admitted the couple quarrel like anyone else but added that poetry quells the storm.

He said the last time he saw them they had "a bit of a row" and he was embarrassed but thought of a line from Tennyson: "Blessing on the falling out that all the more endears."

"I quoted it and both Richard and Elizabeth burst out laughing. The row was over."

Quints' Home In Callandar Up for Sale

NORTH BAY (CP)—The Dionne quintuplets' former home on the Corbeil-Callander highway near here is being advertised for sale at a slashed price of $50,000.

Built in 1942 for $50,000 to $75,000, the 20-room home has stood empty for several years. Advertisements in the area have brought no buyers and attempts to convert it to an old folks' home or a reform institution were unsuccessful.

The parents of the quints, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, have lived in a nearby bungalow since 1957.

Now 31, three of the five girls live in Montreal and one in Quebec City. All but Yvonne are married with a total of nine children. Emilie died in 1954.

ALOUETTE DELAYED

OTTAWA (CP)—The launching of Canada's Alouette II research satellite has been delayed for at least three days, the defence department said Friday. The launching from the California test range by an American rocket had been scheduled for Nov. 23. Takeoff now is scheduled for no earlier than Nov. 26, the department said.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Before her recent marriage, Mrs. William Tryan, the former Lois Carol Easton, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by the office staff of the Prudential Life Assurance Company in Toronto, and at a shower given by neighbors and friends from the 3rd and 4th concession of Thurlow.

The Junior Guild St. George's Sunday School, Station Street, held its weekly euchre Thursday evening. Winners were: Wanchetta Higgins, Donna Devolin, Earl Ferguson, Roy Cook, and Mrs. Elizabeth Donaldson.

Women's Institutes

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

Mrs. Don Shorey, president of the Wallbridge Women's Institute welcomed 20 members of the group at her home for the regular monthly meeting which was opened in the usual manner.

Mrs. B. Hinchcliffe, secretary-treasurer, read correspondence which included several thank-you letters. At this time an appeal was made for Christmas gifts for the Belleville Mental Health Association and a donation of $5 was granted. It was also reported that $54.40 was collected for the Canadian Institute for the Blind.

A military course will be sponsored by the institute entitled "Hints for You" in which 18 members will participate. A donation of $5 will be given to the church for the use of the hall.

The program for the meeting was based on the health topic and a paper was given by Mrs. S. M. Nicolson on "A Healthful Nutritious Diet." She also gave a synopsis of the paper which dealt with the best kind, family, the highest standard of living in history and a record expenditure of food last year, the fact that the high percentage of impaired health in all classes, overweight problems common today, poor health in old age and physical unfitness for those of the 40-50 age. She further dealt with the topic "Sak and Your Health" and mentioned a number of ill effects from too much salt.

A suitable poem was read in keeping with Armistice Day by Mrs. Nigolson. Mrs. Don Shorey was appointed as delegate to attend the Trent Valley Area convention at Club Canada, November 25 and 26, with Mrs. Spencer as alternate.

A get-well card signed by all present was sent to a past president, Mrs. O. Chisholm, who is ill in hospital. A soap contest was conducted by Mrs. E. Phillips and the draw prize was won by Mrs. H. Fisher.

Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Shorey for opening her home for the meeting.

Church Groups

FRANKFORD C.G.I.T.

FRANKFORD — The CGIT of Frankford United Church held its lanyard and initiation ceremony at its regular bimonthly meeting on Wednesday.

Miss Sharon Dafoe, president, led in the opening ceremony and necessary business was conducted.

Eleven girls became seniors and were presented with white lanyards, which denote renewal of dedication to CGIT work.

Miss Gray, intermediate leader gave a short talk on what it means to become a senior and spoke on the parable of the talents.

A service for new members was conducted by Mrs. Dickie, junior leader, assisted by Miss Gray. Ten girls were dedicated and welcomed into the Christian fellowship of CGIT.

It is the purpose of each girl to seek and follow Jesus and become the girl God would have her be.

After the impressive ceremony the girls each in turn introduced her mother.

Rev. C. Dugan was introduced and gave an inspiring talk on the purpose and church's responsibility. All formed a closing circle when evening hymn and taps were sung and benediction pronounced.

THE NATIONAL BALLET SCHOOL

"For the artist life is always a discipline, and no discipline can be without pain . . . To learn to dance is the most austere of discipline." — Havelock Ellis (1859-1939).

* * *

"Sometime ago," reates Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, president of the Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild of Canada, "Mrs. Ester Hughes invited me to present diplomas to the ballet pupils of her dancing class.

"I was so impressed with the calibre of the students who received their diplomas that I asked Mrs. Hughes if she ever considered seeking an audition for her top students with Canada's finest ballet group, the National Ballet.

"She was interested. The Belleville Ballet Guild made the necessary arrangements and four Belleville girls were chosen. They were: Barbara Jones, Sally Horn, Angelica Bock and Susan Brickwood. Of these, the last mentioned decided to accept and study at The National Ballet School in Toronto."

This unique institution, we learn, is the first of its kind on the North American continent. It gives its 103 students in grades five to twelve a rigorous academic and ballet training. Most live in residence but are from all parts of Canada and the United States.

Every week day, from nine in the morning to six in the evening, the school's studios (there are five) are a hive of ballet activity, with instruction in classical ballet, Dalcroze eurhythmics, mime, music and Benesh connotation. (This is ballet language which describes dance steps and body movements).

The students are taught by the best instructors in the ballet field. Chiefly responsible for the school's high standard, it is said, lies with the principal and senior instructor, Betty Oliphant. The well-known National Ballet soloist, Lilias Jarvis, now teaches and instructs classes in modern dance.

The school brings in guest instructors such as Erik Bruhn of the Royal Danish Ballet and Michael Somes of the Royal Ballet, and this summer Kira Categena of the Bolshoi Ballet taught at the school and found the National School on a par with the Bolshoi. Their aims are the same: "to form well-educated, artistic people, not just superb dancers."

Academic teaching follows the Board of Education curriculum and is headed by Anna Haworth who says ballet training "develops strict discipline, concentration powers, body and mental coordination", and that the students "are always on top of their class."

The classes are small, and the courses include art, history of art, ballet and music. Since there is no space for science labs, the ballet students take science at Jarvis Collegiate and usually top the class. The two highest by last report were one of the 16 boys who attend ballet school this year and a grade eleven student from Belleville—Susan Brickwood!

By grade ten, the students begin to specialize, and those who wish to become professional dancers spend long hours practising for the cherished goal" of joining Canada's finest ballet group, The National Ballet Company.

14 NEW DANCERS

Fourteen dancers have entered it since the school opened in 1959. Others may wish to take a year or so of post-graduate ballet work before professionally entering the ballet field. Others may find their best interest lies in teaching. Again, some may give up ballet dancing altogether to enter college or go to specialized schools such as art.

But whatever course the students of the National Ballet School pursue, "their education is never lost," says Mrs. Haworth.

From letters written by Susan Brickwood to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Brickwood, 11 Lambert Drive, we quote these excerpts with kind permission of Susan and her parents:

"I was far behind this week in ballet class, and I did nearly everything wrong . . . am not discouraged. Yesterday I learned to place myself correctly and by the end of my second class I knew I could place myself correctly.

"This week I start night classes and it will be wonderful. I really am trying hard. I love it here. We have a lot of very teachers. Thank you so much for making it possible for me to be here.

"I went to the first opera last night, 'Barber of Seville' it was well produced and a good comedy. All the kids from school had uniforms and sat together. The opera sets were beautiful and Figaro and the maid were my favorite characters.

"I have a busy schedule. Sometimes I think I am going to be the spot while my muscles tighten and refuse to move and my back gets sopping wet from sweat. I love!"

"Le Double Deckaire" Tour Offers Good Taste of Paris

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

PARIS — The best guided bus tour in Paris costs $4.00, has a guide who speaks eight languages perfectly, and doesn't smell of garlic in any of them. He is also unstoppable and insatiable.

"He" — sometimes interspersed with a mellifluous-sounding "she" — is a brilliant recorded, scholarly but colorful commentary on the world's most seeable city. You tune it in via earphones by pressing a button on your armrest marked for Dutch Swedish, Italian, Spanish, German, French, English or Russian. The bus, operated by City-rama from the office at 2 Rue de 29 Juillet, is a two-story glass-enclosed job commonly known as "le double deckaire."

Le double deckaire starts its hourly run along the arches of the Rue de Rivoli, emerges on the vast and magnificent expanse of the Place de la Concorde, once known as Place de la Revolution, and then "Place de la Guillotine" — the "English" orchestrates selections such as "April in Paris" and "Mademoiselle de Paris" from Mademoiselle from Paris — but turns by the lazy curves of the Seine, its panorama of spires and towers and chimney-pot roofs, and into the Baroque opulence of the Place du Louvre, Paris' museum of royal palaces and gardens, now the world's greatest art museum.

DECORATED BY MOB

Where the commentary now opens on to the Tuileries Gardens stood the Tuileries Palace, destroyed by a mob in 1781. Once the Plaza was known as the Place du Carrousel in memory of the mass celebration that took place here on the occasion of a royal birth. Originally, the Louvre Museum was the king's art gallery.

The grateful arches of the Pont des Arts and the dome of La Coupole glide by as the bus crosses the Seine's best known bridge, Pont Neuf. It has always been Paris' most used bridge, and it was here that Moliere first learned the dramatic arts by watching itinerant street performers.

Past the Palace of Justice and soaring towers of St. Chapelle, where Marie Antoinette was imprisoned, is the île de la Cité, that medieval country village in the heart of Paris. On it stands Notre Dame, the work of an unknown architect, and stores the hope, and prayers, weddings, births, and funerals were commemorated. Notre Dame is one of the most perfect Gothic cathedrals in the world, its features copied in all other French cathedrals.

The towers of the Conciergerie, through which 2,600 persons passed on their way to the guillotine, rise on the Right Bank. In the Marais district between Rue Rivoli and Rue Exctier, 16-year-old Louis XVI here housed his first mistress, a coveted 40-year-old Lumbertaid.

LOOK FOR BASTILLE

Among the arcaded pavilions of Henri IV's royal square, now the Place des Vosges, many of France's great lived, among them Victor Hugo and Richelieu. Off the Boulevard Beaumarchais is the site of one of the first buildings tourists look for, but one that hasn't existed since the Revolution — the Bastille.

A luxury prison where the political incarcerees often had servants and three parties, it was little used by the time it became the symbol of mob hate. When they raided it they found only seven inmates, two for whom were lunatics and five of whom were imprisoned elsewhere after they were carried around as heroes for a few days. The prison was torn down brick by brick the following year.

Post Sully emerges on to slow paced Ile St. Louis, the Seine's second major island, where artists and writers now live in the apartments of the seventeenth-century rich. Back on the Left Bank is the Latin Quarter, the Sorbonne, the Boulevard St. Michel and St. Germain des Pres, still full of bookshops, raucous students, and old memories of the enigmatic Francois Villon.

In the Pantheon — the "cold storage house" — Mirabeau, Voltaire, Rousseau and a host other of France's great are buried. Nearby are the vast gardens and Palace of Luxembourg, where Napoleon first met Josephine at a glittering party.

The Left Bank of St. Germain's Aux Deux Magots Cafe Sartre and Simone de Beauvoir scribbled all day until their discipline deprived them of privacy, and the latter's art school, the original wild Bohemian Arts Ball goes on all night once a year.

SYMBOL OF PARIS

Across the riotously Baroque Alexander III bridge lies what is perhaps Paris' most impressive piece of architecture, the Eiffel Tower, a delicate lacelike facade, where Napoleon's tomb is. Nearby are the gardens surrounding the 1,000-foot steel lace of the Eiffel Tower, condemned as a monstrosity when it was built but now the most trenchant symbol of Paris.

Up Chaillot Hill and down the Avenue Foch, through the Bois de Boulogne to the Arc de Triomphe, the bus wheels along the widest street of the world's most famous street, the Champs d'Elysees, then up, fashionable Rue Francois 1er, Rue Marbeuf, Rue Royale, the Madeleine Church and the great department stores of the heights of Montmartre.

A country village made famous by impecunious artists, the bus stops here briefly so you may buy souvenirs or be offered feeithy pictures by street peddlers. In famous Montmartre cemetery Camille is buried.

From bawdy Place Pigalle and Toulouse-Lautrec's Moulin Rouge, the streets unwind in the heart of Paris, the ornate opera House with its elegant staircase of 13 curtains, and the Rue de la Paix with its couturiers, galleries, perfumers and jewelers.

But it is only a Paris sampler. It all has to be done again on foot, since there's a life time, to really know Paris.

Sutherland in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Friday, November 12, 1965, at 7 p.m. J. A. Redmond played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length sheath gown of white silk organza and taffeta with Alencon lace at the neckline and continuing down the front of the skirt to the hemline. The bodice featured long lily-point sleeves and a cathedral train. Her headdress was a white satin band with lace and rhinestone trim, holding a waist length veil of French silk tulle. She carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses with white feathered carnations and German ivy.

Miss Lynda Johnson of Shannonville was maid of honor. She wore a dress of red silk velvet with a bell shaped skirt and elbow length sleeves and a red silk velvet head band with a white shoulder length veil. Her flowers were red Sweetheart roses with white mums.

Mr. Gordon MacMicheal of Ottawa was groomsman and Mr. Robert Easton of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Mr. Brian Clarke, nephew of the bridegroom, were ushers.

At the wedding dinner held at the Prince Edward Room, Hotel Quinte, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a romance blue crocheted dress with satin trim, chocolate brown accessories and a corsage of white and yellow feathered carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a royal blue two piece dress of nylon lace over taffeta with black accessories and a corsage of pink mums.

For her wedding trip to western points, the bride chose a navy, light blue and white plaid suit with black accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

On their return, the couple will live at 229 Frank Street, Ottawa.

Ann Landers

Angry Driver Is A Dangerous Driver

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My fiance has a terrible temper. Whenever we get into an argument he storms out of the house and says, "I'm too mad to talk. I'll ride it out of my system." Then he zooms up the street in his car and heads for the open highway.

Wouldn't it be better if he stayed and talked things out? I worry that he might have that this is a mature way to get over his anger. an accident. He says he's a good driver and Common, please? — DRUSELLA.

DEAR DRU: He would be better off if he parked the car and took a brisk walk — ANN LANDERS or even ran around the block. And so would everyone he meets on the road. An angry driver is a dangerous driver. I hope you can get this across to him before he becomes a statistic and takes a few people with him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I just returned from a vacation on the west coast. Last Sunday we wanted to spend a quiet hour in a house of worship.

We were appalled at what we saw. Several school age children were whispering, laughing, and hitting each other during worship. They popped gum, ate peanuts and rattled candy bar wrappers.

Two boys about seven years old lay down in the pews and pretended to be pedalling bicycles. One youngster left for the bathroom right in the middle of the Lord's Prayer.

Both my husband and I hope that the parents who read this will ask themselves if they are guilty of allowing their children to behave in this shameful manner.—MILES CITY, MONTANA.

DEAR MILES CITY: Parents who permit such behavior disclose a shocking lack of respect for their religion. It isn't enough to send the kids to church. They should know why they are there and they should be taught how to behave.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Before passing sentence on two teen-agers convicted of car theft an Illinois judge said some things which I feel are worth repeating.

The judge said, "You two young men have been convicted of a felony. A felony is a crime for which you could have been sent to the penitentiary. I am not sending you to prison but you should know the record of your conviction will stand as long as this court house stands.

"If you are called as a witness in any court you will be asked if you have even been convicted of a felony. You will have to answer 'Yes.'

"Perhaps someday you will apply for a passport. You may not get it.

"You may want to take a position of trust and a surety bond will be required. When a man sees a bond known you will be refused by most bonding companies. By the time you find a company which will take a chance on you, the position will be filled by someone who has a more clean record.

"In a few years you will be 21. Others your age will be allowed to vote. You will be denied this privilege.

"I am granting you a parole. A parole is in no sense a pardon. Your conviction is now a matter of record. It will be with you to the end of your days." — M.M.B.

DEAR M.M.B.: The judge's words are sobering, indeed. Only a full pardon from the governor or the President can restore citizenship rights to a felon. But even if a pardon is granted, the record stands forever.

P.S.: My legal eagles tell me that if the sentence is served and the individual is not on probation, a passport can be secured.

Lois Smith, prima ballerina with the National Ballet of Canada, will dance in the new ballet The Rake's Progress, when the company appears at the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium on Monday.

Prima Ballerina Will Perform at Collegiate

Prima ballerina Lois Smith of the National Ballet of Canada, has generously contributed the theory that ballet begins in the cradle. Although she had studied spasmodically since she was ten, she didn't catch the ballet bug until she was 15 — and quit school to make up for lost time.

At 17, she cornered a role in the U.S. touring production of "Song of Norway," and later danced with the Los Angeles and San Francisco Light Opera companies and the touring show of "Oklahoma!" After a summer of dancing at the Theatre Under the Stars in her native Vancouver, B.C., she joined the National Ballet of Canada as a leading dancer for its first season in 1951.

As the company's foremost classical ballerina, Miss Smith has performed virtually everything in the classical repertoire from the dual role of Odette-Odille in "Swan Lake" to "Giselle". She has been featured in leading roles on the CBC television network and has danced to rave notices at the Jacob's Pillow dance festival in Massachusetts.

Hampered by a series of injuries which restricted her dancing for two seasons Miss Smith returned last year to star with Erik Bruhn in the Bowmanville classic, "La Sylphide", and to dance the Snow Queen and Sugar Plum Fairy in the company's new $100,000 full length production of "The Nutcracker". This fall, she appeared with Bruhn, Rudolf Nureyev and Lynn Seymour in a CBC network show on the dance.

In addition to the soft, lyrical classics, Miss Smith has also danced the passionate Clytemnestra in Grant Strate's "House of Atreus", the arrogant operetta star in "Offenbach in the Underworld", and lead roles in the neo-classic ballets of George Balanchine.

Several years ago, she spent some months in Europe on a Canada Council grant, studying with leading teachers.

Belleville audiences will see Lois Smith in the starring role when the National Ballet Company visits Belleville next Monday.

James Bond, Astronauts Exert Strongest Influence On Christmas Toy Market

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — James Bond and the astronauts exerted the strongest influence on the toys shown at the Canadian Playthings Manufacturers' ninth Christmas preview here Friday.

The association of more than 130 Canadian toy makers illustrated the popularity of secret agent equipment and science and space toys to cash in on increasing interest in the world around them.

Asked if he thought the James Bond craze was an undesirable thing to encourage in children, Dennis E. Tiberius, vice-president of the association, said he feels such toys have "no significance in the moulding of their character."

He said children's eagerness to play with violent toys is not a problem for the toy manufacturer, but for the psychologist.

"The toy people are just filling a need that has been created by other media and by our society." He suggested adults are doing "everything possible to glorify war."

WOULD DEGRADE WAR

Mr. Tiberius said children will have to be taught to hate war from their earliest years by the trend to aggressiveness is to be reversed. Schools, for example, would have to change the method of teaching history and degrade rather than glorify famous war victories.

He did not think this "reversal of present standards" was workable or advisable.

"Competitive combat motivation is an integral part of our society. We inculcate in our children a competitive spirit. They are under pressure from the beginning to make the grade. ..

"If it were possible for the government to create legislation prohibiting the sale of warlike toys, children would fashion their own because they get the idea from other media and from instinct."

He said such toys would be imported from other countries if they were not manufactured in Canada.

TREND TO CARS, MODELS

Other major trends at the toy fair included table-top car racing, hobby plastics kits and wardrobe fashion dolls, now with new-it-yourself kits.

Thumbin City, a table-top Hem, had blocks of a town populated by people and vehicles manipulated by magnets. A racing a car set had a new car which falls apart as it crashes into others.

Anew game, Probe, combines elements of the cross-word puzzle and a snakes-and-ladder type of game featuring Canadian history and information. But the manufacturers say Monopoly remains the top selling game.

Mary Poppins scenes were available in paint - by - number kits and wearing sets for young girls.

Father Afraid Daughter Wouldn't Make Grade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two years before his death, F. Scott Fitzgerald wrote to his only child, Frances Scott, complaining, "what you have done to please me or make me proud is particularly negligible since the time you made yourself a good diver at camp."

Frances had just been asked to leave a girls' school because she had broken bounds and Fitzgerald was worried that Vassar might not accept her that fall.

"In your career as a 'wild society girl' vintage 1925, I'm not interested," he said.

Fitzgerald, who epitomized the jazz age generation he wrote about, faltered his daughter might become a woman whose "only contribution to the human family is to warm a seat at the common table."

The writer would be interested in his daughter today.

"Scottie" Fitzgerald Lanahan is a doer.

The mother of four teen-aged children, Mrs. Lanahan, 42, has just accepted a job with the New York Times, covering Washington society.

She previously had worked as a political reporter for the North Virginia Sun and had contributed to the " Talk of the Town" column for the New Yorker magazine from 1944-1948. She's written a couple of plays and dabbled in local politics.

PAST NOW HAZY

Her past in the short, turbulent life of F. Scott Fitzgerald now seems hazy.

She finds it difficult to differentiate between "what I have read somewhere and what I remember."

"He gave me a golden childhood," Mrs. Lanahan said, "until the world began to be too much for him, when I was about 11 years old."

After that, she said, "I can remember almost nothing but the troubles which were reflected in our relations — my mother's ceaseless illness, his own bad health and lack of money, and, hardest of all, I think his literary eclipse."

Fitzgerald died in 1940 while Scottie was at Vassar; his wife died eight years later.

Mrs. Lanahan has written little about her father.

"I've always left anything to do with daddy to the pros," she said. "Relatives mean things up."

The Golden Years

Retired Couples Are Ingenious In Solving Problem of Housing

By THOMAS COLLINS

Retired couples are finding ingenious ways to attach their housing problem onto the homes of their married children . . . and side step the complications that often ensue.

More than a few are buying mobile homes and wheeling them into the restricted backyards of their children, there to tie into the utilities of the house and live happily ever after. But others are making more imaginative deals, which are coming to light in the wake of the story here about the retired parents who were building an $8,000 apartment on the home of a child and kissing the $8,000 goodbye.

"My parents built a lovely three-room wing onto our house when they retired nine y a a r s ago," one daughter reports. "Everything has worked splendidly.

"They sold their own home, and spent $9,000 on the w i n g. Whereupon my husband and I gave them a $9,000 first mortgage on our home. Under o u r arrangement we would p a y them no interest on the mortgage . . . they would pay us no rent. As further protection for them we wrote into our wills a provision that if we died first the entire house would be theirs for their lifetime, passing on to our own children only—a f t e r their deaths.

"They were very happy here. When Dad died the wisdom of the move was most evident. Mom had no sprouting to do. She just lived on in her 'own' home, with a son-in-law to handle the upkeep."

ANOTHER SOLUTION

A retired accountant and his wife figured things a different way, and also have come out very well. "We calculated that we would have about $20,000 in worldly wealth to leave our three children. . . or about $6,500 each. So we made a deal with one of the children to build a $6,500 apartment at the rear of the house she and her husband owned. We paid the entire $6,500 but asked no part of the title, no mortgage, no promissory note. We were giving them their inheritance in advance. However, since t h e y might prefer cash in the end, which the other two child r e n would be getting, we thought we ought to compensate them. So we agreed to pay them $55 a month rent, above and apart from all taxes, insurance, etc. imposed on our daughter and her husband because of our addition. This, in effect, resulted in their getting better than 10 percent return on their inheritance before it was due . . . or as long as we live."

A retired department store man with not much money and deep concern over what might happen to him and his wife if they built housing on the property of a son, and then the son sold his home, devised still another plan: He built a two room apartment, with kitchen and bath, over the son's two - car garage, which was located in a back corner of the lot. He put $6,900 cash into the project. He then had the son give him a deed to the garage. in return, he gave the son a rent-free pledging that he and his wife would pay the son $50 a month as long as they lived, and give the garage back to him on their deaths. "The arrangement works fine so far," he says. "If my s o n ever decides to sell his house, the new buyer no doubt will want our corner. So we have a chance to negotiate and get our money back. If my son doesn't ever sell he has his $50 a month, a good yard man, and baby-sitters . . . and eventually an apartment that will bring him a good 'commercial' income."

DISLIKES 'DEALS'

A 69-year-old widow, M r s. George Singleton, thinks most of such deals are a lot of nonsense. "I paid $4,800 to have a small apartment built onto the home of my son and his wife. It was a great bargain in housing. I got the land free, the sewer connection free, the utility-links free. Somebody else had done the awful job of finding the good neighborhood and the convenient location, and arranging to get the tax assessments stabilized.

"My $4,800 apartment is pay baby worth $7,500. I'm in ceiling range of my son. I'm happy and I've quite content that I have made myself a helpful and pleasing addition to the property, and that if my s o n and his wife ever sell and move I'll be the first thing they put in the moving van. I'll gamble my $4,800 with the notes or contracts, for the life I've found."

Cave Owners At Owen Sound Are Charged

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A father and son who operate a tourist attraction near Collingwood, 40 miles southeast of here, were committed Friday for trial on different charges.

Archibald McArthur, owner of the Scenic Caves on Blue Mountain, is charged with extorting $10 Aug. 15 from Richard Aitkenson, a Toronto police constable.

Jerry Archibald McArthur, the son, is charged with attempting to extort money from four Toronto high school students Sept. 5.

Both men elected trial by judge without a jury.

Constable Atkinson told Magistrate A. S. Stewart he had been with three others who entered the caves without paying a $1 admission charge. They were caught and taken to the office, the elder McArthur said he would not lay a trespassing charge if they paid him $10.

Constable Atkinson said the charge was laid against the father after a discussion with police in Toronto.

Court was told Mr. McArthur's son told a group of Toronto students they could avoid a trespassing charge by paying him money. No sum was mentioned.

The youths refused to pay and last month they were found guilty in Meaford court of trespassing. Sentence was suspended.

QUESTION: My husband and I are going to Texas and he wants to see the Alamo. Just where is the Alamo and just what is it ? —Mrs. C. C., Belleville.

ANSWER: The Alamo is located in downtown San Antonio at the corner of Alamo and Crockett Sreets. It is properly titled the Mission San Antonio de Valero and was established in 1718. The mission's church and fortress, the Alamo, was erected in 1744 by the Franciscan Fathers and served as house of worship, school for Indian converts and haven for early settlers. When Texas declared her independence from Mexico, it again became a fortress and on March 6, 1836, after a siege of 2 weeks, it fell before the onslaught of the Mexican army under Santa Anna. Every man of the defending force, fighting to the last, was slaughtered. Among these heroes were Col. James Bie and Davy Crockett. The battle cry of "Remember the Alamo" spurred Texas on to victory at San Jacinto. The Alamo is open weekdays 9 to 5, Sundays and holidays 10 to 5, admission free.

QUESTION: I am going next week to spend the winter in Miami, Fla. A friend tells me there is good shore fishing there. Have you any information on this? Also, can you suggest a good route to Miami, going via Detroit, Mich. ?— J.L.R. Belleville ANSWER: According to the Miami Chamber of Commerce there is good fishing from the piers and from the bridges on the causeways across to Miami Beach. Possible Causeway catches include big panfish, mackerel, shrimp, mullet, snook, snappers and pompano. From the piers, kingfish, bonito, mackerel and blue fish can be caught. The piers, Miami Beach Pier Park, Bakers, Haulover and Sunny Isles are open to the public. The latter two make a nominal charge.

A good route would be by U.S. 25 out of Detroit and 73 to Toledo, 25 and 75 to Daytona, Cincinnati and Lexington, 127 to Chatanoga, 41 to Atlanta and Forsythe, Ga., and 75 through to Florida and the Sunshine State Parkway into Miami.

Bank Sponsors $100,000 Farm Leadership Program

MONTREAL — A competitive $100,000 awards program, to develop 50 leaders in Canada's farming communities in all parts of the country, was announced this week by G. Arnold Hart, chairman and president of the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. Hart said that the program - the Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Farm Leadership Awards - is open to all men and women engaged full-time in farming.

It offers 30 awards of $2,000 each - half in Eastern Canada and half in Western Canada - "to encourage and expand leadership qualities in people in rural areas to enable them to cope with the problems arising from growing technological and scientific advances in agriculture and vastly changed economic conditions," Mr. Hart said.

The new schemes is designed as "a salute to the Canadian farmer for the great contribution he has made to the development of the nation." It is the B of M's third project to mark the centennial and the bank's 150th anniversary in 1967.

FARMERS' INITIATIVE

Awards will be made on the basis of the value and feasibility of projects of candidates' own choosing and initiative to improve their personal contribution to their communities, plus their record in community activities.

"On completion of their projects, the 50 winners will be retested to undertake definite programs in their communities, to share their new knowledge and experiences for the benefit of community development," Mr. Hart said.

TRAVEL AND STUDY

The B of M awards provide an opportunity for farm people to undertake worthwhile travel and study projects based on their own ideas, to increase their knowledge of modern rural-development techniques.

In addition to receiving the $2,000-awards, winners will attend expense-paid, two-day seminars at centers in eastern and western Canada in the spring of 1966 and again in the spring of 1967.

Handbooks for candidates giving full details of the B of M Canada Centennial Farm Leadership Awards plan, including application forms, are available at all branches of the bank.

The bank's other 1967 projects so far announced are its Canada Centennial scholarship program, started in 1960 and scheduled to end in 1967, providing 126 university scholarships worth more than $200,000; and its Canada Centennial Tablets, started early in October, when well-known artist Richard D. Wilson was commissioned to undertake a coast-to-coast sketching tour.

SPORT SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports-Editor

It could be the cacophony of clicks from dice, dominoes, one-arm bandits and the merry chink of silver dollars, but the clack-yack chorus that usually emanates from the Caesius Clay camp before a fight has been strangely missing—up to this point.

In case you haven't heard, Caesius Cadillac Clay, the undefeated world champion (here and there) meets former world champion Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas on Monday night.

Deep in the hearts of Nevada's gambling oasis where the millionaire antelope and the chorus girl deer play, the principals have been training in posh quarters, giving diversion to gambling-weary millionaires, tired business men and oil-location movie stars.

Unlike the tub-thumping, bugle blaring and tonsil-rattling that preluded other Clay ring tangos, the upcoming brawl hasn't been too productive of predictions, threats, name-calling and other publicity drivel.

Only twice to this agent's knowledge has the Louisville Lip crashed the airwaves with the brash blats that formerly were a dime a dozen.

He unmuffled the thump-tubs long enough to announce he would let Patterson go along until the eighth round when after sufficient punishment "for what he said about me," he would mercifully apply the coup-de-grace.

The boxing Mahomet took the play to the press mountain more recently when he announced he would use a secret weapon, my Linger Punch."

That would be enough (as Clay probably figures) to rouse the most blase sports writer from a hangover lethargy and reach for a pencil stub.

Clay revealed the "Linger Punch" is a bust in the Patterson kisser which does not render him horse-de-combat but allows him to parade around the ring in a semi-stupor. From then on, it is inferred, the fiesta resolves itself into a cat-and-mouse game with Felix Clay closing the trap in the eighth.

The odds at this writing favor Muhammid Ali three to one. In other words if you like Floyd you bet two and collect five.

Word from the Patterson camp has it that the ex-world champion is confident of victory. He regained a lot of self assurance after his victory over George Chuvalo and says he has experience and skill to win —a lethal left hook which has been instrumental in the knockout of 33 fighters in 48 bouts.

"Clay says he has faster legs, but I have faster hands and this is not a foot race," Patterson is quoted as saying.

The official nabobs of the affair are taking no chances on the lete-a-tete resolving itself into a human facsimile of a couple of bull moose clashing in mating time.

They've inserted more rules governing "butts" —accidental and otherwise—than you'll find in the book of words covering a billy-goat convention.

The butted boy will find himself the winner if he is ahead on points at the time his noggin was noggined. If he is behind on points, the bout will be called a technical draw.

They've changed the three-judge, no-referee count system to the two judges and the referee's count on the five-point must system.

And back to the butting, here, what looks like a cheap entree to a return bout, "if an accidental butt occurs in the first round the bout will be called a draw." But, intentional butting will be called a foul and penalized as such.

'Tis said the clientele will take on the outward appearances of the annual "Oscar" parade. Millionaires, wealthy tourists, Hollywood on holiday and jack-pot winners will plunk down 100 silver dollars for ringside seats. The hoi-polloi pay ten for crowding room near the roof.

The odds aren't apt to change too much on this one with Clay the favorite. After all, he destroyed the myth of Liston's supposedly awesome punching power, even if the Philadelphia negro gave the impression twice he couldn't hit his mother-in-law if she were on crutches.

But — here we go — I like Patterson.

Leafs Face Hull Jinx In Twin Tilts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers have surprised just about every hockey fan with their performance so far this year.

But they haven't surprised the man who knows them best—Red Sullivan.

"I'm not surprised because we're a skating club," says the New York coach.

"There is nothing like a few wins to boost the morale and confidence. All we have to do now is continue and then we can handle any team," he said.

The Rangers, who currently hold down third spot in the National Hockey League standings, meet Montreal Canadiens in Montreal tonight. Other NHL action has Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto to play the Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings at Boston against the Bruins.

Sunday, Montreal is at Boston, Detroit is at New York and Toronto goes to Chicago.

Sullivan, who wouldn't make a prediction on tonight's outcome, said his strategy will be to skate with the Canadiens.

"We'll play the same style as they do and that means we'll skate."

The New York coach remarked that forward Bob Nevin and defenceman Harry Howell were playing "exceptionally well" along with defenceman Jim Neilson and rookie netminder Ed Giacomin.

Montreal coach Toe Blake said Friday that Jean Beliveau Richard will be back in action against the Rangers tonight. He had been sidelined with a shoulder injury.

However, left winger Dick Duff will not play because of an infected toe.

Toronto Maple Leafs will be looking for their first goal of the season against Chicago when they play the Hawks tonight.

...In two previous meetings this year, Chicago have scored 4-0 and 9-0 victories.

SHACK THE SPARK?

And she man who just might spark the Toronto offence is Henri Richard, who has scored three goals in five games since being recalled from Rochester Americans of the American League.

But the Leafs might be in for some trouble trying to stop Bobby Hull, Chicago's star left-winger, who has been murder against Toronto so far this season.

Of the 13 goals that Chicago has poured behind Toronto netminders Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk, Hull has six of them. He scored three goals against the Leafs in the season opener and netted another three goals Nov. 7 in the 9-0 game.

Shack, Toronto's rambunctious right winger, was demoted to the American League at the start of the season. About the time he made a threat to quit hockey the Leafs sent out a call for him.

Shack said that all he wanted was a chance to prove he was worthy of a NHL berth. Toronto coach Punch Imlach gave him the opportunity and the rugged right winger has risen to the occasion.

Clay Plans To 'Skin The Rabbit'

By MURRAY ROSE

LAS VEGAS (AP)—This is a town where it's legal to bet, and the bookmakers will quote you odds on almost any sporting event you can name.

CASSIUS CLAY

They've had to pay off on some big upsets, but a real stunner even for here would be if the Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight Monday night goes the 15-round limit. The betting today is even money it won't go more than five rounds.

There hasn't been a decision in a heavyweight championship bout since Rocky Marciano beat Ezzard Charles in 15 rounds of their first fight 11 years ago. There have been 16 title scraps since then, and all have ended in kayos, including 11 involving Patterson.

Now nearing his 31st birthday, the New Yorker is a 3-to-1 underdog to the 23-year-old Clay, an all conquering champion who is bigger, stronger and every bit as fast, if not faster, than the aging challenger.

Even Patterson agrees the fight won't go the limit, although he won't predict a knockout victory for himself.

"I expect to win," he says, "otherwise I wouldn't be here."

From the cocky Clay you get the expected trumpeting of coming triumph:

"I'm gonna knock him out, but right now I won't say what round.

"I could take him out in the first round, but I better not do that because you and the other writers will say it's a fix.

"But if I give him a hard beating and knock him out in the seventh or eighth round, people gonna say I'm cruel. Makes me wonder what to do.

With the major part of their training completed, the fighters have to kill the hours until fight time at Convention Center.

For Clay it appeared to be a matter of deciding in which he can talk everyone's ears off on his plans to skin "The Rabbit." For the brusque, introverted Patterson it's a time for seclusion and meditation.

The strangest bit of this bizarre battle is that Patterson, completely discredited in his two one-round losses to Sonny Liston, will be the one most fans will be rooting for.

Clay, it would gay and I'm the bad guy," says Clay. "That ought to make us a lot of money."

Trade Winds Begin To Rustle

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Stuart finds himself in an unusual position as baseball's free-for-league trading period begins — he's going to make a great catch tomorrow.

Stuart, Philadelphia Phillies' first baseman who managed a ball with both his bat and glove, figures to wind up with an American League club after the curtain is raised on the interleague trading period at midnight.

The trading period, the only time during the year when American and National League clubs can swap players, will run for three weeks.

Stuart's name tops the list of expendables. A legitimate slugger but constantly rapped for his fielding. Stuart became available when the Phillies acquired first-baseman Bill White in a multi-player trade with St. Louis Cardinals.

Despite his fielding Stuart probably would be welcomed by an American League team but not costing more than $100,000.

The Phillies also are reported ready to deal away outfielders Tony Gonzalez and Wes Covington. Gonzalez was fined during the season by manager Gene Mauch and Covington publicly criticized Mauch for his running of the club.

New York Mets, who already have pulled off a major trade by acquiring third-baseman Ken Boyer from the Cardinals, said at the time they made the transaction that two more players would be acquired in the future.

One was supposed to be an outfielder and the other an infielder. Announcement of the trades was presumably held up because they involved American League teams and could not be officially made until the inter-league period began.

New York Yankees also are reported to be in the market after last years sixth place finish. Outfielder Roger Maris, first-baseman Joe Pepitone and pitcher Jim Bouton have been mentioned as trade material.

Catcher Bob Rodgers of California Angels, pitchers Jim O'Toole and Joey Jay of Cincinnati Reds and pitchers Bob Purkey and Curt Simmons of St. Louis also have been mentioned as being available.

MAY PRESENT STATUE

NEW YORK (CP)—The National Arts Foundation is considering presenting a statue of Abraham Lincoln to the people of Canada, it was announced Friday. A spokesman for Dr. Carleton Smith, foundation president who will visit Ottawa Sunday, said Smith hopes to discuss the project with Canadian officials to see if Canada is interested in receiving such a gift and, if so, where it could be located.

Bad Road Record Riders Gremlin
—4 Wins In 15

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

HOCKEY STANDINGS

Two quick goals Friday night have left Oakville Oaks on the spot today in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

The Oaks' lamentable road record — four victories in 15 games, including playoffs, over the last two seasons—was the chief roadblock in their path towards the Eastern Football Conference championship as they took the field against the Tiger-Cats today in the second game of the two-game, total-point final.

On a similar occasion two years ago the Riders rolled to a 35-18 victory but the score looks considerably better today than it did at the time. The Ticats, who had murdered Ottawa 45-0 at Lansdowne Park the week before, were just going through the motions as they piled up a 43-35 margin on the round.

They're playing for keeps this time. The Tiger-Cats will open the opener in Ottawa last Sunday but brought home only a three - point edge on the strength of the 18-13 decision. A single touchdown or a couple of field goals could wipe it out.

Both clubs hid overnight in motels on the fringes of the city and were not expected to appear in public until shortly before the 1 p.m., EST kickoff.

Before the Ticats disappeared, coach Ralph Sazio said he would again use Dick Cohee, normally a defensive half, in the offensive backfield in place of Johnny Counts, who missed last week's game with an injured ankle. Cohee earned the assignment by catching a touchdown pass in the opener.

Ted Page, a defensive half with Montreal Alouettes last season, was shifted into Cohee's spot from his normal position as a corner linebacker and Jim Reynolds, another former Alouette, moved into the corner to replace Page.

The Riders, who blew a 13-0 halftime lead last Sunday when the Ticats throttled their offensive efforts, said they have devised some manoeuvres to shake loose Bo Scott, the EFC rushing leader this season, who couldn't get untracked in the opener.

Before they left Ottawa Friday, quarterback Russ Jackson invited everyone present at a downtown pep rally to return for a victory rally tonight. His listeners presumably were manifesting today's proceedings on the CBC or CTV national networks before deciding whether to accept.

It Won In Winnipeg
Watch That Bombers' Y-Across Play!

CALGARY (CP)—Bud Grant confided, to a press conference Friday that it was the Y-across play that killed Calgary Stampeders Wednesday night and that Winnipeg Blue Bombers just might try it again today in the deciding game of the Western Football Conference finals.

This is the way the Winnipeg coach described the play—four deep pass receivers run cross patterns and the quarterback pretends to run the ball himself. He said it was designed to split a zone defence.

The upshot Wednesday night was a 69-yard touchdown as quarterback Kenny Ploen passed to unguarded Leo Lewis for the decisive touchdown in a 15-11 victory. That tied the best-of-three series, cancelling the Stampeders' 27-9 victory here a week ago.

Grant said the Calgary backwatch back and forth from zone to man-to-man defence. The Bombers would be watching for the cue-stick to spring the Y-across when the teams took the field at 4 p.m. EST in a game televised nationally by the CBC and CTV networks.

"Whoever wins will be the best team," Grant added. "We've played one another five times this year. . . . This city is like my second home."

EXPECTS WARM WEATHER

Meanwhile, the weatherman called for Calgary weather conditions with a game-time temperature of about 40 degrees, winds of about 15 miles an hour and partly sunny skies.

Earlier predictions were for 20- to 25-degree temperatures, similar to the bitter cold that dogged the first two games.

Grant was asked if the absence of Calgary's all-star linebacker Wayne Harris would help the Bombers.

"Certainly. If you take the best football player out of any team, you'll help the opponent. Calgary without Harris will help us, but not missing Ken Maglicic will help Calgary."

Harris, a med student playing fullback for the Bombers, Maglicic, a cog in Bombers' powerful defence, is out of action with a sprained ankle and will be replaced by Paul Robson.

Strictly For the Records

TORONTO O(CP) — Goalie Johnny Bower unveiled a Christmas surprise Friday—he's turned singer.

The ageless National Hockey League star has taken time from his duties in Toronto Maple Leaf goal to record two new songs for the Christmas season.

The songs are Honky the Christmas Goose and Banjo Mole, which go on sale in Canada this weekend.

In the recording, Bower is joined by his son John Jr., 13, and a group of Toronto youngsters called the Rinky Dinks.

"It was a lot of fun," said Bower. "We plan to record more next year."

On The Golf Trail

CARACAS (AP) — Canadians Wilf Homeniuk and Alvie Thompson jumped into a share of the Second-round lead in the Caracas open golf tournament Friday, each with a 137.

Homero Blancas of the United States was one stroke back at 138 in the Venezuelan capital's tournament, after a two-under-par 68.

Homeniuk of Winnipeg had the day's best round, a three-under-par 67, to move up from a fifth place tie. Thompson, from Toronto, had a par 70 after an opening 67.

First-round leader Bill Wakeham, another Canadian, from Victoria, slipped to a 75 and dropped to a share of fourth at 141.

LAKE CHARLES, Fla. (AP) — Bo Pansaki of Windsor, Ont., fashioned a four-under-par 66 Friday to boost his lead in the $10,000 Alvin Dark invitational golf tournament to two strokes.

In a menacing position was Jay Hebert, who had a pair of 66s for a 136 total over the 6,705-yard Lake Charles Country Club layout.

Johnny Pott headed a group of three still in contention with 137 totals.

Pansaki's 66, coupled with his 66 on the first day, gave him a 134.

Score Was 7-4
Kingston Defeats Rollins

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Speedster Leo Lavallee led a win-hungry Kingston Frontenac crew to a 7-4 OHA Eastern Junior "B" victory over Belleville Rollins Construction before a good sized crowd at Memorial Arena Friday night.

Rollins were far from impressive in the fast-skating affair, especially in the second period when Kingston netted three unanswered goals to open up a 5-2 lead.

Each side scored twice in the first, Rollins best period, and again in the third.

The winners held a 37-28 margin in shots-on-goal but Kingston's John Coates had a good night, robbing Rollins of several goals when they might well have turned the victory tide. At the other end Wayne Brant did not appear as sharp as usual but was lacking in support on numerous occasions. Frontenacs' third and fourth goals, which opened the game up, came on close shots taken from the Kingston end of the rink, one while Belleville had a man advantage.

The victory was Kingston's second of the season and the second defeat Belleville's in seven starts. Rollins next see action in Trenton on Wednesday.

Lavallee earned four goals and an assist as a reward for his all-out, hard-skating performance. Other Kingston marksmen were Mike Flanigan, Cris Seale and Stan Gall.

Bob Boyle fired three of the losers' goals and assisted on the other one. Grant Hagerman bagged the other, and helped on a pair.

Referee Keith MacDonald assessed 19 minor penalties with the losers collecting 11 of the total.

Flanigan gave the visitors a 1-0 lead with Frontenacs all around the net at 3:09 but Hagerman got that back after Belleville had several fine chances, at 6:46.

Lavallee made it 2-1 with the clubs five aside at 17:04. Boyle earned the equalizer on two beating two defenders, at 19:50. That was the last time Belleville got an equal terms.

A clearing pass got past a Rollins defenceman and Lavallee was picked it up on the wing Kingston in front. Seale broke away from a Belleville powerplay at 6:37, to add another. Gall upped it to 5-2 with Kingston playing five men to four at Canuck To Coach Larks?

MONTREAL (CP) — President Sid Workman of Montreal Alouettes said Friday negotiations in Canadian football could be a factor in the Eastern Football Conference club's search for a new head coach.

The Alouettes fired Jim Trimble, who held the job for three years after coming to Montreal from an illustrious coaching career with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

"We want to give the whole matter some more time and thought," Workman said in an interview. "We've set no limitations but a background in Canadian football could be a deciding factor in the final analysis."

Trimble's firing brought reaction Friday from Perry Moss, Trimble's predecessor as Alouettes' coach and now coach of Charleston Rockets of the Continental Football League. In a telephone interview, Moss said he sees no advantage in the decision to seek a new coach.

"The only way to get a winner there is to start out and continue with an individual who understands the Canadian game," he said. Such a coach should be given "five years to do the job and give him full responsibility. . . . It takes that long to build a winner."

Bernie Faloney, Montreal quarterback who was traded to the Alouettes from Hamilton a year ago, said he felt Trimble had "been on the brink" of giving Montrealers a winning club.

The Trots

NEW YORK (AP)—Bret Hanover won the $151,252 Messenger Stakes as expected at Roosevelt Raceway Friday night and completed a sweep of packing's triple crown.

The three-year-old colt, owned by Richard Downing of Cleveland, and driven by the veteran Frank Ervin, finished one-half length in front of Tuxedo Hanover.

Bret paid $2.40 to win, $2.20 to place and $2.20 to show. Tuxedo Hanover paid $2.20 and $2.20. Rivaltime also paid $2.20 in the show spot.

SEEK RELEASE

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox asked waivers Friday night on 35-year-old third - baseman Frank Malzone to give him an unconditional release. General manager Dick O'Connell said the Red Sox want to give Malzone his release "so he can make a deal for himself with another major league club if he so desires."

Colts Seek 8th In Row

Packers Rated Underdogs To Vikings

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The key word in the National Football League is upset.

Minnesota Vikings will be doing their best not to upset anyone Sunday. And, at the same time, Green Bay Packers will be trying to upset the Vikings.

The Vikings so upset coach Norm van Brocklin during last Sunday's loss to Baltimore Colts that he announced his resignation, which he later rescinded. There is little doubt they will do their best to avoid jolting him again.

The Packers find themselves in the underdogs' role—unusual but understandable. They have scored a total of just 36 points in their last four games, won only two of them and fallen one game back of Baltimore Colts in the Western Division race.

While the Packers try to stay in the race by upsetting the Vikings, the front-running Colts will be looking for their eighth straight victory against Philadelphia Eagles.

In the other games, the Eastern Division leaders, Cleveland Browns, are at Dallas Cowboys, Chicago Bears at Detroit Lions, New York Giants at St. Louis Cardinals, San Francisco 49ers at Los Angeles Rams and Washington Redskins at Pittsburgh Steelers.

The American League schedule shows both the Western Division leaders, San Diego Chargers and Buffalo Bills, the Eastern leaders, with a day off, while Houston Oilers are at New York Jets, Oakland Raiders at Denver Broncos, and Kansas City Chiefs at Boston Patriots.

Rangers Tie Marlies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

John Voss of Kitchener Rangers was probably the happiest goalie in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Friday night after his team tied Toronto Marlboros 2-2.

Voss played an outstanding game, making several sensational saves in recovering face for letting in more than 30 goals in 6 2-3 previous games.

Jim Keon and Jim McKenny scored for the Marlies while Clare Alexander and John Beechey replied for the Rangers.

The result tied Kitchener and London Nationals in the cellar with nine points apiece while Toronto and St. Catharines Black Hawks are in fifth spot, each with 11 points.

In the only other junior game Friday night Niagara Falls Flyers and Peterborough Petes tied 3-3.

SEEKS CLOSINGS

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario command of the Canadian Corps Association is seeking to have Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, declared "a national day of mourning for the war dead" with all businesses and schools closed as they are at Christmas or on Good Friday. A resolution to that effect will be presented during its annual general meeting and convention here this weekend.

Riders Got Big Sendoff

OTTAWA (CP) — Thousands of football fans jammed the Sparks St. Mall in downtown Ottawa Friday night for a pep rally that preceded the departure of Ottawa Rough Riders for Hamilton and the deciding game of the Eastern Football Conference championship playoff.

Riders, who trail the Tiger-Cats by five points in the two-game, total-points series, got thunderous cheers from the crowd as they were introduced from a platform.

A special roar went up as coach Frank Clair promised the team "would give everything it has to win the game."

Quarterback Russ Jackson, who acted as spokesman for the players, invited the crowd back Saturday night for a victory rally.

Mayor Don Reid, who spearheaded the rally, said the Ottawa players now know that the people are solidly behind them.

Banners strung along the street proclaimed that "Hamilton plays dumb football" and "we've got the Tigers by the tail."

Today's game will be played to a finish. If the game is tied after regulation time, the teams will take a 30-minute rest and then play a 20-minute overtime game. A kickoff would start each 10-minute half.

If the teams are still locked in a tie, they'll take a five-minute break, then go into sudden-death overtime.

Minor Hockey

Very close action featured play in the B.M.H.A.'s novice group last night.

Leafs shaded the Bruins by a 3-2 count while Wings and Generals battled to a 3-3 deadlock.

Grant Goegan potted all three goals to give Generals their split in points. Steven Gray, Bruce MacDonald and Darrel Bronson were the Wing marksmen.

Peter Moiaski's goal was the winner for the Leafs while mates Mark Coates and David Ribborn netted the others. Tim Manley and Tim Whalen scored for the Bruins.

Victoria Shades Vancouver

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Portland Buckaroos and Victoria Maple Leafs are moving farther and farther ahead of the Western Hockey League pack as they battle for first place.

Victoria moved to within two points of the leaders Wednesday Buckaroos again Friday night as they defeated Vancouver Canucks 5-4 in a dandy game. The victory widened the gap between the Maple Leafs and the third-place Canucks to eight points.

Meanwhile, the spirited San Francisco Seals kept on the move to move into a tie with Vancouver when they dropped a 3-1 decision to Seattle Totems in the other game of the night.

Seattle and Los Angeles now are tied in fifth place with eight points, two less than San Francisco. Vancouver has 14, Victoria 22 and Portland 24.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Fitzsimmons and Hugo Dittfach each rode two winners on the eight-dash card at Greenwood Race Track Friday to continue their battle for the track's leading jockey title.

Fitzsimmons leads the standings with 23 victories, one more than Dittfach.

In Friday's action, Dittfach won the third race aboard Robin Redbreast and brought home Coolest Man in the eighth. Fitzsimmons earned his victories aboard Swedish Cutdown, Verses Sailing, Mess In "To Bed . . . or Not to Bed."

Alberto-Sordi, Italy's most popular comedian, finds himself in some purposes with Swedish customs and some - built in ideas of his own in "To Bed . . . or Not to Bed," the comedy coming to the Park Theatre Monday for a three-day engagement only. Filmed entirely in and around Stockholm, the picture reveals a wider cross-section of more beauty liberally decorated with the blonde loveliness of a host of Swedish lasses to tantalize a susceptible visitor from the South.

Sordi, who portrays an Italian businessman on his first trip abroad for a fur auction, is smitten at first by the rumor that Scandinavian girls are enamored of Latin men. He arrives in Stockholm in time for the kickoff of the Christmas holiday celebrations. The first Swedish custom has him surrounded with a bevy of young girls who shower him with boisterous joy in honor of the Festival of Light celebration. While the hospitality is warm, personal contact with the girls and experience is more than warm when the unsuspecting Italian receives a lovely welcome to the Saums, a universally accepted form of bath which none of the girls reject up to 200 degrees for therapeutic purposes. It is usually followed by a dip in the cold water; however, in Sordi's case a naked wildboy romp in the snow was substituted for the dip. The third custom, a "symphema," which tests the skill and daring of the girls, they are gracefully cavorting about on the surface of a frozen lake, leaves him speechless, despite the presence of yet another Swedish delight behind the wheel of his vehicle.

A Dino De Laurentiis Production, "To Bed . . . Or Not To Bed," stars Sordi and Gian Luigi Polidoro, was acclaimed as the Best Picture of the Year at the 1963 Berlin Film Festival.

On the same program, the Park presents "Sandra and Woody", one of the funniest movies of the season-to-go, stars James Booth, Marisa Mell, Roy Kinnear and Alita Naughton. One complete show starts at 7.30 p.m.

What Else Is Jew?

TORONTO (CP) — All 32,655 seats at the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium will be sold for the Grey Cup game Saturday, Nov. 27.

In distributing the tickets for the game, bringing together the champions of the Eastern and Western Football Conference, 2,000 dacata come off the top for the various football leagues and ratepayers associations in the city.

Since the game is played here, 75 per cent of the remaining tickets go to the four EFC teams with 25 per cent to the five WFC clubs.

The eastern clubs—Hamilton, Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto—are allotted 4,000 tickets each and the conference champion receives an additional 4,500 for distribution.

Toronto Argonauts, as host for the annual fall spectacle, get an additional 1,660 tickets, giving them 5,660.

And since Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the WFC are in the middle of the CFL's geographic pack, the EFC allots that team another 500 tickets.

There will be no public sale of tickets for the game which is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. EST and will be seen nationally on the CBC and CTV television networks.

Victories on Machavoine in the fifth and Flaming Triumph in the seventh.

Allan Prince returned $50.40 and combined with Whirling Rich in the second for a $490.20 daily double. Quintella in Machavoine and Reefwalk returned $44.20.

Rochester Americans, taking aim at a record-breaking American Hockey League unbeaten str ·k, moved a step closer Friday night but it wasn't easy.

The free-wheeling Americans had to rely on a pair of powerplay goals early in the finals to without a loss since Oct. 24 by defeating Providence Reds 2-1.

They're still a long way back though since the AHL unbeaten record is 27 games.

In the only other league action Friday, Hershey Bears spoiled Baltimore Clippers a 2-0 first-period lead, then stormed back for a 4-2 victory over the Clippers at Baltimore.

SCORES SIXTH

In Rochester, Jim Pappin scored his sixth goal in five games since he was sent down by Toronto Maple Leafs to give the Americans a 1-0 lead midway through the second period.

But barely two minutes later Wayne Larkin evened the score by beating goaltender Gary Smith.

A penalty to Bob Blackburn early in the third period led the way to the winning goal, with rookie Mike Walton netting a 15-foot rebound.

The win left Rochester ahead by 10 points in the Western Division, and dropped Providence into fourth place in the East as Hershey snapped a third-place tie.

Myron Stankiewicz led Hershey's attack with two goals. Mike Mahoney and Nick Polano also scored. Clippers' scorers were Marc Dufour and Ken Schinkel.

George Royal Top Horse

TORONTO (CP) —George Royal, four - year - old gelding purchased for $1,500 as a yearling by Ernie Hammond of Vancouver and Bob Hall of Aldergrove, B.C., was named Canada's Horse of the Year Friday. Only six of 19 votes by turf writers and commentators in the annual poll by The Daily Racing Form were against the selection.

George Royal also was named best older horse of the year. Choice of 11 voters over Meldrum Bay, who was named best three-year-old.

In 13 starts this season George Royal won only two races. But they made up for his losses: He won the $125,000 Canadian Championship Handicap in Santa Anita, Calif., last March, and the Canadian Championship here at Woodbine Race Track.

He earned his owners $145,770 this season.

Victoria Era owned by Allen Case and Good Old Mort owned by Jeff Seidelman, both of Toronto, tied as Canada's best three-year-old.

Another Toronto horse, Titled Hero owned by Peter Marshall, was the unanimous choice as the best two-year-old.

Television Medics Not Having Very Good Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —This hasn't been a good television season for doctors.

The television medics are just as omniscient as ever, but their ratings have been ailing.

The latest casualty is Vincent Edwards intends to abandon after this season, has been trounced by Run For Your Life. The latter portrays Ben Gazzara as a man whose doctors give him two years to live (could Casey cure him?).

Dr. Kildare entered the new season in a trifle-tired version, half - hours appearing Monday and Tuesday night. The former obviously was patterned after last season's sensation, Peyton Place, which has proved fallible in the ratings this fall.

The young doc himself, Richard Chamberlain, says it still is too early to predict whether the show will continue as a half hour, return to the hour, or disappear at the end of the 1965-66 season.

DICK HAPPIER

"As for myself, I'm happier with the show this year," he remarked. "I think the scripts have been better, and I like the character of Kildare is much more to my liking.

"In previous years, Kildare was inclined to be too ingenuous, too easily impressed. Now his is more forceful, more decisive. I think he comes across a lot stronger."

"If the show is cancelled, the first thing would be for me to find a good feature film, either at MGM or on a loanout," said the actor, who is contracted for two more years at the studio. "I would also like to some summer stock, perhaps a play like Dore Schary's Sunrise at Campobello.

Chamberlain gets away from his hospital smock Nov. 29 on the Andy Williams Show. He'll demonstrate his progress in singing; he has studied voice since the start of his career.

TURNED THEMSELVES OUT

LONDON (CP)—Police chasing two thieves in a stolen car saw it take the wrong turning and drive into the forecourt of Scotland Yard. But they were just quick enough. The two men abandoned the car outside the police commissioner's office, circled a high wall and vanished in the crowds outside.

Thief Band At Oakville Broken Up

OAKVILLE (CP)—Five members of a highly-organized band of thieves who police said used walkie-talkies for communications during raids of the Ford Motor Co. plant here were arrested early Friday.

Oakville Police Chief F. W. Oliver said further investigations were being carried out in Hamilton and Toronto and more arrests were expected.

Police said charges have been laid against some of those arrested, but declined to say what the charges were or name the men involved.

Chief Oliver said more than $5,000 worth of car accessories were seized after a stake-out at the company Thursday night.

Ford officials declined to comment on the arrests.

Boy Seven Crippled, Needs Own Chores

DEAR DORIS: My little boy of seven is going to have to be in a wheel chair for two years. The doctor says he has a diseased hip and it will take that long to heal.

I want to know how I can keep him from getting spoiled all that time. The others are older and I guess we all tend to fuss over him. — MUM.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR MUM: Then stop fussing, all of you! Make no more difference between him and the others than necessary. Then have their jobs to do; he has his.

When the nine-year-old does dishes, roll up the wheel chair and have Sevenpy. He can help set table, fill salts and peppers, polish silver. Keep your imagination going to put challenges in his way.

School-work can be sent home to him. When the others run and play, he can turn to his special sit-down games and puzzles. Nobody, absolutely nobody, must give him sloppy sympathy. Just help, when it is needed. And praise, when he does well.

DEAR DORIS: A big discussion in our Young People's at church and in school has been on "have to" marriages and unwed mothers. As this is such a big problem now we, as teenagers, discuss this very often. We find that among us we know so little about the facts of life and, to speak frankly, exactly how a girl becomes pregnant.

Therefore, I am asking if you could give the names of some books or pamphlets on this subject and where I may order them from. — NEEDING TO KNOW.

DEAR NEEDING: A pet on the back for a group of girls who will discuss such things and share ideas; and for seeking the right information out of available books. There are good ones on the list (on Sex and Dating) which I am sending you, and the list also suggests a source of supply.

(Doris knows Canadian resources and can guide you to the help you need. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

- LOCAL HOTEL AND MOTEL OPERATORS ARE AMONG THE LARGEST TAX-PAYERS AND EMPLOYERS IN THE CITY.
- THIS IS ONE OF THE FEW METROPOLITAN AREAS WITHOUT LOUNGES, WHICH PLACES BELLEVILLE AT A BUSINESS DISADVANTAGE.
- COCKTAIL LOUNGES WILL BE OPERATED UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT.

Threats Enforce Rhodesian Strike

Laos Asks U.S. Help Against Red Invaders

From Reuters-AP

BANGKOK, Thailand (CP)—Laos appealed today for American arms to fight North Vietnamese troops who attacked the Laotian town of Thakhek on the Mekong river.

The Laotian military attaché here, Lt.-Col. Somsuk Singhsena, told reporters that two North Vietnamese battalions which attacked Tha Khek now were pinned down in nearby Phabon cave.

Laotian troops had counted 70 bodies, he said.

But another North Vietnamese battalion had been sent to aid the trapped forces, Col. Somsuk said.

He called on the U.S. to provide arms and ammunition for the battling Laotian forces.

DEMAND BREAK

In the Laotian capital of Vientiane, about 1,000 demonstrators protested today against the North Vietnamese attack and demanded that Laos break diplomatic relations with North Viet Nam.

The official North Vietnamese newspaper Nhan Dan accused Thailand of sending troops into Laos and allowing U.S. planes based in Thailand to bomb Communist sections of Laos as well as North Viet Nam.

The Soviet Union charged the United States with "continued aggressive actions" in Laos and warned of possible "serious consequences." A statement issued in Moscow said U.S. planes based in Laos and Thailand bombed and strafed two Laotian provinces, killing civilians and causing serious material damage.

The Russians proposed to Britain a British conference of U.S. military activities in Laos, foreign office spokesman in London said Britain was studying the Soviet proposal.

Britain and Russia are co-chairmen of the Geneva conference that set up a coalition Laotian government in 1962 in an attempt to remove Laos from the cold war.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Occasional light rain is expected to occur off and on throughout the day in the southern regions of the province. A disturbance moving in from Western Canada is causing intermittent light snow across Northern Ontario. Both these weather systems are expected to move to the east or us on Tuesday and little or no precipitation is expected Tuesday. However, skies are likely to remain dull and there will be little change in temperature.

SAIGON (CP) — Government forces fought off two heavy Viet Cong attacks today, and U.S. and South Vietnamese officers said at least 300 Viet Cong were killed.

Two U.S. army advisers were killed in the heaviest assault, by 1,500 Viet Cong on a battalion of 500 South Vietnamese rangers near Thach Tru, in Mekong River province 320 miles northeast of Saigon.

A battalion of U.S. marines was lifted by helicopter onto the hill to reinforce the rangers.

U.S. and South Vietnamese officers on the scene said at least 200 Viet Cong were killed. Associated Press correspondent George Esper said he counted more than 100 bodies.

Officials said government casualties were light, but Esper said their casualties appeared to be moderate.

Many of the Viet Cong were wearing brown khaki shirts and short black pants. A commendation button reading "Diet Bien Phu Battalion" was found on one of the bodies. This battalion fought in the decisive battle at Dien Bien Phu in 1954 where the Viet Minh defeated the French.

South Vietnamese troops were reported to have killed 100 Viet Cong in a fierce battle for control of the country's largest rubber plantation 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

The reports said a regimental government force was in pursuit of two guerrilla battalions after fighting back an attack on its command post and artillery position earlier today.

Will Include Red China In Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—UN diplomats predict that the General Assembly's main political committee will give overwhelming approval today to a world disarmament conference to include Communist China.

It was expected that 12 to 15 countries will abstain from voting, among them the United States and France, two of the five nuclear powers.

The resolution, sponsored by 43 countries, endorses the proposal for a world disarmament conference made by the Cairo summit meeting of non-aligned nations in October, 1964.

It urges "that the necessary consultations be conducted with all countries for the purpose of establishing a widely representative preparatory committee which will take appropriate steps for the convening of a world disarmament conference not later than 1967."

NDP Not For Sale --Douglas

OTTAWA (CP)—New Democratic Leader Douglas said Saturday night the minority Liberal government should be given a chance to present its program before being defeated on any non-confidence motion.

Mr. Douglas returned to Ottawa after being in his British Columbia riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam since the Nov. 8 general election, and he made it clear that his party will not support non - confidence motions proposed in the throne speech debate.

"All opposition groups should be prepared to give the government sufficient time to show what it intends to do," he said in an airport interview. It would be "unfortunate" if the Conservatives proposed a non-confidence motion on the question of integrity in government as soon as Parliament meets. And it said it would be "ridiculous" to propose such a motion on the economic arguments prior to the budget.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker has indicated he intends to test the government on the integrity issue at the first opportunity.

ISN'T FOR SALE

Mr. Douglas said the NDP is "not for sale" in the new Parliament but it would support the government on worthwhile legislation.

Mr. Douglas said that Prime Minister Pearson "would do well" to replace the defence cabinet ministers whose names came up in connection with the Munsinger report. Privy Council President Favreau "ought to be replaced."

He said there are indications of the Liberals moving toward the right. "The fact that (finance minister) Gordon's resignation was accepted would indicate this."

"Gordon was almost the only Canadian nationalist in a cabinet of continentalists" and his insistence that Canada retain control of the economy re-

Mark Second Anniversary Of Kennedy's Assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flowers of remembrance rested on President John F. Kennedy's hillside grave today on the second anniversary of his assassination. And thousands of persons remembered.

The president's widow was expected to send flowers to his grave, as she did on the first anniversary. Other members of the Kennedy family were expected to kneel at the white picket fence surrounding the grave in Arlington National Cemetery across the Potomac River from the capital.

President Johnson directed Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach to place a presidential wreath on the grave. Johnson was with Kennedy in Dallas when the young president was gunned down by an assassin's bullets.

On the eve of the anniversary, thousands walked up the hillside path to the grave.

Memorial services were scheduled in several cities today.

The president and Mrs. Johnson were to attend noon services at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Fredericksburg, Tex., in a peaceful rural setting about 15 miles from their ranch.

The services were to be conducted by Very Rev. Joseph J. Hildebrand, pastor of St. Mary's; Rabbi Judah Fish of Congregation Agudas Achim, Austin, and Rev. John Barclay, pastor of the Central Christian Church, Austin. Mr. Barclay was one of the clergymen who participated in Kennedy's 1961 inaugural.

In Dallas, Father Oscar Huber, the priest who gave the last rites to the late president, today offers a dedicatory prayer at the John F. Kennedy Living Centre, a home for exceptional children.

Also in Dallas, various church services were scheduled for today, including a memorial mass at the Sacred Heart Cathedral.

A wreath will be placed at the assassination site at the grassy edge of downtown Dallas by the Democratic Clubs of Dallas County.

Stopping Supplies Could Hurt Economy of Rhodesia

LONDON (Reuters) — Rhodesia could survive an all - out economic and trade boycott for some time but its economy might be gravely damaged, economic experts here believe.

They were commenting on Saturday's call from the Security Council asking UN members to "do their utmost" to sever economic ties with the breakaway colony and to stop its oil supplies.

Premier Ian Smith's chances of finding alternative oil sources in the heart of the question as to how long he can hold out. Most of the oil used by Rhodesia and neighboring Zambia is processed at a refinery at Durban, Rhodesia.

The crude oil comes almost entirely from Iran, which could stop the supply at the source if it joined an oil embargo.

It is shipped from Iran to the port of Beira, in the Portuguese colony of Mozambique on the east coast of Africa, and taken by pipeline to the Umtali refinery.

Of the oil firms owning the refinery, Shell and British Petroleum each have a 20.75-per-cent share, Mobil 17.75 per cent, Total 15.75 per cent and small American independent companies 15 per cent.

Economic experts said Smith might look to Angola in Portuguese West Africa or to South Africa to get the oil Rhodesia's needs of 400,000 tons of oil a year.

A five-year trade agreement between Rhodesia and Portugal,

Runaway Boy Gives Police Run

BROCKVILLE (CP) — A 10-year-old boy was returned to his home Sunday after leading police on a false trail and claiming three Montrealers had kidnapped him.

Provincial police here said the boy ran away from home and stowed away in the back of a covered pickup truck parked outside a downtown Toronto hotel early Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Laperle and a friend, Yvon Henaud, started on their way home to Montreal without knowing they had a passenger. Four hours later they stopped at a service station here for gasoline and a meal.

Shortly after they left, the boy told the service station owner, Clifford Dupont, the occupants of the truck had kidnapped him in Montreal and tied him up in the back of the vehicle. He said he'd untied himself and escaped while the truck was at the station.

Mr. Gilmore called police who stopped the truck at Prescott, about 15 miles east of Brockville, and ordered the occupants to return to Brockville for questioning.

But as soon as he saw the police cruiser, the boy ran into dense bush along the highway. The Montrealers were detained more than two hours while five officers searched the bush.

When they caught the boy, he denied everything and Mr. and Mrs. Laperle and Mr. Henaud were allowed to drive on.

A Metropolitan Toronto policeman and a policewoman drove to Brockville Sunday to take the boy home.

JOHNSON WILL ATTEND

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson will attend memorial services for John F. Kennedy Nov. 25 at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Fredricksburg, Tex. It is the second anniversary of president Kennedy's assassination at Dallas.

Nationalists Make Workers Stay At Home

BULAWAYO (Reuters) — Thousands of Negroes staged strikes today in the Rhodesian cities of Bulawayo and Gwelo, and many of them said they had been threatened by Negro nationalists.

Police were called to factories in Gwelo, 100 miles north of here, after Negroes told their employers they had been threatened with beatings if they disobeyed strike orders.

Later some were persuaded to start work.

In Bulawayo, the country's main industrial centre, thousands of Negroes stayed away from work after groups of nationalists toured nearby Negro townships urging a general strike.

Nationalists formed pickets to bar workers leaving for the city. In one incident a bus was badly damaged despite police escorts.

ARE FIRST

Today's stoppages were the first reported to be called by Negroes to calls for a general strike since Ian Smith's government seized independence from Britain 11 days ago.

In Salisbury today, Governor Humphrey Gibbs continued to defy efforts by Smith to oust him from Government House. He celebrated his 63rd birthday with a small party attended by Lady Gibbs, his banker brother Sir Geoffrey Gibbs who flew here from London during the weekend, and Rhodesia's Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle.

Clifford Dupont, appointed by the Smith government as acting officer administering the government in place of the governor, started work today at Governor's Lodge three miles away.

The country today still awaited any signs of international rationing following a United Nations Security Council resolution for sanctions-including an oil embargo—against the breakaway state.

Sources close to the government said it was likely no decision would be made until it was seen if the oil embargo could be maintained effectively.

An embargo would also badly hit Zambia, Rhodesia's northern neighbor, the sources said.

Dominican Revolt Quelled

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) —A small armed band proclaimed itself in rebellion in a central mountain province today but was reported captured. It was said to have been led by a rightist.

The group, of about 10 men, including some peasants, occupied the radio station at the town of Tamboril, a small community south of Santiago and about 70 miles north of here.

They played a tape recording announcing the creation of a "revolutionary democratic government." They said the group was arrested without trouble and taken to Santiago.

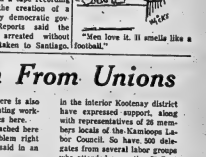
Princess Rests On Sunday

NEW YORK (AP)—Princess Margaret, sidelined by fatigue Sunday, swings back into a marathon pace today with visits to Wall Street, art galleries, a culture centre, Wall Street and city hall.

With only two full days left on her three-week U.S. tour, the princess is finishing with a bang. The royal party leaves Wednesday.

Today's itinerary called for the Princess and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, to be up by 9 a.m., drive 25 miles from Manhasset on Long Island to New York City and be present at the first Fifth Avenue department store by 10:15 a.m.

The Princess was to visit four other stores, open a bazaar, visit galleries, lunch with 4 businessmen, be greeted by New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner, tour Lincoln Centre for the Performing Arts, then hurry home and change for a whirlwind of evening parties.



The Princess and Lord Snowdon stayed up until 4 a.m. Sunday at a theatrical party at which Broadway producer Joshua Logan was host.

Some six hours later, appearing a bit sleepy, they attended services at St. John's of Lattingtown Episcopal (Anglican) Church at Locust Valley.

Afterward, the couple paid their respects to the rector, Rev. Howard M. Lowell, and the Princess returned to the home of Mrs. Whitney Stone at Manhasset, on Long Island, where they stayed overnight. Whitney, their host, is a former U.S. ambassador to Britain and publisher of the New York Herald Tribune.

The Princess had hoped to go to New Canaan, Conn., with her husband to visit architect Philip Johnson's glass house and new underground museum, but time is completion just for their visit.

But a statement released by the British Information Service said the Princess wanted to rest. "In view of the busy schedule of events ahead."

"Men love it. It smells like a football."

B.C. General Strike Call For Wednesday Gets Mixed Reaction From Unions

VANCOUVER (CP)—A call for a general strike by British Columbia is getting a mixed reaction from labor unions. The strike deadline is midnight Wednesday.

There was support from bus drivers, pulp workers, some building trades, postal workers, woodworkers, civic and municipal employees and various labor councils across the province.

A spokesman for the Kamloops local of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) said:

"This is the closest thing to an insurrection, only one step from a revolution. But this is the only course we can take."

Meanwhile, the powerful Teamsters Union (Inc.) was reported cool to the idea of the two-day strike. The 6,000-member International Association of Machinists (CLC) rejected it but would respect picket lines. And the 5,000 members of the Hospital Employees Union have been instructed to remain on their jobs in 54 major hospitals in the province.

Ed Lawson, president of the Joint Teamsters Council of B.C., said the strike would violate union contracts. "We have a long-standing rule in our union: if you make a good contract, enforce it; if you make a bad contract, live by it."

He declined to say what will be recommended to a Teamsters meeting here tonight.

The call for a 48-hour general strike was made last week by the 110,000-member B.C. Federation of Labor (CLC) to show solidarity for a proposed strike by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) against all oil companies in the province.

The oil workers now are on strike against British American Oil Co. plants and a subsidiary of Imperial Oil Co. Ltd. The union also has struck a Shell Co. operation on the Prairies and BA operations extending as far east as Clarkson, Ont.

Main issue is job security. The union demands protection against automation that can cost jobs. It also seeks a wage increase.

The union says it will strike all oil companies in B.C. at midnight Wednesday if there is no settlement. The general strike would start at the same time.

The government and employers representatives have said repeatedly a general strike would be illegal and unions and their leaders are inviting suit.

The mediation efforts of Reg Clements, provincial labor mediation officer called in last Wednesday, continued during the weekend. He would only say Sunday he consulted with "various interested parties."

Top executives of the union and oil companies arrived here from Eastern Canada. J. R. Duncan, Canadian director of the union, met with Labor Minister Leslie Peterson and Mr. Clements. He said there is also a committee representing workers in other provinces here.

"Any settlement reached here would affect the members of Canada," he said in an interview.

The 6,000-member New Westminster local of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) has voted to support the 48-hour walkout.

Some 1,300 members of the Vancouver Civic Employees Union, who handle everything from garbage collection to construction in the city, are backing it.

Spokesmen for 10,000 unionists in the interior Kootenay district have expressed support, along with representatives of 26 members locals of the Kamloops Labor Council. So have 500 delegates from several labor groups who attended a meeting in Port Alberni on Vancouver Island.

B.C. has more than 1,000 labor organizations, large and small, with a membership of 227,000 men. They represent about 42 per cent of the 531,000 paid workers in the province.

A two-day shutdown of major industry would cost the province $30,000,000, according to Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Captain Claims Pilots to Blame For Groundings

KINGSTON (CP) — Captain Christantinos Samonas, 41, of the Greek freighter Proiostatis blames Canadian seaway pilots for the two groundings of his ship.

The 7,500-ton ocean-going vessel ran aground Tuesday for the second time in six weeks on Wolfe island in the St. Lawrence River. Salvaging experts say it's not likely the ship will be refloated before the seaway closes Dec. 3.

Captain Samonas said through an interpreter Friday the Prostatis was at the mercy of tug boats when it ran aground.

He said two pilots assigned to the ship by the Canadian government were on the tug boats instead of his ship.

Captain Samonas said had the pilots been on the freighter they would have realized there was not enough water in the channel to float the freighter which requires 21½ feet of water. He said there was only 19 feet of water in the channel Tuesday.

Captain Samonas said the pilot was two miles off course when the freighter ran aground near Picton, Ont., Oct. 1.

Seaway pilots were not immediately available for comment.

Church Union Not Religious Society Dr. A. B. B. Moore Says at Bridge St. Church

A century and a half has passed and gone since a small group of God-fearing men and women met at a little village, then known as Meyers' Creek, but now as the city of Belleville, to form a church for the worship and glory of God. On Sunday in commemoration of this event, members, adherents, and visitors from Albert College met to worship and render unto God their thanks for His unfailing love, by music, by chimes, organ, and choir.

The Reverend Dr. A. B. B. Moore, D.D., LL.D., president of Victoria University, Toronto, read the Scripture, and brought the message, "The One Church," basing his talk on the same passage read, Paul's epistle to the Church at Ephesus, Ephs. 4:1-16.

COMMITTEE OF TEN

Dr. Moore introduced by the Reverend Harry M. Davis, was born in New Brunswick, the son of a Congregational minister, is a graduate of McGill University, Montreal, and of Oxford University, England. After serving in Quebec, Ottawa and Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, he became president of Victoria University. He is also the author of a book entitled "Jesus Christ and the Christian Life," as well as being chairman of the United Church's committee of ten on Christian unity between the Anglican and United Churches.

In his impressive talk, he stressed how great are our privileges, as compared to some in distant lands, where only 200 young people out of 3,000 had the opportunity to attend high school, and of the 200 but a few could continue their education. Our privileges here are great, but so are our responsibilities.

UNITY NEEDED

As Paul stressed unity in the Ephesian Church, so there is being put forth attention for unity in the church today; we are concerned because Jesus prayed for our unity, "that they all may be one." All the Scripture writers refer to the oneness of the church, the body of Christ. The church is not a social society, but is a part of one fellowship.

NOT A DREAM

There is one body; one spirit; one hope; one Lord, one faith; one love, and one baptism. Church union is not a dream; we need to discover one Spirit moving in God's chosen way with one faith. The Church must recognize the Word of God, and make up its mind regarding Jesus Christ, on whom our faith must be centred. Paul recognized this need.

Church union is not seeking to make a massive religious society, but the following of Jesus Christ as Lord, one faith and one baptism. The whole human family is facing a crisis around the world, in Viet Nam; Rhodesia; and in other places. We must be concerned with our brothers no matter where. There must be one God; one Church; and one family. The Church must confront the world as one. It is time, on this anniversary, to think of these things; to commit ourselves as one fellowship, and remember we are worshiping one God, have one faith; one baptism, one God and Father of all."

Dr. Moore, in conclusion, mentioned that during an Anglican communion service, in Vancouver, B.C., the Archbishop of Africa, Dr. DeNeil, expressed the thought that "It is time to do something about church union."

For this 150th anniversary service the lovely chimes of "The Church's One Foundation" softly stole into the nave which was well filled, as was that of the gallery. A beautiful white and cream chrysanthemum, mingled with spikes of gladioli and pompons, made a pleasing offertory table with its centring cross, flanked by tall, white candles in burnished brass holders. The anthem, "O Praise Ye the Lord," the lovely organ music, and the glorious hymns made this anniversary one long to be remembered.

EVANGELISTIC MISSION

"The mission of the Church is to provide the public worship of God; to preach the Redeeming Love of Christ; to welcome the strangers; to comfort the sorrowing and help the needy; to nurture the people of Christian fellowship; to serve the community, the nation, and a needy world."

Swimming Leadership Clinic Held

A leadership clinic for swimming instructors was held this past weekend in Belleville with sessions on Saturday evening at the Bay of Quinte Country Club and Sunday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A. pool. Organized by the Y.M.C.A. with co-sponsorship by the Community Programs Branch of the Ontario Department of Education the clinic was conducted by R.E. (Dick) Lough, Aquatic Director of the Central Y.M.C.A. Toronto. Mr. Lough is Ontario Commissioner for Y.M.C.A. Aquatics. He was assisted by Ken Balmer, an instructor at Central Y.M.C.A. and the University of Toronto. Instruction was given in teaching beginners, in the intermediate level of Y.M.C.A. instruction and in the standard competitive strokes with films being shown of the latter. Those taking part included Y.M.C.A. swimming instructors and staff as well as several from Albert College. Requests have been made by a number of those who were present for further clinics of a similar nature for local instructors who were not present, particularly for junior assistant instructors, Y.M.C.A. Officials are considering arrangements for such further clinics.

Stolen Tickets Will Not Be Honored

TORONTO (CP) — It's hard to get good Grey Cup tickets. You can't even steal them.

A thief who stole 104 tickets for the annual fall football classic from cup coordinator Tony McBrien's office during the weekend got the worst of the deal.

All seats numbered on the tickets for the game here Saturday no longer exist.

They are for 812 seats that were removed three years ago.

The thief neglected another drawer filled with 400 legitimate tickets.

"I am sure the thief will try to sell the tickets," Mr. McBrien warns. "But they will not be honored."

Printing plates made from the master plan of CNR stadium when the first Grey Cup game was played there have not been revised.

Mr. McBrien said it is cheaper to continue printing the outdated tickets than to change the original plate used fly making them.

Theatre Guild to Present Oscar Wilde's Comedy

"Belleville Theatre Guild late next week rises from the ashes of a disastrous fire with the smoking presentation of a playwright who once personally played to full houses here.

Now in its final stages of preparation is Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest."

While its presentation will show its audience a play roaring with easy laughter in every other line, its success will be hard-won and for with "The Importance" the Guild now is tackling that most difficult of stage ventures — a theatre classic.

"The Importance" crowns a milestone in theatre fashioned simply by Wilde at the end of the Victorian age and standing quite alone in the history of stage.

It was the last of a quartet of brilliant comedies, which suddenly flowered from Wilde's pen during the last days of his public favor. It is also the greatest. Its outrageous situations, tumbling over each other and paced by wit that is peerless bride, make the plays' flawless theatre in any period.

For the Guild, however, its production presents a double-loaded challenge.

Earlier this year the group was among victims of a fire which wiped out a business block on Front Street. In the flames went the Guild's model theatre, its costumes and accessory.

While the players, under the guidance of veteran director Jim Alexander faced the aesthetic tasks of the production, the Guild's backroom people have been creating brand-new costumes and scenery.

The set, designed by Toni Bassing, is arranged to give an all-important background to the comedy, complementing the costumes of Ann Boyle.

Names by now are known to local theatre audiences fill out the cast of players — Flo Yanover, Margo Hall, Peter and Karen Williamson and Peter Kitcher.

Incidentally, Wilde is probably one of the few famous playwrights who ever appeared personally before a Belleville audience.

He lectured here in 1882 — 13 years before penning "The Importance" — and his visit was the astonishment of the season.

He played to a crowded house — at the old city hall auditorium — and only with difficulty made his way through the throng.

Now, the city's Theatre Guild hopes to repeat his personal record with audiences with the presentation of his greatest work.

News of Wilde's ignominious death in a Paris tenement was first published in The Intelligencer December 1, 1900.

Ironically, December 1 next week — 65 years to the day — the Theatre Guild holds the dress - rehearsal of his masterpiece — perhaps the happiest comedy in English theatre.

300 Votes Cast in Advance Polls

An exceptionally heavy advance poll vote for today's liquor plebiscite has been reported by City Clerk Adam Dafoe.

There were two advance polls for the liquor vote, one at city hall and the other at the east end shopping plaza with more than 300 votes cast at the two locations.

But today it was a different story and with the exception of a flurry between eight and nine o'clock, the polls were quiet up to the noon hour.

Ontario Needs Housing Plan Says Thompson

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—What Ontario needs "is not a public housing program but a complete housing program," says Andrew Thompson, Ontario Liberal leader.

Speaking Saturday to the annual conference of the Ontario University Liberal Federation, Mr. Thompson said leadership in the field of housing must come from the provincial government.

He said the Conservative government is not accepting any responsibility for housing "one of the most important elements in our social life."

Recent amendments to the National Housing Act have given governments at municipal governments a freer hand to build public housing. With the setting up of the Ontario Housing Corp., all municipalities have to do now is "push the button," Mr. Thompson said.

LEADERSHIP IS ANSWER

But some of the municipal politicians have had difficulty in finding the button. The answer must lie in greater leadership on the part of the province, the Liberal leader said.

Ontario's cities are growing wild, and the province now must think seriously of land use controls, he said. Properly-handled controls and planning could help to stop urban sprawl, by the hearts of cities by shifting people and industry to well planned out communities on the outskirts.

Mr. Thompson suggested the province, with the help of the municipalities, must immediately plan for new towns on the outskirts of Toronto, Hamilton and other large cities—communities of about 50,000 persons.

Text of Mr. Thompson's remarks was released to the press in advance oldelivery.

Soo Bowler Wins Women's 10-Pin Title

HAMILTON (CP) — Muriel DePaulo of Sault Ste. Marie was crowned the singles champion of the Ontario women's 10-pin bowling tournament that wound up here Sunday night.

Because of the large entry list of 1,033 bowlers, the competition had to be spread over two weekends. Muriel DePaulo rolled her winning triple to 654 a week ago.

Second place went to B. Black of London with a 642 and third place to Dorothy Castellaa of Hamilton with a 646.

The same situation occurred in the doubles, with last week's leaders taking the crown. Bernadette Scott and N. Clarke of London had rolled a 1,222 to top the first flight of doubles competitors.

Robert and Z. Bonner of Kitchener posted a 1,204 for second place while Millie Handschumacher of Windsor was a mere frame the same city took third with a 1,194.

Tournament officials said that the all-event winner will not be known until all the results can be compiled later in the week.

Students Ask Recognition of French

KINGSTON (CP) — The Ontario region of the Canadian Union of Students will ask the Ontario legislature to recognize the French language as a second official language in all dealings with education.

Delegates attending a weekend meeting of the Ontario region passed a resolution Saturday asking that the legislature utilize French in all its sanctions, publications and all matters dealing with education.

The delegates also resolved to ask the legislature to present a means test for obtaining student aid in both French and English.

The proposals were the upshot of a brief presented to delegates from Laurentian University at Sudbury.

The promise of a $1,000 government grant to the CUS Ontario region highlighted a meeting of union delegates by Dr. J. R. McCarthy, deputy minister of student affairs for Ontario.

Dr. McCarthy said the grant is to be used for further study of a high school visitation programme.

Soviet Exhibit

A good example of the moderating influences which have taken hold in Russia in the last few years is its decision to make a large contribution to the Montreal World's Fair, or Expo 67 as it has come to be known.

A Moscow report says Russia is particularly interested in the pavilion dedicated to the theme Man the Explorer. It is one of the five special pavilions planned for the fair within the general theme Man and His Universe.

The Russians are said to be planning a $15 million national pavilion for the Montreal event and will show among other things the development of Arctic communities and construction in the permafrost zone. In this sphere they lead the world.

Arctic regions have long interested the Russians, a fact borne out by the attendance of no fewer than 29 Soviet experts at recent talks in Moscow between Canadian officials and representatives of 10 countries invited to participate in this particular sector of Expo 67.

Russian stenographers took minutes of the meeting and these were circulated to the Soviet Academy of Sciences and other government agencies that might become involved in the Soviet exhibit.

The Soviets still make a big show with their missiles in Red Square—on Labor Day and on other occasions—but it is clear they are just as anxious to show the world their accomplishments in other spheres. Space technology is another obvious choice for the Soviet exhibit. With the Russians giving a lead, Expo 67 is bound to attract large contributions from the United States and Britain, not to mention countries like Sweden, France and West Germany.

French Without Tears

Mrs. Jacqueline Matte's contribution to Canada's centennial in 1967 is the development of a crash program of conversational French based on situations a visitor might encounter at Expo 67.

A native of Blind River, Ontario, and fully bilingual, Mrs. Matte teaches French in Oakville. She is currently giving tuition to 42 Oakville adults at night school, as a pilot project to demonstrate her idea to Expo officials.

Mrs. Matte, a 39-year-old widow with three children, developed and taught a special one-year crash program of conversational French to 100 foremen and engineers of General Motors Corporation of Oshawa before they were sent to open a new plant at St. Therese, Quebec. She is working on a similar program for another firm.

She thinks more adults would learn French if it were made more interesting. Her theory —and it makes sense—is that the learning of a language can be made more stimulating if it is related to everyday situations. None of that "plume de ma tante" nonsense for Mrs. Matte!

25-mile Walk

Stirling high school has set a fine example for other schools with its 25-mile cross-country walk. Five students, including a girl, and two teachers, recently covered the distance. There were 11 starters, among them three girls.

This is as fine a way as any of enjoying the outdoors. It gives participants a new slant on life, provides contrast in an otherwise workaday and exam-filled world, and not least promotes physical fitness.

However, lest the students feel like bragging they might pause to consider the achievement of A. H. Reed, New Zealand publisher, author and long-distance walker.

Mr. Reed is 89 and has just returned to his Auckland home after whiling the 640 miles from Sydney to Melbourne. This is nothing new to Mr. Reed. He has been pounding out the miles in similar fashion over a period of many years.

Jet Plane Incident

In the United States it is getting to the point where you cannot make an airline flight without some misguided passenger pulling a gun and trying to divert the plane to Cuba.

The latest in the long chronicle of flying neurotics is a 16-year-old Brownsville, Texas, youth, who wanted to go to Cuba to help anti-Castro political prisoners.

It makes one wonder every time one boards a plane whether the passengers are all in their right minds, or whether some fool has secreted a bomb in the cabin, or wants to hijack the plane.

In the case of the Brownsville youth, since he lives on the Mexican border he might better have tried to get to Cuba that way instead of endangering the lives of 91 passengers on a jet aircraft.

Woman Upset Over Breast Discharge

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Mrs. E.P.D. wrote of a greenish fluid from her breasts. She has had the problem eight months. I have had this same thing for 12 years. You advised her to see a doctor.

I know how worried Mrs. E. P. D. is; I've been worried since my early 30's. Perhaps someone can help. — Mrs. G. H.

Breast discharges should be taken seriously, since some of them are a sign of grave trouble. Others are not.

Since you have had yours for 12 years, it must be the benign or innocent type. Please stop being fearful.

What causes such discharges? You doubtless know that there can be a leaking of milk after a woman has stopped nursing a baby. This is wilkish.

Later, ordinarily at 40 or so but sometimes earlier, a gray or greenish discharge can appear from the nipple. This seldom leaks out, but can be expressed by gentle pressure. Again, the color may be yellowish, and stain underclothing.

These discharges are of innocent origin. That is to say, they do not represent serious danger. The breast, of course, is composed of many small secreting glands. Some of them may become sealed. They become cysts. Fluid from the cysts can leak out, or be expressed. Then you have the type of discharge you describe.

The flow which should cause instant concern is a dark brown or bloody color. This may (not always will) mean cancer, and must have immediate treatment.

In such cases, a mass or lump usually can be detected. A pap test of the fluid can be performed to see if malignant cells exist. If a mass is present, it should be removed for microscopic examination — but the chances, not the odds, are benign, unless it shows malignancy.

For the greenish or yellowish discharges, once examination has disclosed no lump, and a Pap test shows no malignancy, you can feel secure that nothing ominous has developed.

A checkup once or twice a year is a precaution. (It's a good idea anyway.) But there is no cause to alarm.

As for preventing the discharge, I can offer no effective method, except to hope that it will cease spontaneously.

My urging that Mrs. E. P. D. see her physician concerning the discharge is not in contradiction that this small seepage necessarily can be halted, but to make sure that a more serious condition (cancer) does not underly it.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is 16 and hasn't begun her period. I have taken her to the doctor for a physical but he could find nothing wrong I am concerned. What should I do now? — Mrs. C. S.

There is a very considerable difference in the time for equally healthy girls. Under the circumstances my advice is (a) to stop being concerned; (b) wait another year. The problem may well have solved itself by that time. While the average for periods to start is earlier, it is by no means uncommon for some delay as in this case.

Leif Ericson First Here

Ottawa Journal

Yale University abandoned all scholarly calm with the announcement of "the most exciting cartographic discovery of the century."

The university has come into possession of a map dated 1440 AD which makes the Norwegian Leif Ericson the first explorer in history to land on the North American mainland in the year 999 AD.

Without fear of what the Italians would think and apparently hardly a thought to the reputation of Christopher Columbus, Yale says its map makes Ericson the true discoverer of the New World. To shows its absolute dedication to the cause of truth, the university came out with its news two days before the observance of that considerable American holiday, Columbus Day on Oct. 12.

But by now the Italians (and the Spaniards who supplied the funds) should be able to take calmly any attempt to downgrade Columbus. The world has been hearing for years of the Scandinavians who touched the shores of North America. Historians have long agreed that Leif Ericson, and probably his father, Eric the Red, came from Greenland. The discovery of a Swiss monk's map is merely the first documentary evidence of Ericson's travelling.

Even the Italians had an optional nominee of their own in John Cabot from Genoa whose landing in Cape Breton Island in 1497 brought him much closer to North American mainland than Columbus ever came.

But Columbus was the colonizer. It was he men who "sold" North America to Europe. That can't be taken away from him. The American historian Samuel Eliot Morison says that Columbus' discovery was the "reflective" one "from which all American settlement stems."

Leif Ericson was smarter, however. He took a look at this cold, raw continent and decided to leave it be.

U.K. "Celebration"

Calgary Albertan

Next year the British will celebrate—of all things—their defeat at the hands of the forces of William the Conqueror at the Battle of Hastings 900 years before.

Understandably, Frank Hennessy, while previewing the festivities on the BBC world service English Magazine program, wondered about the irony of celebrating such a black day in British history.

However, the organizer, Group Capt Ralph Ward, stood his ground by explaining that the real reason for celebrating was not the defeat but the fusion of Norman and Anglo Saxon blood which followed and joined those two major streams in the British race.

Strictly Personal

Drivers Are Like Jekyll And Hyde

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The man and I stepped into the elevator together, and he was a model of courtesy; he let me go first, he punched a button for a woman passenger, he was all relaxed affability.

We walked out of the building door together, and into our respective cars, which were parked across the street. He took off first, and I followed him. It was like watching John Barrymore change from Dr. Jekyll to Mr. Hyde.

Within the first block, he passed a car on the right side, blasted his horn at a motorist who failed to start the moment the light turned green, and italicized another car's left wheels as I watched to it. When he turned off, I breathed a sigh of relief, but was looking for trouble, and was bound to find it sooner or later.

It's a wonder that some enterprising team of social psychologists hasn't done a study in depth on the somewhat peculiar relations of the automobile as a means of expression. I'm utterly convinced that most of what we call "accidents" on the road aren't true accidents at all, but rather a form of warfare, using the car as a weapon.

What is it about the vehicle that turns an otherwise polite and considerate person into an hysterical anarchist behind the wheel?

This root question has never been answered, or even explored fully, to the best of my knowledge. Yet I think it touches the core of the problem of our monolithic traffic fatalities — 10 percent higher last year than the year before — more than the discussion of superficial ways or safety devices or driver's tests.

Somehow, most of our frustrations and tensions and hostilities (which we are afraid or ashamed to express in our personal transactions) become channeled into cars and driving attitudes. No pedestrian would dare to behave on a sidewalk as he behaves behind the wheel; and in no other social situation do presumably "normal" people act with such ruthless disregard for the elementary rules of safety and decency.

I don't have an answer, somehow, both weapon and symbol, it is, perhaps, the one remaining way in which the powerless can assume power, in which the henpecked husband or oppressed lover or discontented adolescent or tyrannized employee can achieve "parity" with the rest of the world.

There is no other rational explanation for the 40,000 auto fatalities a year, for the half-million injuries and $10 billion in property damage. It is a fantastic manifestation of mass hysteria, which the police are impotent to control, and which society itself scarcely sees as a problem. Reckless homicide has become our legalized national sport.

British Have Seen It All

Kingston Whig-Standard

The British are in no doubt about what they are as a people. They are not like, unhappy, restless Canadians, for instance. They are in a bad way economically and perhaps in other ways. But they are solidly British; they are what they are. They have been through the mill a thousand times in their long history and their experience—for example of being conquered for centuries at a time and energized different each time but more and more British—might profit the rest of us to contemplate.

Our troubles, after all, are simple and very new. We are a people without a history if we consider ourselves as detached from our roots. We are only at the beginning of our struggles and the only thing that will give us the strength to assert our identity is a determination to be what we are no matter how frightening — or seductive—the alternatives.

Kiss Ruse Won Votes

Toronto Telegram

Reports indicate that a substantial number of citizens are in the "undecided" category.

Perhaps a kiss may induce them to make up their minds. And we don't mean babies. Why waste it on people who have no vote to cast?

For the information of all leaders of all parties, to be used by the 21st, we point out that the kiss played a notable part in swinging votes in the 1966 election in England.

Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire, was celebrated for her beauty as for her daring, undertook to kiss any man who would promise to vote for Fox.

This method of canvassing proved enormously popular, to the extent that the opposition, observing their dwindling support, persuaded a Mrs. Robert Robart to perform the same duty.

Mrs. Robart agreed to abandon her native modesty in the service of her party, but her efforts, unfortunately, were not as successful as were the charms of the duchess because she was somewhat stout.

The lesson is too obvious to require explanation, and when applied should do much to enliven public enthusiasm in the present proceedings—and far more interesting than truth squads or coloring books.

Letter to the Editor

City Sidewalks In Poor Shape

Editor,
The Intelligencer. .

On November 3rd, a letter written by E. Alex Gordon appeared in The Intelligencer. He is much concerned about the condition of a sidewalk between Cedar Street and Coleman Street. He describes it as being in deplorable condition.

I note that when some one finally decides to complain, through The Intelligencer, about conditions which have long been neglected and have developed into a menace to safety the writer invariably draws attention to that part of the city with which he is best acquainted and, that, of course, is only natural.

However, the pitiful truth is that sidewalks, in general, throughout the older parts of Belleville are a disgrace to the city and are a contributing factor to the down-grading of Belleville in the estimation of visitors and possibly big business men seeking suitable industrial sites.

It seems to be the general opinion that the city is responsible for sidewalks in general. In an effort to establish just who is responsible, I approached an engineer of a certain city and was definitely informed that the property owner pays for the sidewalk repairs and replacement. Later on, I was informed by another engineer of a certain city and his reply was and I quote, "The city is compelled to keep them in repair during the lifetime of the sidewalk which is usually ten years for concrete sidewalks constructed as local improvements. However, it is the present practice of the city to keep the entire walks in repair for a lot longer than the ten-year period."

Somehow, this does not make good sense.

I also discussed this matter with a former engineer of a well known Ontario town and he said, "I was reeve for many years and the town looked after the sidewalks; I never knew of any ten-year limit."

Naturally, I was confused and that is my reason for writing this letter, in the hope that any or other responsible authority to state in the Intelligencer, just who is the practice in the City of Belleville.

If a city, is responsible for a period of only ten years, then it does appear that the use of city funds for an indefinite longer time could be questioned. Also, If a city is responsible for ten years only, it follows that the property owner must be held responsible for repair to sidewalks after the ten-year period, which should cause him to hasten to have such repairs made and for obvious reasons.

If it is decreed that this city is responsible for such repairs for all time, then I have this to say. It seems useless to appeal to our council members of the past five years for action in this matter of sidewalk repairs. Unless we can have outside assistance, I fear the candidates in the forthcoming municipal election that they will work to immediately establish a large scale repair project for all of older Belleville, I can not see much point in residents of old Belleville taking time to cast their ballots for anything other than the by-laws.

Tires which even when defiated give a smooth, safe, 100-mile run at more than 50 miles an hour have been developed by a well-known United Kingdom company. The tires are of a type which was specially produced to solve a vital war problem; that of enabling vehicles to keep running under heavy enemy fire. Bullet-proof tyres have been found inadequate, since, owing to the high degree of internal heat generated, they were absolutely unusable in hot climates. The new tires not only overcame this problem of internal heat but also able to carry a full load for long distances even when penetrated by bullets or shrapnel. Stability and handling control when the tire is at zero pressure are ensured by a special body construction consisting of a stiff rubber liner secured to the inside of the tire. The inside walls are thus strengthened to stand up under a heavy load without depending for support on inflation pressure. The danger of the deflated tire skipping on the rim is eliminated by means of a spacer band or bead lock.

Age of Discretion

An Ontario magistrate maintains that drivers' licences should not be issued until applicants are 25 years of age. Let us all stand up and give the man — a Daniel come to judgment—three hearty cheers!

This makes far better sense that the prevailing tendency to make the driving age lower and lower. Such permissiveness is kind neither to the child nor to the person who may be killed or maimed.

Hubby's Flirting Too Much to Take

DEAR DORIS: On our wedding day while I was having my picture taken my husband left the room and was kissing my bridesmaids. At our reception he was with them most of the time. When our son was born I went to my mother's until I felt better; and he forgot to come and get us until the day after he said he would.

He flirts. He as much as told me he wanted a certain woman and wouldn't rest until he got her. Once I threatened to leave him and he promised to do many things. He tells me he loves me very much but I can't believe him, even though he does seem to be doing a little better.

All I want to do is leave, but I don't want to take the kids out of their home because they do love their father. — HURT TOO MUCH.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR HURT: Can't say I blame you; how long can a person keep believing, when hopes are constantly being dashed?

Yet if he is now really trying, and you meet every effort with mistrust, won't he begin thinking, "What's the use of trying?"

I hold no brief for him; but I do hold one for the married estate. And for your children. So I suggest a recap, and a long look at just how attractive you are to him.

There is going to have to be some plain and fancy giving and trusting, both ways, if you are to stay married.

DEAR DORIS: A pen pal of mine is coming down from the North with a friend. I was wondering if I should have them sleep at my house (only place is living room couch.) They are only staying for the weekend.

Should I cook for them? They want my girl friend to show them all the sights. Should we put on a show or dance, should my girl friend and I pay for anything we go and see or eat?

My friend and I really want to make a good impression on these boys. — HINTS, PLEASE.

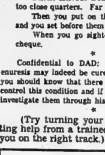
DEAR HINTS: Don't ruin a happy pen-friendship with too close quarters. Far better they should stay in a motel.

Then you put on the dog when they come to dinner; and you eat before them but you can do in taste treats.



When you go sight-seeing or dancing they pick up the cheque.

Confidential to DAD: Now that your son is married, the neurosis may indeed be cured, as the psychiatrist predicted. But you should know that there are many nowadays which can help control this condition and if your son still has trouble, he should investigate them through his doctor.

(Try turning your trouble into triumph by getting help from a trained social worker. Doris can put you on the right track.)

CHRISTMAS PLACE MATS

Dear Susanna: Last December the wives in our Church Club prepared supper for our 40 members in the church basement. We used fresh table decoration idea but felt we did not want to become involved in anything complicated, frivolous or expensive. One of the girls came up with a plan that was new to us and the tables turned out beautifully.

To give the occasion a seasonal party touch, and to brighten up the drab surroundings, she had us cach cut out a pair of lovely Christmas - red place mats. These were made from, of all things, heavy blotting paper.

We arranged to use the old white table cloths as usual, but they only served as a background against which the pretty mats were displayed. It was like child's play making them, however, they certainly brought out the oohs and aahs by the score when the places were set.

One sheet of 12" x 18" blotting paper (11 cents) makes two mats. Simply cut in paper in half and scallop the edges. For decorations we all shared a box of colored sequins and a package of colored binder site paper. Using our imagination or some pictures from magazines as guides, we cut out green Christmas trees, pert, beige reindeer heads and the jolly red Santas (each one only about two inches tall), and glued them in place — two on each mat but in opposite corners.

The sequins were used for decorative touches. Some on the Christmas trees as bulbs, one as a nose for a reindeer as eyes for Santa or a few sprinkled here and there just for fun.

All in all our evening was a successful and happy one. The mats that were still home were given to one of our members to take home and use as tray covers. This girl's lavatic one thing she delighted i h a t we thought of her, and wrote us all a note saying how m u c h these covers brightened up her meals and cheered her up during the holiday season. — Mrs. G. G. Brownly

Dear Susanna: Did you know that if a child's rubber bouncing ball (one filled with air) is left on a concrete floor — such as in the basement — it will soon lose its bounce? — Mrs. J. Dickey.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"That shows what a live-wire reputation we have! Nine-thirty, and she's afraid she might have wakened us up!"

H. S. Council Discusses Educational Problems

"Let's take action for education" was the main topic of discussion at the September solving session of the Belleville and District Council of Home and School Associations on Thursday evening at the Harry J. Clarke School.

The problem solving session was under the guidance of the leadership training chairman, Mrs. B. Stenson, and her assistants were Mrs. F. R. Hamilton of Tyendinaga, Mrs. L. Jourard and Mrs. John Welch, both of Belleville.

"Do we need a gimmick to sell membership in Home and School?" There was a variety of opinions on this; ranging from a combination membership and accident insurance plan to the simple statement,"Let's put the child first." "Do we need more members or just more active members?" It was finally established that parents have to have a need or a desire to be members and active participants in their child's education. The importance of good, worthwhile programming was stressed both in building membership and in reflecting the real purpose of Home and School.

IS FEDERATION NECESSARY

"A provincial Federation for Home and School, is it necessary?". This question is raised from time to time. The usefulness of parents' clubs is quite apparent as far as the particular school and its limited number of children are concerned, but they have not any real voice in education.

They might operate very well at present, when they have able and trained leaders, but what happens when these leaders leave? The Ontario Federation gives parents a respected and significant voice in the field of education, gives guidance to the "lost sheep" and provides for stabilized leadership.

Mr. John Colley of the Indian Affairs Branch at Deseronto quoted some interesting statistics with regard to the schools on the Tyendinaga Reserve. Although facilities at Deseronto were adequate and expanding at the same standard and rate as most non-Indian communities, there are still some reserve schools that are not. A great deal, he said, depends upon the availability of post-elementary education to the Indian student and there are still some areas where students from Indian schools are not accepted at district high schools and collegiates. A delegation of parents and teachers from the Tyendinaga Reserve who are interested in organizing a Home and School Association attended the meeting with Mr. Colley.

SCHOOL BOARDS DISCUSSED

"Why does a school board boast of spending the lowest per students per capita per population? Is this something for a school board to be proud of? Are our school boards really meeting the needs of the children in our schools? When school board has a surplus, why isn't it using all the monies available; especially when mill rates are increasing steadily, because of the soaring costs of education?"

In an effort to answer these questions and many others, it was decided that the Belleville and District Council of Home and School Associations appoint a special committee to investigate the standards and resources of education in the schools within the Council district.

The initial committee was appointed as follows: Mr. M. Stier (chairman), Mrs. E. M. Erion, Mrs. J. Ferguson, Mr. W. Coveney, Mr. J. Welch, Mrs. F. R. Hamilton and Mrs. L. Jourard (ex officio). It is the intention of the Council to enlarge this committee so that adequate representation is given to all communities, counties and townships within the Council district.

BASIC OATMEAL RECIPE

(1st. instal. 2nd instal. tomorrow)

The purpose of today's and tomorrow's columns is to give you practical help with, your Christmas work.

I have made up a new rolled oats basic mix which contains skim milk powder. It is large enough to make up into four different baked products — muffins, cookies, fruit bread and a batter for a cottage-type pudding. This economical mix helps speed up meal preparation at a busy time of year.

I will give you the basic mix today and the variations for making the muffins and cookies. These are exceptionally good. Tomorrow I will repeat, in shortened form, the basic mix and follow that with the variations for what I call Bishop's Bread and an apple batter pudding.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Broiled or Boiled Wieners; Mustard Sauce; Sauerkraut; Parsleyed Whole Potatoes; Crisp Raw Relishes; Orange Tapioca; Tea.

BASIC ROLLED OATS MIX (highly recommended):

(Note: Referred to in future as B.R.O.M.)

3 cups skim milk powder, 4 cups sifted but not sifted all-purpose flour, 4 cups rolled oats, quick-cooking or not, 1 single-acting baking powder, 1 tablespoon salt, 1¼ cups shortening — type that does not require refrigeration.

In a roomy large mixing bowl (I used my large clean dry dishpan) mix together the 5 dry ingredients. Cut in the shortening with two knives until size of small peas. (A pastry blender is too small to cut through to the bottom of this bulky mix.) Take out 3 cups for Quick Oatmeal Fruit Muffins (below) and store remainder in covered large canister or strong plastic bag at room temperature for future use.

OATMEAL FRUIT MUFFINS (13 large):

3 cups B.R.O.M., ¼ cup sugar, 1½ cup chopped dates, ¼ cup chopped nuts (optional), 1 egg, ¾ cup milk.

Add sugar, dates and nuts (if used) to B.R.O.M. in mixing bowl and mix well. Drop in unbeaten egg, add milk and beat until just mixed. Butter your 12-cup muffin pan and spoon in batter equally. This is exactly the right amount for 12-cup muffin pan and a spoon in batter equally. This is exactly the right amount for 12-cup muffin pan and Rhodesian Governor, 63 Today, Just a Citizen In Eyes of Rebel Govt.

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Britain's standoff governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, celebrates his 63rd birthday today with a small private party at Government House, where he now lives as an ordinary citizen in the eyes of the rebellious Rhodesian government.

Gibbs has left the colonial-style building on the outskirts of Salisbury only once to make a public appearance—at a service in Salisbury Cathedral Sunday, Nov. 14—since Ian Smith's regime seized independence from Britain Nov. 11.

Now that he is no longer regarded as the governor of Rhodesia by Smith's breakaway government, Gibbs, who is not in the best of health, is unlikely to leave the extensive grounds of Government House, which Smith has asked him to vacate.

One of the few remaining members of Gibbs' European staff said the reason for this is the possible embarrassment that he would suffer, as the Queen's representative, should he attend, for instance, a function at which opinion on his position was divided, or visit a church to find his personal pew occuied by the man Smith named to assume his responsibilities.

Smith's government has appointed a former deuty prime minister, Clifford Dupont, as the "officer administering the Rhodesian government."

DUPONT ASSUMES POWERS

Under the constitution proclaimed when Smith seized independence, Dupont assumes the powers of the British-appointed governor.

Gibbs' family motto is "tenax propositi" — tenacious of purpose.

As the man appointed by the Queen in be governor of Rhodesia, he is tenaciously refusing to budge at the behest of Smith's white-minority regime.

Born in London in 1902, Gibbs was educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge. He came to Rhodesia in 1928 as a farmer and businessman, and later served as a member of the Rhodesian Parliament.

A person of simple tastes who shuns frills and fancies, Gibbs, who stands six-foot-three, is essentially a family man, preferring his farmhouse in southwest Rhodesia to the more austere Government House outside the capital.

A younger brother of the fourth Baron Aldenham and a second Baron Hunsdon, Gibbs married a Rhodesian girl, Molly Peel Nelson, in 1934. They have five sons.

He became Rhodesia's governor in 1959.

Although the Smith government has not restricted his movements, the extensive grounds of Government House, where the governor's own standard and the Union Jack still flutter over the flowing lawns, flower-beds and multi-colored, flowering shrubs, now are likely to become the limit of Gibbs' freedom in the country where he has lived for 37 years.

WALK THE DOGS

There, he and his wife take their three dogs—two Labradors and a pekingese—for their daily walk.

Inside, there are no documents to sign for the government, no affairs of state to deal with, no mere ministers or government officials coming and going.

The Gibbs' companions in this imposed solitude are Rhodesian Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle and Lady Beadle.

The chief justice has been staying at Government House since the day independence was seized—the day he returned to Salisbury from London where he had talks with Prime Minister Wilson.

They all dress for dinner in the evenings, as usual.

This week Gibbs plans to resume his social life with receptions and cocktail parties "on a limited scale." But many of the old faces will be missing.

Stopping

concluded last March, provides for the duty - free import of crude oil from Angola.

But the only apparent way of getting this oil to Rhodesia would be by ship round the Cape of Good Hope to Beira, a long and possibly costly route.

MAY HESITATE

While South Africa is a possible oil supplier, some political observers think Premier Hendrik Verwoerd might hesitate to fly in the teeth of world opposition.

Some Washington officials are credited with the view that if Rhodesia were completely cut off from oil its economy would quickly grind to a halt.

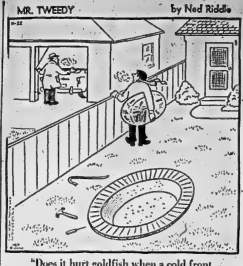
But according to published figures only some 27 per cent of Rhodesia's energy requirements are met by oil. Coal supplies 63 per cent of the power and the remainder comes from the hydro-electric plant at the Kariba dam on the Zambian border.

Tough trade sanctions imposed by Britain will have a direct effect on at least one-third of Rhodesia's export trade.

HITS TOBACCO

The British ban on imports hit tobacco, most vital to the country's economy, and the rising sugar industry. Nearly half of Rhodesia's tobacco production, worth about £17,000,000 ($51,000,000) was bought by Britain.

Rhodesia has been expelled from the international sugar agreement, cutting her off from benefits amounting to £4,900,000.



The United States Saturday announced it would turn back 9,900 tons of Rhodesian sugar now on the way to the U.S.

Oilgr measures taken by Britain include a ban on British exports entering Rhodesia, affecting about 30 per cent of her overseas purchases, and the suspension of Commonwealth preferences on the colony's trade.

LONDON (AP) — Jewelry worth more than £250,000 ($750,000) was taken from the strongroom of a fashionable West end shop today by a gang that worked its way in with acetylene torches.

A spokesman for Carrington's and Company on Regent street, said: "It is probably far in excess of a quarter of a million."

THE GREY CUP

It cost forty-eight bucks in the beginning. Last year a football team paid a cool million to win it and it has been carped by more champagne-sloppin lips than the principals at a chorus-gal convention.

It has been kicked around more times than a retired football. It has had a baptism of fire; been deserted like a frost-doomsday orphan; made cozy in the lost-and-found column and at one time used as a receptacle for a guy's shoes.

Don't pinch it. Your favorite hock-shop wouldn't give you enough shekels to finance a one-man binge. And don't borrow it. The insurance bloken want the premium on $50,000 against loss, theft or damage.

But there's a strange magnetism about the mug. Its aging silver attracts much gold. Ask the merchants on the rialtos of Toronto's cazinos. They lay out $60,000 for the stage settings. They figure the cash register ring—they're never far wrong—to be in the vicinity of $2,500,000.

And you wonder why Hamilton, Ottawa and other booning centres of the play-actors want to get in on the gold-socked gravy!

The Grey Cup classic has resolved itself into something more than a gaggle of padded, well muscled football gladiators pounding the ball out of one another for the glory of "Good old Varsity."

While the game is the ultimate in football glory it has, since the colorful Stampeders from Calgary inaugurated the national binge back in 1948, provided the magnet that draws thousands, some of whom do not know a football from Lia Taylor's girdle, to the scene of combat.

This year on November 27th, some 32,000 paying from $6.00 to $12.00, will happily contribute $305,553.00 just to see who will keep the pewter cup.

It is what this $48.00 piece of silver means to football that counts. The mug itself does not even rate the intrinsic status of the olive in a cocktail.

Take last year. The British Columbia Lions, roaring, ravining, raiding over the dividend paid from a million-dollar investment, left the bauble in their Toronto hotel when some sober Leo realized the fact. They had to wait at least a month to get it back.

Back in 1929 when the Hamilton Tiger Cats won the mug for the second year in succession, Lou Beck, the Hamilton manager, didn't even bother taking the cup out of his ball closet where he had used it as a receptacle for umbrellas.

Little if any attention was paid in the late thirties to the Grey cup—and what it stood for. In fact the football championship was referred to in the press as a "Canadian Title Match."

It disappeared for a couple of years and nobody seemed to give a darn until a former official, Billy Foulds, mentioned that he had it in his' basement because "nobody seems to want it."

And when the Toronto Argonauts clubhouse burned down in March of 1947 and the handles of the old cup melted off, nobody seemed to care very much.

But it took the 1948 Calgary Stampeders and the Ottawa Rough Riders to bring the old mug into prominence, by name only, when they inaugurated the first all-out national football extravaganza.

The spontaneous display of high jinks when the football Lochivars came out of the west to torch the greatest celebrative display Toronto has ever known, touched the fuse that exploded with greater force every year.

A far cry from the Hamilton-Regina cup game in 1923 when the gross gate was $2,637.90 (seats 50 cents to $1.25)—Hamilton won—and the Cup celebration called for mackwiches and beer.

Leafs Dump Hawks Twice; Habs Split

★★★★★ Blues Tie Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

They were saying not so long ago that Dave Keon of Toronto Maple Leafs wasn't playing up to par. Don't tell that to Chicago Black Hawks.

DAVE KEON

They were also saying the Leafs were something below average. The Hawks won't likely buy that line either.

Keon finally sprung into action during the weekend and so did the rest of the Leafs as they walloped the Hawks twice, 5-2 in Toronto Saturday and 7-3 before the Hawks' proud fans Sunday.

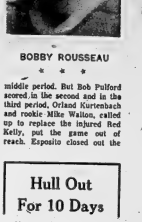
The 23-year-old centre, at five-foot-nine and 163 pounds something of a runt among his NHL compatriots, scored two goals Saturday and one Sunday. In 12 previous games, he had managed only two goals and one assist.

And as Keon swung back into style, so did the Leafs, whose two victories put them into third place one point behind the Hawks.

The league-leading Montreal Canadiens are two points ahead of Chicago after a 3-2 victory over New York Rangers Saturday and a 3-2 loss to the last-place Boston Bruins Sunday.

FANS FIGHT

The fourth - place Rangers fought to a 3-3 tie with Detroit Red Wings Sunday in a game that was marred by a fracas among irate New York fans. The-fifth-place Red Wings defeated Boston 4-2 Saturday night.



Seeing the Leafs scoring against the Hawks was something of an oddity for Toronto fans. In their two previous games, Chicago shut the Leafs out 4-0 and 2-0.

Keon's linemate, Frank Mahovlich, scored the third Toronto goal Saturday night. Bobby Hull, the Hawks' star, had to leave the game in the first period with an injured left knee, got the Chicago tally.

Dave Dryden, 24, a six-foot-two rookie filling in for regular Chicago netminder Glenn Hall, who was being rested, turned in a sparkling performance as the Leafs directed 42 shots at him.

The revitalized Leafs went into Chicago Stadium at night and handed the Black Hawks their fourth loss of the season.

Toronto scored up the game with four goals in the first period by Eddie Shack, Tim Horton, rookie Brit Selby and Keon. Phil Esposito put Chicago on the scoreboard with less than two minutes remaining in the first frame and Chico Maki made the score 4-2 early in the middle period. But Bob Pulford scored in the second and in the third period, Orland Kurtenbach and rookie Mike Walton, called up to replace the injured Red Kelly, put the game out of reach. Esposito closed out the scoring with his second goal of the night.

BOBBY ROUSSEAU

Bobby Rousseau, the NHL's scoring leader, and Ralph Backstrom scored three goals each as Canadiens trounced New York.

Jean Beliveau, Gilles Tremblay and Dave Balon were the other Montreal marksmen as the Canadiens took a commanding 6-0 lead before New York hit the scoreboard with three goals in a space of 39 seconds.

Bob Nevin scored two goals and Don Marshall sank the other Ranger marker.

Sunday in Boston, Tommy Williams scored twice to lead the Bruins to victory over the Canadiens. Boston's third goal was scored by John Bucyk.

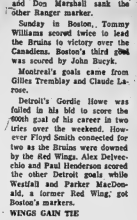
Montreal's goals came from Gilles Tremblay and Claude Larose.

Detroit's Gordie Howe was fulled in his bid to score the 600th goal of his career in two tries over the weekend. However Floyd Smith connected for two as the Bruins were downed by the Red Wings. Alex Delvecchio and Paul Henderson were the other Detroit goals while Westfall and Parker MacDonald, a former Red Wing, got Boston's markers.

WINGS GAIN TIE

Bruce MacGregor's goal with 70 seconds remaining scored the Red Wings a tie with New York Sunday in a game interrupted by a third-period brawl involving fans and Ranger players.

Phil Goyette, Marshall and Earl Ingarfield scored the New York's goals while Andy Bathgate and Floyd Smith counted the other Detroit markers.



A disputed goal by Detroit midway in the final period—first credited to Norm Ullman but later changed to Smith—touched off the melee in the stands behind the Ranger net.

The Rangers argued vehemently with goal judge Arthur Reichert that the puck had not crossed the goal line. Referee Art Skov allowed the goal however, and the teams were about to resume play when a fan attacked the goal judge.

Other fans joined the fracas, and punches were thrown wildly. At that point, the Rangers' Vic Hadfield scaled the 10-foot partition behind the cage and a half a dozen teammates followed him into the stands.

The New York players, assisted by policemen, broke up the disturbance and 10 minutes later, order was restored.

Several fans were ejected.

Hull Out For 10 Days

More costly to the Chicago Black Hawks than the double defeat over the weekend. was a knee injury suffered by Bobby Hull, their perennial All-Star left winger and the league's goal scoring leader.

Hull injured off form in the first period of Sunday's game and coach Billy Reay said the Golden Jet may be missing for a week to 10 days.

Razzle-Dazzle Wins

Blues Trim Golden Bears

By IAN MacLAINE

TORONTO (CP) — A sparse crowd of fewer than 2,500 fans—less than 10 per cent of Varsity Stadium's capacity—defied the rain and the competition of two televised Canadian Football League playoffs to watch Canada's first official college football bowl game Saturday.

University of Toronto Blues, scoring the winning touchdown on an eye-popping piece of razzle-dazzle, defeated University of Alberta Golden Bears 14-7 in the inaugural of the Save the Children Fund Bowl.

The winning play, a 23-yard pass by quarterback Wayne Taylor to Mike Eben after a double reverse, was one of the few things that went right, or went off the field, in the first contest between the two best college teams in the country for the Vanier Cup.

The Blues, who hadn't played or play all year, pulled it off late in the third quarter despite the already downpour that made the going treacherous.

Wile time running out in the quarter and Alberta leading 7-1, the Blues moved into scoring dium.

Clippers' String Clipped

Shore, Goalie Swap Blows

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield Indians celebrated their latest American Hockey League victory with a fist fight. It wound up a draw between the winning goalie and his boss.

Springfield owner Eddie Shore, the Gayest-old Hall of Fame member who never backed off from a fight during his playing days in the 1930s with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, and goalie Jacques Caron, 26, swapped punches after Sunday night's 4-2 victory over Buffalo Bisons. The scuffle, broken up by officials and Springfield players, had nothing to do with Caron's performance in the game.

Caron said Shore refused to allow him to remain overnight in Buffalo with his wife, who had come from Toronto for the game. The Indians are in the middle of a 21-day road trip that will take them to the West Coast for games with Western Hockey League teams.

In other Sunday games, Providence Reds snapped a three-game losing streak downing Baltimore Clippers 5-2 while Rochester Americans ran their undefeated streak to 11 with an 8-1 triumph over Cleveland Barons.

CUP BALTIMORE

On Saturday, Hershey Bears clipped Baltimore 8-2, Pittsburgh Hornets tightened their grip on Toronto Maple Leafs Western Division by trimming Springfield 5-0 and Cleveland Barons dumped Providence 6-3.

Despite the two losses, Baltimore stayed in second place in the Eastern Division 12 points behind the idle Quebec Aces.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Rousseau, Montreal's little right winger, picked up five points Saturday night against New York Rangers to take over first place in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

Rousseau has 10 goals and 13 assists for 23 points, one better than Bobby Hull of Chicago, who is in second spot. Hull has a league-leading 15 goals and six assists for 21 points.

Jean Beliveau, Montreal's giant centre, also had a five-point night against New York Saturday and moved into third spot in the scoring race. He has six goals and 13 assists for 19 points.

Stan Mikita of Chicago is next with 17 points on six goals and 11 assists.

In fifth spot is Bob Nevin of New York, who has eight goals and seven assists.

He is followed by Doug Mohns of Chicago and Don Marshall of New York. Mohns has seven goals and seven assists and Marshall has six goals and eight assists.

Francis Injured

Wild Brawl In Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — A wild brawl involving hockey fans, New York Rangers, general manager Emile Francis and Ranger players who poured into the spectators' area, erupted in Madison Square Garden Sunday night during New York's and National Hockey League game against Detroit.

The game ended in a 3-3 tie. There were no major injuries but Francis, who fought with an unidentified fan, suffered a bruised left eye which required two stitches. The fan was taken into custody by special police but later released.

The melee was touched off when Detroit's Floyd Smith scored a disputed goal in the third period, tying the score 2-2.

The Rangers argued heatedly with goal judge Arthur Reichert, a veteran NHL official, claiming the puck had not crossed the goal line. But Reichert stuck to his decision and referee Art Skov backed him up.

DISPUTES CALL

Francis, meanwhile, had left his seat in the stands and approached Reichert, whose position is directly behind the cage in the first row of the spectators' section. Francis argued with Reichert and, when the fan entered the altercation, there were punches exchanged.

The fight broke out when players were about to resume play at centre ice. When New York's Vic Hadfield saw Francis in the middle of the scuffle, he climbed the 10-foot barrier separating the stands and playing area and joined the melee.

At least six other Rangers followed suit and battled with fans before order was restored. Reichert was not injured, and the game went on without further incident.

Francis said after the game he would not press charges against the fan, but he was still boiling over Reichert's call on the goal.

"He didn't need any protection," Francis said. "What he needs is better eyesight."

Niagara Falls Flyers lost their first game of the season and Oshawa Generals took advantage to move four points closer to the leaders in weekend OntaRio Hockey Association Junior A action.

Toronto Marlboros defeated the Flyers 3-1 in Toronto Sunday and the second-place Generals edged Kitchener Red Wings 7-2 Saturday and Kitchener Rangers 3-1 Sunday.

The Marlies remained in a tie for fourth place with St. Catharines Teepees, 23 points and Montreal Junior Canadiens, and with 13 points, two less than Oshawa and Peterborough Petes. The Petes were idle.

Montreal kept pace by downing London Nationals 6-2 Saturday and St. Catharines won by the same score over Hamilton Wings Sunday.

Brian Glennie led the Marlies with two goals while Brent Imlach, Ian Wilkinson and Mike Leaf coach Punch Imlach, scored once. Don Marcotte got Niagara Falls' goal while the Marlies were two men short.

Bobby Orr and Bob Babcock each scored twice for Oshawa Saturday while Danny O'Shea, Chris Hayes and Bill Dunsmuir added one each. Kevin Petit and Sandy Snow scored for Hamilton.

In The Dressing Rooms

By JOHN SHORT

CALGARY (CP) — The winners popped champagne corks and the losers sat silently in gloom after Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeated Calgary Stampeders 19-12 Saturday to win the 1965 Western Football Conference championship.

Bomber coach Bud Grant told reporters rookie end Ken Nielsen, who caught two touchdown passes, soon will become "a great star in Canadian football."

One of Nielsen's scores came on a WFC record 109-yard pass-and-run combination with quarterback Kenny Ploen, who hit Nielsen in the clear behind defender Pete Manning.

"I've never thrown deep from the one-yard-line before," Ploen said, "but why not try it once?"

Grant said the victory was dedicated to Herb Gray, veteran offensive guard and defensive end who has said he will retire after this season.

"We didn't get a pass-rush," said Calgary coach Gerry Williams.

Ploen agreed. "I don't think it was all once on a pass-play all through the game. When you get that kind of protection, you can play this game a long time."

CALGARY ERRS

Williams said he was the most surprised man in McMahon Stadium midway through the fourth quarter when Larry Robinson attempted a field goal on the Winnipeg 22 when Stamps trailed 18-11.

"I told the field goal team to use a fake—but somebody didn't hear me. I'm not sure which player I was speaking to, but whoever he was, he didn't hear me."

The play called for a screen pass to Lovell Coleman.

Coleman, Stamps' leading ground-gainer during the day with 144 yards on 18 carries, fumbled when hit by linebacker Phil Minnick after gaining a first down at the Winnipeg 44 with more than three minutes remaining.

Coleman, Player of the Year in Canada in 1964 and a Western all-star this year, also fumbled into the end zone on the fourth play after the opening kickoff. He received credit for a single when Bomber Dick Thornton recovered.

"I just can't talk about it now," he said. "Maybe later. I just can't talk about it—you know."

HAMILTON (CP)—Joe Zuger, Hamilton Tiger-Cats' quarterback, picked up a charley horse in Saturday's Eastern Football Conference final against Ottawa Rough Riders. But he is sure he will be ready for the Grey Cup game.

"I got hurt on the last play I ran," said Zuger, 25, following Hamilton's 17-7 win over Ottawa. "It's bothering me right now, but I'm sure I'll be okay."

Coach Ralph Sazio of the Tiger-cats wasn't worried about Zuger. He said doctors seemed to feel the injury wasn't serious enough to keep his first-string quarterback out of action.

Sazio planned to resume practices today. Zuger said he expected to take part.

Tiets' only other injured player was end Hal Patterson, whose foot was stepped on. He continued to play.

Quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa, who suffered a smashed nose in the second quarter but continued to play, had no excuses for the loss.

The weather didn't hurt us (They just beat us. It's as simple as that. They were tough."

VITI INTERCEPTS

Jackson said the turning point came in the third quarter with Tiets ahead 14-7 when Hamilton end Dave Viti intercepted a screen pass intended for Ron Stewart and ran the ball out of Hamilton territory.

"They were only seven ahead of us and we were going for a touchdown," said Jackson.

Dick Cobee, the defensive backfielder who was switched to offensive halfback for the two games of the final, brought Hamilton's touchdown at the six-minute mark of the first quarter was the play of the game.

Cobee got behind Gene Gaines and Don Gilbert to score his second touchdown of the series on a pass-and-run play from Zuger covering 90 yards.

"They couldn't have covered it better if they'd," he said, "We worked on that play especially for Ottawa and everybody ran a perfect pattern."

Linebacker John Barrow, who didn't think the game was as physically tough as the opener at Ottawa, noted that Jackson didn't try any rollouts.

"But it's hard to say if he would have done any better if he had," said Barrow.

Sazio said the victory proved Hamilton was a worthy EFC representative. "My goodness, we beat this club (Ottawa) four out of five times this year."

Zugar Zooms Tigers Into Cup Final

Whip Ottawa 17-7

By BOB TRIMBLE

HAMILTON (CP) — It took half a season, but football fans today are ready to concede coach Ralph Sazio of Hamilton Tiger-Cats was right when he named Joe Zuger as his No. 1 quarterback and said he could become a star in Canadian football.

The much - maligned Zuger object of catcalls even from home-town fans, stepped forward on his own behalf Saturday as he guided Tiets to a 17-7 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders in the Eastern Football Conference finale.

The triumph, coupled with Hamilton's 18-13 victory a week ago at Ottawa, gave Hamilton the two-game, total-point EFC final 35-30 and a berth in the Grey Cup this Saturday in Toronto against Winnipeg.

The 25-year old native of Homestead, Pa., combined with halfback Dick Cobee on a 90-yard touchdown play six minutes into the first quarter and set up Hamilton's remaining points with his running and passing.

Don Sutherin converted the touchdown, kicked two field goals and scored two singles on missed field goals. Ottawa conceded a third-quarter safety to complete Hamilton's scoring.

OTTAWA SCORES

Halfback Ron Stewart and quarterback Russ Jackson combined on a 5-yard touchdown play in the first quarter and Moe Racine kicked the convert. That was the last Ottawa threat as Hamilton led throughout and held quarter margins of 8-7, 11-7, 14-7.

The victory allowed Tiger-Cats to continue their EFC domination. They now have reached the East-West classic eight times since 1937.

However, the defensive-minded Tiets have been no ball of fire in the national classic, winning only in 1937 against an injury - riddled Winnipeg team and in 1963 against a jittery and inexperienced B.C. Lions squad.

For this reason many of Zuger's critics may well omit the Grey Cup test before heaping much praise on the husky six-foot-two signal-caller.

But against Ottawa Saturday Zuger was master. He led the lightly - regarded Hamilton offence with 64 yards on 10 carries and completed five of nine passes for another 178.

TICATS SPARKLE

The Hamilton defence, sidelined as usual by linemen John Barrow, Angelo Mosca, Marty Martinello and Billy Ray Locklin, continued its sparkling play. It allowed Ottawa only six first downs: Three in the first quarter and one in each of the next three.

So verpowering was its display that only some of the fans—the series capped by Stewart's brilliant touchdown—did Ottawa manage to move the yardsticks more than once on an offensive series.

The vaunted Rough Rider running game was held to a miserable 59 yards and Jackson and Bill Cline managed to scramble fast enough to complete nine of 19 aerials for another 121.

Statistically Saturday Hamilton had 13 first downs on 175 yards rushing and 178 passing as Zuger and Cosentino clicked on six of 14 pass attempts. Hamilton also intercepted two passes but lost one of four fum bles and 45 yards on eight penalties.

Zuger and Sutherin combined for a 38-yard average on 11 punts with Sutherin taking over the punting duties in the last 10 minutes after Zuger suffered a thigh injury on a tackle. The injury is not expected to side line Zuger.

Ottawa's six first downs on 5' yards rushing and 121 passin added up to its most inept offen sive performance of the year Rider- intercepted one Hamil ton pass, lost two of four fum bles, and were penalized 1' yards on four infractions.

Cline averaged 44 yards on dozen punts.

Bombers Blast Calgary 19-12

By JOHN SHORT

CALGARY (CP)—Two touchdowns by Ken Nielsen and a pair of tumbles by Lovell Colcman made the difference Saturday as Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeated Calgary Stampeders 19-12 to advance to the Canadian Football League championship playoff.

The Bombers dropped the opener of the best-of-three Western Conference final 27-9 but reseeded with a 15-11 victory Wednesday to force the conclusive game, watched by 21,361 fans.

They meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Toronto Nov. 27 for the title and the Grey Cup.

One of Nielsen's touchdowns came on a record-setting 100-yard pass-and-run combination with quarterback Don Horwood. It eclipsed the WFC record of 107 yards set in 1958 by Jim Van Pelt and Ernie Pitts of Winnipeg and tied the CFL record set by Sam Etcheverry and end Hal Patterson of Montreal Alouettes in 1956.

The other touchdown by the rookie end—described by Winnipeg coach Bud Grant as "a future star in Canadian football"—covered 23 yards after Nielsen pulled a clever fake on defender Bain.

Norm Winton kicked a 26-yard field goal and Ed Ulmer boosted two singles to complete scoring for the Bombers, who trailed 8-0 after the first quarter and 8-4 at halftime but led 18-11 after three quarters.

Halfback Ted Woods scored the only Calgary touchdown while defensive back Larry Robinson contributed a field goal, a convert and a single and Coleman received credit for a single when he fumbled into the end zone in the early minutes of the game and Dick Thornton recovered for Winnipeg, conceding a point.

Coleman also fumbled on the Winnipeg 44 with nearly four minutes remaining.

The opening point came only four plays after the kickoff—Coleman churned 34 yards to goal-line where he was hit by Thornton, popping the ball free for the single.

A 26-yard pass from quarterback Eagle Day to flanker Frank Budd and a 20-yard run-in by Woods led to the Stamps' touchdown less than seven minutes later. Woods circled his right end behind excellent blocking and scooted 18 yards into the end zone.

Late in the second quarter, Ploen led a march from the Winnipeg 34 that ended with Winton boisting his field goal from the 32.

Three minutes later, after Ploen combined with half Leo Lewis and flanker Billy Cooper for 39 yards on two plays, Ulmer lofted a single from the Calgary 35.

The Stamps appeared in command again when the second half started. Lewis fumbled the kickoff in his end zone and returned only to the five. On the first play, fullback Art Perkins was dropped on the one.

Then came the bomb. Nielsen sped past defender Pete Manning and was well in the clear when he caught the ball about midfield. Manning tried a desperate lunge but missed and Nielsen scampered the rest of the way.

Nine minutes later, Nielsen slipped behind Bain to climax a drive that covered nine plays from the Bomber 37.

Supports Montreal Request

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal's bid for the 1972 Summer Olympic Games won support from the Canadian Olympic Association Saturday, but will take second place in an earlier bid by Banff, Alta., for the Winter Olympics the same year.

James Worrall of Toronto, president of the COA said he believed Canada can handle both "Summer and Winter Games in the same year.

The decision was made at a five-hour meeting of the association's board of directors.

Banff has been granted approval by the COA for the third time. Banff supporters tried unsuccessfully for both the 1964 and 1968 Winter Games.

One reason Banff did not get the 1968 games was because the summer games had already been awarded to Mexico City. Having both games in North America would put financial pressure on European competitors for two transatlantic trips the same year.

Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal said he felt confident Canada can handle both the Winter and Summer Games.

CATTLE SEEM SKINNY

The average Malaysian cow produces 470 kilograms of milk yearly, about one-eighth of the average European production.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Namath, New York Jets' $400,000 quarterback, stood in the dressing room Sunday peeling the tape off his knee brace as club-owner Sonny Werblin leaned over and whispered:

"Joe, I'm ready to re-negotiate."

Namath and Werblin smiled—but no one laughed.

For Namath had just finished the first four-touchdown day of his entire career and continued his rapid development by pacing the Jets to a 41-14 victory over Houston Oilers.

The triumph, their fourth in a row, moved the Jets into second place in the Eastern Division of the American Football League. But more significant was the fact that Namath had his best day as a pro and tied the Jets to these notable achievements:

—Namath tied Dick Wood's club record for most touchdown passes in a single game.

—Namath, who completed 17 of 26 passes for 221 yards before being relieved at the start of the fourth quarter, engineered an offence that gained a club-record 522 yards over-all.

—The Jets won their fourth in a row for the first time in the team's six-year history.

Babe Parilli passed for a fourth-quarter touchdown that brought Boston Patriots a 10-10 tie with Kansas City Chiefs. In the only other game, Oakland Raiders took over second place in the West by downing Denver Broncos 28-20. The division leaders, Buffalo Bills and San Diego Chargers, were not scheduled.

Victoria, Portland Share Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Victoria Maple Leafs joined Portland Buckaroos atop the Western Hockey League standings after two weekend victories, 5-4 and 4-2, both against Vancouver Canucks.

Portland lost 7-3 to the Seals in San Francisco.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles left Seattle on the bottom of the WHL totem pole with a 4-3 victory in the only other action Saturday. There were no games Sunday.

The wins left Victoria with 26 points in 15 games. Portland has 24 points from 17 games, Vancouver, 10 points behind, is in third place and two points separate each of the last three clubs—San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle respectively.

The Saturday triumph was Victoria's fourth in four meetings with Vancouver this season.

Over In Five?; 'Come Early' Says Clay

By MURRA TROSE

It Could Be Verse, Or Worse!

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, the bard of boxing, predicted in verse Saturday that he will launch Floyd Patterson into space in their title fight here tonight.

Appearing on ABC's Wide World of Sports Clay, or Muhammad Ali, described in verse how the fight will go. The poem reads:

All goes out to meet "Floyd and Floyd starts to retreat.
If Floyd goes back an inch farther, he'll wind up in a ringside seat.
Floyd swings with a left,
Floyd swings with a right,
look at the kid carrying the fight.

Floyd keeps backing, but there's not enough room.
It's a matter of time, verily it goes the boom.

Now he lands with a right, what a beautiful swing, and the punchless Floyd, clean out of the ring.

Floyd is still rising and the ref wears a frown, for he can't start counting till Floyd comes down.

Now Floyd disappears from view the crowd is getting frantic, but our radar station have just picked him up—he's somewhere over the Atlantic.

Who would have thought when they came to the fight, that they would witness the launching of a human satellite!

The crowd did not dream when they laid down their money that Ali would retire Floyd and Sonny.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Both heavyweight champion Cassius Clay and challenger Floyd Patterson have signed for bond agreements that the winner of their title fight tonight will meet Ernie Terrell within six months, the president of the World Boxing Association said Sunday.

Jim Norris, president of the WBA and executive secretary of the Nevada Athletic Commission, said Saturday Boxer Terrell has not posted such a bond yet, although he had been requested to do so.

Terrell, of Chicago, is the WBA's heavyweight champion, but the Clay - Patterson fight still is billed as for the world title. Norris said that both Clay and Patterson have agreed there is not a return-bout contract agreement.

The WBA head also said that there is a stipulation in the bond agreement that says that both Patterson and Clay, as well as the WBA must be satisfied that any manager, trainer or any person or firm or corporation having any property interest in Terrell must be free of any underworld contracts.

Terrell says he is his own manager.

Browns Defeat Cowboys

Colts Take Eight In Row; Packers Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jimmy Orr has set a National Football League record as the fastest in-out-in patient in history.

The slender flanker suffered an injured right shoulder in the second quarter at Baltimore Sunday, and later went to a nearby hospital for x-rays. By the fourth quarter he was out of the hospital and back in the game—and helped the Colts in their eighth straight victory, 24-20 over Philadelphia Eagles.

Two plays after he returned from hospital, the tall end hauled in a pass from quarterback Johnny Unitas for the game-clinching touchdown.

The Colts raised their record to 9-1 and maintained their one-game lead in the Western Division over Green Bay Packers. A ferocious defence fired a 28-point final quarter that enabled the Packers to rout Minnesota Vikings 38-13.

Cleveland Browns, with two key interceptions in the closing moments, added to their Eastern Division lead with a 34-17 decision over Dallas Cowboys. The surprising New York Giants tied St. Louis for second place with a 28-15 victory over the Cardinals as defensive back Dick Lynch starred.

Gale Sayers' touchdown run on a 50-yard quarter and a tough defence led Chicago Bears to a 17-10 victory over Detroit Lions. Tommy Davis' 23-yard field goal with six seconds to play gave San Francisco 49ers a 30-27 decision over Los Angeles Rams and Washington Redskins defeated Pittsburgh Steelers 31-14.

Unitas hit Lenny Moore on a 37-yard touchdown strike and Jerry Logan followed with a 36-yard scoring run on an interception as Baltimore took a 14-0 lead over Philadelphia.

But the Eagles went ahead in the third period on 34-20 when Norm Snead threw his second touchdown pass—seven yards to Ray Poage. Unitas passed and Colts downfield early in the last quarter and Moore plunged one yard for the go-ahead score.

The Packers continued to suffer from offensive sluggishness, but their defence destroyed the Vikings in a last-period uprising.

"To Bed . . . Or Not To Bed," the Italian comedy starring Alberto Sordi and winner of the Best Director Award at the 1963 Berlin Film Festival, will open tonight at the Park Theatre for a three day engagement only.

A Walter Reade-Sterling presentation produced by Dino De Laurentiis, "To Bed . . . Or Not To Bed" chronicles the adventures of a self-styled Italian Don Juan who pursues a score of Swedish beauties in Stockholm in an attempt to take advantage of the rumor that Scandinavian girls are enamored with Latin men.

Sordi who scored personally as being the star of two pictures which won top awards in 1963, "Mafioso," at the San Sebastian Film Festival and "Amore in Stockholm" ("To Bed . . . Or Not To Bed") in Berlin, is best known to American audiences for two memorable Federico Fellini pictures, in which he starred: "The White Sheik" and "I Vitelloni," and most recently as co-star with David Niven in "The Best of Enemies." He was named the Best Italian comedian of 1962 by the Italian press.

Directed by Gian Luigi Polidoro from an original screenplay by Rodolfo Sonego, "To Bed . . . Or Not To Bed" is being released in this country by Walter Reade-Sterling, Inc.

On the same program, the added feature "French Dressing," one of the funniest movies of the season, stars James Booth, Marisa Mell, Roy Kinnear and Alita Naughton. One complete show starts at 7.30 p.m. "French Dressing" at 7.40 p.m. and "To Bed . . . Or Not To Bed" at 9.20 p.m.

The highest previous game this season was Leo LaBelle's 393.

Butler is bowling in the Major-"A" with a 220 average and in the Quinte Classic with a 235 average this season.

James Coburn, Not Pretty, But Soon to Become Star

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "No, I'm not a pretty-boy," says James Coburn in the understatement of the week. "But then, neither were James Cagney, Humphrey Bogart and Edward G. Robinson. And they were stars."

Jim Coburn is about to become one, too. He looks like the most dangerous of candidates. His light brown hair appears to be a collection of cowlicks. His face spreads wide at the cheeks and he has temples that resemble reversed arrowheads.

But he can act. He comes on strong as an offbeat character compounded of animal drive and an undercurrent of violence, tempered with satiric humor. He has displayed his talent in a series of character roles and soon will be starred in one. Coburn gets it in Our Man Flint, a neo-James Bond film, and also in the sequel, Our Man Flint, a neo-James Bond film, and also in the sequel, Blake Edwards' new film, What Did You Do in The War, Daddy?

IS CHARACTER ACTOR

Coburn is one of a growing breed of character leads; Anthony Quinn, Peter Sellers, Lee Marvin are others.

Coburn journeyed to New York from his home in Compton, Calif., in 1955 to work in live television, which was to prove a virtual renaissance for American acting. But then TV moved to Hollywood, and Coburn found the Broadway theatre "too special, too cliquish." He returned home.

After a pair of forgettable Westerns, Coburn got a job in The Magnificent Seven. Therefore he emerged from one side as a etched character to another, most notably in The Great Escape, Charade and The Americanization of Emily.

Coburn, 37, and father of three, celebrated by buying a Spanish hacienda.

Commercial Hockey League

American Optical and Stewart Warner registered victories in a pair of Commercial "B" Hockey League games at Memorial Arena last night.

Optical dumped Belvedere Hotel in a 3-3 contest.

Two players scored all the Stewart Warner goals in that clash's 6-3 triumph over the Intelligencer.

Chuck Rowbotham scored three strikers and Hyle Bryant netted the other three for the Warners.

"Shaker" Baker potted a pair for the Intelligencer with Woodcock scoring the other.

Boomhower and Bateman each Optical's win with three goals Jones and Green had the others.

Belvedere marksmen were Lucas, Hughes and Reid.

Newcomer to TV Takes Place of Dorothy Kilgallen

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — What's My Line (CBS), in a last-minute switch, postponed the appearance of Peggy Cass on its panel Sunday night and substituted Helen Gurley Brown, editor of a woman's magazine and author of Sex and the Single Girl.

Mrs. Brown is a newcomer to evening network television and is probably not a name to member of women who will be given on-the-air auditions for the vacancy left on the show by panelist Dorothy Kilgallen's death.

A multi-city Nielsen rating covering last weekend, showed that What's My Line was in the No. 3 spot in the top 10 programs. It was the first program after Dorothy's Kilgallen's death.

ABC's FBI, which sports the credit line to call attention to the need for peace.

It was a timely enough theme, but it seem like the man was caught almost by chance at the last moment. He had already caught the pix but a hand grenade when he was killed and an agent tossed the explosive in the direction of the camera.

The series is supposed to consist of adaptations from real cases culled from the files of the FBI.

Recommended tonight—Perry Como, NBC, 9-10 EST, Glen Campbell, Jackie Gleason with Bobby Vinton, Jonathan Berg and the Lennon Sisters.

Armbro Flight Wins Classic

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)— Canada's Armbro Flight took an early lead, moved inside to gain command, and went on to win the $50,000 Hollywood Trotter drotting race at Hollywood

Harlan Dean was on the move steadily but failed to overcome.
Third was Speedy Rodney after a bad off-stride start.

It was the last race of a big year for Armbro Flight, owned by Elgin, Ted and Charles Armstrong of Brampton.

Armbro Flight's winning time was 2:15 3-5.

Armbro Flight paid $4.20 to win, $2.20 to place and $2.60 to Mrs. D. Watters gave an informative talk on the Rhodesian situation with particular emphasis on the life and personality of Premier Ian Smith, using a quotation which best describes the character of Ian

Smith, "He that hath no stomach for the battle had best depart."

arships had been presented at the annual high school commencement exercises and the gave the Remembrance Day message at Kent School.

Mrs. Crydeman drew attention to the adopted school, and said it was hoped to obtain any information; correspondence does not receive any reply so it was suggested that some decision be made in the coming year in regards to the child's relation as an adopted school in Trinidad; contact has been extremely limited.

pital.

Harvey reported the popularity he given the work of the order. It was suggested the magazine "Echoes" be supplied to places such as the hospital, hair-dressing salons, also to non-members.

Mrs. Elsie Johnston read the minutes of February, 1938, which held a comparative interest.

worth of film strips to Merry-
dale Elementary and Vocation-

Tanzanian President Nyerere Says Africa Must Not Align

Tanzania and other newly-emerging African states must remain un-aligned between East and West, says President Nyerere. In this interview with Canadian Press correspondent Joseph MacSween, Nyerere tells why Tanzania wishes to be left alone in developing its resources.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

DAR ES SALAAM (CP)—Africans must refuse to "choose a master" among the great powers of East and West, says President Julius Kambarage Nyerere of Tanzania.

That's what the 43-year-old mwalimu (teacher) means by non-alignment and it was his succinct reply to questions about Chinese penetration of Tanzania.

"The struggle for power is a struggle to control us," said Nyerere, punctuating his words with sharp raps on his desk. "It would be silly, it would be stupid, for Africa to align . . ."

Canada is involved, to a considerable degree, through its aid program, with the regime of this immensely appealing, if controversial, man of the trees who finished his formal education in the chill mists of Edinburgh.

MUST DEVELOP NOW

In an interview with a Canadian reporter, the words flew as the slim, young-looking president with the small moustache made these points—earnestly, sometimes emphatically, sometimes wryly, sometimes angrily:

—Tanzania is one of the poorest countries in the world but has the resources to develop, with assistance, if it is "left alone" to do so.

—Africa must develop now, before its industrial revolution; it hasn't the years or more, like Canada and other Western countries had.

—Tanzania is still within the Western sphere of influence despite "all the talk and questions about these certain seven Chinese I have here."

—Tanzania feels it ease asking Canada for military aid, because Canada, although a Western country, is not "too doctrinaire."

—Everyone wants African unity, but realism requires practical steps. There is no "magic word."

"I have about 200 Chinese here," said Nyerere. Then he added, laughing, "but most of them are working for Mao Tse-tung—most of them are Nationalist Chinese."

During the interview he referred, with an apparent mixture of exasperation and amusement, to "these certain seven Chinese," technicians who arrived late in 1964 to train the Tanzanian army in the use of weapons received from China.

Tanzania was formed in April, 1964, by the union between Tanganyika and Zanzibar, after that exotic island was wracked by a MUST REFUSE NEW MASTERS — It would be "stupid" for Africa to align itself in the East-West power struggle says Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere. To accept alignment is to accept a new master and this must be avoided. revolution and appeared headed toward becoming the Cuba of Africa.

"The Union is coming along fine," said Nyerere.

Asked whether Tanzania is sufficiently mature to maintain its political balance while being courted by big countries of antagonistic systems, the president replied:

"What is the choice?

"I know it's very much easier for young countries to find a patron. You pick up one big nation and accept that big nation as the protector — so be aligned. . . .

"We have chosen a different method because we feel we have absolutely no choice in a world which is automatically divided between power blocs, and the actual struggle for power is a struggle to control us.

"This is the history of the world—the big powers struggle as to who is going to control the world, and they divide the world.

"They say 'this is our sphere of influence'—so that we in Africa are still a Western sphere of influence. And so when you see seven Chinese in Tanzania you say, 'Ha!' You know our sphere of influence is being invaded by the Chinese.

"So you get worried . . . coli is ridiculous. It would be silly, it would be stupid for Africa to align—to choose a master—and so we have no choice but to be soon aligned.

"But it's difficult . . . so it means I have British here, I have Americans here, I have Chinese here, I have Russians here. They have their own interests. All of them have their own interests. We have our own Tanzanian interests.

"We are not the most sophisticated people in the world but we have to live in 1965. We can't go to Mars and mature there and then come back to this planet."

FIRST TO CUT TIES

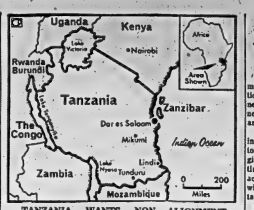
It was in December, 1961, that Nyerere led Tanganyika, a British - ruled United Nations trust territory and one-time German colony, to independence—the first of the British East African lands to attain self-rule. The former school teacher, son of a tribal chief, was regarded as among the most moderate of African leaders. He changed at least temporarily Nyerere sent tremors of foreboding chilling across Western capitals by accepting Chinese aid, exchanging visits with Premier Chou En-lai — and wearing Chinese suits.

At the Commonwealth premiers' conference in London this year Nyerere was the most critical of all the leaders of Britain's policies toward white-supremacist Rhodesia and Prime Minister Wilson's peace initiative on Viet Nam.

"The British are my biggest problem now," was the rueful comment of the impetuous Tanzanian who recently remarked; "I'm not angry. I'm more British than Queen Victoria."

Tanzania's State House, a dazzling white mansion overlooking African and Arabic architecture near the shores of the Indian Ocean, is both workplace and home for Nyerere, who with his wife sets an example of simple living with their seven children.

BECAME CATHOLIC



The Mwalimu, which is the name he approves for himself on becoming president, occasionally entertains the children with a turn on the drums, an art learned in his home village beside Lake Victoria.

It is sometimes noted in counterpoint to reports of Tanzania's leftward movement, that Nyerere is a Roman Catholic at 20. Asked whether he is a religious man, Nyerere replied: "I don't know about being a religious man—well, I'm a Christian."

A high percentage of Tanzania's population never reaches adulthood because of disease and poverty. Does this impel Nyerere to take aid from whatever source available?

"African countries, Asian countries, the majority of the peoples of the world have a very low standard of living," he said.

"This is not merely Tanzania.

TANZANIA WANTS NON - ALIGNMENT — Tanzania, one of the poorest countries in the world, wants aid to develop its resources but not at the price of a political commitment to East or West. Tanzania was formed in April, 1964, by union of Tanganyika and the island of Zanzibar. Tanganyika, a British-ruled United Nations trust territory and one-time German colony, received independence in December, 1961. (CP Newsmap)

We do happen to be one of the poorest countries in the world but we have resources and we must develop.

"The problem is not so much one of aid—certainly this is not the way I look at it myself. The problem is one of being left alone to develop and if, especially in Africa, the biggest countries could let us alone, we have sufficient resources in our countries.

"We can develop. Unfortunately we haven't the time that countries like the United States and Canada had. They had the time in this sense, that you began industrialization, the European countries, The North American countries, began industrialization before there was very much of a social conscience. . . .

"We don't complain if we are not given aid but we complain a great deal when aid is used in this sense, that you see when people tell us where to get aid or where not to take aid."

SOUGHT MILITARY AID

Canadian assistance covers a broad field and includes teachers and experts, but training of Tanzania's military forces has perhaps attracted most international attention. Nyerere was asked whether this kind of help enhances the Canadian "image" or whether increased medical aid, for instance, might be more appropriate.+

"We asked for military aid from Canada," the president replied.

"Your country . . . is one of the few Western countries, with the Scandinavian countries, which is not, and for very good reasons, regarded as too committed, not too doctrinaire. . . .

On African unity—the concept of a sort of United States of Africa — Nyerere indicated he disagrees with Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah, who wants unity stepe now.

"I think the sentiment of unity is genuine and it would be absurd to minimize the genuineness of the feeling," he said.

But Africans were also aware of divisive forces, particularly tribalism, which endangered unity. This explained the refusal of several countries to adopt the multi-party state and instead rely on the one-party system, as Tanzania does.

APPROACH IS VITAL

The problem was how to approach unity—"What are the steps?" . . .

"This is where there is a difference about which is Africa 1) think we are all becoming idealistic."

Nyererre now felt he was "idealistic" in proposing in 1960 that Tanganyika delay its independence and wait for Kenya and Uganda so that the three could form an East African federation on becoming independent together.

"Very idealistic about it," the president mused. . . .

"Kwame -Nkrumah is very idealistic about it but I think we are all learning that there is not going to be a magic word: Let there be unity in Africa. It is not going to come that way.

"It's going to need a lot of patience, a lot of realism and acceptance of the difficulties of independence, sovereignty, the problem inside."

Tomorrow: Poverty and disease are Tanzania's main problems.

John F. Kennedy Centre Will Soon Be Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — After much argument over a location, construction is to begin next month on the John F. Kennedy Centre for the performing arts.

It will be the only memorial in Washington, so far planned, to the late president. It will give Washington, for the first time, a focal point for cultural activities that will compare with those of other world capitals.

In one building there will be a 1,200-seat theatre, a smaller studio theatre, a symphony hall seating 2,750 and another hall that will present opera, ballet and musical comedy.

There wasn't much trouble with the financing. The centre will cost $46,500,000, maybe more by the time it is finished in 1968.

DONATIONS RECEIVED

The federal government theorizes a congressional appropriation, contributed $15,500,000. This was matched by more than 10,000 public contributions ranging from five cents to the $5,000,000 given by the Ford Foundation. Another $15,500,000 is to come as a loan from the U.S. treasury.

There has been much quarreling over the site, now fixed between the bank of the Potomac River near the Lincoln Memorial and not far from the bridge that leads to Arlington National Cemetery where Kennedy lies buried.

A principal argument against the location was that it will be hard to get to. Another, advanced by Nicholas Satterlee, president of the American Institute of Architects, was that the centre will be so huge (more than twice as long as a football field) that it will spoil the beauty of the waterfront.

However, Roger L. Stevens, New Yorker who heads the centre's board of trustees, said the site will be more accessible and more aesthetic than the proposed alternate — downtown on Pennsylvania Avenue.

PRECEDES KENNEDY

The idea for the centre goes back to the Eisenhower administration. In 1958, Congress authorized the creation of a board of trustees. The board was directed by present classical and contemporary in music, opera, drama, dance and poetry, lectures and other programs.

When Kennedy became president in 1961, he and Mrs. Kennedy pushed the drive for creation of the centre.

The building was designed by Edward Durell Stone, who describes its site as "one of the most exciting and glorious settings for a public building in the world."

White marble—a gift from Italy—will face the entire building, which will be surrounded by a series of steel columns encased in bronze with a gold finish.

Some of the interior fittings, too, will be gifts from abroad. There will be a crystal chandelier and Japan silk fabric for the curtain in the opera hall. The bronze entrance doors, handcrafted, will be a gift from West Germany.

Your Car

Save Lives With Winter Know-how

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

A good tune-up, anti-freeze, cooling system check and winter lubrication changeover does not necessarily equip you for severe weather. You've also got to be sure of such things as: heater, defroster, thermostat, windshield wipers, snow tires and-or chains, muffler and tail pipe.

Equally important is driving know-how. With any snow or ice on the road, reduced speed plus more space between you and the car ahead should be automatic. Braking on a slick road requires special techniques, too — gentle, rapid pedal action to avoid skidding.

And, learn how to pull out of a skid, just in case. The idea is to steer in the direction of the skid and keep that foot away from the brake pedal! When you have the car under control, you can then bring it to a stop by rapidly dabbing the brakes.

From G.H. "Can the power steering hydraulic oil be responsible when the car becomes difficult to steer?"

It can if there is not enough in the system, or if the grade is too heavy.

G. P. asks: "Why do you say 'don't try to warm up the engine by racing it'? Haven't car owners always done this?"

They have, and it's always been wrong. Excessive engine wear results when oil isn't given a chance to circulate, and there's cushion and protect engine parts.

W. A. writes: "In winter — as compared to summer driving — my '63 really rides roughly for the first 20 miles or so. Is this because shock absorber fluid heavies up when cold?"

All parts — shocks, springs, tires, etc. — are stiff when cold, and you can expect a hard ride until they warm up.

From B. P.: "On a used '65 sedan I just bought — with only 3,770 miles recorded — there's a buzzing or whizzing sound which I'm sure is from the fan. Could this be due to a bent blade?"

It could. But unevenly pitched or unbalanced blades are just as likely.

HEROES UPSET HONORS

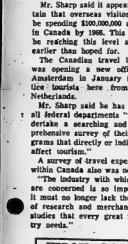
New Highs In Tourism Recorded

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Sharp predicted Monday that 1965 spending by tourists in Canada will shatter all previous records.

But more knowledge through research must become available on the tourist industry if Canada is to continue increasing its income from travellers, he said at the opening of the federal-provincial conference on tourism.

Monday's opening meeting also heard reports on travel promotion from the provinces, the territories and transportation companies. The afternoon was spent in study groups and private discussions. Today the travel bureau, the provinces and private companies will discuss their advertising plans and the national parks branch will submit its report.



Mr. Sharp said it appears certain that overseas visitors will be spending $100,000,000 a year in Canada by 1966. This would be reaching this level a year earlier than hoped for.

The Canadian travel bureau was opening a new office in Amsterdam in January in office locations here from The Netherlands.

Mr. Sharp said he has asked all federal departments "to undertake a searching and comprehensive survey of their programs that directly or indirectly affect tourism."

A survey of travel experience within Canada also was needed.

"The industry with which we are concerned is so important it must no longer lack the sort of research and merchandising studies that every great industry needs."

". . . then as he led with his right, I'd have hit him with the old one, two."

Belleville voters yesterday in a city wide liquor plebiscite approved the sale of liquor in cocktail lounges and at the same time residents in the east end of the city approved liquor, wine and beer retail stores.

Cocktail lounges were approved by 64.2 per cent of the 7,405 voters who went to the polls, while in the city's east end the winning percentage for liquor retail outlets was 71.61 per cent.

The turnout at the polls was comparatively light with only 43.7 per cent of the 17,139 eligible voters going to the polls.

On the cocktail lounge question the vote was 4,900 yes and 2,990 no. In the city's east end the vote on the liquor store ot. let question the vote was 2, 208 yes and 875 no, with just over 50 per cent of the voter's turning out.

At the time of the last liquor plebiscite in Belleville dining lounges were not in and the tail lounges were turned down by a narrow margin.

To carry, a liquor vote question must have a 60 per cent affirmative vote.

Four Wardens Sign Quinte Jail Agreement

TORONTO (CP) — Wardens of four eastern Ontario counties formally signed an agreement with the provincial government today for the construction of a regional detention centre to replace four antiquated county jails.

The Quinte regional detention centre, to be built near Napanee at a cost of about $1,150,000, will serve the counties of Frontenac, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, and Prince Edward.

The four existing jails in the counties all were built before 1867.

Participating in the signing ceremony with Reform Institutions Minister Cowman were Warden O. F. Goodfellow of Frontenac, Warden Fred Beckett of Hastings, Warden Clair Benn of Lennox and Addington, and Warden B.C. Hepburn of Prince Edward.

GRANTS INJUNCTION

TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court judge granted an injunction Monday banning picketing at the Niagara Falls plant of Cyanamid of Canada Ltd. David Van Pelt Acaster, assistant manager of the plant, said in an affidavit before Mr. Justice Stanley Schatz that workers began picketing Nov. 16, the day after the expiry of a contract with Local 165, International Chemical Workers' Union (CLC), had expired.

Cabinet Changes Coming

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—No cabinet changes will be announced for at least two or three weeks, Prime Minister Pearson said Monday.

But he told a press conference that the changes, when completed, will be "fairly extensive" and indicated they might include appointment of a second senator to cabinet rank.

Mr. Pearson met reporters in a special conference room during a luncheon break in an all-day cabinet meeting. For the first time, reporters and photographers were barred from the corridor outside the cabinet room where for years they have waited to question prime ministers after cabinet sessions.

He said he planned a special meeting with Justice Minister Lucien Cardin later in the day to discuss the minister's health. There have been reports that Mr. Cardin may retire from the cabinet because of a heart condition.

LOOKS WELL

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Cardin "is not in the best of health," but looked well at the cabinet meeting Monday. He said he hoped a new report on Mr. Cardin's condition would allow the 46-year-old Quebec lawyer to continue in his post.

Later, a government spokesman said Mr. Cardin assured Mr. Pearson he is in good health and capable of carrying on his cabinet role.

One reporter asked whether Mr. Pearson recalled Liberal criticism three years ago when then - prime minister Diefenbaker named Senator Wallace McCutcheon to the trade portfolio.

Mr. Pearson said he didn't recall such criticism, "certainly not by me at least".

He said senators have served in cabinet posts several times in the past and "there may be situations that make it desirable to have more than one senator in the cabinet."

Senator John Connolly of Ottawa has been a minister without portfolio since the Pearson cabinet was formed in April, 1963.

HAVE NO MPs

The Liberals now have no MPs from Prince Edward Island, Alberta or Saskatchewan. However, there are Liberal senators from those provinces and there has been speculation that Mr. Pearson might draw on Senat- ranks to give one or more of these provinces representation in the cabinet.

Replying to another question, Mr. Pearson said the timing of the vacancies that exist, the cabinet shuffle, "I think, would have to be fairly extensive." He refused to go beyond that remark.

He also said that his party's lack of a Commons majority would not affect its dealings with the provinces before the impending cabinet shuffle delay any scheduled federal-provincial meetings. Several were coming up this week and next, involving various officials from the 10 governments.

Teamsters Back Oil Workers But Evade Threat of Suits

By JACK MORRIS

VANCOUVER (CP) — A key union Monday night virtually put a seal of effectiveness on plans for a 48-hour general strike in British Columbia.

The powerful Teamsters' Union, whose 11,000 members hold vital jobs in the transportation industry in the province, declared its lasting support to oil companies as planned at midnight Wednesday night.

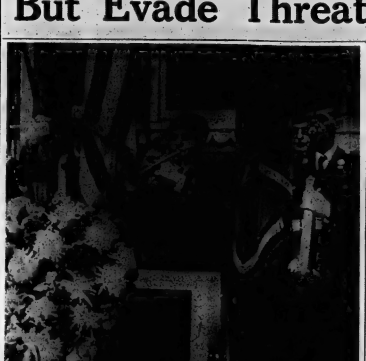
Although the independent Teamsters rejected a call by the B. C. Federation of Labor CLC for a 48-hour work stoppage in support of the oil workers, they agreed not to "haul, handle or use" any petroleum products if the oil workers do strike all plants.

Teamsters committees admitted privately their plan was an effective way around fears by other wavering unions that they would be faced with law suits for damages if they joined a general strike.

The Teamsters, by declaring all oil products "hot," would legally be exempt under their contracts from handling oil products or even driving trucks loaded with "hot" gasoline or diesel fuel.

WILL CONTINUE

Ed Lawson, president of the Teamsters in B.C., said Teamster members "will not rest after 48 hours but "will continue until the oil workers' dispute is settled."



The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers (CLC) have been on strike against British American Oil Co. facilities here since Sept. 17. The strike extended to the plants on the Fraries and into Ontario. The union has also struck an imperial Oil Co. subsidiary near here and Shell Oil operation on the Prairies.

It decided to strike all petroleum companies in B.C. at midnight Wednesday and the 110,000 - member provincial labor federation called for a general work stoppage to show labor's solidarity for the strike oil workers.

Teamsters' support of the strikers would hit almost every major industry in the city and flow of supplies in construction jobs and factory deliveries and even the movement of oil and gasoline from refineries to gas stations.

A tie-up of the trucking industry would affect almost every facet of life—deliveries from suppliers to wholesalers, from wholesalers to retailers, from retailers to homes. There

Powerful and Humble Join In Honoring Memory of JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—At his hillside grave, in the snowy streets of West Berlin, in a Rio de Janeiro hotel—and in the Dallas streets where he was shot—the powerful and the humble paused Monday to commemorate the life and death of John F. Kennedy.

In churches of all faiths, from Boston to Los Angeles, Americans gathered for memorial services dedicated to the young president assassinated two years ago.

President Johnson, whose presidency dates from the moment Kennedy died, recalled that time at an interfaith service in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Fredricksburg, Tex.

"No one of us who lived on that terrible November day will ever be able to forget what happened then or what we lost then," Johnson said.
